PURCHASE DRIVING PARK

Local Men Buy the Grounds for $11,000. and Will Form New Club.

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE.

Plainfield Driving Association To Be Incorporated — Plan to Hold Racing Meets.

The Plainfield Driving Park grounds, comprising a tract of more than thirty-six acres, has been purchased from the American Silverplating Company, of New York city, by the Plainfield Driving Association, which comprises several of the more prominent members of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Club. The deal was consummated by Chas. H. Lyman. The purchase price is said to have been $11,000.

The Driving Park, which has been the scene of race meets and the headquarters for local horsemen for more than a score of years, was the property of J. W. Johnson, and it was taken over by the New York company, who had been holders of a mortgage on the property. With the purchase comes the formation of a new organization, which is to be incorporated as the Plainfield Driving Association. The incorporators will be Thomas Brantingham, Adam C. Blair, Joseph Osborne and Henry Evans and C. S. Smith, of Westfield.

The formation of the new club will serve to give a new impetus to trotting and racing here. The club organizers have announced that race meets will be held every week or two during the summer and are planning elaborate improvements at the grounds. The grandstand is to be remodeled and the track put in the best possible condition. The fences and buildings at the park will all be put in first-class condition for the summer racing season.

HOPE'S ENDEAVORERS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

The annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel for the election of officers and presentation of reports was held last night in the chapel. The reports were encouraging, showing the society to be in fine condition, financially and spiritually. During the year $122.02 was raised through entertainments, collections and in other ways. The disbursements were $120, leaving a small balance in the treasury. The society has been especially active in a social way.

Miss Bertha A. Jones, who has been the president the past year, was re-elected, but she declined the office explaining that her health would not permit her acceptance. The society then gave her a vote of thanks for her work and interest in the past. These officers were then elected for the year:

President, Allen Snyder; vice president, William Baker; secretary, Miss Lona Becker; treasurer, Miss Clara Hunter; chairman lookout committee, Miss Edna Eckert; chairman missionary committee, Miss Mary Mortimer; chairman prayer meeting committee, Miss Bertha A. Jones; chairman social committee, Mrs. Harry Keen; chairman flower committee, Miss May Ardern; representative to local C. E. Union, Miss M. Clara Hunter. After the business meeting there was a social and refreshments were served.

Will Inaugurate Boy Choir.

S. Frederick Smith, who has been engaged as organist for Grace church, commencing May 1, will inaugurate a boy choir at that church. In another part of The Daily Press appears an advertisement in which fifteen boys who desire vocal training and who wish to join the choir, are requested. Applications will be received at Grace church parish house this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

No Lenten Musical Service.

The choir of the First Baptist church abandoned the idea of giving a Lenten musical service this year in order not to conflict with the one proposed at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Now that the Good Friday union service is not to be of a musical character those in charge of the Baptist church choir find that there is not sufficient time left to prepare such a service.

Borough Council to Meet.

At the regular monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Council tomorrow night, the proposed dogs' and pedlers' license ordinances will be considered.

LIQUID ASPHALT TO BE USED ON STREETS

One of the most important improvements planned by the Councilmanic street committee this year is that of repairing West Front street from Madison to Clinton avenues. It is several years since this thoroughfare has received much attention and the time has arrived in the opinion of the committee when something must be done.

According to the proposed plans, the committee expects to remove the present macadam surface, which is not very deep, by aid of the new scarifier recently purchased by the city. Then it will be filled in with cracked stone of good size, on top of which will be placed a binder and then a coating of liquid asphalt and lastly a top dressing of stone, which will preserve the liquid asphalt and the macadam beneath. While this work will cost a considerable sum, the Public Service Corporation will be called upon to pay a good share of the expense, especially between Madison and Grant avenue, where there are double tracks.

The use of liquid asphalt here is new. It has been tried with apparent success in the southern part of the State and is said to have the approval of the State road commissioner. One point in its favor, aside from its reported lasting qualities, is that the manufacturers have given the city a low price which will remain the same throughout the year. In this way the committee will be able to figure exactly what such improvements will cost. It is also planned to use the liquid asphalt on other streets to be improved during the summer. The work on Front street will be started as soon as the committee can complete the details and sufficient time will be taken to make a first-class job.

BISHOP GAINES SPEAKS AT MOUNT ZION CHURCH

The Fifteenth Anniversary and Second Annual Spring Fair of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church is meeting with a big success. The fair which started last Tuesday evening has attracted crowded houses every night and much interest is being taken by all those connected with the enterprise. Last night Bishop Wesley J. Gaines, of Atlanta, Georgia, delivered an excellent address on "The Harmony of the Races." Bishop Gaines is looked upon as one of the most famous negro orators today, and his address was listened to with great interest by all present. Those on the committee who looked after the Bishop's reception was Mrs. J. T. Diggs, Mrs. A. J. Maynard, Mrs. S. E. Wood, Mrs. W. W. Mayhew and Mrs. A. T. Coles.

The booths which are stocked with useful and ornamented articles represent four States, each being presided over by a Governor and full staff. New York is presided over by Rev. E. B. Maynard, Governor; T. B. Dyett, Lieut. Governor; Mrs. E. B. Maynard, treasurer; Mrs. E. Grobes, secretary. For New Jersey, J. F. Jones, Governor; Oliver Floyd, Lieut. Governor; Mrs. Amanda Johnson, treasurer; Mrs. A. E. Jones, financial secretary; Mrs. C. Washington, recording secretary. For Pennsylvania, W. A. Stills, Governor; J. W. Bailey, Lieut. Governor; Mrs. W. A. Stills, treasurer; Miss Etta Kingslow, secretary. For Virginia, Omer Thompson, Governor; A. White, Lieut. Governor; Mrs. M. E. Laine, treasurer; Mrs. M. E. Staats, secretary.

The fair will close tomorrow night.

Will Address Conference.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, who is chairman of the Board of Education of the M. E. church, will leave tomorrow morning for Schnectady, N. Y., where he will present the work of the board before the East German Conference now in session. There are at present eight conferences of the church in session in different parts of the country.

Plan Bike Road Race.

Providing Mayor Fisk will grant a permit, "Jack" Horner, a local bicycle rider, will arrange for a twenty-five mile road race for May 31. There will be entries from all the State and should the event be as successful as that of last year, Plainfield cycle enthusiasts will see a great race.

Keeping Up the Good Work.

Mrs. Isaac N. Field, of Field avenue, who lost a valuable black enameled scroll breast-pin, 9 with a pearl centre, advertised her loss in The Daily Press. James Doig, of 309 Stebbins place, a reader of this newspaper, found the pin and returned it yesterday.

MRS. J. H. VINCENT DEAD

Wife of Methodist Bishop, Who Lived Here Many Years, Passes Away.

IN HER SEVENTY-EIGHTH YEAR.

Much Beloved In Plainfield, Where She Had Spent Twenty-two Years—Husband and Son Survive.

After an illness extending over two years, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Vincent, wife of John H. Vincent, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church and chancellor of the Chautauqua Institution, died yesterday, at her home, 1118 North Alabama street, Indianapolis, Indiana. She was much beloved here, where she had spent twenty-two years of her life.

Mrs. Vincent was born at Deposit, N. Y., seventy-seven years ago, and spent her childhood days at Portsville, N. Y., where her father, Henry R. Dusenbury, was a pioneer lumberman, miller and merchant. She was educated at Genesee Wesleyan Seminary at Lima, N. Y., and taught in the High School at Joliet, Ill. There in 1857 she met the Rev. John H. Vincent. They were married in 1858. The only child, George E. Vincent, is now president of the Chautauqua Institution and dean of the faculties of the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Vincent was a woman of high ideals and firmness of character. The sanity of her judgment was respected by all who knew her. She was a woman of fine culture and until the last weeks of her life found relief from pain in the companionship of good books. She took an intelligent interest in public affairs, which she followed regularly in the daily and weekly press. Her private philanthropies were unobtrusive but systematic and generous. She disliked pomp and shrank from effusiveness of every sort. One of her last wishes was the half humorous, half earnest expression of hope that her husband and son would refrain from extravagant eulogy.

While Dr. Vincent was at the head of the Sunday-school department of the Methodist Episcopal church the family home was in this city, at the corner of Fourth street and Arlington avenue, having removed from Chicago to this city in 1866. They removed to Buffalo after his election to the episcopacy in 1888. Four years later the episcopal residence was at Topeko, Kan., and from 1900 to 1904 they resided at Zurich, Switzerland, the Bishop having charge of the Methodist missions on the Continent of Europe. Since 1904 they have made their home in Indianapolis.

Rev. Dr. George H. Whitney, who has been a close friend of the family, has been requested by the bishop to write a tribute to be read at the funeral services. The venerable clergyman has penned these thoughts:

"It has been my great privilege to know Mrs. Vincent for nearly 50 years. In all this time I may truly say Mrs. Vincent has been one of God's elect ladies. In all the relations of life,—as pastor's wife, as wife of editor, and of bishop, she has been a true helpmate in every sense of the word. Bright, vivacious, vigorous, wide awake, full of repartee and full of wisdom, most wonderfully did she always know how to use her ample educational accomplishments in whatever sphere her lot might be cast.

"A true Christian woman, always earnest in church service, and generous in all cases of needed help. And when at last sickness and pain in some of its severest forms came to her, and confined her to her bed for the past two years, no words of murmuring nor complaint have escaped her lips. Hers indeed has been a most noble example of Christian patience and fortitude. Her devotion to her son from his childhood up this hour, and to her husband in all their married life—through all his varied labors and through all his splendid successes—has been a devotion that knew no abatement, and knows no superior.

"In Mrs. Vincent's life God has left for us all a wonderful example of truest Christian womanhood, and has now called her to an eternity of joy."

Trolley Kills Valuable Dog.

A large great dane was struck and killed by a west-bound main line trolley car on West Front street near Grant avenue, this morning at about 8:30 o'clock. The animal was apparently a valuable dog, and it wore a collar and muzzle. It was dragged about two hundred feet and badly mangled.

Cancelled the Concert.

Owing to the illness of Miss Florence Austin, the violinist, the concert scheduled for last night at the New Plainfield theatre was cancelled by Manager Counihan.

SOMERSET TO IMPROVE THE GREENBROOK ROAD

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders has voted to improve and macadamize Greenbrook road, from Gavin's corner to Debele's property, the whole distance petitioned for by the property-owners interested in this project. This will give the residents of the borough, as well as those in other parts of the county a fine thoroughfare directly through to Newark or Somerville, and will also mean the improvement of property along the road.

The Somerset Board has also voted to macadamize Terrill road from the Union county line to Mountain avenue, thus continuing the improvement made by the Union County Board of Freeholders last fall. The contracts for this work will be awarded at the regular May meeting of the Somerset county Board in May.

CHIEF MARSHALL WEISS HANDED A REAL LEMON

At the meeting of the Borough Council tomorrow night, the Councilmen will be treated to lemonade by Chief Marshall Weiss. The Chief it seems was promised a pair of fancy leggins by Councilman Van Arsdale as a reward of his services and expecting them to arrive at any time kept a sharp lookout for the parcel.

This morning Borough Clerk Fred Martin took occasion to send the chief a present, neatly tied up in one of Mr. Van Arsdale's shoe boxes. The policeman thinking of course the leggins had arrived, remarked that the police committee had a man at its head who knew his business. Upon opening the box, much to the surprise of the bluecoat, he found a large juicy lemon, neatly wrapped in fancy tissue paper.

FELLOW PHYSICIANS HONOR DR. TOMLINSON

The members of the staff of Muhlenberg Hospital tendered a complimentary dinner at the Watchung Hunt Club, last night, to Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, who has just completed fifty years of professional service in this city, and who is dean of the medical fraternity here. After enjoying a fine dinner, there were a number of short speeches by the physicians present, in which Dr. Tomlinson was congratulated upon his long and faithful service to the hospital and his success as a physician. In response the dean thanked his colleagues for their many courtesies and especially for the complimentary dinner. During the evening there was a musical program.

Dr. Tomlinson was a member of the hospital staff from organization and resigned recently because of other pressing duties. He has been a practioner here for fifty years. Those present at last night's dinner included Drs. T. H. Tomlinson, E. W. Hedges, B. VanD. Hedges, M. B. Long, G. W. Endicott, J. Hervey Buchanan, W. H. Murray, J. H. Carman, P. B. Cregar, P. J. Zeglio, Norman H. Probasco and Frank C. Ard.

REV. MR. CRAIG ADDRESSES HOPE MISSIONARY WORKERS

At the annual business meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of Hope chapel, yesterday afternoon, the reports from all the officers showed a greater prosperity over that of last year, especially in the treasury. During the year the society raised a hundred dollars, which was spent in helping missionaries both at Ellis Island and Havanna, Cuba. The society besides contributing to the work around Plainfield, gave a half scholarship to one student at the Foreign school at Ashville, N. C.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Rev. R. M. Craig, who is connected with the Women's Board of Home Missions in New York, gave an interesting talk of his recent trip to Alaska. The meeting was also well attended by representatives from both Warren chapel and the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. The officers for the new years are: Mrs. G. Herbert Condict, president; Mrs. L. R. Howard, vice-president; Mrs. M. W. Clark, secretary, and Mrs. Joseph Brown, treasurer.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of Mr. Craig's address.

—Neuman Brothers' offering today includes fancy asparagus, fancy head lettuce, eggplant, summer squash and artichoke, the choicest to be found in the market. The prices are reasonable.

TELLS OF WORK IN INDIA

Dr. Ida Faye Levering Addresses First Baptist Missionary Societies.

HER TWENTY YEARS' EFFORT.

With Husband She Has Been Stationed at Secunderabad—Great Need for Funds.

The anniversary of the Women's Missionary societies of the First Baptist church drew a large audience yesterday afternoon in the lecture room when they were addressed by Dr. Ida Faye Levering, a New Jersey woman who for nearly twenty years has been a medical missionary in India.

The reports of the various societies preceded the address. An interesting report of the Home Missionary Society was read by the secretary, Mrs. George H. Robins, and the treasurer, Mrs. Frank Jones, reported the receipts of the year $784.95. The thirty-sixth report of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was read by the secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, and the treasurer, Miss Ida Yerkes, reported the year's receipts $622.15.

Miss Pauline Denton, secretary of the Young Women's Society, gave a unique account of the year's work and the treasurer, Miss Bessie Handers, reported their receipts $122.87 and $7.47 from the "Willing Helpers" auxiliary to the society. The Junior Band organized last October was officially represented by their secretary, Miss Lucy Douglass, who read an interesting report and their treasurer, Miss Edna White, reported an amount aggregating $42.

Dr. Levering, who is a magnetic speaker, then followed with an address full of thrilling interest and inspiration. She described the work of herself and husband in Secunderabad, India, which is for the most part under Mahammandan rule, only a small contonment belonging to the British government. Her account of the Moslem women doomed to seclusion and degradation was full of pathos and her tale of the establishment of schools and the power of the Gospel to change conditions had the convincing power of an eye witness.

Dr. Levering spoke again in the evening to a large audience at the regular church service. The work of herself and husband among the British soldiers as well as the Telegu natives was of equal interest with the afternoon address. The ability of the medical missionary as a pathmaker in pioneer missionary work was dwelt upon with much force and the opportunities for doing good from which the missionaries are barred by lack of money and men, as told by Dr. Levering, were full of silent appeal to men and women believing in missions.

Dr. Levering, accompanied by her husband, Rev. F. H. Levering, now at his home in the West, will return to Secunderabad in September.

JOHN H. COSE IS CHOSEN EXALTED RULER OF ELKS.

John H. Cose was elected exalted ruler at the annual meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., last night, succeeding Clarence E. Teel in that office. Unusual interest was taken in the election and as a result fully 130 members were present. The only other contest was for the chair of the leading knight and that honor went to Lewis A. Bellis.

These were also chosen: Esteemed loyal knight, Frederick Lynn; esteemed lecturing knight, John A. Wilson; secretary, William R. Townsend; treasurer, Harry MacDonald; tiler, Edward C. Searing; trustee, for three years, James F. Buckle.

Another Small-pox Case.

Mrs. Margaret Bullock, colored, of 216 New street, was removed to the isolation hospital yesterday afternoon a victim of small-pox. The case was reported to the Board of Health by Dr. M. L. Clawson. City Physician C. B. Lufburrow went with Dr. Clawson to the woman's home, where the case was diagnosed as small-pox. Mrs. Bullock, who is 65 years of age, has been under a physician's care for about a week. She rarely goes out, and has received but few visitors, so the Board of Health cannot ascertain the source of the disease.

Ferdinand V. Rockafellow.

Ferdinand V. Rockafellow, aged twenty-six years, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Rockafellow, of West Second street, died at 9 o'clock this morning following a severe attack of pleuro-pneumonia. He was born at Somerville, but lived here the greatest part of his life. He is survived by his parents, a wife, two children, one brother and one sister. Arrangements have not yet been completed for the funeral, which will probably be held on Sunday.

RUSHMORE MUST PAY HIS ENGINEER'S WAGES

Samuel W. Rushmore, of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, was the defendant in an action in the District Court, this morning, in which William Connolly, who was employed at the works as engineer, sought to recover $32.55 as wages. The case occupied the attention of the court the entire morning and was a tedious one. John P. Owens was counsel for the complainant. J. P. W. Taylor assisted Mr. Rushmore in the defense, the latter frequently taking matters in his own hands, apparently being more familiar with the technical part of the case. At the conclusion Judge Newcorn gave the complainant a verdict for $32.55, explaining that the defendant had failed to prove negligence as claimed.

According to the evidence, Mr. Rushmore engaged Mr. Connolly as an engineer, he being recommended as an expert. He had been working ten days when there was an accident to the engine, which Mr. Rushmore claimed was the engineer's fault. He thereupon discharged him. Connolly then sued to recover wages due.

Among the witnesses called by the defense was F. H. Ball, of the borough, who is connected with the American Engine Works, Bound Brook, from whom Mr. Rushmore's engine was purchased. He was summoned as an expert, but his testimony proved to be of benefit to the complainant, for he said that the accident to the engine was not an uncommon one and was likely to happen at any time. Edward J. McCue, who has charge of the engineering department at the works, and other employes were called to testify as to the condition of the engine before and after the accident.

HUSBAND, A BRUTE, MUST KEEP AWAY FROM HOME

Because his sister-in-law, Mary Stevens, tried to take his wife's part in a quarrel started at their home on West Fourth street late last night, George Henry, colored, attacked her with a stove lifter, inflicting a serious scalp wound. The injured woman, who lives in Dunellen, fled from the house and found Patrolman Sweeny, who arrested Henry on her complaint shortly afterward. Each was fined $5 at their hearing before City Judge Runyon today.

The quarrel came as the "last straw" to the endurance of Mrs. Henry, who is a frail little woman in poor health. With choking voice she told Judge Runyon of the cruelties and hardships she had suffered at the hands of her husband during the eighteen years of their married life. She told the story in broken sentences as she stood grasping the Judge's desk for support, and at the same time she handed over the five dollars for her sister's fine—she would not pay to secure her husband's freedom. The woman explained that she was afraid of the man, and especially after his arrest, and begged the court to order him to keep away from the house. He had threatened to beat her when her sister interfered, according to the story. Concluding her plea for protection by the court, the witness was led to her seat by Chief Kiely in an almost fainting condition.

Judge Runyon summoned Henry, who had been led back to his cell, to appear in the court-room again. The court demanded the man's house key, for Mrs. Henry had said that she paid the rent, and Henry was warned never to go to the house again. "This frail woman," said the Judge, "has been telling me a little bit about what she has had to endure at your hands. The court will not stand for such things. You're a brute, not a man. I shall give this key to your wife, and I want you to clearly understand that if the court ever learns that you bother this woman again, or go to that house for any reason at all, you will be brought here and I'll send you to jail for one hundred days."

Mrs. Henry was assisted to her home by her son, a boy about sixteen years of age. She was very weak. Henry's fine was paid by a friend and he left the court alone.

"THE VILLAGE POSTOFFICE" WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

"The Village Postoffice" was repeated at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church with continued success. The attendance was fully as large as that of the first night, and the participants in the enterainment had no trouble in amusing everyone from start to finish.

J. Stephen Higham was in charge of the affair and it was largely to his efforts that the affair was such a success. The profits from the entertainment will probably reach $150 and this will help the church to meet its obligations for the year.

ANOTHER ICE COMPANY

Concern with $100,000. Capital is Organized by Some Local Business Men.

ICE, COAL AND LUMBER.

Articles of Incorporation Filed—Its Plant Will Be Located on Madison Avenue.

Articles of incorporation for the Crystal Ice and Coal Company, with offices at 152 Park avenue, were filed with County Clerk Calvert, at Elizabeth, today. The capital stock is $100,000. William R. Codington is the agent for the concern. The incorporators have paid in $35,000, which is divided into 1,000 shares of common at $100, and 500 shares of preferred at $500.

The incorporators are Fred Endress, 10 common; Chris Gloekner, 20 preferred; Joshua D. Loizeaux, 149 common; John E. Dunn, 11 common; Charles J. Pope, 10 common; C. Frank French, 20 preferred; William R. Codington, 30 preferred, and B. Frank Coriell, 10 preferred. This makes a total of $25,000.

The concern will do a wholesale and retail business in natural and artificial ice, and will do a similar business in coal and lumber. It is also proposed to lease and maintain cold storage plants. The newly formed concern's place of business as well as its plant will be on Madison avenue, opposite West Third street.

Following closely on the formation of the Plainfield Supply Company, which will conduct a similar business on a larger scale, the organization of the Crystal Company is of special interest to local people inasmuch as it will prevent a possible unusually high price for ice this summer. The Supply Company also filed its articles of incorporation at Elizabeth this morning.

COUNCILMAN TYLER'S HORSE IN A RUNAWAY

Taking fright at a motor-cycle ridden by Paul Collier, of East Sixth street, a horse belonging to Councilman William S. Tyler, of West Eighth street, and driven by Patrick McAffee, his coachman, became fractious on West Sixth street, near Arlington avenue, this morning and bolted, colliding with a tree near Madison avenue and badly injuring itself about the head. The carriage, a park phaeton, was wrecked.

Mrs. Tyler was calling on West Sixth street and the coachman was slowly driving up and down near the house when the motor-cyclist came along. The noise frightened the animal, which bolted, throwing McAffee out. The man was uninjured, but the horse ended its wild run by crashing head-on into a sturdy tree. As the animal fell, the rig passed over it and was badly wrecked. The horse was badly cut about the head and one of its teeth was split. Dr. Herbert, a veterinary, was called, and the broken tooth was extracted. The horse's forehead was badly cut and one of its hing legs cut and bruised.

Miss Delano to Speak at Y. W. C. A.

Miss Caroline Delano, of New York, will speak at the Y. W. C. A. next Sunday afternoon. Miss Delano is a member of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. in the United States. During her stay in Plainfield she will be the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Henry L. De Forest. Miss Elizabeth Goddard will sing at the meeting.

Inspecting Fire Apparatus.

Fire Chief Doane went to Orange this afternoon to inspect a new hose-cart recently delivered to the department there by Boyd & Bros., of Philadelphia, who are the lowest bidders for apparatus for the new East End fire-house.

Do You Want to Laugh?

"The Two Macs" will be the centre of attraction at the try-out night performance at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The bill is a big one and lots of fun is promised. And there will be bunches of moving pictures, too.

Adds Barn to His Property.

Lafayette Rosentiehl is erecting a barn in the rear of his property, 105 Somerset street. The building which will be 18 by 20 feet is expected to be completed in about three weeks.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will hold a regular conclave Monday night.

Put This Stove in Your Kitchen

It is wonderfully convenient to do kitchen work on a stove that's ready at the instant wanted, and out of the way the moment you're done. Such a stove is the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. By using it you avoid the continuous overpowering heat of a coal fire and cook with comfort even in dog-days The is so constructed that it does not add perceptibly to the heat of a room. It differs from all other oil stoves in its substantial CABINET TOP, with shelf for warming plates and keeping cooked food hot, and drop shelves for holding small cooking utensils. Has every convenience, even to bars for towels. Three sizes. With or without Cabinet Top. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp is the ideal lamp for family use—safe, convenient, economical, and a great light giver. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The production of Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead" this season is said to be the best the play has ever received for it includes not only all the old favorites in the cast and some new talent of much ability in the minor roles, but a lot of new scenery, in itself one of the most attractive and realistic features of this famous drama of New England rusticity. From its crude beginnings when first launched on the uncertain sea of stage popularity, "The Old Homestead" has been developed year after year, until now it sails proudly and triumphantly in the snug harbor of perennial favor. Now, however, as in its earliest career, it depends for that popularity most of all upon the fact that it truthfully holds the mirror up to nature, and in so doing presents a series of faithful character sketches typifying divergent phases of city and country life. Old favorites who have been with the play for many years and are still identified with it are Charles Clark, who plays Seth Perkins, Frank Knapp as Eb Ganzey, Fred Clare as Happy Jack, Gus Kammerlee as Henry Hopkins, Maggie Breyer as Aunt Matilda, Anita Fowler as Rickety Ann. The famous double quartet of farm hands is said to be the strongest the company has ever had, from a musical point of view. "The Old Homestead" will be seen here on Saturday afternoon and night.

Jessie Busley, who for several years created leading roles in the Frohman productions at Daly's, the Empire and Lyceum theatres, New York, and who for the past two seasons has been successfully starring in "The Bishop's Carriage," under the management of Liebler and Company, will appear Saturday, April 10, matinee and night, at the New Plainfield theatre, in a dramatization by Robert M. Baker of George Barr McCutcheon's most popular novel, "Beverly of Graustark." As Miss Busley is the fortunate possessor of youth, beauty, extreme talent and a charming personality, she should make Beverly a very interesting character, and well worth while.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The music committee of the First M. E. church has decided to continue the present music arrangement for another year.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold a business meeting, followed by a social, in Vincent chapel tomorrow night.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the First Baptist church will be held Thursday night, April 8, when reports will be presented.

It has been decided by the First Baptist church that the trustees in the future shall take charge of the department of ushering and the responsibilities will be shared by the different members.

Howard M. Case has completed his thirteenth year as organist at the First Baptist church. Miss Lohella C. Harris, soprano soloist, has served the same length of time. There have been few changes in the choir during that period.

Plainfield, N. J., April 1, 1909.

DR. ELIOT AS AMBASSADOR.

It would have been extremely difficult, if not quite impossible, for President Taft to select a better equipped and more distinguished citizen than Dr. Charles W. Eliot as the ambassador to the Court of St. James. America had just cause to be proud of the line of men who have represented this great Republican at the British seat of government. They have been diplomats of culture and of profound learning; statesmen of high ideals and irreproachable character, who have represented in themselves the very best type of the true American. The President of Harvard Unversity is all of this. He is one of the foremost scholars in the land and, further more, for years has been a deep student of political subjects, and a recognized authority on matters pertaining to political government.

In no sense a politician, Dr. Eliot's influence has been far more reaching and effective than many of the giants of partisanship in government. "Here is a man," says the World, "who has perhaps never given a cent to any partisan campaign fund, and certainly not in the last campaign; whose partisan preferences are unknown, though his political ideals are made familiar by his admirable public addresses. He is a philosopher and scholar. The post to be conferred upon him should teach youth how political successes that count and honors destined to be historic are not repelled by conscience or by character."

AN EFFICIENT HEALTH OFFICER

It is unfortunate for Plainfield that Leon R. Thurlow, who has so ably discharged the responsible duties of health officer for nearly nine years, has resigned his position. When he came here, the health department amounted to next to nothing. Fresh from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, imbued with modern methods of coping with sanitary problems and eager for experience, he set about his work with an enthusiasm that showed in a short time that he had the real stuff in him. He leaves with a realization on the part of the taxpayers that the health department now does amount to something. In fact, those in a position to judge, say that it is second to none in the State, not even excepting that of Montclair, which has long enjoyed the reputation of having the best in New Jersey. Thurlow has made good here and it is quite certain that he will prove equally capable in his new field of labor.

M. E. CONFERENCE WORK

Organization Effected and the Important Business of the Gathering Taken Up.

HONOR FOR REV. DR. M'CREA.

Plainfield Pastor Made Chairman of Board of Education Committee—The Routine.

This morning the Newark Conference of the M. E. Church, at Newark, began the second day of its work with a devotional service at 8:30, and convened for business purposes at 9. At 2:30 this afternoon the anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be observed, Mrs. J. N. Knowles presiding. The speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Isaac T. Headland, of Pekin University, China. At 7:45 tonight the anniversary of the Board of Sunday-schools will be observed with the Rev. Thomas L. Coultas presiding. The Rev. Dr. David G. Downey, corresponding secretary of the Board of Sunday-schools, will deliver the address.

At the opening session yesterday morning, Bishop Thomas E. Neely officiated at the celebration of the Lord's supper, assisted by the Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, the Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, the Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, the Rev. Dr. L. C. Muller, the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead, and the Rev. Dr. J. T. Coultas. In the memorial service, the Rev. Frederick Bloom announced the names of those who had died during the last year, the members of the conference standing with bowed heads.

Bishop Hertzel, of Africa, made a brief address, in which he pleaded for a better support for the African work. Bishop Neely also spoke.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society held its anniversary service in the afternoon, when Elizabeth Miller, Sallie B. Heisler and Gertrude L. Cathie were consecrated as deaconesses. Mrs. Charles S. Woodruff presided, Mrs. Emma Bourne, State president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, read the Scripture lesson; the Rev. Dr. Mead offered prayer, Mrs. Hadley R. Woodward made an address and the Rev. Rufus K. Boyd gave the annual report.

Two speakers prominent in the religious work of two great denominations addressed the meeting last night of the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society. They were the Rev. Dr. Crandall J. North, an unattached clergyman of the New York East Conference, who has been devoting his attention for the last few years to raising funds for the support of aged and infirm Methodist ministers, and the Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, New York.

In his opening address the Rev. Daniel Halleron, who presided, told of the many difficulties experienced by the managers of the Centenary Fund in keeping the necessary cash reserve on hand. He paid a glowing tribute to the Rev. Dr. John A. Gutteridge, the corresponding secretary, and Milton E. Blanchard, the treasurer, for the faithful work they had done, and called attention to the fact that they had given their time and services without any recompense.

Tomorrow the eleventh annual meeting of the Laymen's Association of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Church will be held in the Park Presbyterian church, through the courtesy of the Rev. John McDowell. This association always meets during conference week, and while it is composed entirely of the laity it is under the direction of the clergy. The association is composed of delegates from the 260 churches represented in the Newark Conference, and its officers are: President, James R. Joy, of this city; vice president, M. S. Daniels, Newark; secretary, A. B. Meredith, Nutley; treasurer, Frank S. Petter, Jersey City; district presidents: Elizabeth, Wellington Morehouse, Westfield; Newark, F. J. Lovatt, Ridgewood road, South Orange; Jersey City, A. E. Kline, Jersey City; Paterson, William F. Dufford, Paterson; executive committee, George R. Sayre, Elizabeth; F. H. Larter, Newark; John H. Ward, Jersey City; S. L. Garretson, Boonton.

The program will be:

Morning—10:30, devotions, business; 11, "The Laymen's Missionary Movement," by Dr. H. K. Carroll, of the executive committee; 11:30, "The Problem of Better Pastoral Support," by James W. Pearsall, member of the general conference commission on this subject; recess.

Afternoon—2, business, reports of committees; 2:30, "Principles That Make for Success in Laymen's Work," by L. E. Hawkins, State secretary Y. M. C. A. of New Jersey; 3, "The Big Brothers Movement," by Harry A. Wheeler, secretary; 3:30, "The Next Step in Temperance Legislation," by J. Frank Burke, State superintendent Anti-Saloon League; 4, "The Field Is the World," by Dr. Homer C. Stuntz, of the Board of Foreign Missions.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, this city, was confirmed as the chairman of the Board of Education committee, which was appointed at the 1908 conference and Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, district superintendent, of this city, was appointed a member of the registrar of Board of Examiners for four years.

C. E. CONFERENCES OF THE COUNTY UNION

Under the auspices of the Union County Christian Endeavor extension committee, a Christian Endeavor conference will be held in the First Baptist church, of Westfield, tomorrow night. The societies of the Congregational and Presbyterian churches of Westfield will participate in the discussion. This meeting will be the eighth in a series of ten meetings for Christian Endeavor extension held in Union county. A meeting will be held in Plainfield on April 22 in the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

The committee find a marked revival in Christian Endeavor work in most of the societies throughout the county. The final meeting will be held in the Central Baptist church, of Elizabeth, on May 7. The theme of that meeting will be "Our Unions." The tentative program has been arranged as follows:

8-8:15, Song service, prayer, scripture; 8:15-8:30, address, "The Value of Federation for Christian Service," Rev. S. F. Davis, president of the Elizabeth Local Union; 8:30-9, group committee conferences; 9-9:25, open parliament, led by district secretary, Nellie K. Foote; 9:25-9:30, "Our C. E. Literature," Charles F. Windham; 9:30-9:35, "Our Next State Convention," Clarence B. LaRue; 9:35-9:40, "Summary of Extension Committee's Work," Miss Marie Jacobson; "9:40-9:55, "Quiet Hour," State President John T. Sproull.

Cooper Trial Resumed.

The case of Dr. Sherman Cooper, of Westfield, charged with malpractices, was resumed today in the Union County Court, and at 11 o'clock this morning the State rested. Samuel Kalisch, of counsel for the defense, opened at the afternoon session of court. In his opening Mr. Kalisch said that he would prove that Dr. Cooper was not guilty and hinted that the girl's death might have been caused by an operation at the hospital.

ters, East Second street. A small admission of ten cents will be charged but most of the tickets have been disposed of already.

The Sunday meetings will be as follows: 11 a. m., Monroe Avenue Methodist church, Colonel McIntyre to deliver an address and the band to render a large program of suitable music.

3 p. m.—Union service of the churches of Westfield in the Presbyterian church, at Westfield, in charge of Col. McIntyre, assisted by Brigadier Kimball, the Provincial band and the local corps of Plainfield. Rev. W. I. Steans will introduce the colonel.

7:30 p. m.—Evangelistic service at the First Baptist church, of this city. The band has prepared an elaborate program of sacred music for the occasion and is looking forward to this meeting as the event of the visit. Neat programs will be distributed so that all may follow the music of the band which will include vocal and instrumental music. The chief address will be made by Col. McIntyre and it will be interspersed with brief testimonies from the bandsmen.

The band is composed of the Army's best musicians and wherever it visits the people are delighted with this splendid musical organization. This will be the provincial silver band's first visit to this city, the National Staff Band having been here on former occasions.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Clayton Wistar has been elected president and A. H. Powell secretary of Franklin Buildling and Loan Association at Salem.

John D. Couper, of Norfolk, Va., died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. N. B. Webster, in Vineland, yesterday, aged eighty-seven.

The gun store of Louis Kahler, at Phillipsburg, was burglarized Sunday night, and guns, revolvers, ammunition and $15 in cash were stolen.

Rev. J. I. Hummer preached his farewell sermon as pastor of the Spruce Run Lutheran church Sunday, and will remove to Oberlin, Pa.

For stabbing Edward Dailey with a stiletto, James Isadore, an Italian, was yesterday sentenced to sixty days in Camden Jail by Recorder Stackhouse.

The funeral services for Mrs. Harold Morse, wife of the rector of Grace church, Merchantville, were held Sunday night at the rectory. Interment was made yesterday at Marlborough, N. Y.

Assessor Thomas Sullivan died yesterday morning at the age of forty-seven years. He was one of the best known of Salem's citizens and had served as city recorder for several years.

Ice dealers in Hudson county announced yesterday the price of ice will be $5 a ton on April 1. The wholesale price has been $3 since March 1. The short crop of a mild winter is the explanation given.

Colonel John B. Russell, former superintendent of the Beverly National Soldiers' Cemetery, died from paralysis. He was recently appointed superintendent of the Antietam National Cemetery.

Mrs. Adeline Seeley, Bridgeton's oldest resident, died Tuesday at the age of ninety-five years. She is survived by two children, Francis Seeley and Mrs. James S. Marts, both of whom are well advanced in years.

Captain Boyle and a squad of police Tuesday raided as a disorderly house the premises at 418 South Second street, Camden, capturing three women, including Delia McKenna, the alleged proprietress, and two men.

A delegation of business men, church people and leading residents visited members of Gloucester Council Tuesday and Wednesday and made requests that they cut down the number of saloons when the licenses expire in May.

Expecting a visit from his sister Mrs. Eleanor Anderson, of South Bend, Ind., whom he had not seen for twenty-five years, Captain Ellis Anderson, of Bridgeboro road, was shocked by a telegram Tuesday announcing her death.

Residents of Atlantic City Tuesday were interested in the appearance of the first trolley car painted white and blue, the city colors. The car sent here is a "sample" and seems to have the public approval.

Packed in Chancery Court chambers like sardines, 300 Polanders were disappointed Tuesday, in Camden, when the vice-chancellor adjourned until Thursday the taking of testimony on the contempt rule secured by Rev. Michael Tarnowski, rector of St. Joseph's Catholic church, against several parishioners.

As the result of more than ten years of labor a device which reproduces sounds from phonograph records as distinctly as if the real origin of the sound were directly before the listener has been invented by Dr. John H. Vanmater, Mayor of Atlantic Highlands. The mechanical harshness of the phonograph is eliminated.

PERSONAL.

Miles Roberts, of Putnam avenue, has returned from a visit to Tolland, Mass.

Ferdinand Rockafellow, of West Second street, is critically ill at his home.

Miss Hazel Grant, of Woodbine avenue, has returned from a visit in Milwaukee.

Miss Harriet Brown, of Philadelphia, has returned home after a visit with Plainfield friends.

Mrs. Nathaniel Wilde, of Smyrna, Delaware, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Rowland Cox, of West Seventh street.

Mrs. Clarence Murphy, of this city, has been entertaining Mrs. Hazelwood Keller and Mrs. Courtney Keller, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick and their daughter, Miss Edith Mellick, of East Seventh street, who have been abroad, left Liverpool for home yesterday. Miss Mellick has been in Europe for nearly a year and her parents joined her on the other side for a short trip, all planning to return home together.

To Censor Pictures.

Several moving picture theatres in this city will be benefitted by a decision of the Motion Picture Patents Company that no objectionable pictures will be supplied by it to any house licensed by it. The company represents the principal film exchanges and 4,650 moving picture theatres in the United States and grants the patent licenses permitting the use of pictures.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

May 12, 1870.

Some 40 cords of wood belonging to the Central R. R. Co., took fire from the sparks of a passing locomotive near Dunellen on Wednesday afternoon last, and was totally destroyed.

We would inform our readers that Daniel Jellig, a practical workman, has opened an office in the paint shop of Wm. Linbarger & Son, on Second Street, for the purpose of varnishing and polishing furniture, pianos, &c. With 20 years experience, he guarantees to give perfect satisfaction. Success to him.

While visiting the City, should you go in the vicinity of East 37th Street, stop into Craft's "Columbian Hotel," 27 East 37th Street, where you will find everything kept in the best manner. Craft understands just how to provide for his friends. Give him a call.

Mr. John Taylor Johnston has been re-elected President of the N. J. Central Railroad Company, and Mr. Samuel Knox Secretary and Treasurer.

If you wish a delightful glass of Soda Water, flavored with pure fruit syrups, just try that at Marlowe & Reynolds' Drug Store. "Cornelius" will always be found in attendance to dispense the article.

In accordance with the law which provides that each dog shall be registered, our efficient City Clerk is now prepared to obey the fulfillment of the law. Several "dorgs" have already been registered.

TWO TASTY SALADS.

A delicious salad served at a luncheon recently came in on individual plates. On each plate there was a white lettuce leaf, and heaped in the middle of it shredded celery dressed with mayonnaise and sprinkled on the top with broken English walnut meats. Around the mound there were strips of Spanish red peppers.

For a hasty fruit salad when fresh fruit is not at hand open a can of peaches, drain it and arrange the halves of the fruit on lettuce leaves, sprinkle them with shredded almonds and a few cherries, if they are at hand, and dress them with mayonnaise. If nuts and cherries are not at hand the peaches are excellent alone.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The board of governors of the Baltusrol Golf Club, at a meeting on Monday, decided to rebuild at once. Contracts were given out yesterday for a temporary structure, which must be ready for occupancy in ten days. This building will measure 40 by 60 feet, and will connect with the annex, which escaped burning in the fire that destroyed the main clubhouse early Saturday morning. The garage will be boarded up and converted into a locker room at once, the plan being to put in four hundred lockers within the next week.

A committee has also been appointed to invite plans for a permanent clubhouse, to cost $50,000. As yet it has not been determined just what the style will be, but it is understood that the new home will be modern in every particular. The summer greens will be put in commission on April 24.

At Monday's meeting Louis Keller, secretary of the club, said that, so far as Baltusrol was concerned, the Women's Eastern Golf Association was welcome to hold its annual championship tournament and tricity matches there on June 8, 9, 10 and 11, as scheduled, provided they were willing to put up with the conditions.

When spoken to on the matter last night Mrs. E. F. Sanford, president of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, said that it had done nothing official in the matter as yet. She added, however, that if it was still welcome, the chances are that no change would be made. Many of the women will either be the guests of friends in the vicinity or stay at the hotel in Summit.

Tom Chisholm, the well known professional, for the last four years connected with the Canoe Brook Country Club, of Summit, has been engaged by the Philadelphia Cricket Club for the coming season. He will enter on his new duties tomorrow. Chisholm, who was about town saying goodby to his friends yesterday, is a native of St. Andrews, Scotland, and came to this country seven years ago. When first engaged by Canoe Brook the latter's course consisted of nine holes, but it wasn't long before the circuit was increased to eighteen holes and the greens greatly improved. At the Cricket Club Chisholm will be both professional and greenkeeper. He succeeds Donald Ball. A fire destroyed the home of the Cricket Club last fall, but since then temporary quarters have been erected.

One-day invitation tournaments will prove a feature in the East Jersey Golf League this season. When this plan was suggested at the annual meeting of the league, Tuesday afternoon, it was immediately approved by the delegates present.

The idea is to have each club in the organization give a tournament on some one Saturday, to which all those belonging to clubs in the league will be welcome. For such affairs medal play handicaps are usually decided on as the most satisfactory form of competition, but it is not unlikely that all-match play may receive a trial.

To run off a tournament at match play in a single day would necessitate each round to nine holes, as was the case at the Colonia Country Club last year.

The Canoe Brook Country Club will be the first one to give a one-day tournament, May 15 having been decided on for the date. The other six clubs will fix their dates later.

Organizations holding membership in the league are the Suburban Club, of Elizabeth; the Forest Hill Field Club; the Canoe Brook Country Club, the Glen Ridge Golf Club, the Colonia Country Club, the New Brunswick Golf Club and the South Orange Field Club.

Robert Knebler, of Forest Hill, was elected president to succeed F. A. Wright. E. W. Congdon, Glen Ridge, and M. A. Wilson, New Brunswick, will constitutue the tournament committee, which will have sole charge of the league's affairs.

The annual East Jersey two-day spring tournament will be held at Forest Hill on June 18 and 19. It has been decided to hold the championship earlier this year than formerly. The exact date and course will be determined shortly.

Alec Finlay, the Boston professional, recently finished relaying the course of the Hartford Golf Club. It now covers a playing length of 6,100 yards, or about 800 yards longer than formerly. The improved course is expected to be in fair condition by June 15.

BASEBALL.

So Joe McGinnity, the Newark owner, has taken a liking to Cliff Randolph. All of Cliff's friends are glad to know that the Plainfield pitcher has won the heart of the famous "Iron Man."

The P. H. S. will play their first game on Saturday afternoon. The boys are getting in first-class condition and expect to give a good account of themselves in that game.

Lafayette College has started the ball rolling on their Southern trip. Yesterday the Easton team put it on the A. & M. College of Raleigh by a big score.

If Newark doesn't win the Eastern League pennant this season it won't be the fault of John McGraw, the New York manager, for if ever a man wanted to see the McGinnity team win the rag it is the famous "Jaun" J.

If Van Zant, the pitcher the P. H. S. will mostly depend upon, can get out of the habit of that rapid fire pace, he will certainly win many a hard earned victory for his team.

McQuillen, the star boxman of the Philadelphia Nationals, is in better shape than last year. The big Quaker will have to work mighty hard this season to beat out Cloveski, the Polish coal miner, who defeated New York, in three straight games last fall, thus causing the Giants to loose the pennent.

Holy Cross will soon be ready to hit the ball to the outfield where the opposing team's fielders will have a good chance to make themselves useful. The young churchmen are sluggers of the old time school and mean to keep the ball out of reach.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Yussif Mahmout, the Terrible Turk, threw Charles Olson, at Indianapolis, in two straight falls Tuesday night. It took the Turk forty-seven minutes to secure the first fall.

Ora Morningstar, the billiard expert, continues to keep up a long string of victories. The American player has now won four straight games against the best players that can be produced.

About fifteen members of the Plainfield Cycle Club will start next Sunday for Vailsburg to witness the bicycle races. It is expected that two of the members will enter the novice races.

Vice-President James S. Sherman has been elected a member of the Washington Automobile Club. It is expected that President Taft will soon follow the example of the Vice-President.

Mike Ryan of the Irish-American club simply ran away from the field Marathon runners at Pittsburg Tuesday. The New York runner made the time in 2:48:43.

Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight, will soon find out he won't have to look very hard to find some one who will meet him. Al Kaufman, the California heavy, is now as hot on the trail of Jack, as Johnson is supposed to be on the trail of Jeffries.

Now that the trout season is open every angler of note will soon be off to the brooks and ponds for a day's fishing. Today will be a good one for a fish story.

WILL INAUGURATE OUTDOOR CYCLE RACING.

Outdoor bicycle racing in the East will be inaugurated for the season at the Velodrome in Newark on Sunday afternoon, April 4. The occasion will be made a big affair and purses aggregating $500 will be offered. There are to be six stellar races, including events for both amateurs and professionals and also a motor cycle match contest with five high powered machines on the board track at once.

John M. Chapman, a former rider and the man who put the racing game in Newark on a high standard last season, will again direct affairs. He has signed up all the star riders, including National Champion Frank L. Kramer, Joe Fogler, Jackie Clarke, Floyde MacFarland, Eddie Root, John and Menus Bedell, Floyd Krebs and Norman Anderson, the Danish champion and others. All these men with the exception of Clark and MacFarland, who are in Europe, will ride at the first opening meet.

A PING-PONG DOLL.

This curious doll is for the baby. It is quite irresistible to give, and even more so to make.

The ping-pong ball will make a regular little head for the doll. The ball is to be painted with a face, a smile that won't come off and parted hair.

The doll proper, which is to be attached to it, is made of a skein of soft pink yarn tied in at the waist with more yarn, and separated somewhat, so that the arms and legs are but strands of the same material.

The hands and feet are each a tiny tin sleigh bell sewed where it begins. These ping-pong balls are made also into little lady pin cushions, with wide, old-fashioned skirts.

Build Up The System

A "run down" condition is due in a great many cases to the failure of the digestive organs to get proper nourishment out of the food taken. To people suffering from ill health owing to this cause, insures a quick return to health and strength. Unlike ordinary tonics which supply only temporary stimulation by furnishing food material in pre-digested form, Jayne's Vermifuge brings about lasting results. It tones up the stomach and digestive organs and puts them in a normally healthy condition. Then the digestive organs supply the body with the proper amount of nourishment, and in this way restore permanent health and strength.

DR. D. JAYNE'S Tonic Vermifuge

Sold by all druggists in two sizes, 50c and 35c

Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant is an effective remedy for coughs, whooping-cough, croup and colds.

SENDS BAD BOY TO THE STATE'S HOME

Howard Scott, aged 13 years, colored, of this city, was arraigned before Judge Atwater in the Juvenile court, Elizabeth, this morning, on a charge of breaking a patent machine. The lad did not have "a ghost of a show" of being acquitted after his history was related to the court by Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield public schools, and Miss Adelaide Ball, who have been in touch with the boy.

Scott was announced as "Plainfield's worst boy." It was stated that when he attended school, which was seldom, unless accompanied by a truancy officer, he made it almost impossible for the teacher to continue the lessons, that he was more trouble than all of the two hundred children in that particular school and when he absented himself from school, not a thing happened to jar the even tenor of the school program. It was also stated that Scott was abusive to small children, constantly teasing them and preventing them from doing their school work.

In view of the "terrible" character of the boy, Judge Atwater decided to send him to the State Home for Boys, where he will have time to think over his bad deeds.

A TEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL WINS PRIZE FOR ESSAY

During the past week the New York Times has been distributing the prizes for the Lincoln centennial competition. Among the winners is Jennie Feinberg, aged eleven, a pupil of the Whittier School. She merited a Tiffany medal, engraved with the head of Lincoln.

The following is the competition written for the contest:

It is now the centennial of the birth of Abraham Lincoln in a forest of Kentucky.

The outlook greeting him at his birth was forlorn. The cabin of his birth was a woodman's shack and a floor of "Mother Earth," devoid of all comforts and necessaries of life. His surroundings were only huts as large as his own and large dreary forests. Each time the sun rose a new struggle for bread began.

Lincoln's father was a shiftless, illiterate farmer and carpenter with little skill at either occupation. Education was a waste of time to this father. If it had not been for his weak, patient mother, Lincoln's ambitions would never have been aroused. After her death the lad was removed and his father reluctantly began to teach his son carpentry, but found it more profitable for him to hire the youth as an extra hand at farming.

No man ever had a worse chance in life, but he never complained. He was content to wait until he was older. Lincoln was no saint; he was a boy, as fond of amusement as another, but his time was full of work. He had, however, one red-letter day; when the Circuit Court of Backwood's lawyers met at Boonsville, fifteen miles distant. Then he trudged to hear their discussions. There it became his ambition to be a lawyer. In spite of his ambitions he never thought of leaving his old home to seek another. When he was twenty-one, he had not a penny for himself. People stood and watched him as he ploughed the field with an open book before him.

When the Black Hawk war began he enlisted as a volunteer and then became a captain in the war, but he never saw Black Hawk or another Indian. He only fought mosquitoes and wild onions. After a while he set up a grocery store with a Mr. Berry but was not successful because Berry was a heavy drinker and Lincoln more absorbed in the study of law. He became a lawyer but never grew rich on account of unsteady practice. Later he was elected for Legislature and took a brief interest in politics, but he was never considered a real politician or a real candidate.

During the war with Mexico his opposition to slavery found it scource. Later, when he delivered a speech he was told he might be elected if he did not speak of slavery, but he spoke fluently and was elected. During the Civil War he was blamed for much hardship, but after he issued his proclamation he was loved and honored as the president who held America together by a never failing strength.

Oh, Paddy, dear, an' did you hear
The news I got from Nora?
They're joshing every man in town
Who wears a green fedora.

Bowling and General Sports

BOWLING.

Louis Skelly is again showing that he has not forgot the game entirely. He was seen hitting the pins in the good old style last night. 226 is a good enough score for any one to make.

Surely Doc. Herbert hasn't given up the game for good. When you don't see Doc. at the alleys for a practice game there must be some good fishing some where.

Ortleb is doing some good bowling at present and when he and brother get in good shape look out for a surprise in the high scores.

The bowlers that intend to take part in the Metropolitan matches next month had better put in all the practice they can get. Should any of the local cracks be the winners it will cause the game to take a big boost for next season and that is what the sporting public want.

The Conklin-Britton combination had an excellent opportunity of establishing a new high team score last night in their second game against the Ortleb brothers. Britton finished with three strikes in the tenth for a capital 235 and Conklin, who had strikes in the eighth and ninth frames, only needed a spare to surpass the score of 465, held by Vanderbilt and Eller. Conklin failed to make good, getting but four pins on his first ball and eight all.

If George Ortleb can pitch as well as he bowled last night the Clinton Avenue team will have a strong box artist.

An interesting series is that scheduled for tonight in the two-man tourney. The teams to meet are Willett and Skinner, Herbert and Campbell and Radin and Schaub.

A season for local bowlers without a game with New Brunswick would not be complete and the annual clash with New Brunswick pin knights will take place at Campbell's alleys on next Tuesday night, when the Brunswick A. C. five of New Brunswick will meet the Armrights in the first half of a home and home series.

Another match which is on the boards is that with the crack Tuxedo five of Newark, composed of Meyer, Pierson, Hoagland, Noack and Weingarth. This match will take place on either April 13 or 20.

In last night's game the Ortleb brothers made 425, in the two-men tournament.

HERRESHOFF
WHAT A LIGHT CAR MEANS TO YOU

Do you realize what it means to you if you can get a light car of the same class as the big cars, built of the same material, of the same excellence of design and careful construction, but weighing only 1600 pounds?

Stop and figure it out: You save 60 per cent or more in initial outlay. The depreciation in a big car in a single year would pay the cost of a new light car.

The cost of up-keep of a light car is one-third what the big car costs to maintain. It will stand up, go anywhere that the big car will go and do anything except carry excessive weight or attain excessive speed. Over bad roads it will average better than the big car. The only light car that is bred of the same stock as the best American and foreign cars is

The Herreshoff Car

Take the cost of tires alone: a complete set of tires for the 4000-pound car costs $233.10; for the light car, $115.60. The relative weight on the tires is infinitely greater in the big car than in the small, and the wear is proportionately more severe. The added weight of the big car wears tires out twice as fast.

One set of tires on a small car will last as long as two sets on the big car. This means a reduction in tire charges to 25 per cent of what the big-car owner pays.

The small gasoline consumption of the Herreshoff Car is surprising. In tests at Detroit, it has made better than 20 miles on a gallon, and over rough frozen roads has averaged nearly 18 miles. This is two or three times the mileage that the big car gets, while the oil consumption and other incidental running expenses are proportionately small. The wear on the mechanism of the car will be less than on heavy cars.

In appearance no car at any price surpasses this. Its facile handling and easy riding can only be demonstrated. Its power will drive the car from 45 to 50 miles an hour, or up any hill.

Bold claims have been made for the car, but it more than realizes every expectation. We invite inspection and the opportunity to demonstrate.

DR. PATRICK ON TURKEY

Woman President of American College at Constantinople Gives Lecture.

STUDENTS ARE COSMOPOLITAN.

Distinguished Speaker at Hartridge School Introduced By Mrs. Henry Villard.

A cultured audience of more than two hundred listened with marked interest to an illustrated lecture given at the Hartridge School auditorium, last night, by Dr. Mary Mills Patrick, who is the president of the American College for Girls at Constantinople. She is famous as an educator and especially for the interest she has taken in educational matters in the Western Levant.

Mrs. Henry Villard, who is the daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, and the present owner of the Evening Post, New York, and a woman who is a leader among the great charities in this part of the country, kindly consented to preside. Mrs. Villard and Dr. Patrick are warm friends and Dr. Patrick are warm friends and in introducing the latter she did so in her usual charming manner. She paid high tribute to the great educational work of Dr. Patrick, speaking for her general hearty co-operation and support.

Dr. Patrick displayed about eighty exceptionally fine views, giving a clear and concise description of the country and people where she has been working. She told of the inestimable value of the college training to girls at the seat of learning in Constantinople, explaining that students are drawn not from civilized America, but from an area including Greece and Alhamia on the west, the region of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers on the east, Egypt and Syria on the south and Roumania, Bulgaria, Servia and Russia on the north.

It was Dr. Patrick who found this college and she explained that the students return to their homes to save and elevate the women of their race and many of them have become powerful factors in the political struggles of their people. It is this work that has appealed so strongly to the American people. Dr. Patrick said that several of the most prominent women in Russia have received their education at this college.

"The Conditions in Turkey Since the Revolution," was the topic of Dr. Patrick's address and it was a revelation to her audience as she described in detail and by aid of the pictures the great changes that have been taking place in Turkey. She declared that it all meant a new life and most promising future and at the present time it was difficult to imagine what glorious results would follow this awakening among the people of that country.

Dr. Patrick was enabled through the aid of Miss Grace Dodge, Mrs. Russell Sage, Miss Helen Gould, John H. Converse and many other people of wealth, to establish this educational work. During the past year she has been the guest of Miss Gould in New York, endeavoring to raise sufficient funds with which to erect new college buildings in Constantinople, where valuable land has been purchased for the purpose. During her stay in this country she has spoken at Princeton, Vassar, Harvard and at several other large colleges. Following her talk an opportunity was given those present to meet both Dr. Patrick and Mrs. Villard. The women were guests of Miss Hartridge while in Plainfield and this morning they were invited to address the children of the school, which they did, delighting all with interesting incidents of their work.

Opportunity for Voice Culture.

S. Frederick Smith, who has been engaged as organist and choirmaster for Grace church, commencing May 1, will inaugurate a boy choir at that church. Mr. Smith has already begun to gather the boys together, and is looking for twelve or fifteen boys with promising voices. A good opportunity is offered for scientific vocal culture. Applications may be made at Grace church parish house on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. 4 2 3

Annual Church Supper.

The annual church supper under the auspices of the Women's Association of the Congregational church will be held in the church parlors on Wednesday night, April 14. Supper will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock. The proceeds will be for the church improvements.

CONCRETE WALKS FOR TWO LOCAL BRIDGES

At the April meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders, yesterday, Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, secured the adoption of a resolution authorizing the laying of concrete walks on the Park and Prospect avenue bridges, replacing the present walks constructed of wood. There is so much travel now over these bridges that the improvement was urged by the Plainfield members of the board. The cost of this work will be about $500. Mr. Wilbur is the chairman of the committee appointed to attend to the matter.

Freeholder J. Hervey Doane was made chairman of a committee to look after improvements about the bridge at South avenue and Terrill road, where it has been found that the culverts are not large enough to carry off the surface water in hard rains. The committee will have the trouble remedied.

Freeholder Wilbur was made a member of a committee to inspect the culverts on the Scotch Plains road, in Westfield, with a view to making changes that will more adequately carry off the surface water at that point.

Regarding the plan to install an elevator in the Court House, it was stated that bids are to be received for the installation of the elevator and until that is done it is not known whether the improvement will be recommended or not. If it is found that the cost is too great the plans will be abandoned.

ENJOY OPEN SESSION DAY AT THE SEMINARY

The gymnasium classes at The Seminary held yesterday the open session which marks the close of the indoor work for the season.

The program opened with the contest for the prizes offered to the pupil whose carriage was the most correct and graceful. Mrs. Morris Benton and Mrs. Eugene Hatch were the judges for the first and second divisions composed of the oldest girls and the smallest children in the school. In division III the marching was done without music and by request Miss Kenyon acted as judge.

The work which followed consisted of Swedish exercises, a jumping contest, aesthetic gymnastics and an obstacle relay race. An amusing game of "Simon says" was played by the younger class to test the promptness and accuracy of obedience to command.

Miss Florence Stuart and Miss Isabel Taylor, former seminary students now studying at Dr. Savage's School of Physical Education in New York, awarded the prizes which were presented by Miss Arnold, the principal.

The cups and the banners of the P. S. A. A. were given to the following successful contestants: Eleanor Hatch, Alverda Holland, Margaret Rice, Elsbeth Benton, Virginia Glover, Eleanor Bucklin and Winifred Titus. Those receiving honorable mention were Mary Dickinson, Dorothy Leal, Edith Palmer, Julia Scribner, Theresa Sharretts, Jean Wharton, Ruth Timpson, Eleanor Bucklin, Catherine Wright, Margaret Condict, Florence Moffett and Elsa Palmer.

Miss Dora Brown, the instructor, is a graduate of the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics recently affiliated with Wellesley College.

Next week will begin the out-door games and basketball.

FARMERS DISCUSS THE VALUABLE POTATO.

The Union County Board of Agriculture and the Breeders' Association held a meeting yesterday afternoon at Elizabeth, E. R. Collins, of Westfield, presiding. E. P. Beebe talked on "The Potato" and told of the insect life that was injurious to its growth. He also discussed the several varieties and was of the opinion that the Irish potato was as profitable to raise and as edible as any.

The farmers of the county were largely represented. They discussed also the breeding of horses. The next meeting will be held in Westfield.

Class Day Committee.

Charles Prior was elected chairman of the committee appointed to make arrangements for the senior class day exercises at the Plainfield High School. Others on the committee are Albert Hardcastle, Richard Harrigan, Guion Fountain, Ethel Skillman and Elsie Knowlton.

Funeral of F. V. Rockafelllow.

The funeral services of Ferdinand V. Rockafellow, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Rockafellow, will be held from the home of the parents on West Second street, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

MAKES PUBLIC DENIAL OF ALLEGED REMARKS

Just before the close of the Board of Trade meeting last night, President H. W. Marshall stated that he had been accused of making a statement to the effect that the reason he had refused to join the Merchants' Association was on account of the Hebrews belonging to the organization.

"Such a remark attributed to me," said Mr. Marshall, "is false, for I never made such a remark in my life, and I bear no malice against the Jew whatever. To be candid, the reason I am not a member of the Merchants' Association is because I am not in favor of their method of advertising, for I believe a business man has a right to advertise with any one he pleases."

"It has also been said," continued Mr. Marshall, "that I am responsible for driving out some of the new business enterprises that would like to come here, meaning, of course, the new proposed silk mill. Now any one knows that if any business man in this city wants to see a new enterprise come to Plainfield, it is I. Don't think for one moment that I am not aware the more mills and factories that come here, the more business it makes for me, and all other business men. But, when it comes to telling a man what I think of the labor question pertaining women help I told those who came to me, just what a proposition they were up against. I know from experience with the girls' labor problem is, and so do others of this city who have to deal with it. Plainfield is not a city where you can get women help to work in factories and those enterprises that do employ women have been for years getting them."

At this juncture Mr. Marshall called upon Mr. Kahn, of the skirt factory who employs a number of girls and asked him his opinion of getting two hundred girls for such a factory. Mr. Kahn said it was impossible to get that many girls from here and to bring them from neighboring towns would cost too much.

At the close of the meeting the subject of woman labor was discussed to some length by a great many who had heard Mr. Marshall speak. Many believe that if proper methods were used, help could be gotten, while others were of the reverse opinion.

WALTER SWALM INJURED IN RUNAWAY TODAY.

Walter Swalm, of North avenue, who is employed as a clerk and driver for the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, is detained at his home with a sprained ankle, the result of an accident yesterday while delivering goods on Prospect avenue. He had just gotten on the wagon to drive away when a part of the harness broke. The animal became frightened, and Mr. Swalm who had hold of the reins, was pulled out of the wagon, twisting his ankle as he struck the ground. The horse was caught later in the Netherwood district and returned.

Mr. Swalm was assisted to his home where he is still detained.

TO KEEP DOWN THE DUST

Councilmanic Committee to Give Trials to Dustolene and Liquid Asphalt.

TO REPAIR THE CITY ROADS.

West Fifth Street from Darrow Avenue to Grant Avenue to Be Opened Soon.

The Councilmanic street committee held an important meeting last night when several street improvement matters were fully discussed, including the repair of West Front street, from Madison to Clinton avenues. The members considered that this work is urgent and should be taken up early this year. As stated in The Daily Press of yesterday the plan is to rip up the present roadway with the scarifier and then fill in with cracked stone of a good size upon which a good hard macadam will be built. It is proposed to use liquid asphalt with the idea of preserving the macadam and keeping down the dust.

The committee also decided to give two other patent "dustless" preparations a trial, one of which is "Dustolene." There are any number of these preparations on the market now, all claiming supremacy. The committee is making every effort to find one that will meet requirements here, so that the expense of street sprinkling can be reduced to a minimum or discontinued entirely. The committee is having the aid and cooperation of the State road department in this matter and satisfactory results are anticipated in the near future.

Still, another important matter presented was that in reference to opening up West Fifth street from Darrow avenue to Grant avenue for the accommodation of the new Darrow avenue public school. This improvement was proposed sometime ago and an ordinance has been drafted. John Rafferty, of Sandford avenue, who owns considerable property in that vicinity and who would be affected by the opening up the street, appeared before the committee and a satisfactory understanding was reached. This opposition being overcome, the committee proposes to offer the ordinance for adoption at the April meeting of the Common Council. The rest of the evening was spent in discussing minor details of street work.

EXTRA! BOTH GIRLS ENGAGED.

Montclair Matron Choses Novel Way of Making the Announcement.

The engagement of Miss Bertha Richards and Miss Alice Frances Richards, daughters of Joseph A. Richards, of Montclair, to Milton Towne and Dion W. Kennedy were announced in a strikingly novel manner. Mrs. Richards gave a luncheon at the Aldine Association in New York for a party from Montclair Wednesday afternoon.

While the guests were at the table, a typical newsboy broke in upon the company with a bundle of papers under his arm and began shouting "Extra! Full account of the latest engagements." After the astonishment had subsided and while the boy was still shouting, the women tore open the papers and out dropped the formal announcement of the double engagement.

COUPON WITH MARRIAGE.

By way of increasing his business, John C. La Voucherie, a justice of the peace of Belleville, has issued advertising cards promising a present to every couple married by him. The card reads: "This is the place to get married and get a present. I am not a faker. The first couple that comes to my place will see that I mean what I say."

Besides this special inducement, Mr. La Voucherie has had a large floral bell installed in his parlor, under which candidates for matrimony may stand and feel that they are getting their money's worth. Arranged on brackets around the room are bits of china, cut glass, cuckoo clocks and house ornaments, which make up his stock of presents.

Will Shorten Saloon Hours.

Two hours will be lopped off the business day of saloons in East Orange by an ordinance, which the Board of Excise of that place has determined upon. The action is the return of agitation on the part of the blue ribboners, who asked that the board make the hours from 6 a. m. to 11 p. m. The board has compromised by allowing the saloons to keep open until midnight, but preventing them from opening their doors until 6 o'clock in the morning.

DENY ASSAULT CHARGE PREFERRED BY ROYSTER

Baffling the efforts of the court to get the facts of an assault upon John Cooper, colored, near the Liberty street railroad bridge, Wednesday night, five young West End men, against whom a warrant for assault was sworn out by T. H. Royster, of West Second street, a colored ice cream dealer who employs Cooper, disclaimed any knowledge of the fracas on the witness stand before City Judge Runyon today. Warned repeatedly that they were under oath to tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," the prisoners denied taking part in the affair, although two of them were positively identified by the complainants.

The prisoners were Thomas Boyle, John Casey, John Conway, James Conway and John Madden. Boyle and James Conway were each fined $10. Of the five men, Boyle and James Conway were positively identified by the colored men as having struck Cooper, but each testified that they were not within a hundred yards of the place where the assault was committed, and were walking away. It being an attack by a "gang," the entire party was rounded up by the police, but John Madden and John Conway were entirely freed from blame, and Casey was only partially identified.

According to the story told by the colored men, they were carrying an ice cream tub to a West End church, where Royster was to supply refreshments. They stopped under the Liberty street bridge for a smoke, and while they were there, the party came across the street and demanded a drink. Cooper's statement that he had no liquor was disbelieved and he was attacked by Boyle and James Conway, according to the plaintiffs' story. In the course of the fight, Cooper received a smashing blow in the eye and was knocked down. His employer stood by him, defending himself, and Cooper shouted "police" and scared the men away.

Brought to the witness stand, one at a time, each of the five, after taking oath, swore that he hadn't seen the colored men and had taken no part in the fight. Those accused of striking Cooper said that they were a considerable distance away from the man at the time, and although all stated that they had heard cries for police, no one stated that he had investigated the alarm.

Each witness for the defense was cross-questioned by Judge Runyon and Chief Kiely, and urged to tell the truth about the matter. None would alter his statement. In passing sentence, City Judge Runyon said that he had a feeling that certain of the witnesses were not adhering to the facts, and that for this reason he was inclined to trust the identification of the colored men. When the fines were imposed, Boyle urged his companions to "tell the truth" and get him free, but there were no statements forthcoming.

WANTS FENCE GATES.

On Long Branch Division of Central Railroad.

Councilman Peter J. McGurk at Elizabeth introduced a resolution in the Elizabeth Council calling on the Central Railroad Company to put new gates of the "fence" variety, under which no child could pass, on its tracks between Trumbull street and Bay Way, on the Long Branch division in that city.

"Numerous lives have been lost," said Mr. McGurk, "and only recently a little girl on her way to school was killed. Had the gates afforded sufficient protection this would not have happened." The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Will Follow the Hounds.

The Watchung Hunt Club announces that the hounds will meet at the kennels at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoons during April. Occasional early morning and by-day hunts will take place, ample notice of which will be given. Members "larking" over farm lands without the owners' absolute permission will be amendable to a fine. As master of the hounds, Lewis E. Waring will have charge of the hunts.

Vetoes Ackerman Bill.

Governor Fort has filed without his approval the Ackerman bill, Senate 103, giving jurisdiction of surrogates of counties in which a non-resident decedent has real estate to surrogates where the decedent may have a residence but no proprty. The effect of filing without approval is to make the measure a law.

"Negro Bill" Buried.

William Wallace, better known as "Negro Bill," who was found dead in his cabin a few days ago near the Watchung Water Company's plant on Mountain avenue, was buried by the county in the Methodist cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral was private and there was no minister present.

TWO RIGS DAMAGED BY THIS RUNAWAY

Colliding with two rigs in a wild run through West Second street yesterday afternoon, a delivery wagon of the Merchants' Dispatch company, caused lots of excitement before the horses were finally brought to a standstill at Madison avenue by William Grogan, of Newark, who was in the wagon. The horses took fright while in front of the Plainfield Cab Company's stables on East Second street. William Beam, of Newark, who is the delivery man, was not in the wagon, but Grogan, who is his assistant, was sitting on the seat. The reins had sagged down between the horses and became entangled in the pole when he tried to stop the team.

At Park avenue, the heavy rig crashed into a runabout owned and driven by Timothy Ingraham, an Oak Tree farmer. Ingraham was bowled out over the dashboard and the rig was wrecked. The horse and man were uninjured. Near the New Plainfield theatre, the delivery wagon side-swiped the milk wagon of Nelson Giles, a Dunellen milkman. Giles, who was driving, tried to turn aside, but was not quick enough. A rear wheel of the milk wagon was dished.

Young Grogan had by this time disentangled the lines from the pole and brought the horses to a standstill near Madison avenue. The team was cut and bruised, but the wagon was practically undamaged.

PRIVATE ICE PLANTS FOR LOCAL BUTCHERS

To protect themselves against a possible ice famine during the summer, several local butchers have let contracts for the construction of refrigerating plants. Such plants being installed are at the butcher shops of Charles Arnold and John C. Storm, and it is said that S. S. Scheuer & Co., W. L. Smalley, Jr., Herman Theis, W. W. Wilson and Roth & Co. propose to make such improvements. Several butchers, among whom are Smalley Bros. and W. W. Wilson, have already had the refrigerating plants installed and used them for meat preservation last summer. In Mr. Wilson's case, the plant contracted for is for an other store.

The local contracts have in each case been given to a New Brunswick concern which has installed the plants already in use here. The apparatus comprises pipe coils, and the low temperature is secured by expansion and condensation of a solution of ammonia forced through them. A powerful condensation pump is employed and is motor capable of about 1,200 revolutions a minute. The cost of the apparatus is about $1,000.

JOHN NEAGLE'S WEATHER STATISTICS FOR MARCH.

The weather statistics for March weather as prepared by Prophet John Neagle are as follows: Maxmium temperature, 72 degrees, date 10th; minimum temperature, 12 degrees, date 6th; mean temperature, 38.2; normal temperature, 38.6; mean maximum, 47.7; mean minimum, 28.8; mean daily range, 18.9; greatest daily range, 37, date 10th; monthly daily range, 60; total precipitation, 3.8.1 inches; greatest amount in 24 hours, 1.55, date 25th; normal precipitation, 4.36 inches; total precipitation from January 1, 12.79 inches; excess precipitation for 1909, 0.26 inches; date of thunder storm, 4th, 2:30 a. m.; dates of fog, 10th, 13th and 14th; date of sleet, 4th. The mean temperature for the month was 0.4 below the normal; and the precipitation for the month was 0.55 below the normal.

Plumbing Concern Gets a Verdict.

Judgment was given the plaintiff for the full amount in the action of German Grobe & Sons, of New York, against Mrs. Mary F. Leahy, in the District court yesterday. The New York concern, dealers in plumbers' supplies, sought to recover $500 on a note given by Mrs. Leahy. Isaac P. Runyon represented German Grobe & Sons, while John P. Owens was counsell for Mrs. Leahy. The note which was given by Mrs. Leahy for plumber's supplies used by her husband in his business, went to protest, and the firm instituted the suit to recover.

Approaching Wedding.

TRADE BOARD'S ROUTINE

Charter Day, Banquet and Other Committees Submit Their Reports.

ADMIT THREE MORE MEMBERS.

E. E. Parvin Gave His "Ocean Transportation" Address and Refreshments Are Served.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Board of Trade, which took place last night, was the largest attended in some time. There was little official business transacted, the whole routine being finished in less than half an hour.

After the meeting had been called to order by President Marshall, and the minutes read by Secretary Herr, a communication was read from the President of the Westfield Board of Trade, thanking the local board for their hospitality at the banquet. A report from the treasurer showed there had been sold for the banquet 277 tickets, which amounted to $831. The expenses were $927.84, leaving a deficiency of $96.84, which was paid out of the general fund.

Chairman W. C. Smith, of the Charter Day committee reported that all those interested are doing their best towards getting everything in shape for the next meeting, which will be held in about two weeks. Out of the thirty-three organizations that were to act, representatives from thirty-one were present at the first meeting and all showed they were interested. It was proposed that on the morning of July 5, there be a parade; in the afternoon athletic events and speeches will take place, and at night there will be a big display of fireworks.

M. C. Van Arsdale handed in the bills for telephone charges, which were ordered paid. Three new members were admitted, they being George R. Morris, A. A. Brousse and M. L. Gano. A resolution was offered by E. M. Laing thanking Alexander Gilbert, Alexander Milne, Hugh A. Todd and Allen B. Laing for their services in connection with the banquet.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, E. E. Parvin, secretary of the International Mercantile Marine Co., gave his address on the subject of "Ocean Transportation." Although Mr. Parvin has delivered similar addresses in this city before, upon the same subject, he was listened to with much interest.

At the conclusion of Mr. Parvin's talk those present were entertained by selections by an amateur orchestra. Refreshments were served.

CHILD UPSETS THE LAMP; DAMAGE BY FIRE IS $100.

In playing in the dining-room of his home last night, George Muttron, the ten-year-old son of Joseph Muttron, of 522 West Fourth street, accidentally upset the lamp, starting a fire which caused damage to the amount of $100. Falling from the table, the lamp broke and the blazing oil quickly set fire to the furniture.

An alarm was sounded from box 34, at Fifth and Liberty streets, at about 7:30 and a chemical stream soon extinguished the blaze. The damage, which was confined to the room where the lamp upset, is covered by insurance.

Surprised Mrs. Jacob Blimm.

The Thimble Club, of which Mrs. Jacob Blimm is a member, tendered her a masquerade surprise party at her home on Somerset street last night. Mrs. Blimm was completely surprised and it was not until late in the evening that the guests disclosed their identity. One of the features was "An April Fool Cake," which caused much amusement. Music and dancing were also enjoyed. The affair was arranged by the Thimble Club, the members of which acted as a committee of the whole. Refreshments were served.

Recites "Man of the Hour."

Edward Eliott, one of the best known dramatic readers of the Lyceum bureau, appeared before a large audience at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night. He vividly portrayed the many characters in George Broadhurst's famous political drama, "The Man of the Hour." As a reader of the modern comedy-drama Mr. Eliott is no doubt the best of those who have appeared in Plainfield in a long time.

Twenty Days for Vagrancy.

Marshall W. M. Sliney, of Dunellen, arrested Harry Miller yesterday morning on the charge of vagrancy. Miller alleged that he was a foreigner and was unable to give an account of himself. He was sentenced by Recorder Campbell to twenty days imprisonment at New Brunswick.

Peace Justice and Illegal Fees.

Justice of the Peace Leo Bertucilli, of Roselle, who was committed to the county jail in Elizabeth by Justice of the Peace James P. Kelly, was arrested on a warrant issued by Kelly which charged him with collecting illegal fees. He was taken to the justice's office in Elizabeth, where he was given a hearing. The complaint against him was made by John E. Beck, also of Roselle, who claims that last October he made a criminal complaint before Bertucilli and that the latter charged him $2.60 in fees.

Shad Fishing Legislation.

Mr. Colgate's proposed act, House 431, regulating fishing in the Delaware, above Trenton Falls, got through the House at Trenton yesterday without opposition, as did his bill, House 437, regulating fishing in the same stream below Trenton Falls. These are the acts submitted by the Pennsylvania-Delaware-New Jersey Commission to investigate Delaware River shad fishing and will have to be passed also by the Pennsylvania and Delaware legislatures.

May Give Up Holding Reunions.

Because of the ruling that the Academic Literary Society's reunions at Long Branch in the future must close at 1 o'clock in the morning, the society yesterday framed a resolution to quit holding reunions, and this will come up for definite action at a meeting next week. The reunion held last year was not concluded till 4 o'clock, which led the faculty to recommend an earlier closing hour.

Counsel for Sheriff Bill.

One of the first bills to be reported favorably out of committee in the House at Trenton yesterday was Mr. Osborne's measure, Senate 172, to permit the Board of Freeholders to appoint an attorney for Sheriff Harrigan, of Essex, at a salary not exceeding $2,500. It was later advanced on second reading.

ANTI-SPITTING BILL APPROVED BY HOUSE.

Among the bills passed by the House at Trenton yesterday were these:

House 424, H. S. Smith, drawn by the Newark Committee of One Hundred's anti-consumption forces. This makes it a misdemeanor to spit or expectorate upon the floor or stairway of any part of any theatre, public hall, building or upon the floor of any public conveyance or upon any sidewalk or any street anywhere in this State.

House 363, Mr. Tatem, amending the borough act relative to filling vacancies.

—The new bill for Proctor's is one that will please all theatregoers. The acts have not a dull minute in them. The new pictures are also receiving their share of attention and the illustrated songs are the latest and best.

DIVORCES EX-FOOTBALL STAR.

San Francisco, April 2.—Helen Grace W. Graydon, daughter of J. Parker Whitney and wealthy in her own right, does not think her former husband, Thomas H. Graydon, Harvard football expert and later manager for a Cincinnati shoe concern, ought to have to pay her alimony. Her decree of divorce on the grounds of incompatibility and non-support was signed late yesterday. Yesterday her attorneys were to have taken up the question of alimony and consulted her.

"Oh, dear me, no, indeed," she said, "I don't care about any alimony from Tom. I just want my divorce. I don't think he could support me as I want to be supported anyway."

The young woman was a student at the fashionable New York school on Riverside drive when she first met Graydon, then a Harvard student. She later eloped from school to wed the ex-football star.

Fort May Talk With Hughes.

While the present Legislature is not making much headway in the matter of direct primary extension statutes, although Governor Fort says it will have to, or he will call a special session, New Jersey's Executive is going to have a chance to help Governor Hughes, of New York, in the fight he is making for similar legislaion at Albany. He has received an invitation to speak with Hughes on the same platform and on the same subject at Utica, N. Y., for a night late this month. He has not accepted, however, and it may be he will be too busy in his own State to make the requested address.

Hurt by Flying Emery Wheel.

B. A. Jones, aged twenty-eight, who lives in First street, Elizabethport, and is employed in the Singer Machine Works, was injured yesterday by the bursting of an emery wheel, a fragment of which struck him in the abdomen, rendering him unconscious. He was taken to the Alexian Hospital, where it was said his injury was not dangerous.

ELIZABETH JOINS IN FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS.

With a meeting that was attended by a number of local physicians, Board of Health officials and various civic organizations, Elizabeth Wednesday night joined the list of communties that are waging war against tuberculosis.

The meeting was in the Y. M. C. A. building, and Orlando F. Lewis, president of the Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, Elizabeth, and identified with the New York charity organization, delivered an address.

He outlined the work as it is being carried on by the Manhattan body and urged that similar methods be adopted. Mr. Lewis recently gave the local society a plot of ground on an outlying district of the city with the suggestion that it be used for day camps, which will be put to use if no objection is raised by residents in the vicinity.

Break Ground for New Church.

Ground was broken yesterday for the extension of the Pitman Methodist Episcopal church at New Brunswick for which the contract was recently awarded to Daniel Whitlock, of Ocean Grove. The pastor, Rev. Herbert J. Belting, turned the first spadeful of earth. The ceremony took place at 11:30 o'clock and consisted of the singing of a hymn, a prayer and short address by the pastor. The church will be vacated next Thursday when the pews will be removed and stored. For the next three or four months the congregation will worship elsewhere. This will make two Methodist congregations without a church home, St. James' church having been destroyed by fire last December.

Swedish Medal for Edison.

The Swedish Academy of Science at Stockholm yesterday conferred a gold medal upon Thomas A. Edison, the American inventor, for his invention and development of the phonograph. Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus handed the medal to Mr. Graves, the American Minister.

SENATOR KEAN BUSY WITH TARIFF QUESTION

While the United States Senate is not in session Senator Kean is now busily engaged at Washington in connection with the meetings of the Finance Committee of the Senate, which has the tariff bill under consideration. The Senator will do his utmost to see that the various interests of New Jersey are protected, and he will have the assistance of Senator Briggs. Senator Kean is often seen nowadays on the floor of the House of Representatives consulting with the New Jersey Congressman.

Senator Kean has received a communication from the Chrome Steel Works, at Chrome, Middlesex county, relative to the proposed duty on chrome steel and similar products. Mr. Howell has received a similar communication, and both will do their utmost to have the matter receive proper attention.

Senator and Miss Kean were among the guests at a dinner which the Japanese Ambassador and Baroness Takahira gave the other evening. Other guests present were the German Ambassador and Countess von Bernstoff, the Turkish Ambassador, the Danish Minister and Countess Moltke, the Greek Minister and Senator and Mrs. Lodge.

Senator Kean and Representative Howell are doing their utmost to aid H. E. Donegar, secretary of the Board of Trade of Asbury Park, to prevail upon the Weather Bureau to establish a weather station at that place. Mr. Donegar has made a proposition which has been submitted to the Weather Bureau to the effect that a station might be established on a co-operative basis, the city to furnish the location and pay part of the expense. Mr. Obert, secretary of the Board of Health, the present voluntary observer, could take charge of the work, and it is probable the city would buy the necessary instruments. The matter is under consideration by Willis L. Moore, chief of the bureau.

Protest Against Dumping Refuse.

The indiscriminate dumping of all kinds of refuse in the lowlands on Sycamore avenue near West Front street, were two new houses are in course of construction, has caused a strong protest to be filed with the Board of Health. Even after orders were given that no further dumping would be permitted there, it is said, it was continued. It was learned at the Board of Health office today that strict orders have been issued in this case and that the first one violating them will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

URGES USE OF BROWN BREAD.

Convincing Arguments Made by English Food Reform League.

A plea for the use of wholemeal bread, especially by those who have the care of children, is made in an influentially signed circular issued by the Bread and Food Reform league of Great Britain.

It is shown from official documents that the annual consumption per head in the United Kingdom of corn, wheat, meal, and flour is nearly 355 pounds, and that in working-class families, with incomes ranging from 21s to 52s a week, two-fifths of the weight of food consumed consists of bread and flour. Bread, it is pointed out, is almost the sole diet of numbers of poor children.

"Owing to the present great distress and general shrinkage of incomes," it is stated, "a supply of nourishing bread is of vital national importance. Chemistry proves that the whole of the wheat grain contains more nutriment than the part usually made into fine white flour." Experiments in Germany are quoted which show that from finely ground wheat meal the body assimilates two and a half times more of the mineral substances which form bones and teeth and which nourish the brain, nerves and tissues, than from fine white flour."

ALMOST DESERVED TO ESCAPE.

Truant's Quick Grasp of Opportunity Compels Admiration.

The absent-minded professor returned home one night to learn that his son had played truant from school, and he was asked by his wife to hunt up the missing youngster and administer a sound thrashing.

"Why, I'll flay him alive!" exclaimed the angry father. "I'll break every bone in his body! Just wait until I get him out in the woodshed!"

He came across his heir playing marbles about a mile from home, but the boy didn't seem to be a bit alarmed by the old man's threats. As they started to return home the absent-minded professor stopped to chat with an old acquaintance, and it was fifteen or twenty minutes later when he looked down in wonder at the boy at his side and asked:

"Why, where did you come from, Jack?"

"Don't you remember, father?" smiled the boy. "We are on our way to buy me a box of candy, because of my excellent school report."

"Bless me, but so we are," agreed the absent-minded professor, as he patted the boy on the back and started for the store.

The Courage of Opinions.

The ways in which people form their opinions are most remarkable. Every man, when he begins his reasonable life, finds certain general opinions current in the world. He is shaped by these opinions in one way or another, either directly or by reaction. If he is soft and plastic, like the majority of people, he takes the opinions that are about him for his own. If he is self-assertive and defiant, he takes the opposite of these opinions and gives to them his vehement adherence. We know the two kinds well; and as we ordinarily see them, the fault which is at the root of both is intellectual cowardice. One man clings servilely to the old ready-made opinions which he finds, because he is afraid of being called rash and radical; another rejects the traditions of his people from fear of being thought fearful and timid and a slave.—Phillips Brooks.

Costs Less to Feed Women.

In a small Philadelphia restaurant that caters to persons on economy bent the bill of fare is headed by this notice: "Regular dinner—Men, 25 cents; women, 15 cents." "How is this?" asked a chance customer belonging to the sex most heavily taxed. "You charge us fellows ten cents more than you do the women. What have we done that we should be so discriminated against?" "You eat more," was the plain rejoinder. "It doesn't cost nearly so much to feed women as men, but we are the first concern in this part of town that has been brave enough to say so in plain print. Many foreign restaurants have recognized that fact, and have regulated their charges accordingly."

Oriental Philosophy.

It is good for our arrogant western spirit to meet the calm, if somewhat backward, philosophy of the orient. When the motor cars which raced from New York to Paris went through China, the Chinese were not alarmed or excited. A mandarin blandly explained it thus: "There is nothing extraordinary in the motor car. There is nothing extraordinary in anything. Men invented it yesterday. They will invent something else to-morrow. Still the world goes round, and we are not an atom the happier." A refreshing draft of cool wind upon our fevered progress.—Youth's Companion.

Maturity of Men and Women.

It is supposed that a man reaches the maturity of his reasoning powers and mental faculties at the age of 28, while a woman is mature in mind at 18. This brings a man to the pleasant and satisfying conclusion that the nobler and more perfect and splendid a thing is, the slower it is to arrive at a state of maturity. Women may reply that brain matter has no sex and that girls, being brighter, find their own worth, sooner. However, every woman, old or young, must acknowledge the splendor and nobility of the male character under all circumstances and conditions.

THE PROPER WAY TO COOK SHRIMPS.

Shrimps may be cooked delectably in the chafing dish in several ways. They are delicious with curried rice. Put four tablespoonfuls of butter into the blazer with a little chopped onion and allow to remain until brown. Add a heaping tablespoonful of cornstarch, into which two teaspoonfuls of curry powder, a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper have been mixed. Then add two cupfuls of milk, one-half cupful of shrimps, broken in small pieces, and a cupful of boiled rice; cook slowly for about five minutes.

For shrimp salad cut the shrimps into pieces and mix with minced lettuce. Arrange lettuce leaves with it and cover with a dressing made with two eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately, adding a teaspoonful of salt and pepper, half cup of vinegar and a spoonful of mustard. The whole should be cooked until it begins to thicken.

The other receipts have been tested and found nat wanting. For one, take half a pint of fresh or canned shrimps, a teaspoonful of tomato sauce, half an onion, grated; two and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, half a cup of boiled rice and a half cupful of cream. Put the butter into the blazer and when melted stir in the onion and rice. Then add the shrips, cream and tomato sauce. Stir until it boils, then allow it to simmer for five minutes. Serve on toast.

The other recipe: Melt a piece of butter in the dish and add half a cup of boiled rice, one cup of cream or milk, and three tablespoonfuls of catsup. When the mixture is thoroughly heated add one cup of shrimp and cook for three minutes. Serve this also on toast.

African Native Gave Straight Answer to Straight Question.

The negroes of Africa are simple and direct in speech. It never occurs to them, writes Dr. R. H. Milligan in "The Jungle Folk in Africa," that the purpose of language is to conceal thought, and to commiserate the African for his color is a waste of sympathy. In illustration of this Mr. Milligan gives an amusing conversation with one of his pupils.

One day, when I was talking to Bojedi, something in the course of the conversation prompted be to ask him whether he would like to be a white man. He replied respectfully but emphatically in the negative. I wished to know his reason. He hesitated to tell me; but I was insistent, and at last he replied:

"Well, we think we are better-looking."

I gasped when I thought of the vastly ill-looking faces I had seen in the jungles, and in apology for myself, I said:

"But you have not seen us in our own country, where there is no malaria, and where we are not yellow and green."

He quietly asked what color we were in our own country, to which I promptly replied, "Pink and white."

Looking at me steadily for a moment, he remarked:

"Mr. Milligan, if I should see you in your own country I don't believe I should know you."—Youth's Companion.

IN THE TEETH OF HURRICANE.

What Sailorman Meant When He Told of an Adventure in Force 10.

Doubtless there were many puzzled readers when a deep-sea skipper rolled into this harbor a few days ago and reported that his ship had been belated by a gale which had piped up to "force 10." "Force 10," it was explained, meant something like a hurricane.

It is a term borrowed from the Beaufort scale, a scheme of wind measurements devised by the British admiral Beaufort before the days of ocean-going steam. Force 1 was a calm, force 2 a light breeze, and so on up the hurricane velocity.

Perhaps, too, the Beaufort scale may give a clew to those who have been wondering for some time at the title of a popular German picture. It is just one expanse of frowning cloud and storm tossed billow, and the artist has named it "Windstarke 10, 11."—New York Sun.

On Being Happy.

Pleasures are more beneficial than duties because, like the quality of mercy, they are not strained, and they are thrice blessed. There must always be two to a kiss, and there may be a score in a jest; but wherever there is an element of sacrifice, the favor is conferred with pain and received with confusion. There is no duty we so much underrate as the duty of being happy. By being happy, we shower anonymous benefits upon the world. A happy man or a happy woman is a better thing to find than a five-pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will; and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Bibulous Prisoner Punished.

In one of the Basque provinces of Spain there is a prison which opens the doors every morning and the prisoners go into the town for housework, gardening or some trade. Some act as commissioners. In the evening they quietly return at the appointed time to the prison, and the jailer most carefully identifies them before withdrawing the bolts for their admission. Once a prisoner ventured to present himself at the gates of the prison in a state of inebriety, and the jailer refused to admit him. "To punish you," he said, "you will to-night sleep out of doors." And the prisoner, it is recorded, in spite of tears and entreaties, was condemned to pass the night outside of prison!

Where Dante May Have Studied.

St. Edmund's hall, Oxford, Eng., is now the sole survivor of the original "halls" from which university life arose at Oxford. It bears the name not of the martyred Saxon monarch, but of Archbishop Edmund Rich, who possibly about 1219 delivered near this spot the first Oxford lectures on Aristotle. This legend once enabled the present principal to retort that if Dante really visited Oxford he might conceivably have studied at St. Edmund's hall, but not at Queen's college, which did not then exist.

Penalty of Firmness.

The comptroller of the treasury is an autocrat whose decision overrides even that of the chief magistrate of the nation. Some years ago the then incumbent of the office refused to sign a warrant for money which Gen. Grant thought it proper to expend. "That is right," the president said; "I admire your firmness. Where your conscience is concerned, never permit yourself to be coerced. You may consider yourself clear in this affair, for I shall appoint a new comptroller to-morrow."

GOV. FORT HAS SIGNED A. F. KIRSTEIN'S BILL

The Kirstein railroad crossing accident bill, House 219, by the Assemblyman from Union, is now a law, Governor Fort having approved it. It provides that in accidents at grade crossings where safety gates have been erected, the presence of the gates shall not act as a bar against recovery of damages for injury or death but that the question of such damages shall be submitted to a jury. Senator Ackerman, in speaking on the bill in the Senate, showed that under the old law it was practically impossible to get damages where there were safety gates.

Several bills were lost in the Assembly this week. One was House No. 130, by Mr. Scharff, of Bergen, authorizing local Boards of Health to pass ordinances regulating the selling of milk and providing a license fee for each milk vehicle not to exceed $20. Mr. Scharff advocated it, claiming such a law was necessary for the protection of people in cities against adulterated or unsanitary milk and cream. Mr. Nichols opposed the measure on the ground that it would impose a hardship on all farmers coming into the cities to retail milk.

House No. 304 was also defeated. It made it illegal for any auctioneer to sell at public auction any horse unsound, so that he could not be used without violating the law against cruelty to animals.

The other measures defeated in the House were: House 439, amending the orphans court act relative to the taking of appeals; House 201, the Davidson measure, authorizing municipalities to pass ordinances for the licensing of stationary engine steam boiler firemen, and the Tumulty bill, House 76, abolishing the State Board of Riparian Commissioners and placing its work with a new board to consist of the Governor and the State Board of Assessors, to serve without additional pay.

A Different Concern.

Garwood, N. J., April 1, 1909.
Editor, The Daily Press:

Noting the item in your Westfield news column in your issue of March 30, with reference to the Garwood Electric Co., would say that your correspondent was in error in stating that any of those employed by the Garwood Electric Co. were seeking employment elsewhere.

The Garwood Electric Co. at the present time is not employing any labor. Your reporter seems to have confused the Garwood Electric Co. with other manufacturers of electrical apparatus located at Garwood.

Kindly make the correction and oblige.

Little Bill Guessed Right.

"This," said a teacher to her class of arithmeticians, "is a unit." She help up a pencil. "This book is a unit, too," said she. "And these are units." And she showed them a ruler, a flower and an apple. Then she peeled the apple and, holding up the peel, said: "Now, children, what is this?" Silence. "Come, you know what it is," she urged. Little Bill's hand went up slowly. "Well, William," said the teacher, "Pleathe, ma'am, the skin of a unit."—Christian Register.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

There is a move on foot by the Hudson River Golf Association to admit clubs located in counties all along the river. At present membership in the organization is limited to clubs in cities, villages or towns adjoining the river and the clubs belonging are Twaalfskill, Briarcliff, Saegkill, Dutchess Golf and Country, Powelton, Nyack Country, Columbia, County Country and Rockland Country.

Should the proposed extension of territorial limits go into effect all the golf clubs in Westchester county would be eligible to join. As the county contains such well known organizations as Apawamis, St. Andrews, Knollwood, Ardsley, Fairview, Dunwoodie, Wykagyl Siwanoy, Century and Scarsdale, it can readily be seen that their admission would be a decided acquisition. The counties that would be represented under the proposed extension are Putnam, Orange, Ulster, Greene, Columbia, Westchester, Rockland and Dutchess.

Another proposal is to do away with the series of team matches and substitute one-day tournaments, the latter to be held on Saturdays. This would give each club a chance to entertain every other club in the association during the season.

The championship tournament will be held this year over the links of the Twaalfskill Club at Kingston, June 17, 18 and 19. Last season Gilman P. Tiffany, of Powelton, won the individual title for the fifth time at Briarcliff. The Powelton Club also won the team championship with a clean record of seven matches won and no defeats. Saegkill was second, with six victories and one defeat.

At the annual meeting of the league held recently, the following officers were elected: President, Frank Coykendall; vice-president, John P. Hobbie; treasurer, Paul B. Rossire; secretary, Charles F. Cossum; executive committee, James S. Taylor, the Rev. R. H. Herron, Harold B. Wood and Dr. H. M. Smith.

BASEBALL.

What better days does any team want than yesterday for spring practice.

The Oriole Club of Dunellen are now ready to book games for the season. All challanges should be sent to Leo Logan, Dunellen, N. J.

Ortleb, the Clinton Avenue pitcher, is keeping in trim by doing a great deal of bowling. The big twirlelr claims there is nothing like rolling the ball to take the stiffness from the arm.

When the P. H. S. start their first game tomorrow afternoon, the boys will still be a little soft as they have not got accustomed to the hard outdoor work.

Villanova is one of the college teams that is going to be troublesome this year. The Princeton Tigers have already felt the sting of defeat by the "boogy boo" boys.

Doane of the P. H. S. is slated to come down from his perch when it comes to making fouls count in the baseball line. It goes all right in basketball but on the diamond the score goes the other way.

Newark had a close call with the Roanoke team Wednesday, the Virginians were right there when it came to using the willow.

Wiltse, of the New York Nationals, was somewhat of a puzzle against Memphis the other day. Not a hit was made off him during the six innings he pitched.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

By the game George F. Slosson put up against Calvin Demarest, the young Chicago billiard player, Wednesday night means that Morningstar will find he will have to do his best to win against the student player.

Pennsylvania clinched the swimming title last night by defeating Princeton by a score of 40 points to 13.

Frank Gotch, the champion wrestler, announced yesterday that he and George Hackenschimdt would meet in a championship bout at Melbourne, Australia, some time next January.

If the Plainfield Cycle Club are successful in running their proposed twenty-five mile race next month, it will mean a big boost to cycle game.

James C. Rice, head coach of the Columbia varsity crew, is determined that the men shall be in the best possible condition when the big races come off this summer. The men have begun their trial spins up and down the Hudson.

Alfred Shrubb, the English runner, broke the ten-mile record yesterday afternoon at Montreal. The fleet footed Englishman covered the distance in 53 minutes and 4 seconds.

Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, is now ready to box either Battling Nelson or Packey McFarland. Welsh is the man who gave Abe Attell the worse beating the little Hebrew ever received.

Tim Hurst will referee the $10,000 Marathon Derby that will be run at the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

SOME DON'TS FOR THE YOUNG GOLFER.

Don't try to keep your eye on both hole and ball. Keep it on the ball.

Don't forget the rule about brushing the line of the putt. It's a new one.

Don't ever play over a missed putt when some one is coming up behind you. It does not help a player's temper to be delayed by your practising.

Don't be in too much hurry, but don't dawdle, especially over your putting.

Don't forget that "never up, never in," is a fine rule. It is just as easy to hole a putt from the far side of the hole as the near one.

Don't accept or concede putts. Remember that you missed some short ones yourself.

Don't try to hole in a long putt when you can halve the hole in two. Play safe and get the half.

Don't forget that there are limits to the teeing grounds.

Don't lose your temper. You will lose the match if you do.

Don't hang over the ball debating what club you will use. Pick one and use it.

Don't try to outdrive your opponent. Play your own game, even if he does get longer drives.

Don't let your opponent hurry you. If he is a faster walker, let him walk. Set your own pace.

IMPROVING GOLF LINKS OF MORRIS COUNTY CLUB.

The construction of twenty-three put-bunkers on the golf course of the Morris County Golf Club grounds was started yesterday. The work is under the supervision of Engineer Edward Howell, and will not be completed inside of a month. Little golf is being played at present on account of the proposed alterations, although some of the local enthusiasts are on the links every clear day.

The cross bunkers at the third hole are to be cut down one half, also at the fourteenth hole. This will allow a player to reach the green in two shots.

A cluster of trees on the northwest side of the links will be removed. This will widen the course to some extent, and cause a shifting of the seventeenth and eighteenth holes.

CLAMSMAN'S HUNTING SONG.

Oh, sing your songs of the silly chase,
And listen he who will,
Of red-clad men who madly race
Perspiring up a hill;
And flop-eared dogs that run about
A-mouthing savage bays;
While some lone fox among the rocks
Looks on in mild amaze.

Oh, lilt your lays of the coveyed quail!
'Mid the covers' matted thorn,
And a patient dog with an index tail
In place of a huntsman's horn.
Sing, too, of your sylvan water-hole
With paw-prints all about—
But me for the reach of a clammy beach
When the tide is running out!

Ye butcher men whose scatt'ring shot
May spread a field with gore,
I gain a finer thrill, I wot,
In digging on the shore.
Your descreating, dreadful bangs
Reecho through a grove;
My skilful wrist, my thrust and twist,
Reveal the treasure-trove.

I too can miss my aim as well;
It chills one's pulsing blood
To pounce upon a noble shell
And find it full of mud.
When you home-bent are gore-begrimed,
I'm stained with cleanly dirt;
Mid ozone sweet up-shore I beat
And sing, "Ahoy! They squirt!"

P. S.—They're washed within a pot
And drained until they're white.
They're covered on a stove that's hot—
(Add water half their height).
They're done as soon as they boil up;
Oh, joy, too vast to utter!
You drink the boullion from a cup
And dip the clams in butter.
—Burges Johnson, in Harper's Magazine for April.

PRETTY ORNAMENTS FOR MILADY'S HAIR.

Hair ornaments multiply at counters equipped with them and at the theatre, opera, dance and wherever fashionable women congregate. Some of the newest inventions are passing attractive and even captivating.

In some of the jeweled bandeaus of one, two or more bands, economy has been considered in an arrangement which fits either the front or the back of the head.

Such ornaments are made of jet, or shell or its imitation, or of platinum, set with brilliants and jewels.

The ribbon-wound bands, which come singly or in clusters for filets, are one of the generally popular and becoming things. The thin platinum wire bands set at the front with fancy jeweled designs that remind one of a coronet are still used, but the ones that lie low on the head, decorating the back rather than the front, are the favorites of the hour. Others are made of pearls, the wax-filled kind, made into a net-shaped arrangement that holds the hair in leash and emphasizes the width of the head at the back.

The head below has a hair twist that is of the old coronet braid class, and this is wound with ribbon strands.

The latest quirk at the milliner's is the wide flat velvet ribbon strap that is fastened to the under side of the brim hat and that goes around the "wad" of hair at the back when the hat is put on.

The band, in going under the hair, draws the brim down more or less, so that a sort of bonnet effect may or may not be produced.

The ribbon takes the place of the barette. It is about three inches wide.

MARRIED WOMEN WHO WORK.

Widows, 800,000 of them, and more, were earning their living in the United States in the year 1900. And married women, likewise, to the number of more than 700,000. And divorced women, likewise, to the number of more than 60,000. One million, six hundred thousand of them altogether!

These widowed workingwomen, these married workingwomen, these divorced workingwomen, together, were a full third and more of the grand total of 4,800,000 American workingwomen, 16 years of age and over, in the United States in the last census year.

How many women were there, 25 years of age and over, in the United States in 1900? There were approximately 16,700,000. And how many married women workers, widowed women workers, and divorced women workers were there? There were approximately 1,500,000.

Whic is to say that in the total female population of the United States, married and unmarried, working and not working, rich and poor, 25 years of age and over, in the year 1900, one woman out of every eleven had passed her wedding day and nevertheless was a breadwinner.—"The Woman's Invasion," in the April Everybody's.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

An Ananias Club, with Earle Armstrong, president, and John Vanneman, secretary, has been formed at Paulsboro.

A cabinet-maker's shop, 100 years old, on the property of Albert Tweed, at Williamstown, has just been torn down.

The attention of the Paulsboro councilmen has been called to the fact that several schoolboys have been made tipsy by cider sold at several places.

Milton, twelve year-old son of Samuel Currington, of Ewan, is dangerously ill with blood-poisoning, caused by a scald on his arm, which he received last week.

Fearing that her mind has become affected by a series of recent misfortunes in her family, J. C. Warner, of White Horse, near Trenton, has asked the police to look for his wife, who has been missing since Tuesday. The woman left home, saying that she was going to Yardville, close by.

Falling down the stairway at her home, 427 Webster street, Camden, Mrs. Isabella Green, forty-three years old, severely gashed her head and suffered a slight concussion of the brain. In a mishap of a like nature at her Camden home, 806 Elm street, Mrs. Elsie Barry, eighty-four years old, sustained a fractured arm.

Seven-year-old Mary Ellen Gahn, of Trenton, tried to cure the earache yesterday by heating a rag on a stove and applying it to the afflicted member. Her clothing was ignited, and she was badly burned, although she ran at once to her mother in a bathroom, and was promptly doused in the tub. The mother was severely burned about the hands while saving the child.

Caught beneath a heavy iron grating over a cellar window of the Mechanics' National Bank, Trenton, Frederick H. Kriser, janitor of the building, was severely injured yesterday, and would probably have been crushed to death under the heavy weight had not passers-by lifted it from him as soon as his predicament was seen. Kriser was removing ashes from the cellars and had propped up the grating. The prop slipped and caught him.

When William Felmey, a Civil War veteran, died in Millville recently, leaving a wife and nine children, his widow filed an application for a widow's pension. Yesterday a Mrs. Lee, with her daughter, arrived in Bridgeton to make inquiries of the death, in order to file her own application for a similar pension, claiming to be the real window of the soldier. She said she was married to Felmey soon after he came out of the army at the close of the war. They separated, and she married a man named Lee, who was afterward jailed for bigamy. The Millville family never knew of the first marriage of the husband and father.

PROGRESS OF THE DAY ALL OVER THE WORLD.

Germany's royal train, built for the Kaiser, cost about $1,000,000.

The Sultan of Turkey is the proprietor of a fine zoological garden.

The sailing vessels of the world are twice the number of steamers.

The Persian rug weaver takes about twenty days to weave a square foot.

There are more than 2,000 distant operations in the work of assembling a watch.

London has 96,926 outstanding licenses for drivers of motor cars and motorcycles.

Two billion dollars' worth of coffee, tea and cocoa have been imported into the United States during the past twenty years, or an annual average of about $100,000,000.

A prize of $100 has been offered for the best work that has been published during the last four years in the departments of the anatomy, physiology, and pathology or the organ of hearing. This sum is the accumulated interest of a fund of 3,000 francs offered some time ago by Baron de Lenval, on the occasion of the Third International Otological Congress. Competing works should be sent to the president of the jury, Professor Dr. A. Politzer, I. Gonzagasse 19, Vienna.

Four tons of carborundum were recently shipped from Niagara Falls to Buenos Ayres, Argentine, to be used for cutting the marble to be used in the construction of the national government building, which will be one of the handsomest structures in the world. It will surpass by far anything on the South American continent. It will be entirely of marble. All of the coping, trimming and cutting of the marble to enter into the building will be done with carborundum wheels. The big order included in all about 105 wheels, varying in size from fourteen to twenty-six inches in diameter. This is believed to be the largest single shipment of abrasive wheels ever sent to South America. The carborundum wheels were selected for this important work only after the keenest competition with other wheels. It is unfortunate that those wheels are to be used on German machinery.

BREAK A RECORD ON CAMPBELL'S ALLEYS

—Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Douglass will soon remove from West Front street to Watchung avenue.

All previous records in Campbell's two-man tourney were broken last night when the team of Radin and Schaub, rolling in the final game against Herbert and Campbell, handed in a total of 490 to which Radin contributed 265, which is also high individual score and Schaub 225.

Radin and Schaub won four out of six, Willett and Skinner got away with an even break, while Doc. Herbert and John Campbell had to be content with but two victories.

The scores:

Herbert	139	189	182
Campbell	170	200	222
	309	389	404
Skinner	193	192	146

P. H. S. BALL SEASON WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Tomorrow morning will open the first game of baseball for the season, and when the Plainfield High School and the Cayuya team, of Brooklyn, cross bats it will mean the first shout of the umpire: "Play ball." As this is the opening game the P. H. S. will be anxious to win, as they know there are many other school teams eyeing their strong and weak points.

Captain Allen Snyder has been keeping after the boys ever since the training season started and when they step out on the diamond tomorrow all will be in first class condition. Captain Snyder and Manager Robins have chosen the following for the starting game: Giddes, shortstop; Clark, third base; Lidgate, first base; Snyder, second base; Doane, center field; Dodwell, catcher; Riffert and Starker, right field; Runyon and Cullen, left field, and VanZandt, pitcher.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alburtus Swalm have removed from Duer street to Craig place.

—F. P. Burke, of Dunellen, manager for J. F. Burke, has removed to 836 South Second street.

—Lorenio Sirino, an Italian, aged 27 years, of Westfield, is critically ill at the hospital witn typhoid-pneumonia and but little hope is entertained for his recovery.

—Thoughtful housekeepers in preparing their Sunday dinner will not overlook the choice assortment of fresh vegetables offered by Neuman Brothers, including fancy asparagus, cauliflower, celery, Boston lettuce, eggplant, new beets, spinach, green and wax beans and peas.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS MAKE THE CHURCH WORKERS

Declaring that fully ninety per cent. of church workers came from the ranks of the Sunday-school, Rev. Dr. David, corresponding secretary of the board of Sunday-schools, brought to a close last night the second day's meeting of the annual session of the Newark Conference being held in Centenary M. E. church, Newark. Rev. Dr. Thomas I. Coultas, of Elizabeth, presided at this meeting, a feature of which was the singing by the choir of the church.

Dr. David said that the gospel of the Sunday-school is being proclaimed now as never before in the history of the world, and in his opinion the future of not the church alone, but of religion, of civilization, rests with the members of the Sunday-school.

"Fully ninety per cent. of the workers of the church come from the Sunday-school," said Dr. David, "while eighty-three per cent. of the ministers are recruited from the Sunday-school and seventy-six per cent. of the new members of the church come from the same source.

"It has been said that the ministers and preachers do nothing but teach a man nothing but how to die. I say to you that this is false. The clergy today is not teaching men how to die, but how to live. That is the mission of the Sunday-school. We want to take the baby from his mother. The pure, sweet, innocent baby. And we take this child and try to keep him pure, sweet and good and innocent until God sees fit to call him to His home on high."

Today's session will be full of great interest. This morning Bishop Neely outlined the work to be undertaken by the conference during the remaining days of the session and at 10 o'clock the board of examiners made its report and the candidates for holy orders appeared before the bishop.

There was no session this afternoon so that the ministers may attend the meeting of the laymen in the Park Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. John McDowell having courteously extended the hospitality of the church.

Two meetings will be held tonight, one at the Centenary church, where the anniversary of the Freedmen's Aid Society will be observed, the Rev. F. L. Rhodes presiding, and the speaker being Rev. Patrick J. Maveety, secretary of the society. The other meeting will be the anniversary of the Conference Epworth League and will be held in the Halsey Street M. E. church, with the Rev. M. W. Wormer presiding. Rev. Frederick W. Hannan, of Brooklyn, will speak.

Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, of this city, superintendent of the Elizabeth district, in presenting his annual report before the conference yesterday afternoon, concluded as follows:

"The time is near when this insular group of churches under my charge will be closely bound to New Jersey by a tunnel to Bergen Point and another to Elizabethport, rendering them one; insulated but no longer insolated, no pent-up Utica will contain her powers; with a tunnel under the bay to Manhattan sure to come, immense population will settle here, and every encouragement should therefore be given, that Methodism, which at this time is the most numerous denomination there, may not only hold her own, but so anticipate the future as to do the largest possible work for God and for humanity."

Defense in Cooper's Case Rests.

The trial of Dr. Sherman Cooper, of Westfield, charged with malpractice, was resumed this morning and at 11:25 the defense rested. The State afterwards called several witnesses in rebuttal. It is expected that the case will go to the jury this afternoon.

Col. Hine in Command.

Colonel Edwin U. Hine, of Orange, commanding Fifth Regiment of the National Guard, was today ordered to assume command of the First Brigade, succeeding Brigadier General Edward A. Campbell, of Newark, retired under the recently passed Vredenburgh law.

Trinity vs. Holy Cross.

The Trinity Sunday-school baseball team will play the Holy Cross Club's team on the Cricket field, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight in its new rooms in the Coward building, instead of in Eagles' Hall on East Second street, as before.

The Church Attendance Band of Hope chapel will hold a social at the chapel tonight. All the members are urged to be present. Refreshments will be served.

SENATE PUTS STATE ABOVE THE SCHOOLS

The bitterest fight in the State Senate at Trenton during the present session, developed late last night, and was carried on until after midnight.

The struggle was between the Republicans and Democrats over the question of passing Senate Bill No. 304, by Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, which embodied one of the recommendations made by the Special Joint Finance Committee. The bill passed by a strict party vote.

The bill appropriates $302,000 received from main stem taxation litigation with the Pennsylvania Railroad, which under the present law should go directly to the schools, to the school fund income to pay the State its $175,000 indebtedness and anticipate the $150,000 which the State would have to make up when the time for the apportionment of the school fund income arrived.

The income from the fund is payable to the schools, and for several years has not reached the $200,000 mark, and the State has advanced the money. At present the fund owes the State about $150,000 on this debt, which, according to law, should be met out of the income from the fund itself when that fund has been collected.

The action of the Senate last night, if ratified by the House and the Governor, will take from the main stem tax receipts due the schools, this $302,000, and enable the State to collect its debts at the expense of the schools.

VOGUE OF WHITE.

A growing inclination to wear white is apparent. White was once regarded as the special privilege of youth. Now, with a clearer knowledge of the values of color and a better realization of the importance of surrounding, one indulges one's natural tastes. Perhaps the influence of the period under which fashion is passing his something to do with this, for the women who amused themselves at Trianon used white freely and without stint.

Be that as it may, white gowns and white generally will be more worn this season than ever. White cloth in a variety of makes, satin charmeuse, the cashmere and white serge, in an infinite variety of qualities and thicknesses, will come in for much more attention from artists in dress.

As to the lingerie gown, its importance in the wardrobe cannot be questioned. It is one of the most useful things to have, and, whether worn outside or indoors, permits so much individual taste and charm in contrast that it is quite indispensable.

A new trimming that should become popular is best described as a thellis made from ribbon, soft silk or strands of chiffon and used as an insertion on skirts, as suspenders, belts, sashes, bertha and even sleeves. It is exceedingly pretty and can be easily made at home. Two strands are taken and laid as far apart as the desired width of the finished article. Then a third very long strand running zigzag is used to connect these two. At every point where this strand turns the ribbon or chiffon, etc., is gathered into a little button rosette and then caught to the foundation strands. Ribbon and chiffon combine very prettily. The ends, as in a sash or where necessary, are drawn together and weighted with a pretty tassel.

MOTHER AND CHILD.

Prominent ears should always be corrected in childhood by putting a thin cap on the child at night.

A day in a child's life is equal to a week in ours; so think twice before you condemn a child to a whole day's disappointment or unhappiness.

But the most pliable of baby's features is the nose. By gently massaging this feature every day with the thumb and forefingers a tendency to boardness may be promptly subdued. The bridge should be gently pressed between these fingers in the course of an upward message movement.

One little chap was constantly being deceived as to his bed hour, which was 7:30 o'clock. He could not tell the time, and his mother or nurse would tell him that it was bedtime when in reality it was only 7 o'clock. He would look puzzled and only half convinced, as his reason told him that it could not be that late; but he had no choice but to obey. It would have been far wiser to set 7 o'clock as his bed hour and to have stuck to it.

The Secret of Success.

The motto of success was given in this tale, told at a banquet.

A Swede among the miners in the West was noted for always striking pay dirt. His fellows thought that there must be some secret to the unusual success of the Swede and questioned him as to how he always succeeded in finding the spot where the gold cropped out.

"Vell, Ay don't know ef Ay can tell anytang 'bout dat," answered Ole. "Ay only knew dat Ay just keep on diggin'."—Milwaukee Free Press.

HERRESHOFF
WHAT A LIGHT CAR MEANS TO YOU
Do you realize what it means to you if you can get a light car of the same class as the big cars, built of the same material, of the same excellence of design and careful construction, but weighing only 1600 pounds?
Stop and figure it out: You save 60 per cent or more in initial outlay. The depreciation in a big car in a single year would pay the cost of a new light car.
The cost of up-keep of a light car is one-third what the big car costs to maintain. It will stand up, go anywhere that the big car will go and do anything except carry excessive weight or attain excessive speed. Over bad roads it will average better than the big car. The only light car that is bred of the same stock as the best American and foreign cars is

THE FORUM.

Tribute to Senator Ackerman.

Editor, The Daily Press:

As a citizen of Plainfield; I desire to express my personal gratitude to our distinguished Senator, Ernest R. Ackerman, for his patriotic stand upon the question of Local Option, and for the resistless and unanswerable logic of his argument in support of this great principle of self government.

The right for which he contended on the floor of the Senate was wrenched by the English Barons at Runnymede from the tyrant hands of the treacherous John, and was cut with Washington's sword from the royal clutches of George the Third.

And it will yet be burned from the grasp of a recreant legislature by the white-hot resentment of an aroused and indignant people.

"Revolutions never go backwards."

"Liberty and civilization at present, are nothing else than the fragments of rights which the scaffold and the stake have wrung from the strong hands of usurpers."

Every step of progress the world has made has been from scaffold to scaffold, and from stake to stake.

The arrogance of rulers is revolting whether it eminates from a Senate or a Throne.

It makes no different what name a government wears when liberty is gone.

It makes no difference whether an alleged representation in a supposed Democracy, or a Louis the Fourteenth in a haughty Autocracy says, "I am the State, The King can do no wrong."

Imperial Caesar thrice refused the Crown, yet he wore the diadem as surely as Nero did, and he held the reins of absolute power while Rome retained the name Republic.

It was fortunate for the people's cause that they had at Trenton an incorruptible and powerful advocate whose iron logic nailed to the walls of the Capitol the sophistry by which the enemies of majority rule sought to justify their action.

Your opponent is three-thirds beaten when you have put him on the defensive and he begins to apologize.

One poor fellow is reported to have said that the State might lose through Local Option the money it now collects from saloon licenses; but even if he is willing to weigh out "so many ounces of silver against so many ounces of blood" and to pave the streets with the skulls of drunkards, is it any of his concern if the people order otherwise?

"Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood, and establisheth a city by iniquity."

Another is reported to have felt that the bill was a reflection on the brave and patriotic men of Atlantic City who had defied the Governor and yielded only through dread of cold steel in the hands of the State's troops.

He conceived that the measure was an affront to Atlantic City and so a high sense of patriotic duty impelled him to vote against it.

Another is reported to have felt a righteous indignation that the bill should submit the question of license or no license to the people and not put the Fourth Commandment to a vote.

The idea that the people of this Christian age and country should feel any binding force in the Word that flashed from Sinai when God Almighty said, "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy," was to his mind inconceivable.

Another poor fellow whose headpiece had been rented by the people at a yearly rental of five hundred dollars, is reported to have had no ideas of his own upon the subject, but had heard that some commission had, and so he would vote against the people's bill.

He reminds one of the man who was told to mind his business and he said he couldn't. First, because he had no mind, and second because he had no business.

But the eight reasons of the Union Senator have put these pitiable quibblings in the calcium light and proved the truth of Lincoln's statement that the friends of the liquor traffic have defenders but no defense.

S. S. SWACKHAMER.

Plainfield, April 1, 1909.

Corn Pudding.

Score down the centre of each row of grains of twelve ears of corn and with dull knife press out the pulp. Canned corn may be used when green corn is not available. Separate four eggs, beat the yolks; add half a pint of milk; pour this slowly into half a pint of flour. When perfectly smooth strain the mixture into the corn, add a level teaspoonful of salt, a saltspoonful of pepper and fold carefully the well-beaten whites. Pour the mixture in a shallow, greased baking pan and bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes. Serve at once.

A Dust Controller.

If a thin piece of cheesecloth is fastened over the cold air duct of the furnace on the outside of a house, it will be found to keep out much dust and dirt and save time in cleaning.

The Way Out.

He—Your milliner's bill has cost me last year as much as the salary of my two bookkeepers. That is more than I can afford.

She—Well, discharge one of them.—Flingende Blaetter.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

An important vaudeville event is the engagement of Miss Vesta Tilley at the Colonial theatre the week forthcoming. Miss Tilley will begin her engagement under the Williams' management at this house, bringing over a lot of new songs, as well as the latest Picadilly effects in male attire. This will be the first appearance of Miss Tilley in America in several years, and it is safe to say that her return will be signalized by capacity audiences at the Colonial. Miss Minnie Seligman and William Bramwell will be among the headliners in their one act playlet, "Public Opinion." Rice and Prevost, the famous and popular "Bumpty Bumps," have returned to vaudeville and will present their laughable specialty. Dan Burke and his school girls will offer their singing and dancing skit; Waterbury Bros. and Tenney will present their excellent musical act; Will H. Fox, the Paderewski of vaudeville, will offer his lively pianologue; Kenney, McGahan and Platt have a comedy singing and talking act; Reynolds and Donegan will offer a novelty skating specialty and Armstrong and Verne will contribute to the amusement with a comedy singing and talking duo. On Sunday, concerts will take place as usual.

A Frohman Season.

When Charles Frohman presents Clyde Fitch's newest comedy, "The Happy Marriage," at the Garrick theatre on Monday, April 12, he will have made his twenty-fifth stage production in America alone since the beginning of the present season. These twenty-five stage productions have brought employment to 792 actors and actresses for a period of from thirty to forty weeks. But in all the twenty-five productions there has been but one absolute failure, "Diana of Dobson's," a play that still enjoys great popularity in London. The weekly salary list incurred by these twenty-five productions has amounted to over $50,000. The cost of producing these twenty-five pieces has averaged from twenty to thirty thousand dollars each, and except in the case of the failure noted, each production long ago paid for itself. The best that was to be had in things theatrical in the four corners of the world, Mr. Frohman has given New York; and, operating from New York, the rest of the country. As it has been the most eventful, it has been the most prosperous season in Mr. Frohman's career as manager. From London this same manager, aptly referred to by the English as "The Colossus of the theatre, with one foot in London and the other in New York," prophesies that next season will be an even greater one for him and for the theatregoers on both side of the Atlantic.

DONTS FOR WOMEN WHO WOULD BE BEAUTIFUL.

Don't scowl or frown or knit your brow. An unlovely expression will counteract perfect features.

Don't mouth or bite your lips or hang your lips open. Twisting and contortion do not improve an ugly mouth, and ruin a pretty one.

Don't squint or wink your eyelids or attempt "goo-goo" expressions. Your eyes may not be glorious orbs, but if left as nature made them they will attract less unfavorable notice.

Don't look coquettish or pose or smirk. Naturalness is one of the biggest beauty factors known.

Don't slap on rouge or peroxide or bought locks under the impression that the world is easily fooled. All three have their places, but should be used discerningly.

Don't wear unbecoming coiffures or hats or gowns just because they are the style. No one is so beautiful that she can afford to be a slavish follower of fashion.

Don't try to look younger than you are nor older than you are, nor as if you had more money than you have. The girl who apes womanly clothes is as unlovely as the old woman who tries to be kittenish; while attempted finery is hopelessly inartistic.

Don't neglect the value of sunlight, fresh air and a good digestion as beauty-makers. Live out of doors and eat sparingly and the measure of beauty that is yours will be sensibly enhanced.

OUTDOOR SLEEPING.

Lacking any opportunity for sleeping entirely in the open, one can have a sleeping hood which enables one to sleep with the head out of doors and the rest of the body indoors. For this one can place the bed with the sile against the wall and the head at the window. The canvas hood extends over the head alone, completely cutting off the rest of the body. The window is wide open, leaving the head exposed to the outside air, and there is a curtain to drop from the upper sash for protection against storms or winds. Another form of hood permits the bed to stand with the head to the window and the foot out in the room. With this syle of hood the extension bed may be used. The head of this extends out of the window just far enough to allow the head of the sleeper to rest outside. The sash is left open, with a curtain for use in case of storms, and in addition there is a canvas awning which may be raised or lowered.—Martha Cutler, in Harper's Bazar.

WHAT EVERY HOUSEWIFE OUGHT TO KNOW.

A hardwood floor can be kept free from scratches longer if the legs of chairs have a bit of felt pasted on the bottom. An old felt hat can be utilized.

Onions, if rinsed several times in fresh additions to boiling water before they are cooked, are much digestible than if boiled in the ordinary manner.

When washing lace never rinse it in blue water with the idea of improving its color. Real lace should be finally rinsed in skim milk, which will give it a soft, dreamy color.

To clean a blue-and-white fibre rug wash it with a solution of water, borax and white soap, rinse and add a nickel's worth of muriatic acid to the rinsing water to restore the blue tint.

When cakes stick to the layer pans do not attempt to scratch off the baked dough, but put one on the stove and fill it with boiling water in which is a pinch of soda, turn the other pan upside down on it, and steam will do the rest. Steaming a cereal pan makes it less difficult to clean than to plunge it into boiling water, for then the glusinous substances stick to the pan.

Mildew spots may be removed by a mixture of soap and powdered chalk.

The quickest cleaner for a sticky bread or cake pan is a crust of stale bread.

A dish of water kept on the radiator will improve the air of a steam-heated room.

When India ink gets too thick for use, dilute it with alcohol and it is as good as new.

The price mark on chinaware which is not easily removed can be scoured off with a piece of lemon and salt.

Fringed dollies are kept in better condition if the fringe is brushed with a small nail brush rather than with a comb.

Oilcloth can be brightened quickly if after it is washed and dried it is rubbed over with a cloth dipped in skim milk.

If the temper of an iron is spoiled it will never retain the heat so well again. Never let irons stand on the range or get red hot.

The unpleasant creaking of a door can be remedied if the edges are rubbed with soap and a few drops of oil are put in the hinges.

STYLES IN STOCKINGS.

Stockings are not being left behind in all the changes of fashion. For each original shoe or slipper model there is a pair of fancy stockings to equal it.

Sheer silk and gauze in every possible shade, from black to the latest apricot, is not enough. The new stockings are hand-embroidered in forget-me-nots, in violets, in pink rosebuds, in the original colors of the flowers. Hand-embroidering the directoire dress does not end matters; the directoire stocking is also hand-embroidered.

The oddest of the new stockings is spangled in tiny little gold or silver beads and, of course, is to be worn with the slipper decorated in the same way. The spangles run in a design up the front of the stocking, and in bbetween the lines of the beads are little silk tassels. Another almost as decided a stocking novelty is the stocking inset with a number of lace medallions, many of them quite large, representing a flower or a leaf, or some simple conventional pattern.

Other stockings have almost the entire front made of a thin embroidered net or lace, with polka dots or some other ornament on them. Another unusual way of decorating the fancy stocking is with the eyelet embroidery. Holes are made in the silk and button-holed, and a small flower pattern added to it.

The stocking which still has the plain front has a handsome clockwork design of some kind embroidered up the side. The prettiest stocking is still the sheer silk one, with some simple lace work of embroidery preferably in same color as the stocking.

THE WIFE.

The little Dreams of Maidenhood—
I put them all away
As tenderly as mothers would
The toys of yesterday,
When little children grow to men
Too overwise for play.

The little dreams I put aside—
I loved them, every one,
And yet, since moonblown buds must hide
Before the noonday sun,
I close them wistfully away,
And give the key to none.

O little Dreams of Maidenhood—
Lie quietly, nor care
If some day in an idle mood
I, searching unaware
Through some closed corner of my heart,
Should laugh to find you there.
—Theodosia Garrison, in Harper's Bazar.

Celery Bisque.

Chop fine sufficient celery tops to make half a pint; put them in a saucepan with a pint of water and simmer slowly for fifteen minutes; drain and press perfectly dry. Put this water in a double boiler, add a pint of milk, two level tablespoonfuls of butter rubbed smooth, and add twenty-five oysters that have been washed and drained. Cook until the gills curl, and serve at once.

AMPLE MEASURE OF REVENGE.

Time That Pat Got Gloriously Even with the Doctor.

Pat had had trouble with his eyes, and a friend having advised him to consult an oculist, he went a few days ago to see Dr. W——, a distinguished specialist, for relief. On his arrival at the doctor's office he found the usual large number of patients in the anteroom awaiting attention, and though he was in a great hurry he was forced to wait several dreary hours before his turn came. He lost and regained his temper several times in the interim, but when all was over and he found himself out upon the street with the half day spent, indignation over the loss of valuable time was the predominant note in his feelings.

"But Oi had me revinge!" he ejaculated with a broad smile, as he told his friend Mike about it afterward. "Oi don't t'ink he'll keep me waitin' again loike thot."

"Phat did ye do to 'um?" asked Mike.

"Sure an' Oi wint back th' next day," said Pat. "Oi got there at noine by the clock an' ivery toime they said 'twas me turn to go in Oi said Oi'd wait an' let some other felly have me place, until the clock sthruck twilve, an' thin Oi wint in. 'Well,' says he, 'phwat can Oi do for yez this mornin', Pat?' 'Nawthin',' says Oi, lookin' him shquare in the eye as Oi turned on me heels and lift the room. Bedad, Oi don't believe he knows yit what sthruck 'um!'"—Harper's Weekly.

KITTY WANTED TO BE ALONE.

Story Well Illustrates the Workings of the Childish Mind.

When little Catherine first began to lisp she was suitably instructed by her mother in religion. The omnipresence and the omniscience of God were explained to her in words of primer length. All this religious training evidently impressed her profoundly, but she kept her meditations to herself until the other evening.

The four-year-old had been tucked into bed after saying her prayers, and as her mother stooped to kiss her good night the child asked eagerly:

"Is mamma going downstairs now?"

"Yes, dear."

"An' is God going to stay in dis room?"

"Yes, yes, dear."

"Well, Cath'in wants mamma to tell God to go downstairs, too, 'cause she wants to wear dat pretty dress to-morrow—de one dat's on de chair—an' if God sits down in dat chair he'll muss dat dress all up. An' God can see de candy in de drawer dat I'm saving to eat in de morning, an' he might eat it all up in de night if he feels hungry. So Cath'in wants mamma to take God downstairs to play bridge."

Sneezing Superstitions.

Sneezing has an extensive folklore in many countries. Sometimes the act is considered ominous of good and sometimes of evil. Among the Jews it has always been regarded, at an appropriate moment, such as the conclusion of a bargain, as propitious, and a belief still lingers in many parts of the country that the regular habit of sneezing, particularly after meals, is conducive to longevity and a precaution again fevers. The old English custom of saying "God bless you" when a person sneezed, so as to avoid evil consequences, has its counterpart in many far-distant parts of the globe. The early settlers in Brazil found the sneezer saluted with "God preserve you," while in Fiji it was customary to retort: "May you live." In superstitious Suffolk there is a sneezing tariff—once a wish, twice a kiss, thrice a letter and four times a disappointment.

One of the Remarkable Cases.

He began after the usual form, to-wit:

"I have a little boy at home who—"

They interrupted him after much the usual form, to-wit:

"Pardon me, old man, I must be going along. Sorry I can't wait, but I'm due at the office."

"Just a minute," he urged, buttonholing the two nearest. "It won't take me a minute."

They sighed and resigned themselves.

"All I want to say," he went on, "is that I have a little boy at home who never said a bright thing in his life."

They grasped his hands with a thankfulness that could find no expression in words, and then he added:

"He's too small. He can't talk yet."

The Somewhat Educated.

The somewhat educated girl, known as a "young lady," looks upon cooking not as an art but merely as the "menial" work of the hired person.

The lady stenographer, telegrapher, saleslady, private secretary, department store employe, etc., look at cooking "from above downward," not to mention the dainty college-bred "society girl."

If cooking were made a regular study in all our public schools as well as in our girls' colleges this senseless disdain for doing what keeps us all alive would certainly disappear in the course of time.—The National Food Magazine.

Easy Money.

Griff—You look prosperous, old man.

Grafton—Yes, I suppose you read about Nuritch's ambition to be a senator?

Griff—Well, yes; I see by the papers that he says he's in the hands of his friends—"

Grafton—That's it. I'm one of his friends.—Catholic Standard and Times.

REALLY A LITTLE IMPULSIVE.

New Boarder Might Have Waited Until He Got Acquainted.

When the new boarder went into the dining room and sat down there was only one other person at the table. The new boarder had a kind heart and thought he would be affable.

"I s'pose you've boarded here for some time?" he said to the other man.

"Yes. Quite a while."

"How is it? Any good?"

"Yes, pretty fair. I have no complaint to make."

"Landlady treat you decent?"

"Well, perhaps I ought to—" and then he hesitated.

"Oh, never mind, old man," said the new boarder. "That's all right. I'm on. But, say, mebby you never tried chucking her under the chin once in a while. That's the way to get on with 'em. I never had a landlady that didn't treat me A1 yet. It's all in the way you handle 'em. Call 'em 'sister' and give 'em soft, sweet, oozy talk about their looks. That's the way to fetch 'em. I'll bet I can live here for a month right now without being asked for a cent. Watch me rudge her when she comes in. Before this time to-morrow she'll be telling me her family history. Poor old girl! She looks as if she'd had her troubles. Probably got tied up to some John Henry, who was about man enough to shoo chickens out of the yard, and that's all. My name's Smith. Let's see, I haven't heard yours, have I?"

"No—no, I believe not. But it doesn't matter. I'm just the landlady's husband."

AS IN HIS CHILDHOOD DAYS.

Probably Many Years Since Bishop Had Been So Tenderly Cared For.

At an unusually large dinner-party, where the guest of honor was an English bishop, the butler, an elderly man, was obliged to bring in from a friend's house an inexperienced lad to help him in the dinning-room. The awkward helper annoyed the butler beyond endurance with questions as to his duties.

He continued interminably until the butler, worn out and nervous, said ironically:

"All you will need to do is to stand behind the bishop's chair, and whenever his lordship puts down his glass you must reach over and wipe his mouth with a napkin."

That silenced his assistant. But the young man actually took the order seriously, and as soon as dinner began he stationed himself behind the bishop, waited till his lordship had drunk and put down his glass, and then, as deliberately as his nervousness would permit, he opened out a large napkin and wiped the dignified old gentleman's mouth!—Ladies' Home Journal.

Charm of the American Girl.

Here, girls, listen to what London Society says of you! "The charm of the American girl lies in her beauty and social talents. She is an ideal partner to dance with, to take in to dinner or to sit out a picnic with, and she usually makes an active and successful hostess. But when her husband discovers that she is never happy except when going to parties, is bored in the country unless with a housefull of guests, and is always craving to tear from one fashionable resort to another—no rest, no peace—it is then that trouble comes in." Much London Society knows about it, eh? Granted you are an ideal dancer, a beauty and a charming dinner companion, did you ever "sit out a picnic?" Picnics are believed to be obsolete, as far as the type of girl referred to here is concerned.

An Epistolary Hint.

In the letter from Boston was a special delivery stamp.

"What did she send that for?" the woman wondered. "The information she wants can be sent in an ordinary letter. It won't need to be sent special."

"That stamp," said the man, "is a delicate hint to be quick about answering. It is a hurry-up device used by many men. It is very effective. A two-cent stamp does not always spur one to any special effort, but a special delivery stamp means that the writer wants what he wants when he wants it, and the most dilatory correspondent alive is not going to let any grass grow between the scratches of his pen when answering."

Specialty of Blind Physician.

There is at least one physician in New York who manages to do excellent work and maintain himself well without the use of his eyes. He is totally blind.

He has chosen for his specialty diseases of the chest, into which of course the best eyes in the world couldn't see. One of the compensations of nature has given him unusually acute hearing, which is especially valuable in his practice. His ears can find out more about the lungs of his patients than those of most seeing men.

Temperature.

The typhoid fever patient was looking very much disgusted with the world when the doctor arrived to pay his regular morning visit. He was convalescent, but didn't feel that way.

"Well," said the doctor cheerily, pulling off his gloves, "how is he today?"

"Oh, he's getting along finely," said the patient's wife. "He is all right now except his temperature."

"Huh!" grunted the patient bitterly. "Hell's all right, too, except the temperature."

That basement store we started with in Newark back in Civil War Days has become the big busy, 5-building organization you see to-day—all because we never would stand still! The people's demands for broader varieties, better displays, more departments, a low price in plainly marked figures, and CREDIT that never hurt but helped, have been met by us more and more liberally year after year—and now see what it's made us: "New Jersey's Largest Exclusive Furniture House," with over 145,000 square feet floor space given up to our one business. There's a reason behind it all!!

GROVER CLEVELAND'S LOVE OF CHILDREN.

In the April American Magazine Jesse Lynch Williams, writing of Grover Cleveland, says:

"His love of children was not merely an abstract tenderness for the inherent beauty and pathos of new life; he liked to have them around, he enjoyed watching them. And they, with the instinctive trust shown by children and animals toward those who really appreciate them, enjoyed being with him. Sometimes he would spend a whole day gravely mending toys, making wooden blocks for paper soldiers, constructing water wheels. The story has already been told of how 'The Princeton Bird Club,' composed of professors' children and others, decided that he was worthy of honorary membership to their body. So one day they assembled especially for the purpose, and solemnly read an address of welcome to the Hon. G. Cleveland, who bowed and accepted the honor in a speech which won for him unqualified suprebation.

"Callers who came quaking into the presence, thinking, perhaps, 'So this is the man who guided the ship of state,' must have been surprised when, for instance, Francis, the youngest, a handsome boy of three or four, came romping in, never dreaming of fear, and remarked to the former President of the United States, 'Hello! You've got on a new suit—are those shoes new, too?'"

TREATMENT OF THE HAIR.

Cleanliness is as important to the well being of the hair as tonic or stimulation by massage. If you doubt the efficacy of shampoos, omit washing the hair for several months while keeping up a course of tonics. Nothing takes the place of plenty of water and a good shampoo mixture in keeping the scalp healthy.

The intervals between shampoos must be decided by individual conditions. Oily hair should be washed every two or three weeks. No hair should go unwashed longer than six weeks. Each month is the accepted time.

Before washing the hair it is well to loosen the dirt with a little kerosene rubbed into the scalp. This can be put on the night previously if the hair is to be shampooed early in the day.

Be careful not to use too much borax in hair washing. It is better to omit it entirely, unless the hair is oily, and then it should be carefully rinsed.

If soap is used it should be pure—a good castile soap is excellent—and should be shaved and boiled with water, never rubbed into the hair from the cake.

Thorough rinsing is the secret of a good shampoo; plenty of water is more important than the kind of shampoo mixture used. If possible, use a spray, or if that is out of the question rinse in at least a dozen waters.

Unless the shampooing has been done in egg the first rinsing should be in very hot water, gradually reducing the temperature until cold water as it runs from the spigot is forced on the scalp. The cold water is not only a tonic, but lessens the danger of cold.

With an egg shampoo rinse out the egg with tepid water before applying hot water.

Do not try to dry in a hurry. Light, fluffy hair should not be rubbed, but dried in the sun. This sun bath is also important to keep the lustre.

Shining hair is much in demand just now, and flyaway ends have given place to comparative smoothness and tight curling to more natural-looking waves.

If the hair is to be kept lustrous do not curl with irons the day it is shampooed. Instead use kid or wire curlers.

Do not treat the hair roughly. A brush should have rather soft bristles and should be used with steady even strokes. The stiff brushes so often advised irritate the scalp.

Brush and comb must be kept clean or hair treatment is nullified. Have a double set, so that both comb and brush can be cleaned every few days. Very particular people clean a brush after each using, but this is scarcely necessary if the hair and scalp are kept in good condition.

Hun' In a Georgia Graveyard.

"Could you direct me to a moonshine distillery?" said the major in the mountain region.

"Don't you know Georgia's gone dry?"

"I do. That's why I want a distillery."

"Kin I trust you?"

"Sure!"

"Well, the go down yander to the old graveyard an' wait in the dark o' the moon by the dead cypress an' the ol' slate tombstone what you can't read the name on, till you hear somethin' like a scritchowl holler, an' I'll come to you."—Atlanta Constitution.

Steam Heat Vs. Furnace.

Steam heat, which is generally considered cleaner than a furnace, soils curtains and wallpaper much more. If you can control the placing of a radiator see that it is not put under a window, or your curtains will need washing every week or two.

Doubtless.

"Is hell a place or condition?" asks the New York Telegram. Well, it is doubtless a section where some folks should be conditionally placed, anyway.—Los Angeles Express.

William Lawrence, in "The Old Homestead," at New Plainfield Theatre, Saturday, Matinee and Night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead," unimpaired in every way and seemingly more virile and compelling than in the past, is now in its twenty-third season and is playing to audiences that completely fill the theatres where the company appears. The audiences follow the thread of the old story with as much unflagging interest as if it were all bran new. The production in all the essential details that go to make up a play, are perfect. Such familiar scenes as the old farmyard in the New Hampshire hills, breathe the air of good, wholesome honesty. The equally familiar Grace church scene, with the choir singing the well-known but always pleasing music, is said to be as good as in former seasons. One of the secrets of the longevity of this simple play of a simple people lies in the high standard always maintained in production and presenting company. Frank Thompson, Denman Thompson's son, who is manager, keeps the traditions of the old play well in hand and he consequently reaps a golden harvest every season. The famous double quartet of farm hands is one of the distinct features of the play and the old and new songs that are rendered always meet with the warmest and most appreciative approval. William Lawrence is still playing the part of Uncle Josh, and among the other old favorites may be mentioned Maggie Breyer, Fred Clare, Charles Clarke, Frank Knapp, George Patch, Dave Willard and Anita Fowler. "The Old Homestead" comes to the New Plainfield theatre for matinee and night performances tomorrow.

All those who have read "Beverly of Graustark" have probably noticed the unusual dramatic possibilities of the story, consequently it is not at all surprising that A. G. Delamater, who has piloted other dramatized novels, including Quo Vadis and Graustark, to success, should have realized the value for stage purposes of Mr. McCutcheon's story in partnership with William Norris, the well known actor, present it as a play. That this new firm of producing managers intends making a high mark by this production is very apparent from the cast which they have selected to create the score or more of important parts. Jessie Busley, who for several years appeared under the management of Charles and Daniel Frohman at the Lyceum, Empire and Daly's theatres, New York, and for the past two seasons has been a successful star under the management of Liebler and Company in "The Bishop's Carriage," will be seen as "Beverly of Graustark" at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday, matinee and night, April 10. She is surrounded by what is probably one of the most noted companies that has appeared at this theatre in recent years. Among others, Douglas J. Wood, who created important roles in Henrietta Crosman's production of "Sweet Kitty Bellairs;" Mrs. Carter's production of "Du Barry," and who was for the past season engaged as leading man with Mary Mannering; Mrs. Charles Craig, recently in "The Warrens of Virginia;" Grace Andrews, who followed Frances Starr as Juanita in "The Rose of the Rancho;" Edythe Shayne, one of the most beautiful leading women on the American stage, formerly in "The Lion and the Mouse;" Francis Justice, formerly with "The Heart of Maryland," and more recently seen as Denton in "Arizona;" Horace Vinton, Dorothy Quincy, Richard Graham, Edward Staley, Crosman Brown, a son of Henrietta Crosman, John Ellis and William Palmer.

Beware the Gofferback and shun
The shemixed Foursomatch.

He took his bulger club in hand.
Longtime the glumsome foe he fought;
So rested he by the sixteenth tee,
And stood awhile in thought.

And as in goffish thought he stood
The Potterhunt, with cheeks aflame,
Came silcing, and, in language crude
Dumbashterisked his game.

One up! One up! Though in a cup—
The mashie blade went flicherflack—
He holed it out, and with a shout
He came two-upping back.

And hast thou flogged the Potterhunt?
Come to the bar my beerish boy!
Oh, pargolf day! Hu(c)roo! Hu(c)ray!

MARRIAGE AND WORK.

As long as women workers stop work at marriage they will continue to be, as a class, low paid, overworked, unskilled, looking only to the day, and never to the future, entering industry casually without training, retiring from it unexpectedly without warning, hard to organize into trade unions, hard to interest in technical improvements, hard to inspire with financial ambition, behaving, in every respect, with the utmost good sense, just exactly in the manner in which any class of admittedly and consciously temporary workers should behave. It is hard to believe that such a situation can be right either for women or for industry. The women lose opportunities. Industry loses abilities.—From "The Women's Invasion," in the April Everybody's.

LICENSES FOR PEDDLERS

Borough Council Also Substitutes Licenses for Taxation on Dogs.

BOTH IN EFFECT MAY 20TH.

Some Strict Regulations for Canines—Pedlers Must Pay For Their Privileges.

Ordinances regulating the peddler nuisance and dog licensing were enacted by the North Plainfield Council last night, both of which will go into effect on May 20, Mayor Townsend having already annexed his signature to the measures. Excepting these matters, little of importance was transacted.

Peddlers doing business with a wagon will have to pay $20 a year for the privilege while those using push carts will be assessed $13. Peddlers, without vehicles, will pay a fee of $10. Butchers and milkmen are exempted, inasmuch as their business is already regulated by the health department. This exception was made at the request of Mayor Townsend, who desired that the board of health continue to supervise the milkmen and butchers business.

The borough fathers have abolished the tax on dogs and have substituted the more modern system of licensing the canines. This is an amendment to section five of the present ordinance which provides for a tax of $2.50 on each dog. After May 20, in lieu of this tax, the owner will have to take out a license costing $2 a year. Provision is also made for the identification of canines, it being ordered that each dog must wear a collar and on that collar must be stamped plainly the name of the owner and the date of the license. The lettering must be of a size visible ten feet away. On issuing the license the authorities will provide a tag bearing the breed of the dog and its sex as well as the name and residence of the owner. To those owning a number of dogs, for breeding, hunting or dog show purposes, a kennel tax of $5 will be imposed. In such case each additional tag will cost twenty-five cents.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR JAMES MANNING, JR.

A surprise party was tendered to James Manning, Jr., at his home on Dunellen avenue, last night. The affair was arranged by the Misses Emeline Manning and Helen Smith. When the party arrived at the house, the young man was engaged with some work about the barn. He was informed that a companion was at the front door to see him and refused to come in. Mr. Manning went to the door and was surprised to find about twenty-five friends there waiting to greet him.

The evening was spent playing all sorts of games, while vocal and instrumental music was a feature. The dining-room was tastefully decorated for the occasion, pink being the prevailing color.

Those present were the Misses Estella Force, Florence Neal, Lillian and Vivian Dunn, Emeline Hillman, Marion Lloyd, Lillian Fountain, Edna Mosher, Emeline Manning and Cedric Ostrom, Russell Miller, Herbert Hillman, Egbert Fountain, William Hand, Robert Butler, Clifford Vail, Arthur Briggs, Henry Shirley, Howard Armstrong, Jeremiah Leland and James Manning, George Noonan, James Noonan and Mrs. Aretta Manning.

HANS P. FREECE AGAIN TO SPEAK ON MORMONISM.

Hans P. Freece, secretary of the International Reform Bureau, will continue his discussion of "The Mormon Question" at the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Freece's natural gifts, his intense conviction and his thorough knowledge of the Mormon problem combine to make him a powerful advocate of an important cause. His topic tomorrow will be "Mormonism and Politics."

Following the meeting, at 5 o'clock, Mr. Herrman's class in social problems will discuss "Labor and Capital." All men are welcome.

Opportunity for Voice Culture.

S. Frederick Smith, who has been engaged as organist and choirmaster for Grace church, commencing May 1, will inaugurate a boy choir at that church. Mr. Smith has already begun to gather the boys together, and is looking for twelve or fifteen boys with promising voices. A good opportunity is offered for scientific vocal culture. Applications may be made at Grace church parish house on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. 4 2 3

TRINITY ENDEAVORERS' WHITE ELEPHANT SALE

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held a successful "White Elephant Sale" in the lecture room of the church yesterday afternoon and evening. The room was tastefully decorated in green and white and the various booths were artistically arranged by the young people. As a result of the affair $20 was netted for the work of the society. The attendance was good throughout the afternoon and evening and sociability was a feature.

Those assisting were the following:

"White Elephant Booth," Elmer French, Max Hansen, Mrs. Lafayette Rosentheil, Miss Helen Leitheusser; cake booth, Mrs. Roy S. Woolley, Mrs. Howard Allegar; lemonade, Miss Maude McAfee, Miss Adelaide Cole; candy, Miss Beatrice Tier, Miss Lillian Schleif; ice cream cones, Miss Elsie Tier, Miss Alice Auten, Russel Kinney; coat room, Alfred Willet, Russel Sears;; brick ice cream, Lawrence French, Ronald Schenck; waitresses, the Misses Gladys Hubert, Helen McAfee, Marion Woolley, Louise Seader, Elizabeth Chickering, Beatrice Bodine, Esther Kellogg, Jennie Sears, Magdeline Layton, Elizabeth Hicks, Vera McCrady and Harriet Higgins.

HOLY CROSS CLUB WILL NOT DISBAND

By the decision of several of the older members of the Holy Cross Club, a borough organization of about one hundred members, it has been decided to continue the club, although Rev. George A. Warner, who organized it about three years ago, has been compelled to give up the work with the boys on account of his health.

The announcement last week that Mr. Warner could no longer continue at the head of the club was received with genuine regret by the boys. He severs his connection with the organization at Easter. Arthur Williams, Edwin Mosher, Ira Vail, Duncan Patterson, Albert Miller, Chester Harriman and Russell Vail, some of the older members, have decided to hold a meeting at Mr. Williams' home Tuesday night and at that time it is planned to select an advisory board to take charge of the organization and to decide upon a suitable person to take charge of the organization in Mr. Warner's place.

When the club started, at the time Mr. Warner first came to Holy Cross parish, there were but eight members. Since then the club has grown steadily, until at present the membership comprises 100 boys and there is a large waiting list. The organization has been active in all branches of athletics for several years past.

ELIZABETH PRESBYTERY TO MEET AT METUCHEN

The Presbytery of Elizabeth will hold its eighty-fifth stated meeting in the Presbyterian church of Metuchen on Tuesday, April 20. The meeting will open with devotional services, led by the moderator, Rev. Dr. William Force Whittaker, of Elizabeth. The presbytery will then be constituted with prayer. A new moderator will then be elected, and also a temporary clerk, for the ensuing year.

The following standing committees will make reports at this meeting: American Bible Society, by Rev. James H. Northrup, of Perth Amboy; Sabbath observance, by Rev. Charles F. Span, of Rahway; temperance, by Rev. James G. Mason, of Metuchen; evangelistic work, by Rev. William T. Stuchell, of Rahway; education, by Rev. Samuel Parry, of Somerville.

The following special committees will also make reports: Religious education of children, by Rev. William Hoppaugh, of Springfield; the duties of the executive commission, by Rev. Dr. Whittaker.

The report of the woman's societies will be made by the stated clerk, Rev. Mr. Parry.

The commissioners to the general assembly will also be elected.

Get-together Club Banquet.

The Get-together Club, at its headquarters tonight, will give a banquet in honor of the Deal Outing Club, of Elizabeth, which is composed of some thirty politicians.

J. W. Wood to Speak.

John W. Wood, corresponding secretary to the Board of Missions, in New York, will speak at the 10:30 o'clock service in Grace church tomorrow morning.

MOTHERS' LEAGUE ELECTS

Mrs. Hamilton Succeeds Mrs. Sandford as Head of the Mothers' Association.

ADVISORY BOARD IS NAMED.

Review Year's Work—Paper Read on "The Heart of the Child"—Mrs. Holt Presides.

A new president and vice-presidents were elected to head the Plainfield Mothers' Association at annual meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Plainfield High School, when Mrs. William J. Hamilton was chosen to succeed Mrs. William M. Sandford, Jr., as president, and Mrs. Andrew J. Gavett and Mrs. Sandford were named as first and second vice-president, respectively. The other officers chosen were Mrs. Horace G. Phillips, recording secretary; Mrs. Maurice Benton, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Harold D. Corbusier, treasurer. These were all re-elections.

The association has considered it necessary to have an advisory board of men to co-operate with it in its work, and a committee of five men was named. Those who are to serve on this advisory committee for the coming year are Dr. Henry M. Maxson, Principal Ira W. Travell, W. D. Murray, Dr. Norman H. Probasco and Dr. F. C. Ard. The women believe that some matters which are in line with the work of the association can better be managed by an advisory board of men, and the first board was named at yesterday's meeting.

The work of the association during the past year was summarized in the reports of the various officers. A feature of the work during the year has been the organization of so-called Parent-Teachers' Associations in five of the city schools. These organizations work with the Mothers' Association to secure co-operation between the parents and teachers. Such organizations have been formed at the Franklin, Stillman, Bryant, Washington and High schools.

Mrs. J. Hervey Doane read a paper on "The Heart of the Child," which dealt with character building in the home, and the influence of the parent on the child's development. In the absence of Mrs. William M. Sandford, Jr., Mrs. Frank L. Holt presided at the meeting. The newly elected officers will not assume their duties until after the May meeting.

LEON R. THURLOW RESIGNS TUBERCULOSIS OFFICE.

The resignation of Leon R. Thurlow as secretary-treasurer of the Plainfield Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis was received at the meeting of the executive committee of the society held at Grace church parish house, last night, and was accepted with regret.

Mr. Thurlow's acceptance of a responsible position with the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, of New York, has necessitated the resignation. His resignation as health office in this city takes effect on Monday.

Routine business occupied the time of the members at the session last night. The members present comprised Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, Dr. F. J. Hughes, Leon R. Thurlow and Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan.

SEWER COMMISSIONERS TO LEVY ASSESSMENTS.

Robert A. Meeker, S. P. T. Wilbur and H. B. MacDonald, comprising the local sewer assessment commission, met last night in the office of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, for the purpose of going over the maps and determining the amount of work to be done.

There are two sets of assessments, one in the East End and the other in the West End, and the total amount of property to be assessed for sewer improvements will aggregate about 70,000 feet. No one appeared before the commission last night and the whole evening was devoted to details preliminary to undertaking the work of assessment.

Saengerbund Smoker.

A real old German smoker was held by the Gesang and Turn Verein at Saengerbund Hall, last night. There was plenty of good music furnished by Prof. Louis Schabzel, of Elizabeth, while J. Freese, a German comedian from New York, kept the fifty guests in a merry humor.

Savenio Fursino Dead.

Savenio Fursino, an Italian, aged 29 years, of Westfield, died at Muhlenberg Hospital last night, following a sever attack of typhoid-pneumonia. Undertaker Lambert, of Westfield, took charge of the body.

MRS. SUSAN W. CADMUS GOES TO HER REWARD

Miss Susan W. Cadmus, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew A. Cadmus, one of the oldest families in the city, died this morning at her home on Somerset street, from a complication of diseases beginning with pneumonia and ending in dropsy. She was well advanced in years. She was born at the Cadmus homestead, which was located just off of West End avenue in the borough, where she lived for many years.

Miss Cadmus was an active member of the First Presbyterian church while her health permitted, but until recently, she lived in Brooklyn since the death of her mother in 1901. She is survived by a brother, A. L. Cadmus, a nephew, Alvin E. Hoagland and a niece, Mrs. George Karner, of this city. The funeral service will be held at the residence of her brother, A. L. Cadmus, 112 Plainfield avenue, Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The burial will be in the North Plainfield cemetery.

COUNTY ENDEAVORERS HOLD A CONFERENCE

Under the auspices of the Union County Christian Endeavor extension committee, a conference on Christian Endeavor methods and committee work was held last night in the First Baptist church, Westfield. Clarence B. LaRue, of this city, presided, in the absence of Miss Nellie K. Foote, chairman of this work.

A feature of the conference was an open parliament for the consideration of Christian Endeavor problems and a number of Endeavorers took part. It was announced that a Union county rally will be held at Summit in May. The next meeting under the direction of the extension committee will be held Friday night, April 16, in the Siloam Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, and all colored societies of Elizabeth and vicinity are invited.

CROCKERY-SMASHING INCIDENT A MYSTERY

It looks as though John De Hart, colored, who lives on Richmond street, would get no redress for some $25 worth of crockery smashed up at his home two weeks ago tonight. Thomas Brooks, the man's brother-in-law, who was arrested for the damage on a warrant issued by De Hart, proved an alibi at the city court today, when an East End colored boy, George Coleman, testified that Brooks had been at his home that evening. The ten-year-old niece of Brooks, however, took the stand again today, as at the hearing last week, and declared that she had seen Brooks on De Hart's piazza. Both witnesses were very positive about their statements. In the face of such testimony, City Judge Runyon felt that Brooks could not be held, and he dismissed the case. He told De Hart to keep on the track of a possible bric-a-brac smasher, and if he found any clues to get out another warrant.

In the course of the hearing, it developed that the De Hart home was in danger of destruction by fire when De Hart and his wife returned at about midnight. The crockery-smasher had turned up the lamp wicks high and Mrs. De Hart testified that she believed that the woodwork would have caught fire had she not returned when she did. Mr. Sadler, a neighbor, said that she had heard the sound of breaking chinaware as she passed the house, but did not investigate. She said that she thought that it was "just De Hart and his wife having a little spat."

Testimony relative to Brooks' doings during the evening was such as could hold him in no way responsible—except the statement by his niece. There was evidently no fiction between the familis and the peacefulness of Brooks was shown by his wife's statement that "he is most generally very quiet, an' you can't never tell nothing 'tall 'bout his mind."

After hearing the testimony, City Judge Runyon spoke of the case as a mystery, and said that he could not inflict any penalty on Brooks because the case against him was not clear and he had told a straight story about where he was during the entire evening in question. Francis J. Blatz represented Brooks.

Rev. J. Y. Broek Will Preach.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will occupy his pulpit tomorrow morning and night, having returned from a visit at Grand Rapids, Michigan.

COURT HOUSE DEDICATED

Jurists Speak at the Somerset County New Building Ceremonies.

ALVAH A. CLARK PRESIDES.

Chancellor Magie, Justice Parker and Others Make Suitable Addresses at Somerville.

Formal ceremonies marking the acceptance of the new Somerset county court house were held at Somerville this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the affair was largely attended by county notables, including many prominent citizens of North Plainfield.

Alvah A. Clark presided at the ceremonies. The contractor delivered the keys to William J. Logan, chairman of the building committee, who in turn passed them over to the Board of Freeholders. Following a prayer by Rev. Dr. W. S. Cranmer, of the First Reformed church, Somerville, addresses were made by Chancellor William J. Magie, Justice Charles W. Parker, the present presiding justice; R. V. Lindabury, of Newark; Justice James J. Bergen, of Somerville; Jdge Benjamin A. Vail, of Elizabeth, and Judge Louis H. Schenck, of Somerville.

The new court house is one of the most complete structures of the kind in the State and has every convenience. It will seat about 500 people outside the enclosure arranged for members of the bar and the court. The Board of Freeholders' room is furnished in elaborate style with individual desks for the members. The jury rooms and offices are all equipped and furnished in modern style and is a credit to the county. Surrogate Demond, Sheriff Ross and County Clerk Anderson have occupied their new quarters for some time.

VIOLATED AN ORDINANCE AND HALED TO COURT.

In an effort to prevent the dumping of loose papers and rubbish to fill in the land in the vicinity of new houses erected by Simon Roth on Sycamore street, William Campbell, of Sycamore street, had the matter brought up in police court today. John O'Brien, an employe of the Health department, stated that a restraining order had been issued agains such dumping on the property, and asked for its enforcement by the court. Frank Carter and George Miller, two colored ash men, were haled to court as the offenders and were warned by City Judge Runyon.

Robert Newton Crane appeared for Simon Roth, owner of the buildings, who stated that he had allowed the filling in to be done by the ash men, but understood that only clean ashes were to be used. The defendants were told that future violations would result in fines.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES AT HEAVENLY REST.

Rev. Charles Townsend, pastor of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, has announced that there will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist daily at 10 o'clock in the morning during Holy Week and that on Wednesday evening there will be a special preparatory service for Easter day communion at 8 o'clock.

On Maundy-Thursday there will be services at 10 o'clock in the morning and 4 in the afternoon, and on Good Friday there will be services at 10 a. m. and 4:30 and 8 p. m. There will be holy baptism in the church Saturday afternoon, Easter Even, at 5 o'clock.

FREEHOLDERS TO INSPECT TROLLEY CO. PROPERTY.

The road committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders, of which S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, is a member, accompanied by County Attorney W. R. Codington and County Engineer Jacob Bauer, will make a tour of inspection of the Morris Traction Company's holdings at Springfield, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The officials meet at Meeker's Inn, Springfield.

Dr. Sherman Cooper Acquitted.

Dr. Sherman Cooper, of Westfield, charged with malpractice, was acquitted by a jury at Elizabeth, last night, of all responsibility in connection with the death of Nellie K. Drake, of Elizabeth. The jury was out four hours.

Dr. Carroll Addresses Laymen.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, of this city, addressed the Laymen's Association of the M. E. church in the Park Presbyterian church, Newark, yesterday, dwelling on the value of the laity in all missionary movements.

GOVERNMENT ACCEPTS TRACY FIRM'S PLANS

Announcement was made yesterday by the Government officials that in the competition among architects for furnishing plans for the new Federal building and United States Court House at Denver, Tracy Swartout & Litchfield, of New York, was successful. Seventeen architects from New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, Cleveland, Washington, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities were invited to compete. The jury for decision comprised five of the leading architects from Boston, Buffalo, Washington and Chicago and the honor conferred on the successful firm is noteworthy.

The Government appropriated $1,500,000 for the building, which will be one of the largest yet constructed. It will have a Grecian ionic colonnade, the longest in the country. The columns will be forty-four feet high. While a million and a half has been appropriated for the building, it is expected that at least another half-million will be added before it is completed. The architects will have full charge of the work of construction.

Evarts Tracy, of the firm, resides in this city, and during the past few years has been successful in his work, some of the largest buildings in the east having been constructed after his plans.

BOROUGH GETS $600. IN DELINQUENT TAXES

A report from the Councilmanic finance committee at the Borough Council last night shows the delinquent taxes amount to the sum of $2,600, that the delinquent collector has collected about $600. While it was agreed upon by the Mayor and the committee that the collector had no doubt worked hard to make all the collections he could, it was the duty of the Council to uphold the collector in all that was reasonable and to advise some means to get in his collections as promptly as possible. Also that after delinquent tax warrants had been served, two days for payment would be given to all receiving notices, and if they were not paid action would be taken for collection of the same.

There has been paid $526.40 by the Public Service Corporation, tax on poles and wires. This amount is also to be deducted from the total amount of the delinquent taxes, thus making a total collection of $1,126.40.

The Mayor stated that a number of complaints had been received from various citizens, that they had been assessed more than the real value of their property. As this is the fault of the assessor it was his duty to acknowledge the mistake and to have the same adjusted. "I do not," said the Mayor, "want to see any one over assessed."

BOROUGH TO ASSIST IN CLEANING UP BROOK

The borough fathers considered the question of the clearing up of Green brook, as suggested by the health authorities at their session last night, and Mayor Townsend announced Councilmen Morris C. Van Arsdale and W. L. Smalley, Jr., as a committee to confer with the Plainfield Common Council about the matter.

Thomas Curren and others petitioned the Council for a three-foot cross-walk on Somerset street at Grandview avenue, and Lafayette Rosentiehl requested a permit to erect a brick barn in the rear of his premises at 105 Somerset street. A. E. Carney, proprietor of a restaurant at Somerset street and Somerset place, asked permission to move his building to a position next to the Bender building, several hundred feet north of its present position. The officers of the Union County Investment Company filed a petition requesting the Council to build a storm sewer on DeLacy avenue. The application specified that the sewer go through DeLacy avenue, Jackson street and Westervelt avenues into the brook.

The contract for re-painting the borough fire chief's wagon and the exercise wagon of the fire department was awarded to W. J. Conroy. The cost of the painting will be $50.

Favors Tariff Commission.

In the Federal house at Washington, yesterday, Congressman Fowler advocated a creation of a tariff commission in order to take the tariff question out of politics.

—Mrs. L. J. Denton will remove from Washington avenue to 316 West Sixth street.

TO BUY AUTO APPARATUS

Councilmanic Committee Considers Purchase of Modern Combination Fire Vehicle.

THE MACHINE COSTS $8,100.

Plan to Dispose of a Horse-drawn Steamer—For Use at No. 2 Fire-engine House.

Appropos the discussion regarding the purchase of an automobile fire apparatus with which to equip the new east end fire-house, another proposition has been made and is being favorably considered. The plan proposed is to "trade in" the steamer now used by the city for a combination fire-engine, chemical and hose apparatus of the automobile type. Such an apparatus can be purchased for $8,100, a price quoted by the Woodhouse Manufacturing Company, and by installing it at fire headquarters on East Second street, it would be a valuable addition to the department and having the engine attachment, would serve the same purpose as the steamer.

Of course, the plans call for a combination chemical engine and hose wagon for the new fire-house, to be drawn by horses. It is argued that with an automobile apparatus, such as proposed for headquarters, any section of the city could be reached quickly to cope with a fire. At the same time the business section would have the advantage of a strictly up-to-date apparatus of the very latest type.

It is not known what sum would be allowed on the steamer in exchange but no doubt a sufficient amount could be realized to make such a trade worth while and would materially lessen to cost of the automobile apparatus to the city. This plan, it is said, would be preferable to any thus far suggested. If the city should sell the steamer it would be compelled to turn the money over to the firemen's pension fund, but by trading it in the city would get the full benefit of the deal. It is known that the committee has considered this proposition and it is favored by some of the Councilmen.

The Councilmanic fire committee met last night and decided to purchase a combination chemical engine and hose wagon from Boyd & Brother, of Philadelphia, whose bid was $1,430, and a resolution will probably be offered at the April meeting of the Common Council Monday night, authorizing the purchase.

SUES JAMES CARTER FOR ABSOLUTE DIVORCE.

Mrs. Nora Carter, formerly of this city, but now of Asbury Park, has commenced a suit for divorce from her husband, James Carter, of this city, and the papers were served on the husband on Thursday. Both are colored. A divorce is petitioned for on statutory grounds. It is said that Carter will make no defence to his wife's action, but will be represented at the hearing in the Court of Chancery, Trenton, Tuesday, April 27.

The Carters were married on Arlington avenue, April 3, 1901, by Rev. P. W. Ross, a colored preacher from Westfield, and according to the statement of his wife they lived together until April 19, 1905, when she claims that her husband left her at Asbury Park, where they were then residing. Mrs. Carter names a Miss Annie Harris, colored, of this city, as co-respondent.

Carter denies his wife's allegation. He claims that it was through an action in Justice Borden's court at Asbury Park that he was compelled to leave that place. He also claims that his wife sold his furniture when the couple resided on West Fourth street, this city. At that time he was employed by I. H. Boehm, the dry goods merchant. The petitioner's maiden name was Nora Goode and her home was in Prince Edward county, Virginia.

Fired a Brick Through Door.

Because they annoyed Max Brussels, a Mason place cobbler, and threw a brick-bat threw his front doro, two West End boys, James Steenson, of West Front street, and James Hendry, of Clinton avenue, were haled before City Judge Runyon at the session of court today and given a good lecture as a pair of general nuisances. The court announced that any further complaints would result in a fine.

To Move Law Offices.

Winfield Scott Angleman, the lawyer, who has occupied offices in the old Dunlap building at Front and Somerset streets for many years, will remove on Monday to the Coward building, where he has leased the offices formerly occupied by the late Joseph B. Coward.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

A farewell dinner was given for Jerome D. Travers, the national and N w Jersey champion, by the Montclair Golf Club at the clubhouse Thursday night. Travers sails for the other side today on the Anchor Line steamer Caledonia, with the sole object of competing in the amateur championship tournament of Great Britain, at Muirfield, in the week of May 24.

There were no set speeches at Thursday night's dinner, but many good stories and jolly songs. At the head of the table sat J. G. Todd, with Travers on his right, whole on Todd's left was Vincent P. Travers, father of the champion. There were twenty-four members present, including Walter S. Brown, Paul Harrison, W. B. Bremner, G. S. Brown, H. S. McClure, S. H. Lockett and Jason Rogers.

Montclair has been Travers' home course since 1906, and all of his championships, except the metropolitan of that year, and the interscholastic of 1904, have been won as an entrant from the Montclair Golf Club. When Travers first began playing at Montclair the record was 73, held for years by Allan N. Kennaday and Willie Anderson, the professional. It wasn't long, however, before the newcomer cut the mark to 71, and later to 69. In a practice round there Thursday, with the turf soggy in places and the greens rough, Travers reeled off a capital 76.

Programs are out for the annual spring tournament of the Country Club of Atlantic City, April 29, 30 and May 1. There will be a testing round of thirty-six holes medal play, contestants to quality in six sixteens. First and second match play rounds will take place on Friday, April 30, while the semi-final and final rounds will claim attention the following day. As usual, a special consolation event will be run off on the second day for the defeated eights in each sixteen, so that contestants attending the tournament will be given an opportunity for competition during the entire three days.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The pool tournament which has been running at Stiles' pool parlors on Somerset street for the last two months, will close next Tuesday night. Leslie Stites leads with a total of twenty-three straight games. Martin Deneger is second with a win of twenty-two games and a loss of one.

A meeting of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club has been called for next Wednesday evening. At present the place of meeting has not yet been named but will be announced later.

When the Marathon runners get through with that 26 mile tramp this afternoon there will be some great rejoicing in a land across the sea. According to some trainers there is a great chance for Dorando to win first money.

Morningstar has now five straight games to his credit. Sutton, who has played six games, has won five and lost but one. It is expected that the game between Morningstar and Sutton will be the greatest billiard game this country has ever seen.

Leslie Stites, the local pool expert, has as yet received no challenges. The young Plainfielder is now putting up a great game and is ready to meet any boy in the State his age.

All the boat crews from the many colleges have begun their regular trial spins. The weather is getting so the men can speed their shells to some extent without fearing the effects of soreness.

It is reported that Johnny Hayes has a big following that will cheer for the little American this afternoon in the Marathon race. Many of his admirers believe that Hayes will show up to advantage on an outdoor track.

BASEBALL.

The National Baseball Commission has so modified the rule regarding violations of contracts that in the future no application for reinstatement will be considered in the case of players guilty of such violations until five years after the offence complained of.

Holy Cross begins the season today. The church boys expect to be in great shape by warm weather.

None cares where Cliff Randolph was born, just so he lives in Plainfield. Cliff is a Plainfielder out and out and he has a reason to be proud of it.

The P. H. S. boys still need a lot of practice, although they played a good game this morning they still lack the regular team work that calls for victory. Don't get discouraged boys, it will come in time.

With Van Zant in proper trim he is going to make many of the teams around this vicinity take notice of his work.

The Y. M. C. A. team has plenty of good material for a first-class team. Many of the old players are getting in first-class shape and good team work should be the result in a few more weeks.

Yale lost her first game of the season with Georgetown. It looks as if the Catholic University is going to put forth one of its old time teams again and the recollections of Doc. White will be brought back again.

The Brooklyn National League team is showing up better than any of the big teams in the South. The Trolly Dodgers have won eight straight games on the tour towards home.

The St. Mary's are now planning to put forth a strong team. All outside teams wanting games should write Frank P. Cullen, 1001 South Second street, Plainfield, N. J.

BOWLING.

When Radin dropped the pins for 265 and Schaub for 225, it took the heart out of everybody around Campbell's alleys. For if ever two bowlers were in trim it was the record-breakers Thursday night.

Johnny Campbell and Bill Nash will take part in the two-man tournament to be held at Madison Square Garden the latter part of next month.

Frank Willett said he felt little shy in making a big score. It wasn't Frank's fault, why his partner is a Skinner.

Doc. Herbert improves with age, and by the time the season closes, "Doc." will be in first-class trim.

The five-men team that will compete in the big matches, to be held in New York next month, is about completed. The names of the men will be made public within the next few days.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Boys' Club of Hope chapel met in regular session last night.

The Junior Band of the First Baptist church held a sewing meeting yesterday afternoon.

The Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school will meet tonight for the rehearsal of Easter music.

The First M. E. church Sunday-school is rehearsing an attractive program of Easter music.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas will have charge of the W. C. T. U. meeting in the rooms on Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The regular communion service with reception of members will be held at Warren chapel, tomorrow morning. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, the pastor, will be in charge.

The Park Avenue Baptist church has thus far raised this year for foreign missions the sum of $185.83, leaving a balance of $14.17 to be collected to meet the obligation.

The monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church was held last night, and following the routine, a social hour was enjoyed by the young people.

The McAll Auxiliary will meet at the Public Library Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock to further consider plans for the annual meeting of the branches to be held here in May.

The annual meeting of Hope chapel for the election of treasurers, and ways and means committee and for hearing reports of the past year's work will be held Wednesday night, April 7.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society a dual leader meeting was held at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night. The leaders were Miss Jennie Giles and Miss Louise Harral.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, during conference week is returning home from Newark every night, instead of remaining in that city during the whole week. In this way he keeps in touch with his work here.

HOT ON TRAIL OF COUNTERFEITERS.

With the arrest late yesterday afternoon of Frank Manfra, of 42 Montgomery street, Paterson, in the act of passing a counterfeit $5 bill, the police and secret service men believe they are on the eve of trailing down an organized band who have been working throughout the country. In Manfra, according to Inspector Flynn, of the secret service, who is hot on the trail of the counterfeiters, the police have made an important capture. It is believed that he is the leader of a big band who have agents in all the large cities.

Manfra but a few months ago was released from Sing Sing prison, where he had been serving a term for passing counterfeits. He formerly conducted a barber shop in Peekskill, N. Y., and flooded Manhattan, Jersey City, Newark and Paterson with the bad bills. His scheme was to open barber shops in the larger cities, under cover of which he would act.

The imitations are hard to detect. When caught he had in his possession a number of bills of the series of 1899. A careful inspection showed a few flaws in the counterfeit. "Treasurer" was spelled "tresesuer," and "Washington," "Washngton."

JOHN DALY SHOT.

Bullet Fired by Italian Whom He Discharged in Yonkers.

Surrogate Peter F. Dally, of New Brunswick, received a message yesterday afternoon that his brother, John Daly, of Elizabeth, was shot while at work yesterday morning on a construction job at Yonkers, by an Italian laborer. Mr. Daly, who is superintendent of the work, discharged the Italian earlier in the week, and yesterday morning the fellow applied for his wages. He was told that he could not get his money until regular pay time.

The Italian suddenly drew a revolver and shot Daly in the back. The assassin was captured and Daly was hurried to St. John's Riverside Hospital, Yonkers. It was said there late yesterday afternoon that he will recover unless complications set in. Mr. Daly has a wife and one child living at 1108 East Grand street, Elizabeth. Up to three months ago he was a contractor on the Pennsylvania terminal in New York city.

UNION BREEDERS MEET.

Animals to Be Examined By Veterinarian Wednesday.

The Union County Stock Breeders' Association has decided that the stallion which will be loaned to the county by the State, shall be kept by D. L. Darby, of Fanwood. The members of the association will meet Dr. F. A. Zucker at Mr. Darby's farm, in Fanwood, Wednesday from 2 to 5 p. m., in order that he may examine all animals that are to be used by the members of the association for breeding purposes. Dr. Zucker is the veterinary of the association.

The next meeting of the association will be held on Thursday afternoon, May 6, at the office of the president, E. R. Collins, North avenue, Westfield. It was voted to allow the secretary of the association $25 for his services during the year.

PRINCIPALS PLAN FOR NATURE STUDY COURSE.

The Union County Principals' Association held a regular meeting at Van Court Inn, Roselle, Thursday evening. The following were present: Superintendent Savitz, of Westfield; Principals Johnson, of Cranford; Soehl, of Kenilworth; Howell, of Linden; Davis, of Roselle; Deyo, of Roselle Park; Walton, of Springfield; Updyke, of Garwood; Woodfield, of Lyons Farms; Headley, of Linden; Kline, of Union, and Cox, of Unionville.

The committee on nature study submitted an outline course of study in that subject. The course was well defined and showed thorough work on the part of the committee. The principals are keenly alive to the value of nature study in the schools. Dr. Savitz pointed out that this section is particularly good for the study of birds, especially at the migrating season.

It was reported that lectures on nature study and agriculture can be obtained from nature clubs and the national and State departments of agriculture at a very low rate, in most cases for expenses only. Several schools have already had such lectures and found them very instructive.

Principal Woodfield prepared a list of suggestive books on nature study for teachers and a number of poems to supplement the work in the subject. The May meeting will be held at the home of Principal Walton at Springfield.

STATE SCHOOL PUPILS THANK THE LEGISLATURE.

The student body of the State schools passed a rising vote of thanks to the New Jersey Legislature Thursday. The thanks were for passage of the bill providing for the purchase of additional grounds to be used for an athletic field and land for plant life research.

As soon as the Appropriation Committee of the Legislature provides the $20,000 needed for purchase of the ground, which is located on Model avenue, between the home of Dr. Elias Carr and the Assunpink Creek, work of putting the property in shape will be started.

A baseball and football field will be laid out, together with tennis courts, etc. The sloping part of the land reaching to the banks of the creek will be laid out in gardens, where practical work in plant life research will be conducted.

When the new field is opened all of the grounds surrounding the school buildings will be devoted to the girls of the Normal and Model schools. The new field will be for boys' games, but will also be generally used for outdoor study purposes.

Harvard Club Dinner for Dr. Eliot.

FEELS SUNDAY SPORTS BILL WILL BE PASSED.

Assemblyman Olwell, of Hudson, will renew his fight next week to induce the House to pass his bill, House 5, to permit Sunday baseball and other sports. This is the act which was defeated Wednesday afternoon by a vote of 27 to 30. Since then Mr. Olwell has been hustling about, and believes he has gathered in four more votes from the opposition, which will be sufficient to carry the measure through.

If Mr. Olwell's prognostications are reliable, Mr. Bowden, of Essex, who comes from the town of Caldwell, will save the day for the bill. On Wednesday Mr. Bowden, Mr. Smith and Mr. Clark were the only ones in the Essex delegation to oppose the measure, Mr. Roberts being absent at that time. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Roberts appeared to say he would stand for the bill, and Mr. Clark and Mr. Smith also consented to support it. Just before he left for home last night Mr. Bowden said he guessed he would, too, so that will increase Olwell's strength to thirty-one votes, provided, of course, the other twenty-seven will stick.

WATER NOT SHUT OFF.

Employes of Company Arrested When They Tried to Do It.

The town of Woodbridge, Middlesex county, was without fire protection for a short time Thursday afternoon. The Middlesex Water Company, of which Frank Bergen is the president, supplies the water to the township, and it has not had success in collecting $25 a year rental for the fireplugs in the place. The township insists that as it gave the company a valuable franchise it should not be charged for the fireplugs.

Thursday afternoon Joseph Spenelli and Samuel Anderson, employes of the company, were sent to Woodbridge to shut off the water. The town was soon aroused and the men were arrested charged with malicious mischief and taken to Justice Dunn's office. President Bergen was reached on the telephone and arrangements were made by which the water was not cut off. The employes were placed under $500 bail by the justice.

CONDEMNING LAND.

Elizabethtown Water Company Wants Right of Way for Pipes.

The commission appointed to condemn property of E. L. Smith, of Clark Township, wanted by the Elizabethtown Water Company for a right of way in order to lay pipes to its filtration plant, was held in the Court House at Elizabeth, yesterday. The company offered Smith a price for the right of way which he refused.

The commission consists of D. H. Sayre, Union, and William Howard and John L. Crowell, both of Rahway. Judge Clark McK. Whittemore represented the water company and A. A. Stein is counsel for Smith.

Former Mayor Ryan was one of the witnesses yesterday.

Miss Mary E. Robinson is enjoying the Easter holidays at Atlantic City.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The attendance at the public school for the past month has been good. Following are the meritorious pupils: Primary department, teacher, Miss Lulu Corsen! Geraldine Moyles, Ruth Boss, Daniel Geary, John Brick, George Wooden, Thomas Bohl. Intermediate department, teacher, Miss Meta Soper; Marjorie Roberts, Margaret Hamilton, Veronica Reilley, Mary Nelson, Grace Boss, Fred Teeple, Martin McDonough, Lester Soper. Grammar department, teacher, Miss Ellen Ostrye; May Harlow, Nellie McDonough, Elizabeth Maguire, Winifred Sawyer, Gertrude Nelson, Nellie Ryan, Theresa Bohl, Therest Hannon, Nellie Harlow, Laura Roberts, George Brower, Peter McDonough, John Miller.

Much interest is shown in the game to be played this afternoon between the principal teams of the village. The junior team have an idea that they can put it over the first team. Whether it is true or not will be settled this afternoon.

The South Plainfield grammar school nine was defeated in a well played game by the New Market grammar school boys yesterday. The game was played here. The score was 7 to 3.

Miss Mabel Pace, of Front street, who has been ill with rheumatism, is able to walk around the house again.

Repairs are being made by J. F. Ten Eyck on his property on Lehigh avenue.

Mrs. Harry Soffield and son Jeffery, are visiting friends in New Brunswick.

Mrs. Frank Faulks and son, Granville, visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

Mrs. William Reilley visited friends in Jersey City yesterday.

Rufus Delafield is improving his property on Plainfield avenue.

DINES HIS STORE STAFF.

Employes of Brunswick Merchant Appreciate Courtesy.

Henry Landsberg, proprietor of a large department store at New Brunswick, gave a dinner to his store staff Thursday night. It was the first of the kind ever given in that city, and the floorwalkers and clerks showed their appreciation by a round-robin of how they could work for the better interests of their employers.

Those present were Henry and Theodore Landsberg, Edward J. J. Ferren, William Richter, C. Burt Robbins, F. Miller, F. Ryan, T. Campbell, Robert Gilliland, Misses Lena Lyons, Madge Allen, Lillian Wright, Mary Colligan, Gretchen Heuffle, Loretta Campbell, Kitty Fisher, Jennie Greaves, Mabel Harvey, Nettie Schenck, Maud Miller, Annette Martin, Mary Dolan and Rose Beare.

HANGS HERSELF TO DOORKNOB.

West Hoboken Schoolgirl Finds Her Mother Dead in Bathroom.

Mrs. Hansell, of No. 284 Spring street, West Hoboken, committed suicide by hanging herself to the doorknob in the bathroom at her home yesterday. Her daughter, Elsie, sixteen years old, came home from school at noon. Not finding her mother about the house, she went to the bathroom and found an obstruction behind the door. She pushed against the door, and moved it sufficiently to see her mother's distorted face.

The girl ran from the house screaming for help. Patrolman Scheenenberg responded, and, forcing the door open, cut the body down. Physicians were summoned, who pronounced the woman dead.

Gatemen Don Uniforms.

The gate and flagmen employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad on the crossings in Rahway, yesterday donned their uniforms, as recently ordered by the company. They consist of blue coat and trousers and cap with plate, "Gateman" or "Flagman." The men do not object to wearing the uniform, but hardly think it fair that they should be compelled to pay for the outfit.

CASHMERE DE SOIE FOR AFTERNOON DRESSES.

A very soft silky kind of cashmere, scarcely to be distinguished in appearance from crepe de chine, is the favorite fabric of the moment, so far as afternoon dresses are concerned. It is known as "cachemire de soie," and well deserves its very attractive title, since there appears to be considerably more of silk than of wool in its composition.

Some exceedingly graceful frocks in this new cashmere are being arranged en princesse, with skirts which fit quite closely in the region of the waist, although they are fully draped half-way between the knees and the hem with soft folds, which are caught together with motifs of various shapes, carried out in padded rouleaux of satin, matching exactly the color of the cashmere.

A pretty cashmere gown of this description, chosen in a new tone of orchid mauve, is made in the form of a princess robe, so far as the lower part of the bodice and the upper part of the skirt are concerned, but from a littlel distance below the waist, the folds of cashmere are draped in such a way that they gave a tablier effect. They are lifted slightly on both sides, to reveal an underskirt of plain cashmere, the draperies being caught up with buckles of glace silk in the same shade of mauve, embroidered with tiny sprays of dark and green leaves. To fill in the upper part of the bodice there is a chemisette of tucked mauve net, arranged with long close-fitting sleeves to match, and lined with ivory white satin. On the front of the bodice there is a very pretty embroidery representing clusters of dark violets and green leaves, with a few wsingle blossoms scattered here and there.

Yet another charming afternoon frock is made in lavender gray satin charmeuse, with a perfectly plain under robe of the satin, fitting closely to the figure, and made with a long train. Hanging loosely from the shoulders there is a tunic of silk net in the same fascinating shade of gray, adorned with floral embroideries worked partly in oxidized silver and partly in gray floss silk and lacet braid to match. This tunic is finished both back and front with wide gray silk fringe, intermingled with threads of silver. The bodice is filled with gray Alencon lace and net, while the long sleeves, which come a little distance below the wrist, consist of alternate bands of gray lace and net, arranged to run horizontally.

GIRL TRIES SUICIDE.

Child of Fifteen Drinks Carbolic Acid in Orange.

Heroic work on the part of the physicians of the Orange Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon won in a hard fight with death, courted by Bertha Brehnke, fifteen years old, of Newark, who stole away from home and in the South Mountain Park reservation attempted to end her life with carbolic acid. Why she did it is a mystery, for her condition is too critical to permit questioning. Her father told the doctors that he had no idea why she should attempt to kill herself.

A park policeman of the South Mountain reservation came upon the girl's unconscious form late yesterday afternoon. Word was telephoned to Orange, and when the ambulance arrived the surgeon, Dr. Morris Farkas, worked hard with restoratives. He continued treatment all the way to the hospital, where the girl was placed, still unconscious.

BACKING FOR BERDINE.

Grand Jury Appeals to Fort to Reappoint Prosecutor.

The December Grand Jury, which will hold its last session Monday at New Brunswick, has set a strong petition to Governor Fort asking him to rename George Berdine as county prosecutor. The Grand Jury has had opportunity to watch the work of the prosecutor's office since last December, and has notified the Governor that Mr. Berdine has made a model official and is worthy of reappointment. Friends of Mr. Berdine feel that he is sure of reappointment, and are looking for it on Monday. He is now acting prosecutor, his term having expired on March 17. Theodore Strong, to whom the place was offered by the Governor, has notified the Governor that he will not take the office under any consideration.

PATERSON HAS A SMALLPOX SCARE.

Latest Victim Is a Janitor In the City Hall—Disinfectants Used Everywhere.

Paterson is gripped in an epidemic of smallpox which has broken out in all sections of the town. Daily the list of victims grows larger and the health inspectors are working night and day in an effort to prevent the spread of the disease. The latest patient admitted to the Isolation Hospital is Thomas Phalon, one of the City Hall janitors, who has charge of the basement of the municipal building. When the news was made known there was considerable excitement among the attaches of the building, and persons who have business there are rather timid at approaching the building.

The origin of Phalon's case is attributed to his coming in contact with the first case which walked into the city physician's office three weeks ago.

Board of Health inspectors are disinfecting every moving picture house and theatre, a number of schools, pool parlors, bowling alleys and other public places where the infected ones are known to have visited. All persons who have been associated with any of the persons who are now confined in the pesthouse, are being sought out and vaccinated. So great has been the run on the disinfectants that the supply is almost exhausted and a rush order was sent yesterday afternoon to a big concern for a fresh supply.

Feature Films at Proctor's.

An especially strong bill of life motion pictures will be shown at Proctor's theatre today, in addition to fine specialties. On Monday there will be a complete change of bill. A feature last night was a violin obligato as accompanist to the illustrated song sung by Mrs. E. N. Downs.

HAVE YOU VISITED CENTRAL PARK?—Come and see what a beautiful place it is and see the many improvements that are now being made. If you are looking for a homesite or for an investment you can make no mistake in buying at Central Park. If the contingency should arise that you would be compelled to locate elsewhere you can always find a ready market for your property. Many think there is luck in real estate. The success of a real estate investment does not depend upon luck. Values increase most rapidly where people want to live, and people want to live in places that offer the greatest advantages. Central Park with its rigid restrictions in regard to class and price houses, etc., assures to you an ideal homesite. There are a great many pretty homes now under construction from which you can make your selection or we will build for you after your own plans. Convenient terms of payment can be arranged. This is the time to buy. For particulars see Charles Matt, Central Park Realty Co., Prospect and Edgewood avenues, or 1328 Broadway, New York city. Telephones, Plainfield 1355, or 486-R.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

The contract for the new Catholic church in Woodbury, to cost $15,000, has been awarded.

Prosecutor Alexander Rogers, of Woodbury, has been appointed administrator of the $10,000 estate of the late Samuel Warrick.

Neighbors of Farmer Jos. Wright, of Clarksboro, who has been ill for two months, turned in and did his farm work up to date.

Paulsboro cannot supply Clarkson and Mickleton with gas, and a company is being formed to establish a plant for those places.

Ten thousand clams are to be baked at the First Baptist church, Millville, this evening for the benefit of the church debt fund.

Dr. Oliphant, of Bridgeport, who broke his leg while attempting to board a train at Woodbury, some months ago, is able to be moved around in a roller chair.

Theodore W. Schimpf has been accorded the unusual honor of election to a second term as exalted ruler of the Atlantic City Lodge of Elks, having been named unanimously.

Arrested in Camden yesterday on suspicion of trying to cash a bogus check, Conrad Engle, of Phoenixville, Pa., later proved that the check was good, and he was released.

Mrs. Harriet V. Cone, the oldest native born resident of Salem, has placed in the First Presbyterian church, there, a handsome baptismal fount in memory of her father, the late Dr. Robert Hunter Van Meter.

Through the heroic efforts of the women on George Ross' farm, near Beverly, a rapidly spreading fire, which consumed a portion of an adjacent wood, was extinguished and Mr. Ross' lumber yard was saved.

Union painters went on strike at Atlantic City yesterday, following the refusal of the boss decorators to conform to the new $3-a-day scale demanded by the men. Several hundred journeymen painters are involved in the strike.

Falling from the roof of a house at Twenty-fourth and Federal streets, when the rainspout which he had grasped was torn loose, William Gill, forty-one years old, of 123 Dudley street, Camden, narrowly escaped being impaled on an iron fence in his flight. At Cooper Hospital his injuries were found to consist of a fractured ankle, bruises of the legs and contusions of the head.

A petition signed by many residents was presented to the Gloucester Council last night urging the revocation of the retail liquor licenses still held for illegal selling last winter. Under the bishops' law such convictions must be followed by the revocation of the licenses, but no action has been taken by the Council to that effect. The matter was referred to City Solicitor Cogan.

His right leg amputated below the knee at Cooper Hospital two years ago as the result of injuries sustained by being hit by a train at Woodbury, Edward Beale, fifty-eight years old, of Sewell, slipped and fell at the Pennsylvania Railroad terminal in Camden last night and broke the same leg. The fracture is above the knee, and doctors at Cooper Hospital said that Beale will be confined to the institution for several weeks.

CAN'T SEE HOW FORT CAN TURN DOWN BAIRD.

Somebody got the Guardians and corporation lobbyists about the State house at Trenton in a badly disturbed and excited frame of mind Thursday afternoon by spreading a "straight tip" that Governor Fort had at last succeeded to his worries over the reappointment of State Assessor David Baird and had let it be known he was going to let Baird hustle for another job, if he wants one. For a time there was much anxiety expressed lest the rumor be true, but by train time things had settled back into their normal state and everybody seemed satisfied there are such matters as "April fool" jokes.

"Governor Fort's got to reappoint Davy. He would be void of all sense of gratitude if he didn't. Davy worked for Fort's nomination and election. So how in blue blazes, pray tell, can Fort refuse to re-appoint him. Ain't there such a thing as gratitude in this world? When Baird said last year, 'I'd trust nobody north of the Shrewsbury, it was only one of his jokes."

Another story told of Baird is that in speaking to an acquaintance he remarked, referring to Governor Fort, "He ain't like the other fellow, for he won't stay put; he won't stay put."

Hitch On Road Bond Purchase.

Kuntz Brothers, of New York, have refused to accept the $125,000 worth of road bonds purchased at a recent sale made by the Middlesex Board of Freeholders until the acceptance of the Plainsboro-Applegarth road as a county road is shown on record. No resolution can be found covering the transfer to the county. The board was so notified yesterday afternoon.

—A civil service examination will be held at the local postoffice Wednesday, April 7, for the positions of carrier and clerk. Further information can be obtained from W. B. Sharp at the postoffice.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead" comes to us this season better equipped than ever. The double quartet of farm hands which has helped in no small degree to make this charming idyl of New England rural life the success it has been for the past two decades is made up this season of some of the best singers in the dramatic profession. Two of the singers—Gus Kammerlee and Fred Clare—have been associated with the production for many years, in fact, Mr. Kammerlee has been with the company since the first production of the play in April, 1886. Of the other members of the double quartet, most of them have been connected with the company for a number of seasons. It has always been the desire of the management, we are assured, to keep this feature of the production intact from year to year as far as circumstances will permit and this is probably the reason their singing invariably arouses such enthusiasm. Constantly singing together has produced an ensemble that can hardly be excelled as each member of the double quartet is a thoroughly trained vocalist. "The Old Homestead" will be at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight.

George Barr McCutcheon's most popular novel, "Beverly of Graustark," as dramatized by Robert M. Baker, will be presented here for the first time at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday, matinee and night, April 10, under the direction of A. G. Delamater and William Norris. Jessie Busley, one of the foremost actresses on the American stage, who for several years has been under the management of Charles and Daniel Frohman, appearing almost exclusively at Daly's, the Empire and Lyceum theatres, New York, and for the past two seasons as a star in "The Bishop's Carriage," under the management of Liebler and Company, in which, unfortunately, she did not visit Plainfield, will be seen in the stellar role of Beverly Calhoun of Virginia, who, accompanied by Aunt Fanny, her colored servant, visits the Princess Yetive of Graustark at a time when that mytheological principality is on the eve of a war with Dawsbergen.

RED BANK BOY FLIES.

Demonstrates Success of Aeroplane of His Own Make.

With an aeroplane of his own design, Charles Hendrickson, after several trials, and in a light breeze, flew about 100 feet yesterday in Middletown, a few miles from Red Bank.

As the flight was made under discouraging conditions, the youthful aeronaut expects to make a higher and longer flight soon. The trial was made from a little knoll on the Hendrickson farm.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Plainfield People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Plainfield people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. J. C. Manchaster, 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. I doctored with physicians but failed to be cured and in 1905 when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I made up my mind to give them a trial. Good results followed their use and my kidneys and bladder were soon restored to a healthy condition. I believe my cure is a permanent one and I will always give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement when an opportunity occurs."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburne Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 4, 1909.
By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Life lessons for men from the book of Proverbs.—Prov. viii, 1-17. Consecration meeting.

The book of Proverbs was written by Solomon, the son of King David. Solomon wrote three books of the Scriptures—the Song of Solomon, probably when he was young; Proverbs during manhood and Ecclesiastes when he had reached old age.

A proverb is a short, pithy saying setting forth a moral or spiritual truth. It was peculiarly suited to Hebrew poetry, which is largely composed of comparisons and contrasts. Oriental sages were fond of using the proverb or parable, which is really a proverb enlarged. Solomon chose the proverb in which to express his philosophy of life. The Psalms and the Proverbs bear an important relation to each other and express the different characteristics of the authors, although they were father and son. The Psalms of David are largely devotional, while the proverbs are practical. David lived closer to God than Solomon and was therefore better qualified than Solomon to be the psalmist of Israel. Solomon, on the other hand, was more a man of the world and better understood the practical affairs of men than his father and was therefore the better equipped to be the poet of practical admonition. In these facts we may learn a useful life lesson. Devotion, close living to God in the inward life, comes first in our lives, but it should be followed by the practical application of inward feelings and principles to the outward life. As the Proverbs follow the Psalms, the practical should follow the devotional.

The book of Proverbs has been divided into three divisions:

First.—Addresses to the young, chapters i-ix.

Second.—Addresses, more varied, to all classes, ranks and ages, chapters x-xxiv.

Third.—Collections of extant records, made by scribes under the orders of King Hezekiah, chapters xxv-xxix. "These are also proverbs of Solomon which the men of Hezekiah, king of Judah, copied out" (Prov. xxv, 1).

To sum up all the life lessons of the book of Proverbs is impossible, but some of the prominent evils against which Solomon warns us in various parts of the book are as follows:

1. Filial impiety. The duty of children to parents is emphatically urged, occupying space in no less than nine passages. This duty needs to be emphasized today. American children and young people seem especially addicted to the sin of filial impiety. Solomon condemns it and calls upon children to reverence, love and obedience to parents.

2. Evil company. Nothing is more harmful in life than evil companions, and Solomon lays great stress in his warnings against it.

3. Impurity. The sin of impurity, even to the extent of licentiousness, is one of our greatest curses today. Young people especially should read in private Solomon's fearful pictures of its results and be warned against it.

4. Untruth. On nine occasions Solomon speaks of this subject. Dishonesty, untruthfulness and deceit in all forms are denounced. We live in an age much given to opposites of these in business, politics and social life. Solomon's warnings should therefore be heeded.

5. Slothfulness. No writer surpasses Solomon in denouncing sloth. He pictures its results as disappointment, decay and poverty. "Drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags."

6. Intemperance. This is another modern curse that Solomon pictures in its awful final results—its brawls, impurities, exhaustion and delirium, all issuing from the wine cup.

7. Solomon exalts wisdom—not the wisdom of books, but practical wisdom, the knowing of right and wrong and doing of right and avoiding the wrong.

BIBLE READINGS.

Filial impiety, i, 8, 9; vi, 20, 21; xx, 20; evil company, i, 10-19; iv, 14-19; impurity, ii, 16-19; vii, 6-27; xxiii, 27, 28; sloth, vi, 6-11; intemperance, xx, 1; xxiii, 1-3, 29-35; xxxi, 4-6; wisdom, i, 20; iv, 13; viii, 1-9, 12.

Notes From Foreign Fields.

The negro Endeavorers of Rhodesia go out two by two to preach in the kraals. One of these Endeavorers was once asked by his employer: "Why do you want to learn to read? Isn't it enough to make money?" "Ah," he answered, "money will not buy eternal life."

Fully 3,000 Boer Endeavorers became prisoners during the Boer war with England. During their imprisonment the spirit of missions became strong among them, and 200 of them on their release volunteered to serve as missionaries to carry the gospel to the blacks. A new theological seminary was formed to train them.

Every German Endeavorer gives 12 cents a year to support the National Christian Endeavor union. They have sent several of their own number as missionaries to the Caroline islands, and the spirit of evangelism is very strong among them.

In Snow Clad Alaska.

One of the first Christian Endeavor societies in Alaska consisted of five young men who met in a tent on the beach at Valdes. Then they built a log cabin, with "Christian Endeavor" over the door. It was the only house of worship in Valdes. They organized a reading room and a Sunday school and finally became a church, the Endeavor church. They did a great work in carrying material for a relief station up the glacier near by, a task occupying thirty-four days. This relief station saved many lives.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

Here is a circus romance redolent of the fresh sawdust of the ring, vibrant with the incessant clamor of the band, panoramic in its ever moving display of clowns, acrobats, horses and captive wild animals. You will read of Polly, the daughter of the circus, and of Bingo, on whose broad back she rode; of the "leap of death" girl; of "Muvver Jim," the boss canvasman, and Toby, the clown, who loved the circus orphan and cared for her like father and mother; of Deacon Strong, who hated a circus, and of Rev. John Douglas, who grew to love a circus girl. You will read of gossip that threatened to divide a pastor and his flock, of Ruth and Naomi, of a show girl's renunciation and of Polly's first and last ride on Barbarian, the circus horse.

CHAPTER I.

THE band of the "Great American Circus" was playing noisily. The performance was in full swing.

Beside a shabby trunk in the women's dressing tent sat a young, wistful faced girl, chin in hand, unheeding the chatter of the women about her or the picturesque disarray of the surrounding objects. Her eyes had been so long accustomed to the glitter and tinsel of circus fineries that she saw nothing unusual in a picture that might have held a painter spellbound.

Circling the inside of the tent and forming a double line down the center were partially unpacked trunks belching forth impudent masses of satins, laces, artificial hair, paper flowers and paste jewels. The scent of moist earth mingled oddly with the perfumed odors of the garments heaped on the grass. Here and there high circles of lights threw a strong, steady glare upon the half clad figure of a robust acrobat or the thin, drooping shoulders of a less stalwart sister. Temporary ropes stretched from one pole to another were laden with bright colored stockings, gaudy, spangled gowns or dusty street clothes discarded by the performers before slipping into their circus attire. There were no nails or hooks, so hats and veils were pinned to the canvas walls.

The furniture was limited to one camp chair in front of each trunk, the till of which served as a tray for the paints, powders and other essentials of makeup.

A pail of water stood by the side of each chair, so that the performers might wash the delicately shaded tights, handkerchiefs and other small articles not to be intrusted to the slow, careless process of the village laundry. Some of these had been washed tonight and hung to dry on the lines between the dusty street garments.

Women whose "turns" came late sat about, half clothed, reading, crocheting or sewing, while others added pencilled eyebrows, powder or rouge to their already exaggerated makeups. Here and there a child was putting her sawdust baby to sleep in the till of her trunk before beginning her part in the evening's entertainment. Young and old went about their duties with a systematic, businesslike air, and even the little knot of excited women near Polly—it seemed that one of the men had upset a circus tradition—kept a sharp lookout for their turns.

"What do you think about it, Polly?" asked a handsome brunette as she surveyed herself in the costume of a Roman charioteer.

"About what?" asked Polly vacantly.

"Leave Poll alone! She's in one of her trances!" called a motherly, good natured woman whose trunk stood next to Polly's and whose business was to support a son and three daughters upon stalwart shoulders, both figuratively and literally.

"Well, I ain't in any trance," answered the dark girl, "and I think it's pretty tough for him to take up with a rank outsider and expect us to warm up to her as though he'd married one of our own folks." She tossed her head, the pride of class distinction welling high in her ample bosom.

"He ain't askin' us to warm up to her," contradicted Mlle. Eloise, a pale, light haired sprite, who had arrived late and was making undignified efforts to get out of her clothes by way of her head. She was Polly's understudy and next in line for the star place in the bill.

"Well, Barker has put her into the 'leap of death' stunt, ain't he?" continued the brunette. "Course that ain't a regular circus act," she added, somewhat mollified, "and so far she's had to dress with the freaks, but the next thing we know he'll be ringin' her in on a regular stunt and be puttin' her in to dress with us."

"No danger of that," sneered the blond. "Barker is too old a stager to mix up his sheep and his goats."

Polly had again lost the thread of the conversation. Her mind had gone roving to the night when the frightened girl about whom they were talking had made her first appearance in the circus lot, clinging timidly to the hand of the man who had just made her his wife. Her eyes had met Polly's with a look of appeal that had gone straight to the child's simple heart.

A few nights later the newcomer had allowed herself to be strapped into the cumbersome "leap of death" machine which hurled itself through space at each performance and flung itself down with force enough to break the neck of any unskilled rider. Courage and steady nerve were the requisites for the job, so the manager had said, but any physician would have told him that only a trained acrobat could long endure the nervous strain, the muscular tension and the physical rack of such an ordeal.

What matter? The few dollars earned in this way would mean a great deal to the mother whom the girl's marriage had left desolate.

Polly had looked on hungrily the night that the mother had taken the daughter in her arms to say farewell in the little country town where the circus had played before her marriage. She could remember no woman's arms about her, for it was fourteen years since tender hands had carried her mother from the performers' tent into the moonlit lot to die. The baby was so used to seeing "mumsie" throw herself wearily on the ground after coming out of the "big top" exhausted that she crept to the woman's side, as usual, that night and gazed laughingly into the sightless eyes, gurgling and prattling and stroking the unresponsive face. There were tears from those who watched, but no word was spoken.

Clown Toby and the big "boss canvasman" Jim had always taken turns amusing and guarding little Polly while her mother rode in the ring. So Toby now carried the babe to another side of the lot, and Jim bore the lifeless body of the mother to the distant ticket wagon, now closed for the night, and laid it upon the seller's cot.

"It's allus like this in the end," he murmured as he drew a piece of canvas over the white face and turned away to give orders to the men who were beginning to load the "props" used earlier in the performance.

When the show moved on that night it was Jim's strong arms that lifted the mite of a Polly close to his stalwart heart and climbed with her to the high seat on the head wagon. Uncle Toby was intrusted with the brown satchel in which the mother had always carried Polly's scanty wardrobe. It seemed to these two men that the eyes of the woman were fixed steadily upon them.

Barker, the manager, a large, noisy, good natured fellow, at first mumbled something about the kid being "excess baggage," but his objections were only half hearted, for, like the others, he was already under the hypnotic spell of the baby's round, confiding eyes, and he eventually contented himself with an occasional reprimand to Toby, who was now sometimes late on his cues. Polly wondered at these times why the old man's stories were so suddenly cut short just as she was so "comfy" in the soft grass at his feet. The boys who used to look sharp because of their boss at loading time now learned that they might loiter so long at "Muvver Jim" was "hikin' it round for the kid." It was Polly who had dubbed big Jim "Muvver," and the sobriquet had stuck to him in spite of his six feet two and shoulders that an athlete might have envied. Little by little Toby grew more stooped, and small lines of anxiety crept into the brownish circles beneath Jim's eyes, the lips that had once shut so firmly became tender and tremulous, but neither of the men would willingly have gone back to the old emptiness.

It was a red letter day in the circus when Polly first managed to climb up on the pole of an unhitched wagon and from there to the back of a friendly Shetland pony. Jim and Toby had been "neglectin' her eddication," they declared, and from that time on the blood of Polly's ancestors was given full encouragement.

Barker was quick to grasp the advantage of adding the kid to the daily parade. She made her first appearance in the streets upon something very like a Newfoundland dog, guarded from the rear by Jim and from the fore by a white faced clown who was thought to be all the funnier because he twisted his neck so much.

POLLY DANCED SERENELY ON BINGO'S BACK.

From the street parade to Polly's first appearance in the big top had seemed a short while to Jim and Toby. They were proud to see her circling the ring in bright colors and to hear the cheers of the people, but a sense of loss was upon them.

"I always said she'd do it!" cried Barker, who now took upon himself the credit of Polly's triumph.

And what a triumph it was!

Polly danced as serenely on Bingo's back as she might have done on the concert boards. She swayed gracefully with the music. Her tiny sandals twinkled as she stood first upon one foot and then upon the other.

Uncle Toby forgot to use many of his tricks that night, and Jim left the loading of the wagons to take care of itself while he hovered near the entrance, anxious and breathless. The performers crowded around the girl with outstretched hands and congratulations as she came out of the ring to cheers and applause.

But "Big Jim" stood apart. He was thinking of the buttons that his clumsy fingers used to force into the stiff, starchy holes too small for them and of the pigtails so stubborn at the ends, and Toby was remembering the little shoes that had once needed to be laced in the cold, dark mornings and the strings that were always snapping.

Something had gone.

They were not philosophers to reason, like Emerson, that for everything we lose we gain something. They were simple souls, these two; they could only feel.

CHAPTER II.

WHILE Polly sat in the dressing tent listening indifferently to the chatter about the "leap of death" girl Jim waited in the lot outside, opening and shutting a small leather bag which he had bought for her that day. He was as blind to the picturesque outdoor life as she to her indoor surroundings, for he, too, had been with the circus since his earliest recollection.

The grass inclosure where he waited was shut in by a circle of tents and wagons. The great red property vans were waiting to be loaded with the costumes and tackle which were constantly being brought from the big top, where the evening performance was now going on. The gay striped curtains at the rear of the tent were looped back to give air to the panting musicians, who sat just inside. Through the opening a glimpse of the audience might be had, tier upon tier, fanning and shifting uneasily. Near the main tent stood the long, low dressing top, with the women performers stowed away in one end, the ring horses in the center and the men performers in the other end.

A temporary curtain was hung between the main and the dressing tent to shut out the curious mob that tried to peep in at the back lot for a glimpse of things not to be seen in the ring.

Colored streamers fastened to the roofs of the tents waved and floated in the night air and beckoned to the townspeople on the other side to make haste to get their places, forget their cares and be children again.

Over the tops of the tents the lurid light of the distant red fire shot into the sky, accompanied by the cries of the peanut "butchers," the popcorn boys, the lemonade venders and the exhortations of the sideshow spieler, whose flying banners bore the painted reproductions of his freaks. Here and there stood unhitched chariots, half filled trunks, trapeze tackle, paper hoops, stake pullers or other properties necessary to the show.

Torches flamed at the tent entrances, while oil lamps and lanterns gave light for the loading of the wagons.

There was a constant stream of life shooting in and out from the dressing tent to the big top as gayly decked men, women and animals came or went.

Drowsy dogs were stretched under the wagons, waiting their turn to be dressed as lions or bears. The wise old goose, with his modest gray mate, pecked at the green grass or turned his head from side to side, watching the singing clown, who rolled up the painted carcass and long neck of the imitation giraffe from which two property men had just slipped, their legs still incased in stripes.

Ambitious canvasmen and grooms were exercising, feet in air, in the hope of some day getting into the performers' ring. Property men stole a minute's sleep in the soft warm grass while they waited for more tackle to load in the wagons. Children of the performers were swinging on the tent ropes. Chattering monkeys sat astride the Shetland ponies, awaiting their entrance to the ring. The shrieks of the hyenas in the distant animal tent, the roaring of the lions and the trumpeting of the elephants mingled with the incessant clamor of the band. And back of all this, pointing upward in mute protest, rose a solemn church spire, white and majestic against a vast panorama of blue, moonlit hills that encircled the whole lurid picture. Jim's eyes turned absently toward the church as he sat fumbling with the lock of the little brown satchel.

He had gone from store to store in the various towns where they had played looking for something to inspire wonder in the heart of a miss newly arrived at her sixteenth year. Only the desperation of a last moment had forced him to decide upon the imitation alligator bag, which he now held in his hand.

It looked small and mean to him as the moment of presentation approached, and he was glad that the saleswoman in the little country store had suggested the addition of ribbons and laces, which he now drew from the pocket of his corduroys. He placed his red and blue treasures very carefully in the bottom of the satchel and remembered with regret the strand of coral beads which he had so nearly bought to go with them.

He opened the large property trunk by his side and took from it a laundry box which held a little tan coat that was to be Toby's contribution to the birthday surprise. He was big hearted enough to be glad that Toby's gift seemed fine and more useful than his.

It was only when the "leap of death" act preceding Polly's turn was announced that the big fellow gave up feasting his eyes on the satchel and coat and hid them away in the big property trunk. She would be out in a minute, and these wonders were not to be revealed to her until the close of the night's performance.

The telephone is the connecting link between city and country.

It is of mutual advantage. With telephone service in his suburban home the business man in the city, or wherever he may be, can keep in touch with his household. A friend for dinner, time of arrival, any unusual delay—these, and countless other messages the telephone carries almost instantly thereby relieving the worry of the family and simplifying household arrangements. Every suburban home should have a telephone.

GOVERNOR FORT RESTRAINED.

Chief Justice Gummere signed an order at Trenton yesterday restraining the further execution of Governor Fort's order of Thursday directing Colonel Edward W. Hine to assume command of the First Brigade, National Guard of New Jersey. The order was served upon General P. Farmer Wanser, division commander, yesterday afternoon.

The application to Chief Justice Gummere was made by ex-Attorney General Robert H. McCarter on behalf of General Edward A. Campbell, former commander of the First Brigade, who is contesting the constitutionality of the act under which he and other officers of the National Guard were retired for age. This is the first occasion, in many years at least, when the courts have undertaken to question the enforcement of any order issued by the Governor as commander in chief of the National Guard.

"Cheap melodrama!" answered the second man.

"That's fine, too!" declared Enlightened Sentiment. "And what, sir, is your stock in trade?" this to the third man.

"A good, honest, nourishing article of ham!" answered he, and at that Enlightened Sentiment was terribly shocked and waxed wroth and warned the man not to attempt any such thing on pain of condign punishment.—Puck.

HOW TO BE HAPPY.

(By Chauncey M. Depew.)

The only paramount desire of all right-minded men and women is happiness. "How to be happy" is a far cry or a near one, depending upon him who prays. It is not a matter of environment and of risposition. I have seen miserable rich men and miserable poor ones, the misery of the one not coming because of his riches, nor of the other because of his poverty. I knew a man whose income was a million a year and he spent a hundred and fifty dollars a month. I said to him, "What is your happiness?" His answer was, "Seeing the snowball grow." I knew another with an income equally large who was a guinea pig. He lived upon the fees which he received as a director in many corporations. He was persuaded late in life to visit Europe, and there came across an old associate who had become happy after retiring from a hard business life by studying art and accumulating the treasures which he understood. He took his visitor to see a painting at the Salon which was interesting all Europe. While explaining its beauties with rare enthusiasm, he turned to see his friend busy writing upon a pad. He said, angrily, "What are you doing? Are you trying to copy this picture?" "No," said his friend, "I am reckoning how much money I am losing while here in director's fees." The happiest man I ever knew was a peddler and a Methodist exhorter. He cheered the sorrowful, uplifted the sick, carried joy into houses of mourning, added gayety in life to gatherings of the young, and consolation and merriment to the old by carrying out to the full the Scriptural motto, "Be diligent in business while serving the Lord." The amount of pleasure that there is in this world from making other people happy can never be measured. The larger the field which money or talent enables a man to cover, the gerater the joy. The philosophy of life is reciprocity, and a man gets what he gives.—Leslie's Weekly.

Capt. A. S. Hewitt.

McIntyre and the band will be at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and at 3 o'clock they will have charge of the services at the Westfield Presbyterian church. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church, Col. McIntyre will be assisted by Brigadier Kimball and the band.

At this evening service a special program of sarced music will be rendered by the band. The program will include instrumental and vocal solos, quartet selections, as well as numbers by the entire band.

WILL DISTRIBUTE $150 IN MISSIONARY FIELDS.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church at its regular meeting, yesterday afternoon, voted $150 for domestic and foreign missions and the Band also agreed to give $20 more the coming year for Arabia, making the gift next year $40, instead of $20, to help support the church missionary.

The apportionment of the $75 for domestic missions is as follows: Kentucky Mountain Whites, 10; Student Volunteers, $10 Commanche Indians, $5; Indian work in general, $5; Mescalara work, $5; Winnebago work, $5; girl student fund, $15; women's executive committee, $20, making a total of $75. The $75 for foreign mission work is divided as follows: Women's Board of Foreign Missions, $50; Arabia, $20; Tong-an, China, $5.

WHAT A LIGHT CAR MEANS TO YOU

Do you realize what it means to you if you can get a light car of the same class as the big cars, built of the same material, of the same excellence of design and careful construction, but weighing only 1600 pounds?

Stop and figure it out: You save 60 per cent or more in initial outlay. The depreciation in a big car in a single year would pay the cost of a new light car.

The cost of up-keep of a light car is one-third what the big car costs to maintain. It will stand up, go anywhere that the big car will go and do anything except carry excessive weight or attain excessive speed. Over bad roads it will average better than the big car. The only light car that is bred of the same stock as the best American and foreign cars is

SALVATIONISTS' BIG DAY

Staff Officers, With the Provincial Band, Conduct Several Meetings.

SERVICES PROVE INTERESTING.

Colonel W. A. McIntyre and Brigadier Kimball Make Marked Impression on the Audiences.

Under the auspices of the Salvation Army, a largely attended meeting was held at the First Baptist church, last night, which was in charge of Colonel W. A. McIntyre and Brigadier Kimball, of national headquarters, New York, assisted by the Provincial Silver Band. The service attracted a capacity audience to the church. It was the closing service in a series that marked the special visit of the national officers.

The band occupied seats in the choir loft of the church and presented a program of exceptional interest, which was interspersed with bright choruses and personal testimonies by the bandsmen, as well as able addresses by Col. McIntyre, Brigadier Kimball and Mrs. Hewitt, who are in charge of the work of the army here.

The band rendered a number of excellent selections, all of a sacred character. The program opened with a selection, "Memories of Childhood," introducing trombone, alto and cornet solos and then the full band. The band also sang several sacred numbers. Brother Sandford rendered a beautiful trombone solo, "Behold the Saviour," and Captain Fowler sang a bass solo, "This World Is Not My Home," and there was an effective cornet solo, "Nearer My God to Thee," by Captain Allan. Another interesting selection was called "Easter Memories," introducing several compositions.

Col. McIntyre made the chief address of the evening in which he made a strong appeal to the young people to give their hearts to Christ, before it is too late. He related many pathetic incidents showing how easy it is for a person to sin away the day of grace and impressing upon all that only a very small percentage, according to statistics, are converted after the age of fifty or sixty years. Brigadier Kimball also made a strong address.

At the conclusion a generous offering was given for the work of the army. Yesterday morning Col. McIntyre, Brigadier Kimball and the band were in charge of the service at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon they conducted a large service at the Westfield Presbyterian church. The special visitation was one of the most successful in the history of the army and was productive of much good. The band is composed of trained musicians and the music was listened to with much pleasure.

Saturday night they gave a musical at the local headquarters, that was worthy of attention of real music lovers, for the army musicians showed they were skilled in the use of their instruments and would be of credit before any audience no matter how critical. "The First Price," a march rendered by the full band, was worthy of praise, their time and shading being in unison all through the piece. The cornet solo, by Captain Allen, and tulaphone solo, "The Chimes of Trinity," by Mr. Calio, were well rendered.

To Become a Miner.

John B. Slorah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slorah, of Prescott place, left today for Medford, Oregon, a mining town of 3,000 inhabitants, located near the State line of California. James Slorah, a brother, has been living in Medford for several years and has been successful in mining ventures. This fact, together with the present slackness in Mr. Slorah's trade, led him to decide on the trip. Mr. Slorah is twenty-three years old, and is popular in a large circle of friends, especially in the West End. He will be missed in church circles, being active at Hope chapel, where he is a member of the choir, Young Men's Club, the Men's Club and Judge William N. Runyon's Bible class.

Noted Organist Coming Here.

S. Frederick Smith, of St. Simeon's church, Philadelphia, who has been engaged as organist at Grace church, will assume his new duties May 1. Mr. Smith will come here with the highest recommendations. He is an English trained organist and a specialist in the producing of boys' voices. Before going to St. Simeon's church, Philadelphia, he was organist and choirmaster in Washington, and also organist and choirmaster at the Jamestown Exhibition.

FITZPATRICK IN JAIL ADMITS HORSE STEALING

Dominick Fitzpatrick, of North Plainfield, prizefighter, and more recently an expert horse thief, who started in to steal all of the best horses in Washington Valley, is in jail at Somerville. County Detective Totten brought Fitzpatrick from Perth Amboy, where he had attempted to dispose of a number of stolen horses which he had picked up in Somerset and other counties during the past month. Fitzpatrick was trying to dispose of a stolen team and buggy to a dealer in Perth Amboy, which he had taken from John Wyckoff's stable at Germantown, and the low price at which he offered the animals aroused suspicions which led to his arrest.

Fitzpatrick has confessed to stealing eight horses, six of which have already been recovered. He will be tried during the April term in Somerset county.

DESERTED WIFE GETS $1. A WEEK FOR SUPPORT

John McGuire, an erstwhile boroughite, who marrfed three years ago and left his wife, whose name is Josephine, three months after the ceremony, was held under $50 bond on a desertion charge before Justice of the Peace Clark Mundy Saturday night, being ordered to pay her $1 each week. McGuire is a teamster and has been living in Summit since he left his wife. The wife is but eighteen years of age. Their only child is dead.

Testimony revealed the fact that the man never wasted any time complimenting his wife even while the two made their home together. It is alleged that for an entire week after the ceremony was performed, John was never sober long enough to recognize his wife. Mrs. McGuire has been self-supporting ever since her husband left her. Robert Newton Crane represented Mrs. McGuire in the case, while Francis J. Blatz was counsel for the husband. The court ordered that the dollar be paid each week to Borough Overseer of the Poor Fred Becker and that the latter should turn it over to Mrs. McGuire.

RICH HARVEST IN FINES IN THE POLICE COURT

Prisoners haled before City Judge Runyon today felt the hand of justice heavily on their pocketbooks, for in each of the four cases to come up, a fine was imposed. The fines totaled $35, and were all paid in. The option of "days" was unusually stiff. In the two casese where imprisonment was given as the alternative, the prisoners were only prompted to scurry around for the coin.

Thomas Duffy, who boards in a West Front street apartment, was given the "$5 or 20 days" dose when Judge Runyon had heard the story of his Saturday night jag as told by Patrolman McCarthy. Duffy took a lot of punishment along with his jag, for he was so bewildered and unsteady when he started upstairs to him rooms early Sunday morning after a night over the cups that he slid all the way down again on his left cheek and sat on it, helpless, until helped to headquarters by the policeman. The effect on the man's facial appearance was not such as would put him in line for a blue at any beauty show, for his slide downstairs had caused his cheek to accumulate considerable splintered lumber, and had purpled his eye.

Nineteen-year-old William Berkowitz, of Watchung avenue, was another five-dollar prisoner. Willie is a heavy sport, they say, and as he nonchalantly chatted with some other members of his set in front of Proctor's theatre Saturday night, he passed out a few remarks about passers-by. One epithet was taken personally by a Dunellen girl. Miss Mary Mohan, whose father used to head the Dunellen police, but she appealed to Patrolman Nolan to arrest the boy. The Judge did the rest.

Charles Meyer, of New Market, charged with a violation of the health ordinance by Deputy Health Officer O'Brien, who alleged that the man had been collecting garbage in uncovered wooden barrels. Meyer admitted the truth of the accusation and was compelled to pay $5.

Dean Robbins to Preach.

Rev. Dr. Wilford L. Robbins, dean of the General Theological Seminary, New York, will preach at Grace church, Sunday morning, April 18. Dr. Robbins is in great demand as a speaker and the members of Grace church parish consider themselves fortunate in being able to secure his presence here.

ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING

Seventh-Day Baptists in Seventy-fifth Annual Session Review Year's Work.

THEY CHOOSE THEIR OFFICERS.

Afternoon and Evening Meetings Largely Attended—Letters Read From Some Former Members.

Officers were elected, reports presented and other interesting business transacted at the seventy-fifth annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, held in the church, yesterday afternoon and evening. William C. Hubbard was chairman of the meeting. After prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. Edwin Shaw, the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Asa F. Randolph, and adopted.

The report of the trustees was presented by Dr. Henry M. Maxson, showing that all of the church property is in excellent condition and satisfactory returns were reported. William M. Stillman, treasurer of the church, presented his statement. This showed that all bills were paid and there is a balance of $738 on hand. The committee on subscriptions for the year also reported favorable responses, the amount subscribed being about the largest in recent years.

The obituary committee presented an exceedingly interesting report regarding the life and labors of the late Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis. This was adopted by a rising vote. Touching reference was also made to the loss in the death of Dr. Martha Stillman, Alexander Titsworth and Mrs. Irving A. Hunting.

Then followed the election of officers. David E. Titsworth was re-elected trustee for a term of five years, while William M. Stillman was re-elected treasurer, George E. Stilman assistant treasurer and Asa F. Randolph church clerk for one year. Arthur T. Titsworth and Charles H. Dunham were chosen auditors for the year and David E. Titsworth was again chosen chorister and Miss Jessie M. Utter organist. These ushers were elected: Arthur J. Spicer, chairman; George M. Clark, Charles F. Neagle, F. Rowland Williams, Milton St. John, A. B. Titsworth, Raymond Burdick, Roland Davis.

This concluded the afternoon session, after which a social fellowship hour was enjoyed, during which supper was served in the church parlors. The evening session convened at 7:30 o'clock, with devotional exercises by Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardner, Mrs. John B. Cottrell sang a pleasing solo, after which N. O. Moore, Jr., presented a summary of all the church societies for the year, including the Sabbath-school, Christian Endeavor Societies, Women's Society for Christian Work and the Men's Club. This showed a general gain in membership and increased interest in all departments. The customary appropriations for the various departments of work were made for the coming year.

Supplementing the report by Mr. Moore, was one by the pastor, Rev. Edwin Shaw, which touched on the spiritual side of the church work. This was shown to be encouraging under the supervision of Mr. Shaw, who has been pastor scarcely a year.

Perhaps, one of the most interesting featuures of the meeting was the reading of letters from absent members and former pastors. Among them was one from Mrs. Mary N. Rogers, of New York State, who is the only surviving constituent member out of the original number of fifty-seven. She never fails to send a greeting to the annual meeting. Other letters were received from Rev. George B. Shaw, of Nebraska, and Rev. Dr. A. E. Main, of Alfred University, both former pastors, and members in Illinois, California, Chicago, Long Island, Alfred, Boston and other places.

Another helpful feature was a question box devoted to church work. Different phases of the work were considered during this period, at the conclusion of which Theodore G. Davis sang a solo. Mr. Davis was chosen chairman for the next meeting, according to the usual custom.

The supper committee comprised members of the refreshment committee of the Women's Society for Christian Work and the social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society as follows: Mrs. Frank Champlin, chairman; Mrs. W. R. Mosher, Mrs. Charles H. Dunham, Mrs. J. D. Titsworth, Miss Ethel Titsworth, Miss Helen Rogers, Miss Anna Stillman and Roy Titsworth. The committee on program comprised N. O. Moore, Rev. Edwin Shaw, Asa F. Randolph, Mrs. Amanda Maxson and Miss Mildred Greene.

NEW COURT HOUSE OPEN

Somerset County's $300,000. Marble Structure Turned Over to Freeholders.

ARCHITECTUALLY BEAUTIFUL.

Handsome Building Completed in Much Less Then Two Years Without a Penny of "Graft.

Somerset county's new $300,000 court house was formally turned over to the Board of Freeholders Saturday afternoon, when exercises appropriate to the dedication of the handsome structure were held. The building being accepted, the exercises proceeded with addresses by prominent jurists as told in The Daily Press of Saturday.

The exercises were held in the main court room. The grounds around the new Court House are being put in condition. The histaric elms, which for years have graced Court House square, were not disturbed by the building operations.

The new temple of justice on the site of the old Court House is of white marble and cost $300,000.

Somerset is one of the oldest counties in the State. It was formed in 1688. The first Court House, erected at Franklin Park in 1717, was destroyed by fire, with all the records it contained, in 1734. The following year a new Court House was erected at Millstone. That was burned in October, 1779, as were many other public and private structures in the Revolutionary War. In 1782 a little building was erected in Somerville where the stables of the Somerset Hotel now stand.

The site of the present building, at East Main and Grove streets, was purchased by the county in 1799 and a brick Court House was erected. That building was used more than a century, until it was torn down to make room for the present structure.

Contracts for the new Court House were awarded on May 12, 1907, and work was started the following July. The corner-stone was laid on November 8, 1907, with Masonic ceremonies under direction of Solomon's Lodge, No. 46, F. and A. M., of Somerville.

The committee under the direction of which the Court House was constructed is composed of Freeholders William J. Logan, of Somerville, chairman; Thomas E. Gibson, of Princeton, and Richard W. Hoagland, of Frankfort. Plans were made by James Riley Gordon, of New work.

One of the striking features of the building is the courtroom. Practicular attention has been paid to its acoustics, lighting, ventilation and convenient arrangement, which in some respects is novel. Its central dome is surmounted by a large ventilating, stained-glass skylight. The galleries supplement the seating capacity of the room and at the same time enhance the artistic effect of the chamber.

BISHOP SCARBOROUGH VISITS HOLY CROSS

The Right Reverend John Scarborough, bishop of New Jersey, made his annual visit to Holy Cross church at the morning service, yesterday, when he administered the rite of confirmation to a class of fifteen candidates. The church was elaborately decorated for Palm Sunday, branches of palms and cut flowers being used in profusion. The ambulatory processional by the full vested choir of forty boys and men, carrying palm branches, was particularly effective and Karl Ball sang a tenor solo, "The Palms," as an offertory.

Bishop Scarborough preached the sermon, taking his text from Matthew 21, 8-9, which verses are a description of Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem. At the outset of his discourse, he took occasion to congratulate his parish on the various improvements to the edifice and grounds since his last visit, and spoke also of the encouraging religious development in the church and the various parish organizations. In accordance with his custom, he made a brief address to the confirmation class at the altar rail.

Delegates to Newark Classis.

At a meeting of the elders of Trinity Reformed church, yesterday, Robert Clark, Jr., and Horace J. Martin, Sr., were chosen delegates to represent the church at the meeting of the Classis of Newark to be held Wednesday, April 21, at Newark.

Mrs. Anna Stones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, of West Fourth street, who was taken to the hospital to undergo an operation, is doing nicely.

GET-TOGETHERS BANQUET

Union County Politicians and Deal Club Guests of the Local Regulars.

JUDGE NEWCORN TOASTMASTER.

Mayor Fisk, Sheriff Kirkland, Register Smith, County Clerk Calvert and Others Make Speeches.

Almost every political factor of any magnitude in Union county was present at the Get-together Club's banque in honor of the Deal Outing Club on Saturday night. The affair took place in the club rooms of the local "regulars" organization at the Hotel Waldorf and was attended by some seventy big and little guns. The dinner was great and so were the speeches.

Andrew McCardell,
Sachem Get-together Club.

Judge William Newcorn acted as toastmaster. On his right was seated the club's president, Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, and on his left his honor, Mayor Charles J. Fisk. Near them were Sheriff Robert J. Kirkland, County Register Frank H. Smith, County Clerk James C. Calvert, Assemblyman Augustus W. Schwartz, Plainfield City Chairman W. S. Angleman and Elizabeth City Chairman James White. All of these made speeches and the club's rule not to talk politics was rigorously enforced by Freeholder Samuel P. T. Wilbur. Thomas Humphreys, Elizabeth's funny man, made the hit of the evening as a speech-maker and in recognition of his effort was subsequently elected an honorary member of the organization.

On behalf of the Deal Outing Club and the Elizabeth bunch in general, Sheriff Kirkland presented a handsome traveling bag to Sachem McCardell. During the evening there were a number of vocal and instrumental numbers.

Among the visitors were Edward Bauer, James White, J. C. Calvert, Sidney Williams, B. Williams, Edward Hiller, Thomas Humphreys, A. W. Schwartz, H. Schriber, William Wright, H. Pflug, William Randolph, R. J. Kirkland, John H. Dravis, Henry From, Captain William Hobby, Adolph Becker, Henry Banner, August Schofield, Robert H. Scott, Robert Algoe, Henry Bergen, Neill McCarthy and William Pender.

Death of Mary C. Gallup.

Mrs. Mary C. Gallup, widow of the late Orien Gallup, died at the Bolton country residence, better known as the Hawk's Nest, on the mountain, near Scotch Plains, Sunday morning. She leaves two sons, Charles Gallup, of Attleboro, Mass., and Joseph Gallup, of Leominister, Mass. The funeral will take place from her Bolton country home, at 1:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Scotch Plains Baptist cemetery.

Will Assist Hospital.

The offerings at the Tuesday afternoon Lenten metings of the Women's Guild, at Grace church, will be sent to Mrs. Husen, Morgantown, North Carolina, toward the purchase of a stretcher which is very much needed at the hospital there. Mrs. Monroe, 134 Crescent avenue, will receive contributions for this object.

Spoke at Y. W. C. A.

Miss Caroline Delano, of New York city, spoke at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon before a large audience. Miss Delano, who is connected with the National Y. W. C. A. board, dwelt on her trip through China and Japan, telling what a great work the association is doing in those countries.

Farewell Party.

Mrs. Rosa Jackson, who left Saturday morning for the South, was given a surprise Friday night by a nuumber of her friends at her home on West Fourth street. The affair was gotten up by her sister, Miss Ella Phillips.

UNION COUNTY MEN FORM RAHWAY TRUST COMPANY

Articles of incorporation were filed on Saturday with Union County Clerk James C. Calvert at Elizabeth, by the Rahway Trust Company, to be located on Cherry street, Rahway, the agent being City Treasurer Charles H. Angelman, of that place. The incorporators are Hamilton F. Kean, of Union Township; State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and County Register Frank H. Smith, both of this city; John W. Whelan, Elizabeth; Peter Fox and Aaron Gries, Newark; Peter Tillman, Fred C. Hyer, John J. Coffey, Albert F. Kirstein and Dr. John M. Randolph, all of Rahway.

Frank H. Smith controls 270 shares. Senator Ackerman, Hamilton Kean, Peter Fox, Peter Tillman, John M. Randolph and John W. Whelan each have 100 shares. Mr. Smith is a director of the Plainfield Trust Company.

FINED TWENTY DOLLARS FOR HIS PROFANE WORDS

On complaint of Mrs. Elizabeth Fenton, of Prescott place, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Finneran, her neighbors, were in police court today. She declared that the couple, and especially the husband, had "maligned, slandered, cursed and insulted" her on Thursday night. The testimony, bringing out a recital of "cuss-words" which must have been dealt out wholesale, was furnished by five neighbors, who had overheard the Finnerans' remarks.

When it became known to the court that Finneran had a habit of passing out the loose and profane talk and had been a source of regret to his neighbors for months passed on this account, City Judge Runyon imposed a fine of $20. Finneran paid.

The testimony showed that the man held his neighbors in terror by his "awful goings-on" and it developed that one of the witnesses, hearing that he was "on the war-path" had gone to his home by a roundabout way rather than meet him in the street. The charges against Mrs. Finneran were comparatively insignificant, for hers were only words provoked by back-fence disagreements.

MENACE TO HEALTH IS TOLERATED IN TOWNSHIP

Many complaints have been made concerning a nuisance on Mountain avenue, near Raymond avenue, where a practise is made of dumping deposits from cesspools. As the place is situated in North Plainfield township, the Borough Board of Health has no authority and is therefore powerless to act in the matter. It is understood, however, that the matter will be brought to the attention of both the Township Committee and the Somerset County Board of Freeholders.

The claim is made that ultimately much of the matter finds its way into Green brook, the land being slanting in that vicinity. As many cows are allowed to drink in that stream, it is considered as a menace to the public health. Some few years ago, a similar condition was allowed to exist for a time but the Borough Board of Health finally succeeded in having it stopped.

Birthday Party.

A birthday party was given in honor of Miss Sofie Vogel at her home in Dewey Park Friday night. Those attending were: Misses Mary, Helen, Rose and Jennie Hazlin, Emil, William, Albert and Frank Vogel, Fred, Edward, John and Charlie Brant, Ralph and Edward Parker, Miss Elsie Kean, Gus Anger, Fred Greanel, Martha Noble, Ada Noble, Mabel De Mont, Miss Helen Davenport, Miss Rosa Fitzsimmons, Robert Fitzsimmons, Miss Ruth Smalley, Miss Florence Lee, Miss Effie Hanson and Roy De Mont.

Missionary Conference This Week.

To map out plans for the World Missionary Conference to be held in Edenburgh, Scotland, in June, 1910, the American Executive Committee will meet at the Presbyterian building, Fifth avenue, New York, this week. Two members of the British Executive Committee will meet with them. Rev. Dr. Henry K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, is secretary for the American committee.

Will Celebrate Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Peterson, of 517 East Third street, will celebrate the fifty-second anniversary of their wedding on Saturday night, April 24, from 8 to 11 o'clock.

HOLY WEEK OBSERVANCE

Solemn Services in Catholic and Episcopal Churches in City and Borough.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY RECTORS.

Numerous Services Daily—Three Hours' Devotion On Good Friday.

This is Holy Week, comprising the last six of the forty days of Lenten fasting and self denial observed by Catholics, Episcopalians and Lutherans. It is a period of impressive solemnity to the faithful, and is marked by special services in the various churches, for the various days are commemorative of important institutions of the church.

Leading up to Good Friday, when the passion and crucifixion of Our Lord is commemorated in a solemn three hours' service, beginning at noon, the week days commemorate various doings of the Saviour in the last week of His life on earth, following Palm Sunday, which was yesterday, when the churches were elaborately decorated with palm branches in commemoration of Our Lord's triumphial entry into Jerusalem. Thursday of this week is known as Maundy Thursday, the "dies mandari," of the church, when the first celebration of the Holy Supper was held. The occasion is observed with special celebration and services in the Catholic and Episcopal churches. Saturday is known as Easter Even, and church custom has made it the occasion for infant baptism.

Among the Catholics the services of the week are of especial solemnity and symbolism. At St. Mary's church there will be an observance of the way of the cross Wednesday night and Maundy Thursday will be celebrated as an anniversary by the solemn mass of the Blessed Sacrament at 9 o'clock in the morning. In connection with this will be the procession of altar boys and girls from the parochial school from the main altar to the repository in which the Blessed Sacrament is kept until Holy Saturday. A similar service will be held at St. Joseph's church at 7:30 o'clock in the morning.

Good Friday morning there will be a celebration of the mass of the presanctified at 8 o'clock, and it will be followed by the adoration of the cross. This service will be held at 7:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's. At noon will begin the passion sermon, known as the "Three Hours of Agony," and this will be observed only at St. Mary's church, where Father B. M. Bogan will officiate. From noon until 3 o'clock the service will continue, and will be marked by a series of talks on the passion. Each quarter of an hour during the service, there will be four minutes for meditation. Father Bogan will preach a Good Friday sermon at the church at 8 o'clock and this will be followed by the adoration of the cross. The service at St. Joseph's church will be an hour earlier.

Saturday, the last day of Lent, will be marked by a service at both Catholic churches at 7 o'clock in the morning. This will comprise a solemn blessing of the Easter holy water, the Paschal candle and the fire and incense, and will be followed by a sermon.

These will be the week's services at the Episcopal churches:

Grace church—Daily evensong at 5 o'clock. Passion service, "The Crucifixion" at 8 o'clock tonight; picture service tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Thursday night at 8 o'clock there will be a service in commemoration of the institution of the Holy Communion. The services Good Friday will comprise the antecommunion at 7 o'clock in the morning, a children's service at 9 o'clock, morning prayer, litany and Holy Communion at 10 o'clock, three hours of meditation on the Passion at noon and evensong at 5 o'clock. Rev. Melville Bailey, of Grace church, New York, will preach at this service. Saturday there will be evensong and Holy baptism at 5 o'clock.

Holy Cross church—Each morning during the week there will be a service of morning prayer and antecommunion at 9:30, except on Thursday, when there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at the same hour. This service will be followed on Good Friday by a children's service, at 10 o'clock in the morning, and the three-hour service will begin at noon. At 7:45 o'clock in the evening, there will be a special service for the men of the church. In connection with the evensong Saturday, there will be holy baptism.

St. Stephen's church—There will be a service of evensong at St. Stephen's church each day at 5 o'clock, and Tuesday and Thursday morning there will be a celebration

BASEBALL.

The P. H. S. boys show they have the class and when the real games do come off there will be some good playing by the city lads.

"Rube" Marquard may be what John McGraw calls the highest purchased man in baseball, but that hasn't proven his worth. If "Rube" runs up against "The Cubs" like he did last season he won't be of much use to the great "Jawn J."

Its about time the Princeton team got together and win some of the big games. While it is early in the season the Tigers can't afford to let some of the smaller colleges win from them if they want to keep up their prestige.

Ortleb, the Clinton Avenue pitcher, is now rounding into shape. The brawny twirler certainly has plenty of speed and good curves. All the lad needs is proper control and then he will be in proper shape to give a good account of himself.

The Y. M. C. A. team will be ready to play their first game in about a week. Manager Listman is now booking games for his team and will soon be ready to give out his schedule.

Whether Cliff Randolph stays with Newark this season or not, the popular twirler will get some experience with a minor team that will do him a world of good.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. H. N. Jordan, of New Market, will preach at the Wilson Memorial chapel on Sunday night.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday night.

The Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold a sewing meeting on Wednesday.

Rev. N. P. Champlin, of Arlington, preached at Grace M. E. church yesterday morning, and Rev. L. J. Gordin, of Asbury, occupied the pulpit in the evening.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold its monthly business meeting at the home of Miss Jennie Giles on Fairview avenue, tonight.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be omitted Friday night on account of the Union Good Friday service, at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

The Plainfield Sunday-school Teachers' Union and Teachers' Training Class will meet in the Sunday-school room of Trinity Reformed church tonight. All Sunday-school workers are invited.

The Women's Foreign Mission Circle of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Abram VanCleef, on Elm place, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The subject will be "Burmah."

"The Federation of Churches vs. Christ's Union of Theme" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. W. P. Squires at the Church of Christ, yesterday morning. An Easter service was held in the evening.

Edith Lowry, Madelyn Moy, Philip Schuyler, Frederick Smith and William Watts have been received into membership at the Park Avenue Baptist church and will be baptized Sunday night at the Easter service.

The Watchung Sunday-school Association has elected these officers for the year: President, E. L. Bonney; vice president, A. S. Ackor; secretary, Miss Theresa E. Schmidt; treasurer, E. S. Ackor; organist, Edward C. Spier; librarian, George Burnett.

The Easter exercises of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school will be held Sunday night at 7:45 o'clock. The program will include Easter carols and other special music, and an illustration of the Feast of the Passover by Miss Ruth Angel, a Christian Jewish young woman of New York. At the close five members of the school will be baptized. The primary department will hold its exercises in its own room at 2:45 o'clock.

WANTS SANITY TESTED OF MURDERER HERRON.

Judge Charles T. Cowenhoven made an application to Supreme Court Justice Bergen in the Union County Court Saturday for the selection of a jury to determine the sanity of Archibold Herron whose electrocution in the Trenton State prison for the murder of Rev. S. B. B. Prickett in Metuchen.

Prosecutor George Berdine, of New Brunswick, vigorously opposed the application. Justice Bergen said he would carefully consider the matter, and announce his decision at the opening of the spring term of the Middlesex County Court next Tuesday at New Brunswick.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

One month from now the competition golf season of the Forest Hill Field Club will get under way. The schedule, comprising weekly and holiday events from May 1 to October, was drawn up last week by Robert Kuebler and W. T. Becker, of the tournament committee.

The club championship will begin on September 4 with an eighteen-hole testing round, and the list of attractions also includes a thirty-six-hole handicap, selected eighteen to count. This will be held on Memorial Day.

Satisfactory progress is being made on both the course and clubhouse. Harry Vance, chairman of the green committee, is hustling things along, and the new bridge over Second River will be finished in a few days. The steam roller is rapidly getting the turf in something like normal condition.

New members continue to flock in, and at the present rate of increase it will not be long before a limit will have to be placed.

The annual invitation tournament of the Garden City Golf Club will begin on May 6 with an 18-hole medal play qualifying round, best sixteen to continue on for the Garden City cup and second sixteen for the president's trophy. The final round on Saturday will be at thirty-six holes.

More than one hundred members have been elected to the Fox Hills Golf Club since the first of the year, and the outlook is bright for the liveliest season in the organization's history. The competitive program began Saturday with a 36-hole event, as well as 18-hole handicap in classes A and B. The course is in excellent condition.

HANS P. FREECE AGAIN ATTACKS MORMONISM

The second address on Mormonism was given by Hans P. Freece, of Columbia University, at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting, yesterday afternoon. On this occasion he treated his subject from a political standpoint, pointing out the danger of Mormonism becoming a future political issue.

"It has always been the purpose of the Mormon church," said the speaker, "not only to mix in politics but if possible to rule or destroy. At the time the Mormons went to Utah, which was then Mexican territory, it was their purpose to defy the United States, and to establish a nation and government of their own, to be controlled by their church, where polygamy could be practiced without annoyance from any governmental authorities. After the Mexican War, and the treaty of peace signed, and all the land occupied by the Mormons became a part of the United States, it was then that the Mormon began his crusade against this government, and has kept it up ever since.

"In 1849, when the gold fever in California caused thousands of men to go to that State, the Mormons began their reign of murder and plunder. According to their belief, a man outside their church could only be saved by the shedding of blood. The Mormons always saw that those who shed blood had either plenty of gold dust or good horses, both of which were needed. When the United States government sent judges out there to uphold the law and to investigate these outrages, the Mormons watched their opportunity to beat them, and place the blame on the Indians. The Mormons are a wise people, and realized that if they could get Utah admitted as a State, it would be easy for to get their own constitution. When the new State was admitted, polygamy was to bbe abandoned entirely and the Mormons themselves were to keep free of politics. But now we see whether they keep out of governmental affairs or not by their sending Reed Smoot, a man with five wives, to the Senate.

"To get the Mormon vote both political parties during the last campaign catered to the Mormons, and this shows the descendants of Joseph Smith have foiled not only our government, but become an important factor in it."

LEAL'S SCHOOL SENIORS' DINNER AT PARK CLUB.

The '09 Class at Leal's School gave a dinner at the Park Club, Saturday night. Prof. John Leal and Prof. Lucius H. Miller, of Princeton University, a former graduate of Leal's School, were guests. Prof. Miller made a short address, following the dinner. In addition to the members of the class, Lyman Campbell, H. S. Fullerton, Jr., D. B. Fullerton, Russell Lawrence, Murray Rushmore and William Wilson, the fathers of the young men were present.

An excellent dinner was served by Steward Henry Johnson, who also decorated the table appropriately with flowers and the school colors. After the dinner and a few informal speeches the party witnessed the performance of "The Old Homestead" at the New Plainfield theatre.

MISS BARBARA GRAY BECOMES MRS MacDONALD.

Miss Barbara Gray, of Middletown, N. Y., and John C. MacDonald, formerly of Inverness, Scotland, were married Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacDuff, on Division street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie in the presence of about fifty guests, including the bride's mother and sister.

The home was attractively decorated, the arrangement in the dining room being a feature. Following the ceremony the couple received the congratulations of their relatives and friends and an elaborate supper was served by Mr. and Mrs. MacDuff. The couple will reside in North Plainfield.

THIEF TOOK $1,200 CASH FROM WILSON'S BEDROOM.

George Wilson, a well-known farmer who conducts a large boarding-house near Warrenville, is mourning the loss of $1,200, which was stolen from his bed-room. The sum was paid to him in satisfaction of a mortgage which he held on some borough property.

The transaction took place on Tuesday and the robbery occurred Friday night. There was also taken about $40 worth of clothing out of Mr. Wilson's room. The theft has been reported to the county authorities. Mr. Wilson believes that the thief effected an entrance to his bedroom by means of a ladder.

MISS LOHRKE SOLOIST AT A LENTEN RECITAL.

Miss Gertrude Lohrke, of East Orange, was the soloist at the last of the series of Lenten organ recitals held Saturday afternoon at Holy Cross church, when an excellent program of organ music was rendered by R. Burns Eglinton, the church organist and choirmaster. Miss Lohrke, who is a soprano of unusually charming voice, sang "Just For Today" in a manner which won the keenest appreciation. The instrumental program follows:

Largo on G, (Handel); Pastorale in E, (Lemare); Allegretto, (Thomas); Scherzo, (Lemaigre); Adagio molto, from Sonata 3, (Guilmant); Andante in G, (Batite).

A Surprise Party.

A birthday surprise party was given in honor of Miss Beatrice Tier at her home on Madison avenue, Saturday evening. The affair was successfully arranged by Miss Adelaide Cole and William Tier, Jr. It was a complete surprise to Miss Tier as she had planned to spend the evening elsewhere. She received many pretty and useful presents. The time was spent in playing games and a feature of the evening was the "Toothache Act" by Jack Rogers. Refreshments were served at a late hour. Among those present were: the Misses Marion Thompson, Adelaide Cole, Mildred Priemer, Lillian Schlief, Beatrice Tier, Elsie Tier, William Tier, Mrs. May Tier and Ethel Swain, of Newark; Jack Rogers, John Richards, Raymond Becker, Bert Pope, William Tier and Charles Small and J. C. Crater, also of Newark.

Anniversary of Fire.

Twenty-four years ago today, April 5, 1885, on Easter Sunday, there was a most disastrous fire at New Market. The clothing establishment and home of Henry Dunham were destroyed and the whole village was threatened with distruction. Only for the timely aid of the Plainfield fire department practically every dwelling and store in the village would have been consumed by flames.

CONDEMNED MURDERER ATTACKS HIS KEEPER

It became known at Trenton yesterday that there was a bloody fight in the death house at the State prison Saturday night with a condemned murderer awaiting electrocution on one side and two deputy keepers who were attempting to feed him on the other. Dominick Magano, of Union county, is the murderer, and that he did not add another murder, or possibly two of them, to his record was no fault of his own. His victims were David Speer and Albert Leisner, deputies assigned to the special task of looking after the murderers. Magano tore an iron rod, with a heavy brass know on the end, from the lavatory of his cell, and when Speer entered to feed him the weapon descended with terrific force on the keeper's head, cutting into the flesh and starting the blood in a stream. Speer tried in vain to defend himself, while Magano held the door shut with one hand and belabored him with the other. Leisner finally forced the door open and sprang to the rescue of his comrade. Magano belabored both the deputies with the rod and had them both bleeding profusely when they finally got him under control.

Five other men in the death chamber watched the fight from their cages and some of them yelled for help, while others urged Magano to kill the guards. Because of the construction of the building it was impossible for the alarm to reach the main prison, and Speer and Leisner had to fight it out alone until they got their assailant subdued. Then assistance was called and he was shackled to his bunk.

Magano declares that he attacked the keepers because they took from him a fancy belt which he was making as a gift for one of his children. The keepers declare that they were afraid he was making the belt to be used as a noose. This is denied by the condemned man, who says he has no intention of committing suicide, but is willing to let the law take its course.

Speer and Leisner were badly used up in the encounter, and are still suffering from the effects of it.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

No evening services were held at the Methodist church last night. In the morning Rev. Mr. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of Plainfield, preached. In the evening many of the members of the church and Epworth League attended services at the Westfield Methodist church. Rev. C. C. Woodruff, a former popular pastor here, but for several years pastor of the Roselle church, preached.

A number of candidates for the ball team were out for practice again Saturday. The prospects for a strong representation team are bright, regular practice will begin about the middle of the month.

No official dog killer has as yet been appointed by the Township Committee for this season. The proclamation against unmuzzled dogs is not being enforced very closely.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the church.

The annual parish meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight in the church parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., entertained relatives from out of town over Sunday.

Yesterday being Palm Sunday special services were held in All Saints' Episcopal church.

Mr. and Mrs. William Deegan entertained friends from out of town yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The game between the South Plainfield Juniors and the South Plainfield A. C. Saturday resulted in the defeat of the Juniors by a score of 6 to 3. The Juniors held their opponents down to two runs for the first six innings, but a change of pitchers in the seventh inning for the Juniors, Pace going in instead of Teeple, resulted in the A. C. batting out five runs. The game was called after the seventh on account of the rain. The following was the line-up:

P. P. Juniors—Hannon, 3b; Rogers, 1b and l.f.; P. McDonough, ss; Walsh, 2b; Ulrich, c and 1b; Teeple, p; Miller, cf; A. McDonough, c and lf; D. Soffeldt, rf; Pace, 3b and p.

S. P. A. C.—Rondolph, 3b; C. Connors, c; E. McDonough, 1b; H. Soffield, p; Minnich, 2b; Smith, lf; J. Duffy, rf; Ryno, ss; Miller, cf.

John McDonough, of North Plainfield, visited his brother, Peter McDonough, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Randolph spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. T. Laing.

Clifford Schenck, of New Market, is visiting his cousin, Lester Soper.

Miss Mary Ruddy, of Plainfield, visited friends here yesterday.

Isaac Randolph, of Elizabeth, visited friends here Saturday.

GLOVE-MAKING PLANT FOR USE AS SILK MILL.

Through the firm of Hardingham & Perrin, of this city, the glove factory which was operated by Perrin-Freres et Cie, has been sold to the Rosenthal Brothers, silk importers, of New York. The concern will convert the old factory into a silk mill, which will begin operations about May 1. It is their purpose to start the new mill with about fifty looms, and soon as possible increase it to 200. This, of course, will necessitate the enlargement of the plant, which will be done as soon as the business will demand it.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Escaping steam from a boiler severely burned Mrs. Jennie Mengel, a Millville hotel proprietress.

In attempting to stop a runaway horse at Millville Harry Fisher was knocked down, sustaining a broken nose and contusions of the head and body.

Pleading guilty to breaking and entering the residence of James Clark, at Atco, Alfred and Frank Hall, negro boys, were Saturday sentenced in Camden to the State Reformatory.

After being confined to his bed nearly all winter, Barclay Smith, of Quinton, attempted to get up to sit in a chair, but fell and fractured a hip, which will hold him in bed for a couple of months more.

Knocked down and run over by a wagon while playing in the street, Saturday afternoon, John Anderson, eleven years old, of 1603 Mt. Ephraim avenue, Camden, sustained a fracture of the left leg.

There is much speculation among Tuckerton folks just now as to who is the worst man in Tuckerton. This speculation is due to the announcement of Rev. J. M. Buyers, who preached a sermon last night entitled "The Worst Man in Tuckerton."

State Fire Warden Price is investigating a series of fires that have occurred in the pine woods between Barnegat and Cedar Bridge. All have had their origin at points remote from any railroad, and their number and frequency have led to the belief that they have been the work of an incendiary.

Much anxiety is felt in Millville for the welfare of Captain John Douglass, of Clermont, and the crew of the three-masted schooner John Rose, which cleared Moss Point, Alabama, forty-six days ago, and has not since been heard from. The vessel carried a cargo of dry cypress lumber and was bound for New York city.

His head battered until he was senseless, Lee Carter, colored, was Friday held under $500 bail by Recorder Stackhouse in Camden on a charge of assault and battery on Policeman Troncone. Carter was in a street brawl which the officer endeavored to quell, and he put up a desperate battle before being clubbed into submission.

Following orders of officials at the head of the East Shore Line under which trolley cars in Atlantic avenue, Atlantic City, are being painted white, business men along the street are starting a movement to use the same color on every store and other building. Proposals for a "White Avenue," with pale blue trimmings, matching the municipal colors, are being received with enthusiasm.

Harry Downs, a Clayton expressman, has a rooster which for fighting abilities probably has no equal. Downs says he has no use for a dog, as the rooster is more protection than any dog he ever knew. Mr. and Mrs. Downs went away Friday and asked a neighbor, Rudolph Bartlett, to feed their chickens for them. Rudolph entered the yard, but was soon discovered by the rooster, which attacked him and gave him the fight of his life to keep from getting his eyes scratched out. When finally he made his escape the rooster perched himself on the gatepost and crowed victoriously for a long time.

ORIGINAL CHAFING DISH PARTY

Several young girls who didn't care for bridge or jigsaw puzzles and disliked guessing contests, decided to give a charming dish frolic to boy friends.

The mother of one of the girls offered her dining-room, which was provided with seats for four guests at each. On each table was placed a small square of zinc to protect the wood, a chafing dish and a small tray filled with condiments, butter, milk and sugar, also a long spoon for stirring, and a measuring cup.

The buffet was cleared, and on it were placed various raw materials, as eggs, cold meat, cheese, oysters, flaked fish, flour, several cakes of chocolate, maple sugar and a good-sized steak. There were also a bottle or two of ale and a flask of sherry to be used as seasoning, and several loaves of bread and a box of crackers.

The centretable was daintily set with heaped plates, vegetable dishes, tumblers, knives, forks and spoons, and a huge punch bowl was filled with lemonade to be drunk during the cooking.

Soon after the guests arrived they were escorted to the dining-room. The boys, not having been let into the secret of the entertainment, were much overcome to be told to put on long white aprons and a chef's cap. The girls at the same time donned dainty chafing dish aprons of swiss and bewitching frills of swiss for their heads.

The boys were told to match for partners. Small colored cards with a cooking recipe pasted on each side were cut into four irregular pieces. Half of these were put in one box, to be drawn by the girls, while the other half were separated and drawn by the boys.

Partners having been found, the four young people were supposed to cook the dish for which they had drawn the recipe.

The girls seated themselves at the table and the boys were told to get from the buffet the different ingredients called for in the recipe. Much amusement was afforded by the queer things they bought as many of the most ordinary foods were not recognized in their raw state.

After everything was in readiness the two boys at each table were compelled to cook their assigned dish without help from their partners, save were some critical mistake was imminent, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

When all the tables had finshed their cooking the girls acted as waitresses, passed plates and served the contents of each chafing dish. Every one present had a taste of everything that was prepared. At the close of the meal slips were passed and boys and girls voted on the dish they thought the best, the next best, and the worst. They also cast a ballot for the cleanest cook, the fussiest cook and the one who showed the most knack.

The winners were given different books on chafing dish cooking as prizes.

In preparing for the frolic each girl was supposed to bring a chafing dish, the piece of zinc or a tray, and her own apron and cap. The materials for the feast were bought from a common fund, while the club spent several merry afternoons making the caps and aprons of the boys from cheap muslin.

Among the dishes cooked were scrambled eggs, creamed hash, browned oysters, Welsh rarebit, a panned steak, chocolate and maple fudge, an omelet and lobster Newburg.

Four of the young people drew a recipe for ice cream, and two freezers, salt and a mallet for pounding ice—found in the kitchen—were supplied them, and they made the dessert for the party. As there was an extra couple, they were given a French percolator and a toasting fork and inducted into the mysteries of coffee making and toasting bread over the kitchen stove.

FACTS ABOUT WOMEN AT HOME AND ABROAD.

Mrs. Sarah R. Gilford recently served as a juror in a case in a Denver city court. She agreed with the male jurors in acquitting a milkman accused of striking a woman.

The first medal for artistic photographs of children at the Kansas State photographers' convention was awarded to a woman, Mrs. Helen L. Francis. About half the competitors for the prize were men.

In the high school at Dover, Mass., is a young Turkish woman from Smyrna, Mios Marika Lambichi, who is taking a preparatory course of two years, before entering Mt. Holyoke. She is a graduate of the Smyrna American Collegiate Institute.

The present awakening among the Hindu women is said to be largely due to the men of India, who are anxious to have educated wives and daughters. At the last convocation of the Bombay university two Bharman women took degrees. For the first time Hindu women were graduated from Madras University. At Malabar University Srimati Amma passed the language examination for the degree of A. B. She is married and the mother of a family. Some time ago she took the fine arts examination, it is said, at the express desire of her husband. She is a teacher in the local girls' college and coeditor of the Sarada, a literary journal.

HELPING HINTS AND AIDS FOR THE SEWING ROM.

Thread will knot less easily if the end that is broken from the spool is run through the eye of the needle.

In joining the edges of lace or embroidery, the neatest finish is made by buttonholing the edges in as tiny a seam as possible.

The gingham apron for the housewife at her daily task, especially if the maid is out and she has any kitchen work to do, is imperative, and she will find the long apron that buttons over the shoulder the most acceptable.

After cleaning the sewing machine several yards of stitching must be accomplished before the machine runs smoothly and without leaving oily marks. If you have any long seams on dark material sew them now before attempting fine and light work.

A FINGER PROTECTOR.

When making buttonhole stitch on plain sewing or on embroidery the constant drawing of the thread across the little finger will eventually cut it. If you have not a finger protector of one sort or another, just use the "ounce of prevention" instead, in the form of a small, round piece of court plaster pasted on the part of the finger the thread will pass over.

There are some sewers who find this less of an inconvenience than the purchasable article, because it is flat and close to the finger.

THE FICHU.

It will be worn.

It is seen on black satin blouses.

It is richly embroidered in metal tones.

Colored laces, net and embroideries also adorn it.

It is, of course, made of some soft, filmy material.

It is graceful, picturesque, distingue, and now, fashionable.

It was worn some seasons ago, and is returning to popularity.

PATENTED

Why Don't You Economize on Coal?

The hungry furnace and the coal man are a hard combination to beat, but the

BOYNTON

Square Fire-Pot

PATENTED

FURNACE

is the friend of the man who takes care of the fire. The square fire-pot prevents the clogging of clinkers around the sides of the fire. That means all fire—more heat per unit of space. The square pot gives a greater surface for combustion and heat radiation and actually takes less coal for a good fire. And then there's the Boynton special flue for carrying away the dust. You don't sift ashes all over the house when you shake down the BOYNTON.

Talk it over with the BOYNTON dealer in your town.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

Jim put down the lid of the trunk and sat upon it, feeling like a criminal because he was hiding something from Polly.

His consciousness of guilt was increased as he recalled how often she had forbidden Toby and himself to rush into reckless extravagances for her sake and how she had been more nearly angry than he had ever seen her when they had put their month's salaries together to buy her the spangled dress for her first appearance. It had taken a great many apologies and promises as to their future behavior to calm her, and now they had again disobeyed her. It would be a great relief when tonight's ordeal was over.

Jim watched Polly uneasily as she came from the dressing tent and stopped to gaze at the nearby church steeple. The incongruity of the slang that soon came from her delicately formed lips was lost upon him as she turned her eyes toward him.

"Say, Jim," she said, with a western drawl, "them's a funny lot of guys what goes to them church places, ain't they?"

"Most everybody has got some kind of a bug," Jim assented. "I guess they don't do much harm."

"'Member the time you took me into one of them places to get me outa the rain, the Sunday our wagon broke down? Well, that bunch we butted into wouldn't 'a' give Sells Bros. no cause for worry with that show a' theirn, would they, Jim?" She looked at him with withering disgust. "Say, wasn't that the punkiest stunt that fellow in black was doin' on the platform? You said Joe was only ten minutes gettin' the tire on to our wheel; but, say, you take it from me, Jim, if I had to wait another ten minutes as long as that one I'd be too old to go on a-ridin'."

Jim "'lowed" some church shows might be better than "that un," but Polly said he could have her end of the bet and summed up by declaring it no wonder that "the yaps in these towns is daffy about circuses if they don't have nothin' better 'an church shows to go to."

One of the grooms was entering the lot with Polly's horse. She stooped to tighten one of her sandals, and as she rose Jim saw her sway slightly and put one hand to her head. He looked at her sharply, remembering her faintness in the parade that morning.

"You ain't feelin' right," he said uneasily.

"You just bet I am," Polly answered, with an independent toss of her head. "This is the night we're goin' to make them Rubes in there sit up, ain't it, Bingo?" she added, placing one arm affectionately about the neck of the big white horse that stood waiting near the entrance.

"You bin ridin' too reckless lately," said Jim sternly as he followed her. "I don't like it. There ain't no need of your puttin' in all them extra stunts. Your act is good enough without 'em. Nobody else ever done 'em, an' nobody 'd miss 'em if you left 'em out."

Polly turned with a triumphant ring in her voice. The music was swelling for her entrance.

"You ain't my mother, Jim; you're my *grand*mother," she taunted, and

"Most everybody has got some kind of a bug," Jim assented.

with a crack of her whip she was away on Bingo's back.

"It's the spirit of the dead one that's got into her," Jim mumbled as he turned away, still seeing the flash in the departing girl's eyes.

CHAPTER III.

POLLY and Bingo always made the audience "sit up" when they swept into the ring. She was so young, so gayly clad, so light and joyous in all her poses. She seemed scarcely to touch the back of the white horse as they dashed round the ring in the glare of the tent lights. The other performers went through their work mechanically while Polly rode.

As for Polly, her work had never lost its first interest. Jim may have been right when he said that the [illegible] of the dead mother had got into her, but it must have been an unsatisfied spirit, unable to fulfill its ambition in the body that once held it, for it sometimes played strange pranks with Polly. Tonight her eyes shone and her lips were parted in anticipation as she leaped lightly over the many colored streamers of the wheel of silken ribbons held by Barker in the center of the ring and by Toby and the tumblers on the edge of the bank.

With each change of her act the audience cheered and frantically applauded. The band played faster; Bingo's pace increased; the end of her turn was coming. The tumblers arranged themselves around the ring with paper hoops. Bingo was fairly racing. She went through the first hoop with a crash of tearing paper.

"Heigh, Bingo!" she shouted as she bent her knees to make ready for the final leap.

Bingo's neck was stretched. He had never gone so fast before. Barker looked uneasy. Toby forgot to go on with his accustomed tricks. Jim watched anxiously from the entrance.

The paper of one hoop was still left unbroken. The attendant turned his eyes to glance at the oncoming girl. The hoop shifted slightly in his clumsy hand as Polly leaped straight up from Bingo's back, trusting to her first calculation. Her forehead struck the edge of the hoop. She clutched wildly at the air. Bingo galloped on, and she fell to the ground, striking her head against the ironbound stake at the edge of the ring.

Everything stopped. There was a gasp of horror. The musicians dropped their instruments. Bingo halted and looked back uneasily. She lay unconscious and seemingly lifeless.

A great cry went up in the tent. Panic stricken men, women and children began to clamber down from their seats, while others nearest the ground attempted to jump into the ring. Barker, still grasping his long whip, rushed to the girl's side and shouted wildly to Toby:

"Say something, you. Get 'em back!"

Old Toby turned his white face to the crowd. His features worked convulsively, but he could not speak. His grief was so grotesque that the few who saw him laughed hysterically. He could not even go to Polly. His feet seemed pinned to the earth.

Jim rushed into the tent at the first cry of the audience. He lifted the limp form tenderly and, kneeling in the ring, held her bruised head in his hands.

"Can't you get a doctor?" he shouted desperately to Barker.

"Here's the doctor!" some one called, and a stranger came toward them. He bent over the seemingly lifeless form, his fingers on the tiny wrist, his ear to the heart.

"Well, sir?" Jim faltered, for he had caught the puzzled look in the doctor's eyes as his deft hand pressed the cruelly wounded head.

"I can't tell just yet," said the doctor. "She must be taken away."

"Where can we take her?" asked Jim, a look of terror in his great, troubled eyes.

"The parsonage is the nearest house," said the doctor. "I am sure the pastor will be glad to have her there until we can find out how badly she is hurt."

In an instant Barker was back in the center of the ring. He announced that Polly's injuries were slight, called the attention of the audience to the wonderful concert to take place and bade them make ready for the thrilling chariot race.

Jim, blind with despair, lifted the light burden and staggered out of the tent, while the band played furiously and the people fell back into their seats. The Roman chariots thundered and clattered around the outside of the ring, the audience cheered the winner of the race, and for the moment Polly was forgotten.

The telephone is the connecting link between city and country.

It is of mutual advantage. With telephone service in his suburban home the business man in the city, or wherever he may be, can keep in touch with his household. A friend for dinner, time of arrival, any unusual delay—these, and countless other messages the telephone carries almost instantly thereby relieving the worry of the family and simplifying household arrangements. Every suburban home should have a telephone.

PISCATAWAY SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS IN SESSION.

The 204th annual meeting of the Piscataway Seventh-Day Baptist church, which was held yesterday afternoon and evening, was well attended. The reports from the trustees showed the church had had an excellent year, and had increased both in attendance and membership. After J. R. Dunham had been elected trustee for five years it was decided to hold a special meeting tomorrow night for the purpose of re-organizing the church. Miss Ethel Rogers was elected organist and chorister.

At 5:30 o'clock supper was served at the parsonage by the men. The evening exercises consisted of music, recitations and addresses.

Bowling and General Sports

BOWLING.

Local bowlers who desire to roll in the B. N. B. A. championships, to be held in Madison Square Garden next month, are requested to meet at Campbell's alleys on Thursday evening. Plainfield will be represented by at least one five-man team and several two-man teams.

A five-man match game is on for tomorrow night at Campbell's alleys, the contestants being the Armrights of this city and the Brunswick A. C. five of New Brunswick.

It looks as though the championship of Campbell's two-man tourney lies between the three teams now at the head of the list.

"Tommy" Boyle and "Bill" Owens were in action Saturday preparing for the series with Skelly and Miller tonight.

The former has promised Skelly to take two of the three games.

Garwood A. C. Challenges.

The Garwood A. C. are now ready to book games with all teams in their vicinity, and such towns as Flemington, Clinton, Highbridge, Somerville, Red Bank and Orange Valley, who have open dates can be accommodated. The team is now getting ready for their grand masque ball on April 23, the funds which will go towards purchasing new uniforms.

Wyandottes Beat Netherwood.

The Wyandottes, a baseball team of Netherwood, defeated the Berckman street team by a score of 12 to 4 at the Central street diamond, Saturday. The Wyandottes' line-up was as follows: Griffin, catcher; Wilmerding, pitcher; Hand, first base; Steboard, second base; Costaloes, short stop; Coughlam, third base; Horden, left field; and Christiansen, right field.

No P. H. S. Game.

The game between the Plainfield and the Cayuga High Schools, which was to have been played Saturday morning, did not take place as the latter failed to apepar. Not to be disappointed a scrub team was picked up which afforded practice for the P. H. S. nine.

P. H. S. Plays Somerville.

The Plainfield High School and Somerville will play the first match game at the Crescent Avenue oval this afternoon. Both teams are in fine condition and a good game is expected.

Trinity Begins Practice.

The manager and captain of the Trinity baseball team wants all candidates who intend playing this season to report for practice every afternoon at 4 o'clock.

J. E. LINDE DEAD.

Paper Man Succumbs to Ptomaine Poisoning.

John E. Linde, of 832 Hudson street, Hoboken, is dead at his home as a result of ptomaine poisoning. He was first attacked last Monday, and the end came yesterday. He was president of the J. E. Linde Paper Company, and was formerly president of the New York Paper Association. Most of his life has been spent in Hoboken. He was 54 years old and is survived by a widow and children.

Will Form Industrial Association.

Announcement was made in Elizabeth today that a State Industrial Association will be formed at that place on Thursday, April 15, under the direction of the State Industrial Commission, appointed sometime ago by Governor J. Franklin Fort. There will be an inspection of the Singer plant in the morning, followed by a conference in the afternoon, after which dinner will be served. A public meeting will be held in the evening to be addressed by prominent men from all parts of the State.

Proctor's Strong Attractions.

Proctor's theatre is devoted almost exclusively to life motion pictures and it is the aim to present the very best to be found in this country or abroad. There are other features which make the popular playhouse a strong attraction. The music, in charge of Mrs. E. N. Downs, is greatly enjoyed by patrons. New program today.

Tax List Issued.

Six months overdue, a Plainfield tax list was issued today in pamphlet form by a taxpayer on his own responsibility. It contains the amounts of personal and real estate taxes paid for 1908-1909.

PERSONAL.

Miss Annie E. Casey, of Bayonne, is the guest of relatives at Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Edgar, of Fairview avenue, are spending a week at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Cyrus T. Small, of Rockview avenue, is visiting at Lynn, Mass., for several weeks.

Miss Mary E. Decker, of the Plainfield High School, is visiting her parents in Rockaway, N. J.

Miss Florence Terry, of Montclair, is visiting the Misses Myra and Elsie Dunavan, of East Second street.

The Misses Louise and Minnie Hahn, of East Second street, spent Sunday with relatives at Paterson.

Rev. W. E. Honeyman, of Lincoln place, is recovering from an illness that detained him at home for some time.

Mrs. John Cray Foster, of Mercer avenue, has been visiting at the home of S. J. Hegeman, of New Germantown.

Miss Margaret H. Schick, of Silver Lake, N. Y., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George Schmidt, of Watchung.

Miss Alice A. Pugh, of West Fourth street, left Saturday for Washington, where she will spend a few days.

Miss Sara C. Sutphen and John Ferris, of Long Branch, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Minton, of East Sixth street.

Rev. Dr. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will preach at one of the daily services to be held this week at the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, of which Rev. Dr. Richards is pastor.

SCHOOLS TO BE CLOSED HERE ON GOOD FRIDAY.

The Legislature at its present session having set apart Good Friday as a holiday, there will be no sessions in the public schools in either city or borough on that day. This will be the first time in the history of the local schools that the day has been observed.

The Plainfield theatre will be closed on Good Friday.

Mrs. Catherine Lawson-Boynton.

Mrs. Catherine Lawson-Boynton, daughter of Mrs. Samuel Q. Lawson, formerly of West Seventh street and Grant avenue, died Saturday night at her home, 134 West 97th street, New York, following a long illness. The family removed from this city to New York about eight years ago. Beside a mother, Mrs. Boynton is survived by a husband and a fifteen-month-old daughter. The funeral service will be held from the late home Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

All-Day Missionary Meeting.

An all-day meeting of the women's foreign and home missionary societies of the First M. E. church will be held in Vincent chapel tomorrow. There will be a sewing meeting in the morning and at 11 o'clock a business meeting of the foreign society. A basket luncheon will be served at noon. The business meeting of the home society will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the subject for discussion will be "The New Migration."

Ferdinan Rockafellow Buried.

The funeral of Ferdinan Rockafellow took place from his late residence, 421 West Second street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. J. O. McKelvy, of Warren chapel. During the services Mrs. John Mandley sang "Face to Face." The pall bearers were Daniel Kreitting, Frank Carroll, Fred Wilbee, Frank Ingraham, J. P. Clawson and Andrew Connell. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Bible Class Entertainment.

The Young Men's Bible Class, of the Trinity Reformed church, will give a musical and literary entertainment in the lecture room of the church, April 20, at 8 o'clock. The class has secured Frank Reynolds, a well-known drawing room entertainer, from Boston, to feature the program. E. D. Young will sing several selections. The proceeds will go towards athletic the association of the class.

Ploughed Up Last Year's Potatoes.

James Knox, a farmer residing near Charles Debele's farm on Rock avenue, while ploughing up his land on Saturday for spring farming, unearthed potatoes of last year's planting and had them for dinner yesterday. This fact is due to the mild winter weather, the frost not having reached the potatoes.

—Grover Apgar will soon move his family from Bound Brook to Dunellen.

BOOST THE PRICE OF ICE ONE HUNDRED PER CENT.

The five-cent piece of ice, which has been the daily supply in the summer for most of the families of Northern New Jersey who use ice at all, will have disappeared this season. The advance in the price to householders has brought the cost up to 70 cents per hundred, and this means that there will be no such thing as a five-cent piece of ice for family purposes. The wholesalers have advanced the price 100 per cent. to the dealers, who expect to make their advance to the consumers this week.

Wholesale dealers in Newark and vicinity have announced an increase of 100 per cent., to become effective today. The doubling of the price that has stood since last summer is explained by the poor harvest of last winter. Manufactured and natural ice are affected alike by the change.

RANDOLPH PERKINS MAKES A NOVEL PLEA

Former Assemblyman Randolph Perkins has filed a plea to the declaration in the suit of John F. Cadmus against Margaret A. Bogart to recover seventeen months' rent of a house in Hackensack. The plea asserts that the house was overrun with insects, and goes on to say:

"Said dwelling house was, with the knowledge of the plaintiff, infested and overrun by certain blood-sucking anthropophageous insects known as cimex lectularius, the habits and irressistible propensities of which said insects were and are to come upon the householders like a thief in the night, and with force and forepps to attack, harass and make war upon householders, endangering the bodily comfort, peace and domestic felicity of said householders and causing them to flee away to be at rest

"From the proud cimex, which maliciously destroy,
"And ride o'er tenants with malignant joy."

The plea adds that the plaintiff owner, "well knowing the premises, and intending craftily and subtiely to deceive and defraud the defendant, would not or did not inform the defendant of the infesting and overrunning of said dwelling house by said blood-sucking and anthropophageous insects, as aforesaid, but, on the contrary thereof, falsely, fraudulently and craftly concealed the same from this defendant."

Further on it is asserted that after the lease had been made the insects "refused to leave said premises, and the cimex gave answer 'Evict me if you can, sir!' thereby rendering said household untenable and uninhabitable."

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Edward T. Wilson, of Sycamore avenue, has purchased a 1909 Buick touring car.

—Frank Lock has taken possession of the property at 20 Willow avenue, the borough.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Case are now residing in their new house on Evergreen avenue.

—Allen J. Wildman, of Albany, N. Y., was the guest of Harry S. Sanderson, of Proctor's theatre, today. He will return here Thursday for a three days' engagement in a program of vocal and instrumental music and monologue work.

TWO DEATHS AFTER PROPERTY TRANSFER.

A strange and fatal coincidence marked the transfer of the house on Chestnut street in Elizabeth formerly occupied by Mrs. Sarah Reeder. The property had been bought by Patrick Sarsfield Foley, and she was preparing to move. She dropped dead Monday night. Thursday night Mr. Foley, whose household goods were packed in readiness for removal to the Chestnut street place, died of pneumonia, after being ill only a few days.

Mr. Foley died at his home, 330 Court street, Elizabethport. He was born in County Kildare, Ireland, and served in the United States navy. He lost an arm by falling through the hatchway of a warship on which he was serving. He was one of the charter members of Father Henry Council, Catholic Benevolent Legion, and a member of St. Patrick's church. Mr. Foley at his death owned considerable property on Third and Court streets, Elizabethport.

He was twice married. He is survived by a widow and several children by his first wife. He was clerk of the Elizabeth market and janitor of the Elizabeth City Hall. In politics he was a Democrat.

Paterson Has "Dry" Sunday.

If there were any "wet" spots in Paterson yesterday they were hard to find. Chief Bimson, of the police department, now says that he believes Paterson is the cleanest city in the country. The reform agitation began two weeks ago, when the ban was put on all forms of gambling. The "To Let" sign is now displayed on several houses which formerly contained roulette and faro layouts.

of the Holy Communion at 10 o'clock. There will be a service of morning prayer in the church Wednesday morning at the same hour, and Rev. William P. Simpson, of St. Clement's church, New York, former rector of the church. The Good Friday Passion service, for three hours, beginning at noon, will be preceded by morning prayer at 10 o'clock and there will be a service of evening prayer in the church at 8. A service of morning prayer will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, and there will be holy baptism in connection with the evensong at 5 o'clock.

MASONS TO HONOR WILLIAM D. WOLFSKEIL.

A banquet in honor of William D. Wolfskeil, grand master of the Masons of the State of New Jersey, whose term will be ended on April 21 next, will be given by the members of the eleventh masonic district, which comprises all the German Freemason lodges in the State, at Krueger's Auditorium, Newark, tomorrow night.

Other officers of the grand lodge will be present at the banquet, and Past District Deputy Adolph Klee will act as toastmaster. Carl Goetz, district deputy of the eleventh masonic district, will be one of the guests at the banquet. His present term will also end on April 21, when the annual convention of the Masons of the State will be held at Trenton.

The committee in charge of the banquet is composed of Adolph Klee, Fritz Stersberg and the masters of the eleven German lodges in the State.

MEN OF PROMINENCE TO ADDRESS PEACE CONGRESS.

The second National Peace Congress will be held in Chicago, Monday-Wednesday, May 3-5, and any Plainfielder wishing to attend can obtain the properly signed credentials from Mayor Charles J. Fisk. The great object of the congress will be the strengthening of public sentiment for international arbitration and the consideration of the next steps to be taken toward the realization of universal peace.

Speakers of world-wide reputation have been invited, and Government officials from all parts of the world, including Great Britain; Germany, France, Japan, China and South America. J. M. Dickinson, secretary of war, is the president of the congress and will preside at the coming session.

PRINCETON ALUMNI TO DINE MAYOR M'CLELLAN.

New York, April 5.—An alumni dinner under the auspices of the Princeton Club of New York and in honor of Mayor George B. McClellan, '86, will be held on Tuesday, April 20, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Among the speakers will be Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University; Judge George Gray and Edmund Wilson, attorney-general for New Jersey.

Fireman's Removal Upset.

Trenton, April 5.—Justice Swayze filed an opinion in the Supreme Court Saturday setting aside the resolution af the Board of Fire Commissioners of Jersey City, under which Victor D. Ker was removed from the department. Ker was removed because the department physicians had reported that his physical condition was impaired, and he was unfit for fire duty. He was not given a hearing, to which Justice Swayze thinks he was entitled, upon the ground that the action of the commissioners was judicial in its character and the resolution affected the prosecutor to his detriment.

Easter Fund to Complete Church.

At the services in St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal church, Morristown, yesterday morning, the rector, Rev. Philemon F. Sturges, announced that the Easter colections would be given to the church building fund. The building was started over twenty years ago, and has cost to date nearly $250,000. The construction work has been done by sections. The last section will cost $13,511.50. There is a surplus in the treasuary of $4,757.38, so that the amount to be raised next Sunday is $8,754.02.

Want Civil Service Chauffeus.

The Civil Service Commission announces an examination to be held in Newark on Saturday, April 24, for chauffeur and mechanician for the new automobile ambulance of the Board of Health, and chauffeur and mechanician for the Board of Works, paver and street inspectors for the Board of Works and instructor in the bakery at the Newark City Home, at Verona.

A Dance for the Juniors.

The seniors of the Plainfield High School tendered a dance to the juniors at the high school auditorium, Saturday night. Owing to the inclement weather the attendance was not large, not more than twenty people being present. The program was an excellent one and thoroughly enjoyed.

Special Musical Service.

Under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, the quartet of the First Presbyterian church, rendered parts of Stainer's "Crucifixion," at a special musical service last night. The solo parts were well rendered.

HERRESHOFF
WHAT A LIGHT CAR MEANS TO YOU

Do you realize what it means to you if you can get a light car of the same class as the big cars, built of the same material, of the same excellence of design and careful construction, but weighing only 1600 pounds?

Stop and figure it out: You save 60 per cent or more in initial outlay. The depreciation in a big car in a single year would pay the cost of a new light car.

The cost of up-keep of a light car is one-third what the big car costs to maintain. It will stand up, go anywhere that the big car will go and do anything except carry excessive weight or attain excessive speed. Over bad roads it will average better than the big car. The only light car that is bred of the same stock as the best American and foreign cars is

HER BURNS PROVE FATAL

Mrs. Henry's Dress Ignited and She was Aflame From Head to Foot.

I. P. RUNYON'S MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Taken to Somerset Hospital Where Doctors Said There Was No Hope For Her.

Mrs. William S. Henry, of Washington Valley, mother of Mrs. Isaac P. Runyon, of Prospect place, the borough, died in the Somerset Hospital, Somerville, at 3 o'clock this morning, as the result of frightful burns received yesterday morning while buring some leaves about the house.

After raking the leaves into a pile she touched a lighted match to them. Before she realized it her dress had caught from the flames and she was ablaze from head to foot. Her husband and the hired man were not at home at the time, but her screams attracted Ernest and Harry Snyder, who live five hundred feet away and they, together with Louis Hoffmeister, rushed to the assistance of Mrs. Henry.

Before the rescuers could extinguish the blaze the woman was burned almost beyond recognition. She was carried unconscious into the house. Mr. Henry returned within a short time and upon his arrival arranged to have his wife removed at once to the hospital at Somerville, where she was placed under the care of Dr. Stillwell. A little later Dr. P. J. Zeglio, of the borough, was called in consultation. The physicians announced that Mrs. Henry's burns would prove fatal. She passed away at 3 o'clock this morning without regaining consciousness. The members of the family were with her at the time.

Mrs. Henry was Miss Mary Louise Quick, daughter of James Quick, a builder of Somerville, at which place she was born sixty-one years ago. For twenty-five years she had lived in Washington Valley. She was a faithful member of the Mt. Horeb M. E. church. Surviving her are the husband, one daughter, Mrs. Isaac P. Runyon, and a son, William B. Henry, of Newark.

The funeral service will be held from the late home Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

ROUTINE MATTERS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL

Mayor McBride, of Paterson, in a communication to the Common Council at its April meeting, last night, stated that the legislative measure providing for the distribution of railroad tax money among the school districts had passed, and urged the city to use its influence in having the Governor sign it this week. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Residents in the vicinity of Midway avenue, between Hill street and Johnston avenue, asked the Council to put a stop to the practice of dumping refuse there. The communication was referred to the Board of Health.

Public hearings were granted on the ordinances providing for the macadamizing of certain streets and the opening of Stelle avenue, but no one appeared to speak for or against the proposed improvements. The Public Service orporation reported the location of sixteen new street lamps, as ordered during the past few months.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk appointed William F. Walters and James O'Keefe as call-men in the fire department to take the places of E. P. Townley and J. B. Conklin, resigned. The appointments were confirmed.

City Treasurer W. F. Arnold reported that he had received a final statement from Alexander Gilbert, as treasurer of the Lincoln Day celebration and $91.75 the balance of the fund appropriated had been returned and placed in the general fund.

CITY WILL GET FINES FOR EXCISE OFFENSES

For the purpose of making it possible for the City Judge to dispose of violations of that section of the ordinance regulating to the sale of liquor in quantities from one quart to five gallons, Mr. Clay offered an amendment to the ordinance at the April meeting of the Common Council, last night. It was read for information, laid on the table and will be acted upon later. The original provision called for a fine of $100 or sixty days in jail for violations, and Mr. Clay's amendment makes the fine $20 for each offense.

The matter has been under advisement for several weeks, and if the change is made it will do away with the trial by jury in cases of violation and bring the offenders before City Judge Runyon. This is considered the most satisfactory as well as the easiest way of disposing of such violations.

COMMUTER'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Dragged half the length of the platform at the North Avenue station, Van Wyck Brooks narrowly escaped death this morning in an unsuccessful attempt to board the 7:55 train for New York. He was badly scratched and bruised about the face and hands, but was able to go to town on the next train.

The young man rushed from the station waiting room as the train pulled out, and attempted to jump aboard. He was carrying his overcoat on his arm, and it got in his way as he seized the guard rail and attempted to climb aboard. He was thrown heavily and dragged along with the train, which rapidly developed speed. Just before reaching the bridge girders at Watchung avenue, the young man had presence of mind enough to let go and dropped by the track. Passengers and railroad men rushed to his assistance and an examination showed that no bones were broken, but that he was badly bruised.

DR. EATON TO RESIDE IN "CITY BEAUTIFUL"

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, the popular pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, together with his family, will soon make their home in this city. He was formerly pastor of John D. Rockefeller's church in Cleveland and less than a year ago accepted a call to the New York church of which he is now pastor.

Prior to assuming the duties of his new charge, Dr. Eaton was very ill with typhoid fever, and during the convalescing period he lived at Truell Inn, on Park avenue. While here he formed an attachment for Plainfield and decided to establish his residence here if his work would permit so that he and his family might enjoy the advantages of the country and get away from the hustle and bustle of city life. The minister has about decided on a property here which he will purchase and when not engaged in work at his church, will spend the time here.

Since going to the Madison Avenue church, Dr. Eaton has been successful in increasing its membership. He is considered one of the leading ministers in the Baptist denomination and is a man of charming personality.

To Honor Dr. Whitney.

Rev. Dr. Jonathan M. Meeker, who is president of Centenary Institute at Hackettstown, suggested at the session of the Newark Conference yesterday that the new auditorium building be called Ferry Hall and the chapel Whitney chapel, the latter in honor of the president-emeritus, Rev. D. George A. Whitney, of this city, who has performed great service for the institution.

Entertained Flower Committee.

The flower committee of Warren chapel was entertained last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz, of the borough. The house was elaborately decorated with flowers for the occasion. A. J. Everitt, chairman of the committee, was in charge of the decorations. The entertainment comprised music, magic and games, followed by refreshments.

WILL LICENSE BOW-WOWS

The Proposed Dog Ordinance is Much More Strict in Its Provisions.

WAS READ TO CITY FATHERS.

Tax Removed and $2.50 License Substituted—Identification Tag to Be Provided.

If the amended dog ordinance as offered and read for information at the April meeting of the Common Council, last night, is adopted, it will provide a license fee of $2.50, an increase of fifty cents over the present dog tax, and numerous other restrictions will be enforced, which, in the opinion of the committee, will solve a troublesome problem. Mr. Holt is the chairman of the committee, and he has held several conferences with Corporation Counsel Marsh preparatory to the drafting of the amended ordinance to cover all legal points.

The ordinance provides that the owners of dogs shall sign their names at the office of the city clerk, giving a complete description of their dogs, as to color, sex, markings or any particular feature. Upon the payment of the license fee the owner will receive a tag. A fee of $10 is provided for a kennel license, where there are five or more dogs in the kennel. A complete description of these dogs must be furnished the city clerk, who in turn shall give this information to Chief Kiely, and he shall acquaint the policemen concerning these dogs for their own information.

The dogs are to be provided with a metal tag to be furnished by the city and the design is to be changed each year for at least three years. The Mayor may at his own discretion order all dogs muzzled and on May 1 of each year a pound is to be established and a poundkeeper appointed for the impounding of unmuzzled dogs. The dogs are to be kept at least seventy-two hours for redemption and the poundkeeper is to receive twenty-five cents a day for the keep of each dog. It will cost $1 to redeem a dog. The dogcatcher is to receive fifty cents for each dog captured. Violations of the ordinance call for a penalty of $20 for each offense. No license will be required for dogs brought here for show purposes or dogs brought here on a visit.

While it is believed that the ordinance contains many excellent features, many are of the opinion that in other respects it is too drastic and would not meet with general approbation. The city paid a bill of about $150 last night to the dogcatcher, and some of the Councilmen are of the opinion that the ridding the city of worthless canines is an expensive proposition. Objection is also made to the proposed ordinance, $2.50 being considered too high for a single license and $10 too low for a kennel permit.

SCOTCH PLAINS BAPTISTS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual parish meeting of the Scotch Plains Baptist church was held last night, the pastor, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, being chairman and Edward D. Johnston, church clerk, acted as secretary. The principal business comprised the presentation of reports and the election of three trustees for three years. The report of the treasurer showed a deficit for the year, but the several reports fro mthe societies connected with the church showed all to be in excellent condition with a balance on the right side. This was especially true of the Sunday-school.

John Bornmann, Edward D. Johnston and Captain H. B. Saunders were elected trustees. The deacons of the church were authorized to prepare and have printed a church manual for distribution among the members, also to arrange a revised list of the church membership with the present addresses. After the meeting there was a social hour and refreshments were served.

The spiritual interest which has been manifested in the church since Mr. Mathiews became pastor has been most encouraging to him and he took occasion to thank the members, expressing hope that the coming year would be the best in the history of the church.

Petit Jurors for May.

In the Union County Court at Elizabeth, today, Sheriff Robert Kirkland drew the following Plainfielders for service on the petit jury for the first two weeks in May: Arthur L. Titsworth, William McD. Coriell, W. Clifford Dobbins, Edward A. Laing, Henry Leifke, Abraham Angleman, George Voehl, J. Fred MacDonald and Thomas Hanna.

Miss Catherine Knox, of Woodbine avenue, has entered Muhlenberg Hospital as a pupil nurse.

LICENSES FOR TAXICABS

Amendment to Ordinance Provides for a $10. Fee for Auto Vehicles.

FINE FOR FRAUD FIXED AT $20.

City Fathers Give Hospital $1,500—The Unsual Monthly Reports Are Filed.

An amendment to the ordinance regulating the licensing of hackmen, peddlers, hucksters, etc., was offered by Mr. Clay at the April meeting of the Common Council, last night, to include the operation of motor vehicles in the city. The ordinance as amended was read for information, laid on the table, it being the intention of that body to act upon it at a meeting in the near future.

The only changes in the ordinance as amended are made to cover the operation of motor vehicles and regulate the charges. It provides for a license fee of $10 for each motor vehicle and in addition a fee of $1 for which the driver will receive a license to operate the same. The ordinance fixes the charges at thirty cents for one or four passengers for the first half-mile and ten cents for each additional quarter mile, with a charge of ten cents for each six minutes in waiting. A taxicab can be called a distance of a mile and half free of charge, but for a greater distance a charge of twenty cents can be made.

The ordinance further provides that each taxicab shall be equipped with a taximeter of approved design, to be attached to the axle, and that the Mayor or City Judge shall have the power to revoke the license under which the taxicab is operated upon proof of fraud in making charges or tampering with the taximeter. A fine of $20 for each offense in violations of the ordinance may be imposed.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that he granted thirty-three permits during February, while Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of thirty-eight sewer permits during the months of February and March. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District court, reported receipts amounting to $101.15 and disbursements of $25.56, with a balance of $75.60, for the past month.

In response to a request from W. L. Saunders, chairman of the finance committee of Muhlenberg Hospital, Mr. Mygatt offered a resolution, which was adopted, appropriating $1,500 for the hospital to cover the expense of caring for the city's indigent poor during the coming year. This is the annual custom. Another resolution offered by Mr. Mygatt and adopted, provided for the transfer of $5,000 from the general fund to the fire account and $2,000 from the general fund to the poor account.

The Council accepted the offer of Harry Dencklau to settle his claim against the city for $30, and arrangements were made to secure his release upon the payment of that amount. The claim was for injuries received by his horse as a result of street obstructions.

An ordinance to vacate Raymond avenue, between East Front street and Midway avenue, was offered by Mr. Gloak, adopted on two readings, ordered advertised and Monday night, May 3, was fixed as the time for a public hearing on the proposed action.

Mr. Mygatt moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday night, April 12, at which time matters pertaining to the fire department and finances will be discussed.

DEMOCRATS TO DINE AT KENSINGTON TONIGHT.

Thomas Jefferson and his Democracy will be the subjects of toasts and speeches by politicians at the Hotel Kensington tonight, when the Jefferson dinner, which has been arranged by Walter Linbarger, will draw together more than three-score followers of that political faith, it is promised.

Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer will be the toastmaster and will call upon Mayor Otto Wittpen, of Jersey City, and Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, as out-of-town speakers. History has shown that no banquet is complete without "Farmer-orator" James E. Martine, of Cedar Brook, and "Jim" will be there and may be induced to respond to the toast "Democracy, the Salvation of the Country." Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, will also speak. Dinner will be served at about 8 o'clock.

—The fire department was summoned by telephone to put out a grass fire on Belleview avenue yesterday afternoon. There was no damage.

NEED FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

Charity Organization Society Makes Appeal for Funds to Carry on Its Work.

FOR OUR "HUMAN LIABILITIES."

Noble Undertaking of Philanthropic Association Seriously Handicapped By Lack of Finances.

The Daily Press gladly gives the requested publicity to the following self-explanatory communication:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Just a word with you about the people of Plainfield. Last year there were 232 families who found it necessary to ask for our aid. They represented at least a thousand individuals; five per cent. of the population. We might call them our human liabilities.

Who met these "liabilities?" The people of Plainfield; that is, some of them. About the same number, in fact, as the applicants. Apparently, therefore, our human assets and liabilities have about balanced each other in this city. But, the liabilities are increasing. We are only half through our fiscal year, and the treasury is empty.

What shall we do about it? There are 25 men working in the woodyard. Shall we lock them out? There are a score of women who are being helped by "sewing-orders." Must they stop? Our agent has visited the families of a hundred and fifty free hospital patients. Can we afford to cut this work short? Speaking of our agent, the constant strain of over-work has brought her to the verge of a breakdown. Shall we give her an assistant, or tell her to limit her activity to her strength, instead of extending it according to the needs of the community?

In other words, shall we keep Plainfield up as a going concern, or let her drift into the backward class?

The stress of poverty has been felt everywhere this winter. The relief pressure has never been greater. Other places have risen to the emergency. What shall we do about it?

Will you, Mr. Reader, be an "asset"—or are you content to stay in the class that does not bear any interest? Will you think it over, and let us know as soon as possible? The treasurer is Mr. Wm. G. Wright, 516 West Eighth street, Plainfield.

HUGH F. FOX,
President, Charity Organization Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

COST ONE HUNDRED TO VACCINATE 700 PUPILS.

Medical inspectors of the city schools, Dr. T. H. Tomlinson and Dr. A. H. VanHorn, reported at the meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education, last night, that during the past month more than seven hundred pupils at the various schools have been vaccinated. This precautionary measure taken by the city school fathers comes high, for each of the physicians will receive $50 addition for this special work. The work of vaccination among the pupils is not yet entirely completed.

An effort is to be made in all the schools to have the pupils co-operate in the possible development an1 spread of epidemics by special care of themselves. Cards giving a series of rules and instructions for cleanliness and personal health were ordered last night and will be distributed in the various schools as soon as they are printed. Personal cleanliness, care of the hands, teeth and hair are especially urged, and there are directions for exercise and plenty of fresh air while sleeping.

BOROUGH EXEMPTS ELECT AT ANNUAL MEETING.

The Exempt Firemen of North Plainfield, held their annual meeting in the Saengerbund Hall last night. The following officers were elected: President, Louis Feiring; vice-president, Augustus Feiring; secretary and treasurer, David Bodine; financial secretary, James Walker.

After the election representatives to the State Firemen's Exempt Association, which meets in Phillipsburg soon, were chosen, they being James Anderson, David Allen, John Schenck, George Hummer. On June 14 there will be a large turnout from the borough to take part in the parade held in Newark. The delegates chosen to attend were David Bodine, J. J. Stahl and James Walker.

Attended Wedding Anniversary.

A party of about forty Plainfielders went to New Brunswick last night by special trolley car to attend the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Suydam, uncle and aunt of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dunn, of this city.

BURGLAR GETS LOOT AT COMPTON'S HOME

Entering the bedroom where Mr. Compton was sleeping at an early hour this morning, a burglar took a valuable watch and chain belonging to H. C. Compton, of 1014 West Front street, and after securing a pocketbook and $7 in money, made good his escape without waking anyone. Mr. Compton did not discover his loss until this morning, and he cannot understand how the watch could be taken from his room.

Mr. Compton, who is not in the best of health and is about sixty years of age, has been complaining of his inability to sleep, and declared today that the noise of passing trolley cars during the night kept him awake until after 2 o'clock. He said that it is his custom to put his watch under his pillow before retiring, but he left it on a stand near the bed last night.

PARK OFFER MADE TO CITY FATHERS

The Plainfield Park Association which recently acquired about eighty acres of land in the western end of the borough and city, communicated with the Common Council, last night, offering to deed a portion of this land to the city for park purposes, under certain conditions. This offer is similar to the one made to the Borough Council, last week, and Councilman Herbert Buxton, who was president pro tem. in the absence of President R. I. Tolles, referred the whole matter jointly to the committee on public affairs and the Shade Tree Commission.

It is the intention of the Plainfield Park Association to set apart a certain number of acres for park purposes, in the centre of which is to be a lake, and in the communication it was stated that the object is to have the city accept a portion of the property and arrange for its maintenance as a park at the least possible expense to the city. The association is planning to lay out numerous boulevards and erect a number of fine dwellings.

PHYSICIAN FIRES AT A BURGLAR IN DUNELLEN

Two bold attempts at robbery were thwarted at Dunellen last night when Dr. T. H. Platt, of Dunellen avenue, fired three shots at a man whom he heard attempting to enter his kitchen window. The noise of the shooting scared away another man, who was at the same time trying to force an entrance at the home of Councilman Richards, who lives next door.

The shooting occurred at about 3 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Thomas Sawyer, the doctor's mother-in-law, who is a light sleeper, heard a noise at a kitchen window. She aroused the physician, who secured his revolver and entered the kitchen just as the man had succeeded in prying up the window and pas preparing to climb in. He fired three times, two of the bullets were afterwards found, but the doctor says that he thinks the third one hit.

It was found this morning that an attempt had been made to force a window at Councilman Richard's home, and it is believed that the shooting scared off this other burglar. Dr. Platt says that the man he saw at his kitchen window was of medium height and wore an overcoat and a soft hat. The Dunellen police believe the two were railroad tramps.

MISS HILDA M. HEWLETT TO WED HARRY H. COWARD.

Mrs. William H. Hewlett, of Toronto, Canada, has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Hilda Marguerite Hewlett, and Harry Holmes Coward, of this city. The ceremony will take place Tuesday afternoon, April 20, at 2 o'clock at the home of her mother, 7 Wheeler avenue, Toronto.

Miss Hewlett is a graduate of the Muhlenberg Hospital Training School for Nurses and has been a resident of this city for several years. Mr. Coward is the son of the late Joseph B. Coward, and holds a clerical position at the City National Bank.

"Ladies' Night" at Trinity.

The Dutch Arms, the men's association of Trinity Reformed church, will give a "ladies' night' entertainment at the church, Friday night, April 16. The program will be furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Walter David. The numbers will comprise harp selections by Mrs. David, while her husband will entertain with stories and impersonations.

CHARTER DAY PROGRAM

Three Days' Celebration Mapped Out by the Board of Trade Committee.

ENLIST MAYORS' INTEREST.

Three Big Parades, Athletics, Open Air Meetings, Band Concerts and Fireworks Included.

After a two hours' conference with Mayor Fisk and Mayor Townsend, of the city and borough, respectively, last night, the executive committee appointed by the Board of Trade for the Charter Day celebration, decided to make the observance a three days' event and on a much more elaborate scale than first intended. The two mayors consented to act as joint chairmen of a bi municipal citizens committee to be composed of the representative men of the two places. They appointed Ralph L. Morrow as the citizens' committee secretary and announced that they would get to work at once to select a body of 100 prominent men to co-operate with them. Mayor Fisk expressed the opinion that the city government would contribute liberally to a fund to be raised for the affair.

As outlined this morning by Secretary A. S. Herr, of the Board, the celebration will begin on Monday morning, July 5, with a parade of the municipal government representatives, the fraternal, civic, benevolent, labor, social and athletic organizations. The merchants will have floats in line as will also the manufacturers. In the afternoon there will be athletics together with an open air meeting and at night fireworks and a band concert.

On Tuesday, July 6, a firemen's and military parade will be held in the morning. All firemen in this section of the State as well as several companies of the National Guard will be invited to participate. In the afternoon there will be a baseball game and at night fireworks and a band concert.

An automobile parade will be the feature for Wednesday morning, July 7, and all auto organizations in New Jersey will be invited. In the afternoon, a masquerade parade, similar to the Philadelphia New Year's shooters, will be held. Judges for this event will be selected by the two mayors. The celebration will wind up that night with more fireworks and a band concert.

THIS COLORED DAMSEL SLASHED WITH RAZOR

Grace Blackman, of this city, went to New Brunswick on Saturday to visit friends. She is a colored girl, and Ed. Stines, a well-known colored man, of this city, became so smitten with her charms that he requested permission to see her safely home.

Grace acceded to the proposition, but now she wishes she hadn't, as her escort proved to be dangerous himself rather than a protection.

The couple boarded the 1:08 trolley for Bound Brook Saturday night. All went well until the conductor came around for fares as the car was crossing the Albany street bridge in New Brunswick.

Then Stines suddenly discovered that he had inadvertently left his pocketbook on the piano and he hadn't a bit of change. In honeyed tones he suggested to Grace that she pay both fares. But the girl couldn't see it that way.

"Whaffo' I pay yo' fare, you cheap sport?" gently remonstrated the girl. Words quickly led to blows, and just as the car reached the east end of the bridge the man pulled a razor and slashed the girl twice. One cut laid open the cheek and the other nicked her on the neck.

Before the conductor or passengers could interfere Stines jumped from the car and disappeared.

The girl was bleeding properly but insisted on continuing to this city before seeking medical aid. She bound up the cuts herself sufficiently to check the bleeding.

No arrest has yet been made, as the girl has made no complaint.

Banquet to Officers and Teachers.

A business meeting and banquet will be held at Trinity Reformed church, tonight, by the officers and teachers of the Sunday-school. The banquet promises to be an enjoyable affair.

Fined Five Dollars.

William Mitchell, of West Fourth street, was arrested yesterday afternoon in the borough for peddling laces without a license. He was brought before Recorder Dolliver last night and fined $5.

Trolley Car As a Builder of Cities

HAVE you ever considered the electric street railway as a developer of property? If you haven't, let PUBLIC SERVICE give you a few facts to think over.

It is natural for people to want to live as comfortably as their means will permit.

It is essential that the home surroundings should be as healthful as it is possible to make them.

It is equally true that people must live within easy reaching distance of their places of employment.

Without reasonable transportation facilities people would have to live closer and closer together as the population of the cities increased.

That would mean congested districts. It would be detrimental to health and comfort.

TROLLEYS MAKE HOME SITES AVAILABLE

With trolley cars operated at regular intervals and under short headway the available area for home sites is greatly extended.

That means a chance for the urban population to disperse. It affords an opportunity for the relief of congested districts. It adds to the comforts of living. It promotes the public health.

In making it possible for people to live under more healthful conditions the street railway also confers material benefits of inestimable value.

No other single influence has contributed as much to the development of outlying city property and suburban territory as has the electric street railway.

TROLLEYS ADD TO PROPERTY VALUES

Every outlying piece of property brought within easy access of a trolley road is thereby increased in value.

Every dollar of value added to a property by the proximity of a trolley road is a benefit conferred on the owner of that property.

Every increase in the value of a property benefited by a trolley road is an addition to the public wealth in which all the inhabitants of a community indirectly share.

Municipalities base their ability to perform the functions of government which add to the comfort of living on their taxable ratables. Street railways increase the land values, which means that the trolley car does more for a community than simply carry its inhabitants. It helps to build up cities.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Ludlow P. Frazier, a young Plainfield boy, was arrested in Dunellen Saturday night while trying to arouse Dory Hubbard, of North avenue, with whom he had been staying. Frazier was in the act of forcing an entrance through one of the windows when seen by an officer and arrested. When brought before Recorder Campbell yesterday morning the young man said he had been staying a few nights with Hubbard and had promised to meet him again Saturday. Through some misunderstanding they had failed to meet, and at the time of his arrest he was only trying to arouse his friend. Hubbard assured the Recorder what Frazier had stated was true and the young man was discharged.

SMALL-POX

HOUSEHOLDERS CAUTIONED.

How to Avoid Contagion.

Small-pox is prevalent. The use of a reliable disinfectant protects the household. The last thing at night pour into the traps of the closets, wash-basins, sinks, etc., just a little Platt's Chlorides. Places where disease germs may develop, nooks behind plumbing and all spots that can't be reached by the scrubbing brush should be freely sprinkled with a mixture of one (1) part of Platt's Chlorides and ten (10) parts of water. This dilution costs less than 5 cents a quart. Do not neglect a liberal sprinkling of the cellar. To remove objectionable odors where sprinkling is inadvisable, keep a cloth or sponge moistened with the dilution mentioned. A little extra care just now may prevent much sickness and expense. Platt's Chrolides is an odorless, colorless liquid disinfectant which instantly destroys foul odors and disease-breeding matter. It is sold by druggists everywhere in full quart bottles, and is prepared only by Henry B. Platt.

WANT ROLLER SKATING PLACE FOR CHILDREN.

Realizing the growing popularity of roller skating among the children of the city, and, the fact that there is no suitable place where the sport can be enjoyed, the Parent-Teacher Association, in a communication to the Common Council, last night, requested that body to provide a walk of concrete or other similar material, of suitable dimensions, where children can roller skate unmolested.

At present the children use the sidewalks of the city more or less, and oftentimes they interfere with pedestrians. This matter was brought to the attention of Chief of Police Kiely recently and he issued a semi-official notice warning children to be careful. The Parent-Teacher Association believes that the city can and should provide a place for roller skating and that it would be a source of great pleasure to the children. The communication was referred to the committee on streets.

AFTERNOON CLUB HEARS OF AMERICA'S SOCIAL SPIRIT.

An interesting and comprehensive paper on the "Social Spirit in America," was presented by Mrs. C. L. Riley at the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club held yesterday afternoon in the Hartridge auditorium. Some side issues on the subject were discussed in brief papers by other members of the club, one of the most excellent being on the "Preventive Treatment of Criminals" by Mrs. Dexter Tiffany.

The paper was preceded by an animated debate on the question "Resolved, That Americans are not democratic except in theory."

Mrs. Elizabeth Uren.

William J. Trembath, of Chatham street, received a telegram yesterday informing him of the death of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Uren, which occurred at her home in Fitchburg, California, yesterday morning. Death was due to neuritis with which she had been ill a long time. Owing to the great distance Mr. Trembath will be unable to attend the funeral. He hal planned to spend a month's vacation at Fitchburg this summer and the news of his mother's death comes as a great blow to him. Mrs. Uren is survived by a husband, two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Wilson, of the Hotel Calvert, New York city; Miss Laura Trembath, of Fitchburg, and one son, William Trembath, of this city.

Appropriated Money to Missions.

The Women's Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, held an interesting meeting yesterday afternoon. The members divided the money in the treasury, giving $40 to domestic missions and $40 to foreign missions. The society is constantly increasing in membership and interest.

Miss Rives at Proctor's.

Miss Shirley Rives, the prima donna appearing at Proctor's theatre this week, possesses a fine voice and makes a charming appearance. Later she will be heard at the Fifth Avenue theatre, New York, being a protege of Manager Irwin. Spiegel Bros., acrobats, are especially good. New life motion pictures today.

Mrs. Hannah Y. Flanders, who has been spending the past two months with relatives in Texas, has returned to her home on Grove street. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Webb.

SOMERVILLE TROUNCES PLAINFIELD HIGH'S TEAM

Plainfield High School went down to defeat yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Somerville High School by the score of 6 to 4. The game was lost to P. H. S. by loose fielding and failure to bunch their hits.

Although Lyness let nine men walk, nevertheless he pitched good ball, striking out twelve, and he would have won his game had there been any support behind him. But the errors were too abundant. Doane, Snyder and Clark were there with the fumbles, while Dodwell couldn't seem to find the second sack. The only redeeming features were Clark's three bagger, bringing home two men, and Snyder's classy catch of a high liner, but these did not come anywhere nearly balancing up the bungles.

On the other hand the boys from Somerville played fine ball and played together.

The following is the lineup:

Trinity Commandery Elects.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., at a regular conclave, last night, elected these officers for the ensuing year: Eminent Commander, J. Z. Hetfield; generalissimo, Matthew H. Ewart; captain general, Fred'k J. Pope; senior warden, J. Hervey Doane; junior warden, Charles Lee; prelate, B. Frank Coriell; assistant prelate, Henry Woodland; treasurer, Calvin H. Rugg; recorder, G. T. Dunham; representative to Masonic Hall Association, B. Frank Coriell; trustees, Nelson Y. Dungan, Dr. D. C. Adams and Henry Woodland. The installation will take place Monday night, April 19.

Endorse Candidates.

At the regular meeting of the Republican Club of New Providence township on Saturday night, on motion of Henry S. Fullerton, the treasurer of the Union County Republican Committee, it was unanimously resolved that the Republican Club of New Providence township endorse the candidacies of John H. Kean for re-election as United State Senator, James C. Calvert for renomination for County Clerk and Frank H. Smith for renomination for Register of Deeds.

New Resident Was Drunk.

Drunk on the steps of Reform Hall. That was the plight of Horace Stewart, of West Third street, when found by Patrolman Vanderweg at about 10 o'clock last night. Stewart told the Judge this morning that he is a stranger in town and for this reason didn't know much about Plainfield booze or places to sleep off jags. Sentence was suspended and the man walked away with a "never again" expression.

Two Concerns With Same Name.

By selecting the name "The Plainfield Supply Company," it is claimed that the incorporators of the new ice, coal and lumber concern in which the Natural Ice Company and others are interested, have taken the title of a firm which has been doing business here for several years. It is the concern of the same name in which L. B. Woolston is treasurer and E. V. Bartine is manager and which deals in linseed oil.

Chief Engineer of B. & O.

A. M. Kinsman, brother of F. E. Kinsman, of this city, has been appointed chief engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, in place of the late D. D. Carothers. Mr. Kinsman has been identified with the B. & O. Railroad for a great many years and has always held positions of responsibility and trust with that company.

Miss Francis Ruhl, of Brooklyn, is is visiting relatives on West Front street for a few days.

TO HOLD COMMENCEMENT AT THE FIRST BAPTIST.

Announcement was made at the April meeting of the City Board of Education at the Plainfield High School last night that the commencement exercises for the class of 1909 will be held at the First Baptist church. The committee in charge of the arrangements for commencement also reported that Suhr's orchestra had been secured for the occasion.

The report of the custodian of schools showed a balance of $76,620.84 on hand from last month and $2,152.50 of this money is from tuition paid by out-of-town pupils for the fall and winter term.

Bids for coal and school supplies for the new Darrow avenue school were ordered advertised, and it was announced that they will be received and opened at a meeting to be held at the High School Monday night, April 19.

Funeral of Miss Susan Cadman.

The funeral of Miss Susan W. Cadmus took place from her late residence on Somerset street yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring of the First Presbyterian church. The pall bearers were John Burroughs, H. A. Pope, William Shotwell and Eugene Bond. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Sang "The Crucifixion."

The choir of Grace church, under the direction of William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster, sang Stainer's "Crucifixion" before a large gathering of worshippers last night. William Tallamy, tenor, and Arthur Chamberlain, baritone, took the solo parts in an excellent manner, while the chorus work was up to the usual high standard.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

Joe McGinnity and his Newark Tigers failed to be so fierce as one would take them to be. The Philadelphia team did certainly make Joe and his boys feel as though they had been in a battle to hard to mention.

Cliff Randolph has returned from his Southern trip looking as brown as a berry. The sun of Dixie Land has put Cliff in first-class condition and he will no doubt put up a great game this summer.

The P. H. S. needn't feel discouraged over their first defeat. The boys put up a good game against Somerville and when the return game is played there will be a chance for a different story to be told.

Holy Cross began the season with a victory over the Trinity team, although the game had hardly started the church lads from over the brook had a chance to show their batting clothes.

The big college teams are certainly having the trouble of their life this year. The minor colleges are putting forth teams that are no good for the big ones.

It's hard to tell the condition of a team at the end of its first game. No one knows the strength of the P. H. S. team by the way they played yesterday afternoon, the boys hadn't a chance to show any kind of team work whatever.

The Y. M. C. A. team will have another practice at Crescent Oval this afternoon. The men are getting ready for their first game which takes place Saturday week.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Fourteen riders of the Plainfield Cycle Club made the run to Vailsburg Sunday. The boys started in two divisions and finished in excellent time. There was but one puncture during the trip.

Fred Rumsby, an English marathon runner, died at Hull, England, last Sunday from the effects of running. He was taken ill on the track and died a few hours after being removed to the hospital.

Frank Kramer, the short distance bicycle champion, won both the two and half mile races at Vailsburg Sunday. The Jersey rider was in great form.

The Plainfield Motor-cycle Club will meet tomorrow night at Judge Runyon's office, where they will transact some important business and initiate several new members.

Now that Henri St. Yves has won the big Marathon race and many a bettor lost a lot of money, they claim the little Frenchman has yet to show them he is the best runner at the distance.

Jerome D. Travers is off to beard the English golfers in their lair in an effort to do what Walter T. Travis accomplished some years ago, when the veteran won the golf championship of Great Britain. I am one of many who are hoping that the national champion may bring the title home with him.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The attitude of the press toward "The Man of the Hour," Messrs. Wm. A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer's great New York and Chicago success, has been most interesting because wholly unusual. On the day following the New York city production, there was a perfect unanimity among all the newspapers as to the success and worth of "The Man of the Hour." This was echoed in the weekly papers and re-echoed in the monthly and quarterly magazines. Educational bodies gave formal endorsement to the play without managerial solicitation. Men who take a big part in affairs of the day, in all departments of activity—in business and in art, in public office and in education, in professional life and in the church—found in the play an inspiration for praise. "The Man of the Hour" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre at an early date.

The astounding new play, "The Man From Home," which has carried New York by storms equally as successfully as it swept Chicago into enthusiasm which lasted for almost one solid year in that most matter-o-fact of cities, comes to the New Plainfield theatre in the near future. To use the latest current modernism of fashionable slang, "The Man from Home" is distinctly worth while. The ordinary theatre-goer could declare it either bully or immense. The matinee girls, "too sweet for anything," would in this one case take on a new and accentuated meaning.

In spite of the fact that George Barr McCutcheon was beseiged by playwrights who wished to dramatize Beverly of Graustark, he was consistently obdurate until his friend, William Norris, of Delamater and Norris, producers, approached him and won him over. To Mr. Norris the public is therefore indebted for the fact that it is enabled to see a play made from that delightful novel. To Mr. Delamater the public is particularly indebted on the premier presentation in this city this week. The shows comes to the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday.

Jessie Busley in "Beverly of Graustark" at New Plainfield Theatre next Saturday.

On November 21, 1898, through the illness of the late Mr. Joseph Jefferson, his son, William Jefferson, had the opportunity of appearing in his father's part of "Bob Acres" in Richard Brinsley Sheridan's classical comedy, "The Rivals," and was pronounced with unanimous accord a positive success. He has been playing the part ever since. With his brother, Joseph, who plays "Sir Lucius," and an exceptionally efficient company, they will present this merry comedy, "The Rivals," at the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday, April 14.

TRIANGLE CLUB HAS A NEW MUSICAL COMEDY.

Princeton, April 5—"The Duchess of Bluffshire, an original musical comedy, written by undergraduates of Princeton University, was presented before the faculty of the university in the Casino here Friday night for the first time. It was well received. Frank L. Cunningham, 1909, of New York, and Frederick W. Birkenhauer, 1910, of Newark, wrote the libretto; the music was composed by Arthur H. Samuels, 1909, of Hartford, Conn., and the lyrics by Norman P. Carroll, 1909, of Newark.

The play is produced under the auspices of the Triangle Club of Princeton University, and the female roles are taken by students. The scene is laid in northern Italy, and everything, from the designing of scenery and costuming to electrical and stage effects, has been the work of the undergraduates. A student orchestra accompanied the production.

"Shiny" Fat Folks

One of the fat woman's chief griefs in life is her shiny, greasy skin. If it be pimply besides, as it probably is (or may be), her cup of anguish is full. Powder and cosmetics simply hide these horrors for a season—a very short season. They are not a cure for them. There isn't any cure for them except getting rid of the grease beneath. When she does that she finds her complexion improves.

In this way only can I account for the clear, natural complexion acquired by those who use the Marmola receipt: One-half ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 3½ ounces Peppermint Water. By causing the excess flesh to be absorbed, it clears the blood of the globules of fat which, physicians say, cause the greasy, oily skin of the over-fat.

This simple receipt makes a mixture both pleasant and harmless. It causes neither wrinkles nor stomach disturbances. It is also quite inexpensive. Make it a point to try some; take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime for a week or two and see if your oily skin does not quickly disappear. As you lose your fat your complexion should progressively improve, and after a month or so, when you have lost 25 or 30 pounds of flesh, it should be nearly perfect.

Your Dull Headaches

Probably come from overstrained eye sight. Nine-tenths of the headaches are the direct result of eye trouble. Bring those troubles to us and let us prescribe for you.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

CHAPTER IV.

THE blare of the circus band had been a sore temptation to Mandy Jones all afternoon and evening. Again and again it had dragged her from her work to the study window, from which she could see the wonders so tantalizingly near. Mandy was housekeeper for the Rev. John Douglas, but the unwashed supper dishes did not trouble her as she watched the lumbering elephants, the restless lions, the long necked giraffes and the striped zebras that came and went in the nearby circus lot. And yet, in spite of her own curiosity, she could not forgive her vagrant "worse half," Hasty, who had been lured from duty early in the day. She had once dubbed him Hasty in a spirit of derision, and the name had clung to him. The sarcasm seemed doubly appropriate tonight, for he had been away since 10 that morning, and it was now past 9.

The young pastor for a time had enjoyed Mandy's tirades against her husband, but when she began calling shrilly out of the window to chance acquaintances for news of him he slipped quietly into the next room to finish tomorrow's sermon. Mandy renewed her operations at the window with increased vigor when the pastor had gone. She was barely saved from pitching headforemost into the lot by the timely arrival of Deacon Strong's daughter, who managed with difficulty to connect the excited woman's feet with the floor.

"Foh de Lor' sake!" Mandy gasped as she stood panting for breath and blinking at the pretty, young, apple faced Julia. "I was suah most gone dat time." Then followed another outburst against the delinquent Hasty.

But the deacon's daughter did not hear. Her eyes were already wandering anxiously to the lights and the tinsel of the little world beyond the window.

This was not the first time today that Mandy had found herself talking to space. There had been a steady stream of callers at the parsonage since 11 that morning, but she had long ago confided to the pastor that she suspected their reasons.

"Dey comes in here a-trackin' up my floors," she said, "an' a-askin' why you don't stop de circus from a-showin' nex' to de church an' den a-cranin' dar necks out de winder till I can't get no housework done."

"That's only human nature," Douglas had answered, with a laugh, but Mandy had declared that she knew another name for it and had mumbled something about "hypocritters" as she seized her broom and began to sweep imaginary tracks from in front of the door.

Many times she had made up her mind to let the next caller know just what she thought of "hypocritters," but her determination was usually weakened by her still greater desire to excite increased wonder in the faces of her visitors.

Divided between these two inclinations, she gazed at Julia now. The shining eyes of the deacon's daughter conquered, and she launched forth into an eager description of how she had just seen a "wonde'ful striped anamule" with a "pow'ful long neck walk right out of the tent" and how he had "come apart afore her very eyes" and two men had slipped "right out of his insides." Mandy was so carried away by her own eloquence and so busy showing Julia the sights beyond the window that she did not hear Miss Perkins, the thin lipped spinster, who entered, followed by the Widow Willoughby, dragging her seven-year-old son Willie by the hand.

The women were protesting because their choir practice of "What Shall the Harvest Be?" had been interrupted by the unrequested accompaniment of the "hoochee coochee" from the nearby circus band.

"It's scandalous!" Miss Perkins snapped. "Scandalous! And somebody ought to stop it." She glanced about with an unmistakable air of grievance at the closed doors, feeling that the pastor was undoubtedly behind one of them when he ought to be out taking action against the things that her soul abominated.

"Well, I'm sure I've done all that I could," piped the widow, with a meek, martyred air. She was always martyred. She considered it an appropriate attitude for a widow. "He can't blame me if the choir is out of key tomorrow."

"Mercy me!" interrupted the spinster. "If there isn't Julia Strong a-leaning right out of that window a-looking at the circus, and her pa a deacon of the church, and this the house of the pastor! It's shocking! I must go to her."

"Ma, let me see, too," begged Willie as he tugged at his mother's skirts.

Mrs. Willoughby hesitated. Miss Perkins was certainly taking a long while for her argument with Julia. The glow from the red powder outside the window was positively alarming.

"Dear me!" she said. "I wonder if there can be a fire." And with this pretext for investigation she, too, joined the little group at the window.

A few moments later, when Douglas entered for a fresh supply of paper, the backs of the company were toward him. He crossed to the study table without disturbing his visitors and smiled to himself at the eager way in which they were hanging out of the window.

Douglas was a sturdy young man of eight and twenty, frank and boyish in manner, confident and light hearted in spirit. He had seemed too young to the deacons when he was appointed to their church, and his keen enjoyment of outdoor games and other healthful sports robbed him of a certain dignity in their eyes. Some of the women of the congregation had been inclined to side with the deacons, for it hurt their vanity that the pastor found so many other interests when he might have been sitting in dark, stuffy rooms discussing theology with them, but Douglas had been either unconscious of or indifferent to their resentment and had gone on his way with a cheery nod and an unconquerable conviction of right that had only left them floundering. He intended to quit the room now unnoticed, but was unfortunate enough to upset a chair as he turned from the table. This brought a chorus of exclamations from the women, who, chattering, rushed quickly toward him.

"What do you think of my naughty boy, Willie?" simpered the widow. "He dragged me quite to the window."

Douglas glanced amusedly first at the five foot six widow and then at the helpless red haired urchin by her side, but he made no comment beyond offering a chair to each of the women.

"Our choir practice had to be entirely discontinued," declared Miss Perkins sourly as she accepted the proffered chair, adjusted her skirts for a stay and glanced defiantly at the parson, who had dutifully seated himself near the table.

"I am sure I have as true an ear as anybody," whimpered the widow, with an injured air. "But I defy any one to lead 'What Shall the Harvest Be?' to an accompaniment like that." She jerked her hand in the direction of the window. The band was again playing the "hoochee coochee."

"Never mind about the choir practice," said Douglas, with a smile. "It is soul, not skill, that our congregation needs in its music. As for that music out there, it is not without its compensations. Why, the small boys would rather hear that band than the finest church organ in the world."

"And the small boys would rather see the circus than to hear you preach, most likely," snapped Miss Perkins. It was adding insult to injury for him to try to console her.

"Of course they would, and so would some of the grownups if they'd only tell the truth about it," said Douglas, laughing.

"What!" exclaimed Miss Perkins.

"Why not?" asked Douglas. "I am sure I don't know what they do inside the tents, but the parade looked very promising."

"The parade!" the two women echoed in one breath. "Did you see the parade?"

"Yes, indeed," said Douglas enthusiastically. "But it didn't compare with the one I saw at the age of eight." He turned his head to one side and looked into space with a reminiscent smile. The widow's red haired boy crept close to him.

"The Shetland ponies seemed as small as mice," he continued dreamily, "the elephants hinge as mountains, the great calliope wafted my soul to the very skies, and I followed that parade right into the circus lot."

"Did you seed inside de tent?" Willie asked eagerly.

"Will take the 4.40 train. Have Carriage at Station."

The telephone is the connecting link between city and country.

It is of mutual advantage. With telephone service in his suburban home the business man in the city, or wherever he may be, can keep in touch with his household. A friend for dinner, time of arrival, any unusual delay—these, and countless other messages the telephone carries almost instantly thereby relieving the worry of the family and simplifying household arrangements. Every suburban home should have a telephone.

The Smart Light Car of Class.

There is no car at less than double the price that is in the same class with the $1,500 Herreshoff Car. No other car is planned on the same lines as this smart light car of class. It is built of the same material as the big cars, with as painstaking care, on the same proven principles of good practice, with the intent to build the best that can be built rather than a low-priced product.

In appearance, grace of line and refinement of finish, there is no car at any price superior to it. Its appearance will secure a trial for it anywhere and a demonstration will convince the most skeptical.

The quality of its material speaks in every line. The closer examination made of the car the better will be the impression gained of it. Its peculiarly high efficiency is due to its compactness, its lightness and its correct design.

TWO-MAN TOURNEY ON CAMPBELL'S ALLEYS

Skelly and Miller were the high men at Campbell's alleys last night. While there were no records broken or in fact any large scores made, the winners were so far ahead of their opponents it was a run away on their part. In the first game the winners made a total score of 401, Miller alone makfng 222, the highest individual score of the evening. Mr. McLaughlin made 192 in his last game.

The score:

AQUATIC EVENTS OF SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE.

The Sunday-school athletic championship aquatic meet took place at the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool last night. At the finish Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church had a total of nineteen points, with the Congregational ten. The First Baptist team, which won the track meet so handily a few weeks ago, came in third and last place with a score of six points.

Carl Steiner, of the Congregational church was again the individual star of the meet, winning the 23 yard dash in 14 seconds, and 46 yard dash in 30 1-5 seconds. Rushmore, of the Crescent Avenue team, captured the 80 yard dash in 65 2-5 seconds. The boys' 23 yard dash was won by V. Borden.

The only race won by the First Baptist church was the under-water swim, in which C. Vail made 119 feet 6 inches.

$15,500 For Street Lighting.

The amount determined upon by the Common Council for street lighting purposes for the coming year is $15,500, an increase of $250 over last year. This was fixed at the April meeting of the Council, last night, through a resolution offered by Councilman F. E. Mygatt, and adopted. The amount will be incorporated in the annual budget which will be presented for adoption this month.

The brand Iona on our canned goods means low price—good quality. Our Peas, Corn and Tomatoes packed under this brand we know cannot be duplicated anywhere for the price. For this week only we will sell three cans for 25c., one can of Corn, one can of Peas and one can of Tomatoes.

HAM and EGGS

During the week preceding Easter, we will sell these two commodities at actual cost. We cannot quote prices as the ever-changing markets prohibit it, but you can rely on buying your Easter Sunday morning's breakfast at the lowest market prices. For years past, we have made this same offer in all our stores, and the large number of customers who take advantage of it assured us long ago of the popularity of the idea.

PEANUT BUTTER, a lb - 11c

The most economical way to buy Peanut Butter is in bulk. Our regular price is 15c. a lb. We make this cut of four cents this week to more thoroughly introduce this very healthful article. It is absolutely pure food.

JERSEY PEARS, No. 2, can - 8c

A solid packed can of Pears in a light Syrup. When Canned Fruit can be offered at this exceptionally low price, it does not pay the housewife to do her own canning. Next week our price will be 10c. Take advantage of this offer today.

Laundry Starch, 6 lbs for - 25c

You may think that Starch is Starch, but such is not the case. There is just as much difference in the quality of Starch as there is in the clothes you use it in. Our guarantee goes with every pound of this Starch. We only sell one grade, and that is the best.

DR. M'CREA TRANSFERRED

Popular Pastor of First M. E. Church Assigned by Bishop to Centenary in Newark.

DR. ANDERSON SUCCEEDS HIM.

Rev. Charles Summer Kemble and Rev. Ora J. Shoop Remain in Plainfield.

As a climax to the closing session of the Newark Conference at Centenary M. E. church, yesterday, there followed a shake-up in the annual appointments by Bishop Neely that was unprecedented. There was no intimation of the changes to come and the fact that they affected so many important pastorates stirred the conference as never before. When the appointments were read the church was thronged to overflowing with members of the conference and their friends and there was not a little discontent when some of the changes were made known.

This was especially true in the case of the change at Centenary M. E. church, Newark, where Rev. Dr. C. L. Mead has been pastor since 1905. He was sent to his old charge, the First M. E. church, Hoboken, where he served from 1899-1904. Rev. Dr. Abel C. McCrea, who has been pastor of the First M. E. church here for four years, goes to Centenary church, Newark. This change was one of the big surprises of the conference. There was general regret here today when it was learned that Dr. McCrea was to leave. During his pastorate at the First church he has not only endeared himself to the hearts of his people, but is loved and esteemed generally among the people of Plainfield.

The dissatisfaction over the change in Centenary church was entirely because of the strong attachment formed by the members for their pastor, Rev. Mr. Mead, and they felt sure that he would be returned to them another year. Centenary church is one of the best in the conference. It pays a salary of $3,000 and gives its pastor a parsonage.

This is the only local change, Rev. Ora J. Shoop being returned to Grace M. E. church, and Rev. C. S. Kemble to the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, where they are both doing good work.

Dr. McCrea will be succeeded here by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, who has been district superintendent of the Jersey City District, and he in turn is succeeded by Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, formerly of Plainfield, while Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, who was also a former Plainfield pastor, and who has been at the Bloomfield church, is made district superintendent of the Newark district. Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, of this city, continues as district superintendent of the Elizabeth district.

There are not many other changes in the Elizabeth district of especial interest here. Rev. E. C. Dutcher, of Dunellen, is succeeded by Rev. W. A. Knox and Rev. W.W. Dietrich, who goes West, is succeeded at Scotch Plains by Rev. E. C. Gisriel. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass remains at the First church, Perth Amboy, and Rev. W. C. O'Donnell continues at St. Paul's church, Newark. Rev. George Angleman, formerly of Plainfield, who has been at Sussex, is sent to Browne Memorial, Jersey City, and Rev. George Mooney was sent back to South Orange. He was formerly at the Monroe Avenue church.

Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron, formerly district superintendent, and who was pastor of the M. E. church at Washington, last year, is sent to the Eighth Avenue church, Newark. Rev. Dr. W. E. Palmer, who has been at Centenary church, Jersey City, is sent to Trinity church, West New Brigton.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, who is now pastor of the First M. E. church, this city, has had a successful career in the conference. He was pastor at Branchville and Frankfort Plains, 1885-1887; Rutherford, 1888-1892; First church,

HOPE MEN'S CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The semi-annual business meeting and election of the Men's Club of Hope chapel was held at the chapel, last night. The reports from the treasurer showed the club to have received $45 during the past six months and disbursed the same amount. William Baker, financial secretary, presented this report. Four new members were elected, making a total of 37 on the roll. The new members are Alfred Aitkens, Russell Perrine, C. G. August and Russell Randolph.

Rev. L. R. Howard will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Great Divide" at the chapel Friday night, April 16. The minister spent several vacations in the Rocky Mountains and is thoroughly conversant with his subject. A silver offering will be received.

These officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Robert Hangliter; vice president, Thomas Hendry; treasurer, James Cullinan; recording secretary, Frank Rimmer; financial secretary, William Baker.

DUNELLEN TO ENLARGE A SCHOOL STRUCTURE

The Dunellen Board of Education at a special meeting last night received bids for the building of a two-story two-room addition to the Whittier School and the contract for the work was awarded to Walter G. Clawson, of that place, whose bid, $2,664, was the lowest of three. The other two bids were William H. Pangborn's Son, Plainfield, $3,167; Rimmer, Apgar & Cuzen, Plainfield and Dunellen, $3,178.68.

The successful bidder will furnish a security bond and according to the conditions the work must be completed by August 1. The addition to the building is made to accommodate the rapidly increasing attendance of children, it being impossible to properly conduct the school under present conditions.

WAHLBERG REPENTANT FOR INSULTING WOMAN

Today's session of city police court was marked by an unusual incident, a prisoner freely acknowledging that he had been in the wrong and telling an absolutely straight story of the case. The man was Carl Wahlberg, of Spooner avenue. Last night he got in a fistic mixup with his tenant, Grover Cashin, about some back rent.

Wahlberg was in conversation with Cashin's wife, who, he said, had been holding him off with promises. Cashin came home in a drunken condition, according to the landlord's story, and when he found that the husband had no money he turned to the wife and called her a liar. "I guess, Judge, I was bad and wrong to call her 'liar,'" said Wahlberg in court, "because mebby that was to her an insult. I am sorry I said it now."

The landlord's story was very complete, and so truthful that the court listened attentively as the incidents leading up to the fight in which one of Wahlberg's eyes was blackened by Cashin were carefully related. Cashin told the court that he struck Wahlberg when he called his wife a liar.

The Judge gave Cashin a severe lecture on drinking, for it appears that the man spends most of his money over the bar. Wahlberg was told that the disgrace of not being able to pay the rent was Mrs. Cashin's obvious reason for giving him excuses, and that a man so quick to avenge an insult should care enough for his wife to spare her the necessity of making excuses for his financial short-comings. He told Cashin it was "up to him" to let the booze alone for his wife's sake. All this effected the landlord to such an extent that he refused to press his claim for the rent, and said that if the family would move out now, instead of the last of the month as they had planned, he would ask for no money. The court told him that this wasn't business, but commended his considerate attitude in the matter. Cashin said he would pay and the two left the court-room together.

Hold Monthly Social.

The Union Veterans' Union and the Women's Relief Union held their monthly social at Reform Hall, last night. There were forty present to enjoy the program, which consisted of both vocal and instrumental music. Miss Lydia Edgar presided at the piano. Refreshments were served.

WILLING WORKERS' DINE

Trinity Reformed Sunday School Class Banquets Officers and Consistory.

F. E. SMITH TOASTMASTER.

Robert Clark, Jr., Rev. J. Y. Broek, H. J. Martin, C. M. Dolliver and E. F. Sheppard Speak.

One of the most enjoyable dinners given at the Trinity Reformed church took place last night, when the members of Class No. 30, known as the "Willing Workers," took it upon themselves to banquet the officers and teachers with a four course dinner, prepared by the women of the class, at the same time not forgetting the deacons and elders, who were guests of honor. Horace J. Martin, Sr., teacher of the class, saw that everything in the way of formality was cast aside and a good time generally prevailed. There were thirty-six covers, and if anyone did not have a good time, he himself was to blame.

The toastmaster was Superintendent F. E. Smith and a better one could not have been chosen. The first speaker was Rev. J. Y. Broek, who spoke briefly on the subject, "Our Sunday-school and How to Improve It." During the course of his remarks, Mr. Broek said: "The chief thing to do to improve the school is getting teachers who are always attentive, and could be found working for the interest of their classes. If a class always finds its teacher present, it is a pleasure for the pupil to attend. Before coming to Plainfield I took a good look at the prospects of the Sunday-school, and what could be developed from it."

Robert Clark, Jr., spoke briefly on the subject of "The Relation of the Sunday-school to the Church." For awhile Mr. Clark kept his hearers in a roar of laughter with his jokes and puns on many of those present. Mr. Clark, said incidently, "it is through the Sunday-school that the future church depends. Statistics show that the real growth of a church depends upon the Sunday-school to at least 75 per cent." "Music in the Sunday-school, and How the Teacher Can Help It," was the topic of H. J. Martin, Sr. "Everyone should be interested enough in music," said Mr. Martin, "to at least try to sing. There is nothing in the world that wins a person like good music, and by having good music in our Sunday-schools we can depend upon a large attendance, and one that will continue to grow." Charles M. Dolliver said a few things about "Our Boys in Sunday-school and Out." Mr. Dolliver declared that the time for boys to become intesrted in the real Sunday-school work is between the ages of sixteen and twenty. The great mistake boys make at that age is leaving the school, under the impression they are too big to attend.

One of the most interesting and practical addresses of the evening was that made by Edgar F. Sheppard, on "The Place of Athletics in the Modern Sunday-school." "Athletics," said Mr. Sheppard, "is now a modern factor with the life of every boy. At the age of life when his brain and body are both active he needs something that will develope both in the right way. In the modern Sunday-school, athletics will interest the boy to the extent of becoming more interested in something one would hardly dare approach otherwise."

A neat menu card had been prepared for the occasion.

EMIL MUECK IS MISSING

Otto Mueck's Seventeen-Year-Old Son Was Last Seen on Monday Morning.

POLICE ALARM SENT OUT.

Former Plainfield Boy Had Just Recovered from a Severe Attack of the Grip.

Emil Mueck, the seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mueck, for ten years a resident of this city, but now residing on Cherry street, Elizabeth, is missing from his home and the police of that city have sent out a general alarm. He left his home Monday morning to pay a gas bill in Elizabeth. It was learned afterward that he did this, but after that all trace of the lad was lost.

Young Mueck was employed at the works of the Western Electric Company in Newark, but for the past two weeks was detained at home with a severe attack of grip. He recovered sufficiently to go out on Monday, and the family think that perhaps the boy's illness may have had something to do with his disappearance. For this reason a general search of hospitals through out this section of the State will be made.

The Mueck family is very well-known in this city, Mr. Mueck being prominently connected with Masonic lodges; also the Elks. He is chief clerk for the Military Service Institute, with headquarters on Governors Island. The young man also has many friends here, where he attended the public schools. There was a belief that he might have come to Plainfield, but inquiry here fails to reveal that he came this way after leaving Elizabeth.

RECORDER EJECTED HER FROM A TROLLEY CAR

A woman from Dunellen, who is employed as a housekeeper for John Wagner, of that place, caused a disturbance on a westbound main line trolley car leaving Plainfield at 10:30 o'clock last night. She was plainly under the influence of liquor and after getting on the car at Front and Somerset streets, made a dash for the conductor, during which she grabbed his hat and threw it the full length of the car. She then declared that the collector of nickels had insulted her and begged the passengers to take his number.

When Dunellen was reached the woman refused to leave the car and Recorder D. S. Campbell, who happened to be nearby, was urged to use his influence. He entered the car, picked the woman up bodily and carried her to the street, after which Mr. Wagner, who had also been a passenger on the car, escorted her home.

DUNELLEN CITIZENS FAVOR JOINT SEWER PLANT.

At a public meeting held by the citizens of Dunellen in the Borough Hall last night it was the unanimous consent of all present that they join with Plainfield and North Plainfield to establish a joint sewerage plant.

Should such a plant go through the present beds will have to be removed and in a southwesterly direction of Sebring's mills.

Stationery Store Assigns.

Miss Anna M. Harper has made an assignment of the stationery business on Park avenue conducted by her brother, Jos. M. Harper. Geo. W. V. Moy is the assignee. The liabilities are placed at $1,200 and the assets at $750. The concern has been doing business for seven years.

Can't Find Dog Catcher.

The Township Committee of the Plains being unable to secure a local man as dog catcher has arranged with the Plainfield dog catcher, Keiderling, to come into town and gather up the stray canines.

Stops at Westfield.

The fast train that leaves Plainfield at 7:45, made its first stop at Westfield this morning. This will give Westfield commuters a chance to catch an early train for New York.

PROBATE L. E. HART WILL

Caveat Filed by Testator's Brother is Dismissed Following a Hearing.

ESTATE WORTH ABOUT $100,000.

Bulk of the Fortune Goes to Wife—Some Minor Bequests to Relatives.

The will of Lemuel E. Hart, against which a caveat was filed a week ago by his brother, Levi Hart, was admitted to probate in the Surrogate's office by the Union County Court, this morning. Mrs. Hart, wife of the testator and her brother, C. Frank French, are named as executors. William R. Codington and John Corey appeared as witnesses to the instrument.

The bulk of the estate, which is valued at $100,000 is left to the widow, while a number of minor bequests are made. Levi Hetfield, a brother, who attempted to break the will, is left $2,500, while another brother, Ebenezer Hart, is bequeathed $2,000. The sum of $3,000 is left to be equally divided between two sisters, the Misses Augusta and Emma Hart, and in addition mortgages on their Asbury Park property amounting to $6,000 are cancelled. Miss Emeline Hart, another sister, receives $400.

The sum of $2,000 is left to be equally divided among the children of Mr. Hart's deceased sister, Mrs. Amelia Pound, and $1,000 is left to be equally divided among the children of another deceased sister, Mrs. Carrie Sebring. Codington & Swackhamer represent the estate. Winfield S. Angleman was counsel for Levi Hart.

Mr. Hart was engaged here as a contractor for many years and he erected some of the finest dwellings in the city. He also owned many valuable properties in Plainfield and vicinity and these comprise a large part of the estate.

ATWOOD WELDY HAS PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

Atwood Weldy was arraigned before Justice Bergen yesterday at New Brunswick by Prosecutor Berdine to plead to an indictment charging him with having killed his brother, Allen, on the night of October 16 last. Mrs. Weldy was not called to plead because separate trials are wanted by the State.

After the Prosecutor had read the indictment Weldy in nervous voice pleaded not guilty and Justice Bergen immediately fixed April 26 as the date for the trial.

Upon being informed that Weldy had no funds to employ counsel the court assigned August Streitwolf to defend Weldy.

Judge Bergen took occasion to remark that he wanted to break up the practice of lawyers going to the jail and getting prisoners to request the court to assign them to their defense. Prosecutor Berdine assured the court that Mr. Streitwolf did not come under that category.

Grand Lodge Officers Coming.

Grand Master Workman Daniel B. Pastorious, of Elizabeth, accompanied by several other grand lodge officers of the Ancient Order United Workmen, will visit Central Lodge, No. 48, this city, in their official capacity, Thursday night, April 22. An invitation has been extended to Columbia Lodge, No. 58, to unite with Central Lodge on this occasion. Friday night the grand masters' home lodge, Elizabeth, No. 29, will tender a reception in his honor, to which Central and Columbia lodges have been invited.

He Had No License.

Joseph Ayoub, a Syrian, who sells embroideries, linen and fancy needlework from house to house, was arrested by Patrolman Dobson yesterday afternoon on Watchung avenue at Richmond street. MRS. GEORGE S. CLAY DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Annie Doell Clay, wife of Councilman George S. Clay, and daughter of Mrs. Harriet and the late Charles S. Guion, died this morning at her home on East Seventh street, following an illness of five years with pulmonary trouble. She was a great sufferer and struggled bravely for life.

Mrs. Clay was about forty-two years of age, and had lived in Plainfield practically all her life. She was a communicant of Grace church, and until her health denied her the privilege, was a faithful attendant at all the services and was especially interested in all the societies of the parish. Her father was for a great many years one of the leading business men of Plainfield, being engaged in the coal and lumber trade on Watchung avenue. Mrs. Clay is survived by a husband, George S. Clay, who is the law partner of Judge Dillon, of New York, and one son, Godfrey Clay. The funeral services will be held from Grace church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

ITALIAN DROPS DEAD WHILE AT HIS WORK

Stricken while at his work at the Plainfield Cement Stone Company's yards on Berkman street at shortly after 7 o'clock, Cesaro Catello, whose home was in Scotch Plains, dropped dead from heart trouble as he was carrying a cement block to the drying shed. The dead man, who was thirty-five years of age, had been in the employ of the company for more than a year, and had started his day's work only a short time before the fatal attack occurred apparently in the best of health.

Dr. Albert H. Pittis was summoned by telephone, but death had been instantaneous. The body was removed to Cole's undertaking roms. Catello is survived by a wife and four little children, living in Scotch Plains. No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

MRS. M. S. SIMS DIES IN NINETY-THIRD YEAR

Mrs. Mahala Sandford Sims, one of the oldest and most esteemed residents of Plainfield, died at the home of Mrs. Theodore I. Runyon, of 1015 Putnam avenue, yesterday afternoon. She was born in Piscataway Township ninety-three years ago, and came to this city when she was but seven years of age. At the time she came here to live with the family of Manning Stelle, eighty-six years ago, Plainfield was a village without either railroads or any fast means of transportation, outside the old stage coach lines.

Mrs. Sims was a devout member of the First Baptist church and for seventy years had taken an active part in both church and Sunday-school work. In spite of her great age she attended all services until last Christmas, when her health gradually began to fail. Her church work during the latter part of her life was watched with much interest by the young people, who took every opportunity to show their appreciation in all her efforts. In her younger days she was a teacher in the Sunday-school, and for a number of years was librarian.

For sixty years Mrs. Sims lived on the corner of Fourth and New streets, the residence built by her husband, William Sims. It was here their only child was born, which died during infancy. For the past nine years she made her home with Mrs. Theodore I. Runyon.

The funeral service will take place at the First Baptist church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

Death of a Child.

Grace Margaret Schwartz, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schwartz, of Dunellen, died this morning after a short illness. The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of the child's parents on North avenue.

Harry Randolph, son of the late Jonthan Randolph, of Jefferson avenue, who is under treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital for trouble of the back, is said to be improving slowly.

Albert Kurzhals, of West Sixth street, is at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment for a severe attack of dysentery.

JEFFERSON DAY BANQUET

Local Democrats Gather to Honor the Memory of Father of Their Party's Faith.

SWACKHAMER TOASTMASTER.

Colonel Dungan, R. E. Mayham, Mayor Townsend and J. E. Martine Respond to Toasts.

"If Democracy would succeed, it must be Jeffersonian," said Ray E. Mayham, president of the Democratic State League during the last campaign, in his speech at the Jeffersonian Dinner held at the Hotel Kensington last night, and the other speakers of the evening also foresaw an opportunity of reversing the party's recent defeats by a closer adherance to the cardinal principles of the party's founder in campaigns to come. The occasion was marked by the gathering of some sixty or more Democrats of the city and borough with some of the prominent men of the party from out of town—and "Farmer-Orator" James E. Martine.

The banquet was in honor of Thomas Jefferson, the draughter of the Declaration of Independence, and although the dinner was not served until after 9 o'clock and it was early morning before the last speaker had paid his final tribute to the party's founder, the enthusiasm was kept at a high pitch and the speakers were frequently interrupted by applause. Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer was toastmaster, and seated at the speaker's table with him were Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, James E. Martine, A. H. Atterbury, W. E. Tuttle, of Westfield, and David T. Kenney. Col. Nelson Y. Dungan came down from Somerville to speak, and Mr. Mayham from Rahway, and seated at the two long banquet tables in the large dining-room, where the American flag was lavishly displayed as the only decoration, were county officials and prominent local Democrats, who, if not office-holders, had at least had their names on the party's ticket.

The dinner, arranged by Walter Linbarger, who is not yet a Democratic office-holder, was excellent, and after the long wait, the diners did ample justice to it.

Colonel Dungan, introduced by Toastmaster Swackhamer as "the liveliest political corpse anywhere in the great sarcophagus of Somerset county or the State of New Jersey," was the first speaker, and spoke at length on the life and political principles of Thomas Jefferson. "No pen then or since," he said, "has been wielded with greater influence for the United States of America at that time and for all time than that of Thomas Jefferson." The speaker had some things to say about the popular vote, the method of electing Senators and Supreme Court judges and the corporations, and showed that these things are not as the founder of the party would have had them. He read extracts from Jefferson's writings.

"These Jefferson celebrations," said Secretary Ray E. Mayham, of the State Auxiliary committee, the next speaker, "are being held by Democrats all over the country, and I believe they will be a great benefit to the party this year and in years to come. If Democracy would succeed, it must be Jeffersonian. The party has been mistaken. It must put aside the unsafety of radicalism which has come out of the West and it must support the simon-pure principles of Thomas Jefferson and Grover Cleveland." "The people are tired of the Republican misrule," he continued, and went on to show the chances of the party this fall, stating that he believed the ballot-

Trolley Car As a Builder of Cities

HAVE you ever considered the electric street railway as a developer of property? If you haven't, let PUBLIC SERVICE give you a few facts to think over.

It is natural for people to want to live as comfortably as their means will permit.

It is essential that the home surroundings should be as healthful as it is possible to make them.

It is equally true that people must live within easy reaching distance of their places of employment.

Without reasonable transportation facilities people would have to live closer and closer together as the population of the cities increased.

That would mean congested districts. It would be detrimental to health and comfort.

TROLLEYS MAKE HOME SITES AVAILABLE

With trolley cars operated at regular intervals and under short headway the available area for home sites is greatly extended.

That means a chance for the urban population to disperse. It affords an opportunity for the relief of congested districts. It adds to the comforts of living. It promotes the public health.

In making it possible for people to live under more healthful conditions the street railway also confers material benefits of inestimable value.

No other single influence has contributed as much to the development of outlying city property and suburban territory as has the electric street railway.

TROLLEYS ADD TO PROPERTY VALUES

Every outlying piece of property brought within easy access of a trolley road is thereby increased in value.

Every dollar of value added to a property by the proximity of a trolley road is a benefit conferred on the owner of that property.

Every increase in the value of a property benefited by a trolley road is an addition to the public wealth in which all the inhabitants of a community indirectly share.

Municipalities base their ability to perform the functions of government which add to the comfort of living on their taxable ratables. Street railways increase the land values, which means that the trolley car does more for a community than simply carry its inhabitants. It helps to build up cities.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

JERSEY FARMERS HAD A PROSPEROUS YEAR

Nineteen hundred and eight was the most prosperous year ever experienced by the farmers of Southern New Jersey, according to reports which has been compiled by the freight department of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad, one of the subsidiary lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. More than 14,000 carloads—140 miles of cars—of parishable freight were shipped from points on the West Jersey and Seashore.

The shipments in 1908 were larger by 2,771 cars than those in 1907, an increase of 19 per cent. These figures derive added significance from the fact that the railroad company in the last year carried on an active campaign to encourage the further development of New Jersey as an agricultural State.

The 14,042 carloads of produce shipped from Southern New Jersey in 1908 contained the following: 77,210 crates of berries, 519,096 crates of tomatoes, 12,861 crates of cantaloupes; 5,554 crates, 289,055 barrels and 307,880 hampers of sweet potatoes; 8,425 crates, 94,823 barrels and 21,062 hampers of peppers; 4,587 barrels of apples, 8,945 crates and 10,565 barrels and cranberries, 463,380 cases of canned goods, 141,972 sacks of oysters and clams, 211,320 barrels of white potatoes.

That the exploriation of the produce grown in New Jersey, the efforts to develop the widest possible market, and the operation of fast preference freight trains to enable shippers to deliver their produce at the markets in the best possible condition, have been effective is evidenced by the fact that in 1908 the table delicacies referred to were placed in the markets of 24 different States, the District of Columbia and Canada. Four carloads were shipped to Montana, three cars to North Dakota, 12 cars to Maine, 45 cars to Minnesota, 27 cars to Wisconsin and 23 cars to Canada.

Of the remaining 13,828 cars Camden and Philadelphia received 5,507, Jersey City and New York 4,451, Newark 640, Boston 485, Pittsburg 643, Chicago 375, Ohio points 190, Buffalo 272, other New York points 111, Massachusetts points 101, New Hampshire 28, Connecticut 37, Rhode Island 11, Pennsylvania towns 515, Delaware 46, Maryland 92, Washington (D. GOLF.

The golf course of the Plainfield Country Club is now in the pink of condition and it is expected that the regular schedule will be started within a couple of weeks if the weather permits. The Green committee has been hard at work getting everything in shape for the season. When the course is completed it will be 6,000 yards in length, and of championship calibre. The thirteenth hole is to be lengthened 265 yards, the fourteenth 165 yards and the fifteenth sixty yards. The new par will be 73. The present allowance is 70 to 71.

Work on the extensive improvements to the Plainfield Country clubhouse has been started and will be rushed as rapidly as possible toward completion. The members are anxious to have the whole affair completed by the first of June.

An unusually large number of prizes have been pledged for the Forest Hill Field Club golfers this season. From May 1 to October there will be something going on every week, according to the schedule announced, and it is also intended to arrange additional events up to Thanksgiving Day.

On May 1 there will be a qualifying round for the May Cup, best sixteen to continue on at match play on following Saturdays. The club championship is listed to start September 4 with an eighteen-hole qualification round. No team matches have been arranged for by Forest Hill for the coming season.

A team match has been arranged for May 29 between the Columbia College golfers and the Yountakah Country Club over the latter's course. Some time ago Yountakah's team schedule was announced, but that was prior to the fixing of the match with Columbia. On Memorial Day the regular series of club events will be started, and from that time to December competitions of one form or another will follow at weekly intervals.

The executive committee of the New Jersey State Golf Association is now complete. It consists of H. V. Keep, president; Walter C. Shoup, secretary and treasurer; Fred H. Thomas, chairman of the handicap committee; Jason Rogers, chairman of the tournament committee; Leighton Calkins, George B. Martin and E. N. Todd.

The fifth annual tri-city golf contest for the Lesley cup will be held over the links of the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club, near Philadelphia, on Friday and Saturday, October 1 and 2. This date was agreed upon after a conference between the presidents of the three associations—G. Herbert Windeler, for Massachusetts; Robert Lesley, for Philadelphia, and Adrain H. Larkin, for the Metropolitan.

This date is the earliest yet selected for the intercity affair, and it will undoubtedly meet with general approval by the players, who have all along advanced the argument that the condition of courses, especially in the Boston district, begins to deteriorate rapidly after October 1. The metropolitan forces have won the cup for the last three years, but in future Philadelphia may prove formidable because of its increased territory, which now practically takes in the entire State of Pennsylvania.

It looks as if Fred McLeod, the national open champion, is going to continue in the front rank of professionals, judging by his clever victory at Pinehurst on Saturday. McLeod's 148 for thirty-six holes was fast going, especially his 33 in the outward journey in the afternoon. In winning the North and South open title McLeod had the satisfaction of leading such well known "pros" as Gilbert Nicholls, Alec Ross and Donald Ross, while the amateur brigade included W. C. Fownes, Jr., W. T. West, Walter Fairbanks and James D. Foot.

There seems to be a growing need for an official handicap rating in Philadelphia fashioned something after that of the Metropolitan Golf Association. The policy in the Quaker City has ever been to depend upon bulletin boards. In other words, on the bulletin boards or walls of most of the Philadelphia clubs a printed rating of the relative standing of most of the active players may be seen. The list, which was compiled some four years ago, naturally contains many inaccuracies, for since then hundreds of new players have made their appearance.

GEN. WILLIAM BOOTH SOON AN OCTOGENARIAN

General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, will be eighty years old on April 10. In fifty-four countries his birthday will be celebrated with all the fervor and affection the many officers and soldiers of the army can pour forth. For thirty-two years he has led this army and watched over its development and rejoiced in its successes. It is not every leader whose birthday is observed around the world, but General Booth's genius for organization, system and efficient religious work, has produced a body of followers to be found everywhere, whose teaching of Christianity is of simple, primitive character, calculated to reach those whom the churches seemed unable to influence. The army found its own field and has adopted its method in accord with the special demands that may from time to time appear.

General Booth began to preach when about sixteen years of age, shortly after his conversion. He was born in Nottingham, England, of Episcopal parents. Strolling into a Methodist chapel one day he was impressed with the feeling shown by the worshipers. He believed that the people were thoroughly in earnest. His frequent attendance at this chapel led to his conversion. He preached on street corners from a box as well as in chapels from a pulpit. His faith in the Bible thoroughly was literal. His success as a lay preacher led to his ordination as a regular minister of the Methodist church. He chose to be an evangelist, although his conference wished him to be a pastor. He finally left his denomination and worked independently as a revivalist. His sympathies led him to work with the poorest in the cities. To him it seemed that Christianity was not fulfilling its mission until it could help men live clean, decent lives. The slums were to be reached by his message. He began his work in a tent, pitched in a burial ground in the Whitechapel district of London, and it became a success from the start. Although often assailed by hoodlums and his meetings disturbed, he persisted in his work for the unfortunates until the army had won an accknowledged place among the Christian forces. The opposition in English cities was repeated in cities of other countries when first the army posts were established, but the army policy of non-resistance won its way.

The way the name "Salvation Army" came to be adopted is told by Charles Edward Russell in an article on the subject. At first "Christian Mission" was the title used. But as it grew to the proportions of a new sect it brought a new problem to the attention of General Booth. The "Salvation Army" was never foreseen, nor was the name deliberately chosen by any one, but seemed to grow inevitably upon the organization. Contrary to general belief, the origin of the name was quite accidental. Mr. Booth, dictating one day to a secretary, used the words, "The Christian Mission is a volunteer army." The secretary wrote the sentence. Mr. Booth looked over the paper, and with his pen substituted "salvation" for "volunteer" as the stronger word. When the letter went forth the phrase struck fire among the mission people. They took it up, repeated it, used it and forced it into circulation. As William Booth was the head of the movement, they naturally fell into the way of calling him "the general." The mission preachers were not ordained ministers, consequently there had never been an appropriate title for them; now men began to call them "captains," and so by degrees the movement took on the semblance of a military system.

This army has 8,055 corps in the world, 51,161 local officers, 19,683 persons in its musical bands, 786 social institutions, 115 rescue homes, and 193 shelter and food depots. Its official publication is printed in twenty languages. In the United States are 889 corps, seventy-nine workingmen's hotels, eighty-nine industrial homes, twenty-four rescue homes, three farm colonies for unemployed, and agencies for prison work.

In order to signalize the birthday of General Booth a favorite plan of his is to be inaugurated, the founding of a "University of Humanity." It is to be a school, with branches in every country, for the instruction of youth in means for alleviating the undesirable conditions of the race. In the United States branches are to be located in New York and Chicago.

FATHER EGAN'S CHURCH SOON TO HAVE CHAPEL

Rev. Andrew M. Egan, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, Bayonne, announced from the altar Sunday that to accommodate the increasing membership of his congregation it would be necessary to build a chapel. Work will begin on the new edifice in the near future. It will be located about half a mile south of the present church on property purchased three years ago. At that time it was proposed to establish a separate parish, when the debt on the present church had been liquidated. According to Father Egan's announcement, this plan has been abandoned.

St. Mary's Parish is one of the wealthiest in the Newark Diocese. When Father Egan assumed charge four years ago there was a debt of $50,000. This has been paid off and the edifice will be consecrated by Bishop O'Connor this spring.

Father Egan also purchased four building lots adjoining the parochial school, and operations will be begun immediately to erect an annex to the school, which will be completed by September 1.

SKEETERS, BEWARE.

Trentonian Invents Powder to Slaughter You by Myraids.

Joseph Higgins, of Trenton, announced yesterday that he has invented a powder, an ounce of which will exterminate 1,000 mosquitoes. It can be sprinkled any place and will immediately attract the Jersey maneaters. Mr. Higgins says he will give a practical demonstration in the marsh lands of South Jersey as soon as any number of mosquitoes put in an appearance.

The Commission for the Extermination of Mosquitoes has announced that these insects will be larger in size this year than ever before, and that the number will be increased twofold unless effective steps are taken toward extermination. Mr. Higgins is to be made a member of the commission if he succeeds.

Striving for World Trip.

Julien Linke, the fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linke, of West Second street, is making a strong bid for the trip around the world that the New York American will give to the first four boys who succeed in getting the largest number of votes before June 15, 1909, and the prospects are bright for success. Young Linke was recently presented with a solid gold watch by the American for getting the largest number of votes in one week, which was 35,000. He is now striving hard for the other honors. His picture appeared in the American yesterday.

Union Good Friday Service.

The Union Good Friday services of the city and borough churches will be held Friday night at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Rev. Dr. J. A. Walter L. Linbarger assures us that he is not a candidate for office.

It seems to be the general opinion that $2.50 is too large a fee to charge for a dog license and that $10 is rather to small for a kennel license.

It is a matter of sincere regret that Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea has been transferred to a Newark charge by the bishop of the M. E. Conference. During his brief residence of four years here, he has endeared himself to the community.

Another eloquent chapter has been added to the political career of Ernest R. Ackerman in the passage of the employers' liability bill. The father of the civil service law and other equally excellent measures has reason to be proud of his record in the Senate of New Jersey.

JOHN J. O'BRIEN, JR. ASST. HEALTH OFFICER

James White and William Hammond, who have been confined to the Isolation hospital with small-pox, were discharged yesterday and returned to their homes. There are now but two small-pox patients, George Woodston, and his condition is greatly improved so that his discharge may be expected within a short time, and Mrs. Bullock. The effective checking of the epidemic which broke out several weeks ago was reported at the meeting of the city Board of Health held last night. During the weeks of the epidemic, nearly 3,000 persons were vaccinated, including about a thousand who were vaccinated by City Physician C. B. Lufburrow and about seven hundred school children, vaccinated at the schools.

John O'Brien, Jr., was appointed as assistant health officer at the meeting, but it was announced that Leon R. Thurlow, who resigned as health officer a week ago, would continue his duties for the present.

During the month there have been thirteen marriages, forty-two births and twenty-two deaths. Several contagious diseases were reported during the month, but none of them have developed to an alarming extent.

A permit as scavenger was granted to E. Burke and G. C. Hadley was given a milkman's permit, succeeding to the business conducted by S. A. George. Plumber's bonds were received and filed from W. R. Conover, of Garwood, and Hugh Reilly.

Acknowledge Gift of Music Titles.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, last night, the thanks of the board were directed sent to Lewis L. ASSEMBLY BLOCKS EXCISE LEGISLATION

It was practically agreed yesterday at Trenton that the Assembly should pass no excise bills whatever at this session. Then an additional jolt was handed to the church and temperance forces by the reconsideration and passage of Assemblyman Olwell's bill to permit Sunday baseball and kindred sports.

Mr. Olwell got favorable reconsideration of his bill largely by tacking to it an amendment legalizing the publication of Sunday newspapers, which has long been sanctioned, although always without legal authority. The open Sunday proposal, however, is expected to meet its Waterloo in the Senate. Even Mr. Olwell himself is not very hopeful of getting his bill through the Senate.

The House's unofficial ultimatum against the enactment of excise legislation is based on a decision of the Assembly Municipal Corporations Committee not to report any of the pending excise bills. Of course such measures could be demanded and be released on the petition of twenty members, but it is doubtful if twenty such members could be found. The argument advanced against any excise legislation is that the Bishops' act has not yet been sufficiently tried out.

This action of the House means the death of two temperance measures passed by the Senate. One is the Bradley bill, permitting civil action for damages against liquor men who sell intoxicants to habitual drinkers after being warned not to do so. The other is the Hillery measure, for the appointment of boards of protectors in municipalities, who shall notify liquor dealers not to sell to habitual drinkers or persons likely to become such.

ing would result in a Democratic majority in the Legislature, a Democratic Senator and a Democratic Governor of New Jersey.

Mayor Townsend referred at the outset of his remarks to the failure of the Democrats in the last campaign. "We can find reasons for the defeat," he said, "but what's past is gone, and we must profit by the lesson and the mistakes of the party now in power and strive to get the confidence of the people. He referred to the law on railroad taxation and the maximum tax law, and spoke of the trouble it had made in the borough, where it had been necessary to increase the tax rate. He characterized the movement to take away the school money as a measure against the people and in favor of the corporations. "Remember," he concluded, "the Democrats are for the people."

It was after midnight when Mr. Swackhamer introduced "'Jim' Martine, without whom no Democratic banquet is complete," and he got an enthusiastic reception from the diners.

"It's nothing new to me to talk," he began, "I love to talk, and I do love to talk about my political beliefs. I wasn't here when Tom Jefferson ran for office. If I had been, I'd have voted for him and talked for him, too. I've been doing it for nearly forty years, and I have no apology to offer.

"I can endorse Tom Jefferson absolutely; I am a Democrat and I believe in my party, not simply for the party's sake, but for the men and the principles for which it has stood, in the past and for which, I believe, it still stands. People refer to me as a 'perpetual candidate, like Bryan,' but say, I can give him odds and beat him three times over. I have run for ten times the offices he has, and been defeated every time. But it's the principles I remember, not the defeats.

"There's a movement now for non-partisanship in the government. Why, a Democratic government can't exist without partisanship and parties; dissassociate and drive away the thoughts of parties in free Democratic America, and you get back to the principles of Hamilton, principles that Tom Jefferson broke up. Any measure to disassociate the parties is a step downward to plutocracy.

"The common people of this land are now held by the throat, and the power that holds them is the combined forces of wealth and corporate greed. Threats and money have kept one party in power. We favor a tariff that shall better this country in which we live—such a tariff as shall bring our merchant marine into prominence on the seas and shall carry our flag on merchant vessels over every sea in every clime. Men may be partisan, but I tell you that the man who serves his party best, serves his county best, and whatever the party, the thought of the country at heart will make everything come right."

Some of the diners:

WILL KEEP TABS ON JERSEY'S DRUNKARDS

Senator Hillery, of Morris county, has gotten through the Senate a bill, Senate 328, involving a new principle for handling drunkenness in New Jersey. The measure provides that municipalities may appoint board of protectors which shall officially notify liquor dealers not to sell to habitual drunkards, or to persons likely to become such. For the first offense of selling to such after receiving the notice the penalty is a fine of $50, for the second offense a fine of $100, and for the third offense a fine of $200. Upon a third offense, also, the board shall report the matter to the licensing board, which may revoke the license.

The appointment of the board of protectors is not made mandatory upon any municipality and the members of the board are to serve without compensation. Their reasonable expenses are to be paid. The board is to investigate the causes of drunkenness and whenever a case of such is discovered, or a case where a person is likely to become such, then the official notice is to be served upon every liquor seller in the municipality. Before any action for the recovery of the penalty prescribed is taken the alleged violating liquor seller shall be given a hearing before this bobard.

Another provision is that the person deemed to be an habitual drunkard is also to be notified officially by the board, and if such person shall thereafter purchase any intoxicating drink he shall be deemed a disorderly person and punished as such.

Senator Hillery advocated the measure in a strong speech in which he declared that drunkards were the disgrace of the liquor business and a menace to the community. Liquor would always exist, he argued, and this step should be taken to prevent the abuse.

Senator Hinchliffe, who is a brewer, also advocated the bill. It was passed unanimously.

PERSONAL.

Miss Jennie Ramond, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with Plainfield friends.

Peter Neuman, of East Seventh street, is out today after a ten days' illness with rheumatism and a heavy cold.

Mrs. D. R. Douglass, of Grove street, who has been spending some time with relatives in Charleston, S. C., has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Lenz, of New York, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Fincke, of 1122 South avenue, over the Easter season.

Miss Pearl Randolph, of Brooklyn, who has been ill for the past six weeks, is slowly improving at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. A. C. Randolph, this city.

Evangelistic Meeting.

Mrs. Gilbert Van Nest, superintendent of the evangelistic department of the W. C. T. U., will have charge of the evangelistic meeting to be held in the rooms on Madison avenue tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Would Dry Up Metuchen.

The Metuchen Law and Order League is trying to make Metuchen a dry town. Yesterday they presented a petition signed by 100 residents asking that licenses be refused to J. B. McGuinness and James Lawless, who have had licenses for some time. Heretofore the league has devoted its energies against new applications, but now will oppose all licensed places. The applications were laid over until April 16.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY BILL UP TO GOVERNOR

The Ackerman employers' liability bill passed the House at Trenton this morning and is now awaiting the Governor's signature. Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce had the measure in tow and in a masterful speech made convincing arguments against the addition of proposed amendments. The Cranford man showed conclusively that he had made a thorough study of the subject and was frequently applauded during the debate.

This excellent measure, second only in importance to the civil service law in which the Union county statesman is father, went through the Senate a short time ago with but three dissenting votes. It is similar in many respects to the measure in effect in New York and other States. The House passed it today by a vote of 54 to 0.

Governor Fort is expected to sign the bill this afternoon.

Bayonne, 1893-1897; Westfield, 1904-1907, when he was appointed district superintendent of the Jersey City district. Since that time he has performed a good work and succeeded in building up and strengthening all the churches in his district. He is a forceful preacher and his work in the past shows that he has been a good pastor. He is expected to occupy the local pulpit for the first time on Sunday, while at the same time, Dr. McCrea will make his first appearance in Centenary church, Newark. According to the rules of the M. E. church, the pastors assume their charges the first Sunday following their appointments.

Rev. Dr. McCrea was not in a pleasant frame of mind when he discussed his transfer with a reporter for The Daily Press today. Indeed, it was plainly evident that the popular divine was not at all pleased over his assignment to Newark.

"Just a short time before the Bishop announced his appointments," said the genial clergyman, "I was assured by the two presiding elders that so far as Plainfield was concerned there would be no changes. This pleased me mightily for, as you know, I and my flock dwell in harmony. The announcement was a double blow to me inasmuch as I had sincerely assured the congregation of the First M. E. church that I would gladly accept the invitation to remain for the fifth year. I like Plainfield and I am attached to my parish work. The past year has been the most prosperous in our church history and I had planned with the cooperation of our people, to make a record for our parish during the coming year.

"No one," continued the pastor, "was more surprised than I when the appointments were announced. I do not know a single man in Centenary church and why I was assigned to that charge I do not know. I understand that they are hard-working Methodists and are most loyal, but I love Plainfield. The bishop has issued his orders and I must obey, but I wish that you would say for me that I am awfully disappointed in having to leave my work here which I consider unfinished."

At Proctor's Theatre.

Miss Sheri Rives, who made her stage debut at the Proctor theatre this week as a singer, is a young New York society girl and a near relative of J. Pierpont Morgan. Miss Rives, who was quite an athlete while at the Packet Institute, has always been interested in theatricals and has now decided to make the stage her profession. She has a voice that some day will bring her a large income, although the money problem is something she does not have to worry over, but like all ambitious actresses is anxious to make her talent win her fame before the footlights.

DON'T RIDICULE BOY

ORISON SWETT MARDEN GIVES SOME GOOD ADVICE.

Well for Parents to Respect Dreams of Future Greatness Which May Enter Youngster's Mind—How Much Injury Is Done.

Many a boy has gone to bed in tears because his father criticized or denounced his effort at playing the violin; made fun of a simple little composition or story which he wrote; discouraged his attempt to make some little mechanical device, or threw a wet blanket on his dreams, laughing at his prediction of what he would do in the future, writes Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

A man who has recently come into great prominence in his profession says that when, tremblingly, he told his father what he wanted to be, he was told that a padded cell was the only place for a boy with such crazy ideas, and that he was forced for years to do that which God had forbidden in every fiber of his being, and against which every drop of blood in him protested.

The father who has made up his mind that his son must continue his business and keep his estate intact, is not in a position to decide on the boy's bent—his special aptitude. He is prejudiced at the very outset.

The reason why there are so many mediocre men and women in the world, and so many failures, is because they never found their right places.

Everywhere we see men and women, capable of much better things, who were discouraged and diverted from their natural bent when young. Their own families did not take stock in them; they laughed at their young ambitions, and strangled their aspirations, either by harsh treatment, or, what is even worse, ridicule; and their teachers did not understand them.

You cannot read the sealed message which God has wrapped up in your boy or girl, and you should regard it as sacred. You should respect the dreams of future greatness of your son, because the Creator may have intended him for a grand and far-reaching mission. You cannot tell what is going on in his mind; you cannot tell what possibilities are locked in his brain. He may be perfectly conscious at this moment that he was intended for a much higher place in the world than you are occupying yourself, and to denounce him, to scoff at his dreams, to laugh at his predictions for the future may be a source of great humiliation to you some day. It may also work incalculable injury to your boy. A thousand times better strike him with your hand than blast his hopes by ridicule or by a cruel, chilling, cutting word.

Flower Dances for Children.

French mothers have been showing unwonted ingenuity this winter in dressing their darlings for the popular flower dances which are now the fashion for juvenile society and carry all before them. Generally a number of blooms are selected, and these are called bouquet parties. The charm of these parties is that the little people are well suited to represent flowers. Parisian society has gone daft over some of the designs and also the beauty of some of the children. Their dresses are floral, of course. Trails of blooms are draped together from the waists, the ends floating on the airy skirts, or loose petals are scattered all over the material. But this gives little idea of the chic and the detail of the dress or of the human floweret that carries it off. Nothing has so hit the French taste as these flower dances, and many of the elder spectators have grown quite sentimental about them.

Demand for Professional Mourner.

The professional mourner who can be hired in many European cities to follow in the funeral procession and look grief-stricken is usually secured through burial societies. These furnish men and women, and sometimes both, dressed in keeping with the desire of the family of the late lamented. They also weep to order. At homes where self control is deemed a virtue there is no loud demonstration or sorrow, but where the real mourners are emotional and give way to weeping they are usually outdone by the professionals. An undertaker in Delaware furnished mourners several times recently, and the experiment was so successful, the stricken families were so well pleased with the manner in which the mourning parties had been augmented, that the funeral director has determined to enter the professional mourner's business with hopes for success.

That Wireless Signal.

The family circle was discussing the Republic disaster and the now famous "C Q D" signal sent out by Jack Binns that carried to the world the fateful news.

"Say, pa, what does that 'C Q D' really mean?" asked the youngest boy.

"Aw, I know what it means," spoke up the elder brother. "It's this: 'Come Quick, We're Drowning!'"

Rather Slow.

"She is receiving attentions from a young lawyer and also from a young doctor."

"Which is ahead?"

"They're both somewhat backward. The lawyer asks merely hypothetical questions and the doctor only seems to hold her hand to take her pulse."

RAM'S HORN PHILOSOPHIES.

Better die trying than not to try at all.

Our prejudice is always an enemy to our progress.

The white robe often hides the cloven foot.

The man who fears God is afraid to take a single step alone.

The more we have against us the more God is honored by our trust.

Even Heaven wouldn't look right through the devil's telescope.

The devil never knows just what move to make against a praying mother.

We do not always have the most reason for sorrowing when we are sorrowing most.

The hamlet in which a great man is born and reared is the last to find out that he is great.

It is always safe to count on God's help whenever and wherever no human hand can help.

We are most surrendered to the will of God when we are doing what we believe he wants done.

Only think of the irony of putting "At Rest" on the headstone of a wife who was worked to death.

When the Christian begins to feel at home in the seat of the scornful, the salt is fast losing its savor.—Indianapolis News.

One reason why people sometimes look bored in church, is because the preacher didn't bore deep enough before he went into the pulpit.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

All a woman has to do to discover brains in a man is to be his mother.

A woman would almost rather have smallpox than admit she suffers from cold feet.

The saintly thing about a woman is how she can adore a man that nobody else can tolerate.

An impressive thing about being in trouble is what a lot of pleasure it gives your friends.

It's astonishing what legible handwriting a girl uses when she accepts a proposal by letter.

The thing a man likes about washday dinners is that is the day he dosen't come home to his.

One of the easiest ways for a man to get married is to think he's smart enough to keep out of it.

There's hardly anything seems so wonderful to a woman as how cunningly the baby could talk if it knew how.

A woman can thrill as deeply over her preparations for housecleaning as a man over getting ready to go fishing.

If a woman can't marry a man herself because she already has a husband, she'll marry him to somebody else, anyway.—New York Press.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

A failure is often something that succeeds success.

If there was more restitution, there might be less destitution.

A man never complains of blindness merely because he can't see his own faults.

Look at your SINS in capitals, and your sorrows will appear in lower case.

So many men have watches that watchmen no longer are needed to tell the time.

When the meek inherit the earth, it is to be hoped they won't make other people get off it.

Vegetarians never yet have explained why the first sin of our first parents was the eating of an apple.

The one who stands by you to the last is the doctor; while the undertaker is the last man in the world to stand by you when you're in a bad box.

"If an African chieftain is rubbed the right way, he will fairly shine upon you," says a recent traveler. That's what's expected of every good blackking.—E. G. Holden in the Sunday Magazine.

HUMANISMS.

Many an elopement is innocently planned by the girl's parents.

As some men climb the ladder of success they push others off.

It's easier to get a bad reputation than it is to keep a good one.

The recording angel hasn't time to make a note of your good intentions.

People may not call you a fool, but that is no sign they don't think you are one.

Proposals for Coal.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held April 5, 1909, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Monday, April 19, 1909, at 7:45 p. m., at the Board room in the High School building, corner Ninth street and Arlington avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing seven hundred tons (more or less) of the best anthracite coal for steaming and hot-air purposes; in the different sizes. The quantity required of each size can be obtained at the office of the Secretary of the Board, High School building, Ninth street and Arlington avenue.

Parties bidding will be required to specify in their bids the name of the coal and shippers of same.

All coal to be thoroughly screened over a selve fine enough to take out all dust and small particles of coal, and to be prepared acceptable to the Committee on Fuel, or their agent or representative.

All coal to be placed in the coal bins within the public school buildings without any extra expense to the Board for handling or trimming the coal in the bins, and to be delivered at such time as the Board may direct.

Bids to specify whether long or short tons.

Payment for all coal contracted for to be made after July 1, 1909.

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for Coal," and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Board will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present; and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received until the day and hour above named, and none thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Proposals For Furniture New Primary School.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held April 5, 1909, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Monday evening, April 19th, 1909, at 7:45, at the Board room in the High School Building, corner West Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furniture to furnish the new primary school now being erected at Darrow Avenue and Essex Street.

The schedule of requirements will be found on file at the Board room, or a copy will be sent to those applying for same.

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for Furniture for Darrow Avenue School" and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received previous to the hour designated and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

UNIQUE DRESSING TABLE.

A closet door, if one is so fortunate as to have a closet, is easily converted into a dressing table by screwing on a mirror and under it either a small shelf with a rim to prevent articles from slipping off, or, what is less expensive, an old-fashioned wooden knife and fork box.

Bags tacked tightly below this will hold brushes and combs, hand mirror and all necessary toilet articles, while the shelf or box may be used as a table when the former are in service. When the door is closed the whole is sut in from sight. The mirror must not be hung, but crewed tightly, or it will knock and swing whenever the door is moved.

PHYLLIS ABSTAINS—AH, ME!

Ah, Lent's a dreary time at best, with nothing doing in the town.
Society in somber garb and rectors toning Satan down;
But I'd no quarrel with those days of penitence; indeed, sometimes
I've felt a bit contrite myself on hearing those clear, dulcet chimes
Calling fair sinners to their prayers, bidding a recreant world make haste
To gain the sanctified retreat wherein its sins might be erased;
But now I heed them not at all, howe'er they call appealingly—
"You must abstain," the rector said, and Phyllis now abstains from—me.

"It's only forty days," she said, "and I am yours for all the rest.
In Lent, my dear, the rector says, one must give up what one loves best,
Abstain from every worldly thing; and you are worldly, aren't you?
Besides, it's but a test," she cried, "whether or not your love rings true."
No plea of mine availed against the rector's ban on worldly taint;
'Twas her obsession (great word, that), and thus it was my pretty saint
In chastened mood and heart contrite took up her role as devotee,
Dismissing pomps and vanities, beneath which head she barred out me.

Surely that rector graced his robes!
Lofty of brow, a soulful gaze,
Six feet of sweetness and of light; sometimes one sees at matinees
Such deities the idol of a throng of femininity—
And to the rector Phyllis paid devotions afternoons at three.
In tending souls so ardent was the rector's zeal that ere Lent waned
I found Phyllis lost to me, and what I'd lost the rector gained.
Prate to me not of keeping Lent! Phyllis, immune to every plea,
Kept Lent and kept the rector, too! That's why she now abstains from me.

PERSIAN WOMEN SHOW BRAVERY

Give Up Their Lives on the Field in Cause of Liberty.

It is a remarkable sign of the times that even in eastern countries such as Turkey and Persia the women are in the van of the political movements of the day.

In Persia they take part in the struggle for a constitution, and that they are willing and ready to lay down their lives for the cause is shown by a report from the Teheran correspondent of the St. Petersburg Russ, according to which, after the latest fight that took place outside the city of Tabriz between the royalists and the constitutional forces, the casualties among the latter included 67 women disguised as men who were found dead in the field.

The hero of the day was one Sata Khan, the military leader of the reform movement, who has been regarded for some time past by the people as the one and only possible deliverer of Persia. It appears that two days after the shah had annulled the constitution previously granted, Ain-ed-Dowleh, the shah's commander, took the offensive, advanced on Tabriz and shelled the town, inflicting a loss of 100 killed and wounded on the revolutionaries. Then Sata Khan headed a sortie from the town.

His horsemen, covered by artillery, charged the shah's troops, including the Russian Gen. Laikoff's Cossacks, took them by surprise and routed them. The revolutionaries followed up their victory, pursuing Ain-de-Dowleh's troops for 13 miles and capturing 12 guns, besides provisions and ammunition. The casualties on both sides amount to about 2,000.

For the moment affairs have quieted down, but it can only be a lull before a greater storm. The news of the severe defeat of the shah's troops has spread rapidly throughout the country and has enormously strenghtened the reformers.

Japan Beautiful in the Spring.

To a person contemplating a trip to Japan I would advise that he come in the spring. About the first of April the cherry blossom season is on, followed by the flowering of the azalea and wistaria, and the parks and forests are beautiful, but in the winter there is little to be seen in the way of color. The cities and towns are an almost continuous aggregation of unpainted shanties with picturesque roofs of tile or thatch, while the fields beyond are generally covered with water as a preparation for the next planting of rice. The picture is odd and interesting, but not beautiful. Travel through the country is cheap and fairly comfortable, the passenger cars are small and arranged in compartments like those used in Europe. Good hotels, conducted like our hotels on the "American plan," are to be found in every place you will care to visit, but outside the cities their lack of heating facilities will be noticeable and in the winter will result in suffering.—From a Kobe, Japan, Letter to the Denver Post.

Submarine Photography.

A French engineer, M. Peau, is making remarkable submarine pictures at Havre, France, where the water, except near the surface, is very muddy. His camera is contained in a sheet steel cylinder 20 inches long and 10½ inches in diameter. The front is covered by plate glass. Into the rear of the camera runs a tube which extends to the surface of the water, and it is through this that the engineer changes the plates and focuses the lens. Illumination is furnished by flashlights contained in a thick glass globe, which is also connected with the surface by a tube. The shutter and flash work simultaneously.

The complete apparatus weighs about four pounds, but when in the water is held down by additional weights ranging from twenty to forty pounds. The apparatus is painted as near the color of the water as possible, so as not to arouse the inquisitiveness of the fish.—Popular Mechanics.

Era of "a Bath with Every Room."

"A bath with every room" is the American idea of the "comfortable" hotel. It would be difficult to knock it out of the public's mind, now it has worked in, but pray remember the days when great-great grandfather washed in a tin basin no bigger than a finger bowl. Go and look at the tiny corner washstand in the Paul Revere house and see what that hero used for maintaining cleanliness of person! The ablutions of our forefathers were not extensive, it is true, but they told in the "high thinking" that was kept up in those days of low living. Private residences are not thought first-class unless supplied with elaborate bathrooms on every floor, and the bathtub itself, hewn from Carrara marble or made of porcelain, must be of heroic size, large enough to drown any ordinary family.—Boston Herald.

Pessimistic.

"Well, what be you kickin' about now?" queried the cross-roads storekeeper. "You sure have good crops an' the prices are good enough, I reckon."

"Yass," rejoined the old farmer, "th' craps air good, but ef I sell now th' prices air bound t' go up, an' ef I wait fer 'em t' git higher they air bound t' git lower; so I can't help losin' enny way yew figger it, by grass!"

On the Trail.

Tramp—Lady, I'm near perishing from exposure.

Lady—Are you a congressman or a senator?—Town Topics.

Does a Woman's Charm Lie Chiefly in Her Hat?

'Twould seem so when one sees how much more fascinating one woman is than another—the difference, apparently, being in the sort of hat she wears.

And if, as Maude Adams, in "What Every Woman Knows," says, "If a woman has charm, she has everything," so the woman wearing the most bewitching bonnet is likely to be the most charming.

The women of New Jersey and some knowing ones in New York and Brooklyn have long since come to recognize the supremacy of the Hahne hats, and the work of our master milliners has won for us the trade of the elite.

Some of our hats are direct importations; most of them copies or modifications touched with sufficient democracy to make them acceptable to American women.

We cater not only to the finest trade of Newark, the Oranges, and round about, but to folks of moderate means, and we count among the store's most noteworthy achievements our ability to produce really beautiful hats at prices as low as $12.75, $7.75 and even $4.75

Our collection of hats at these popular prices was never better than now, and those seeking beauty with economy will be pleased with the hats we sell them so cheaply.

Other Trimmed Hats at $15, $17.50, $20, $25, $30 and up to $75, of the more elegant sorts, trimmed in sumptuous fashion with the finest of flowers, feathers, ribbons, etc.

Untrimmed Hats are here in greater variety than anywhere in the State.

Flowers, Foliage, Fruit, Wings, Aigrets and Ostrich Plumes in such assortment as will almost bewilder you.

EASTER HAT SPECIAL

Beautiful Trimmed Hats in the most up-to-date effects—novel and exclusive styles; no two alike; almost every color combination imaginable; hats worth easily $10 and $12, will be sold on Thursday only for $7

Easter Clothes for Big Boys and Little.

If you want a suit for the youngster of 2½ years or for the big fellow of 18 come here expecting to find just what you want in style, in material, in finish, and in price.

We know of no clothing store in Newark presenting fuller and more tempting lines of clothing for boys than this one. We sell the higher grades and the medium, and we touch rock bottom on prices without descending to the unworthy makes.

Bring the boy in this week and let him see the clothes we have to dress him in, and see them for yourself.

We will be glad to have you make comparisons but we want you to do so intelligently, not guiding wholly by price but considering the quality of materials, the fit, and the finish of the garments as well.

Double Breasted Suits here for boys of 8 to 17 years, in all the newest patterns of cassimeres and cheviots—gray and brown stripes and checks—the newest Spring models, with knickerbocker trousers, at only $1.98

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Falling from a house roof at Newfield, while painting, Eugene and Alfred Miller were badly bruised. Eugene was rendered unconscious.

Railroad detectives are still seeking the person who put terra-cotta sewer pipe on the West Jersey tracks near Vineland Saturday night.

Realizing that glassmaking machinery and local option will reduce their chances of a livelihood, glassblowers about Clayton are buying farms.

Caught in windmill cogs, two of Walter Hartshorne's fingers were almost torn from his right hand at New Egypt and amputation may have to follow.

Work has been commenced on the Upper Pittsgrove State road, which will extend to the Gloucester County line, making a series of State roads all the way from Camden to Salem.

Dispute over the ownership of a Bible resulted in a police call at Vineland's colored revival, and suit for a board bill which forced Evangelist Foreman to pay "Sister" Price $17.

Rev. S. F. Gaskell, of Salem, who because of ill health did not take an appointment at the annual conference of the New Jersey Methodists, has been appointed conference evangelist.

Separated from her husband, sixteen-year-old Mrs. Bessie Francis was turned over to the probation officer by Recorder Stackhouse, in Camden, her mother having charged her with incorrigibility.

Josiah Nankivel, for several years employed in the Woods cotton mill, Mays Landing, has forsaken his looms on a call to the pastorate of Crosswicks Methodist Episcopal church, Burlington county.

Two men in bathing suits took a dip in the sea yesterday at Virginia avenue, Atlantic City, and remained in the water and on the beach for half an hour. Of course, they said "the water was fine," as their teeth chattered.

Intent on saving the cost of watchmen to keep young American fans from climbing the fences at Inlet Baseball Park, directors of Atlantic City's new ball games have decided to admit the youngsters to the bleachers for 15 cents.

The water service suit in Chancery between the Toms River Water Company and Dover Township was compromised by the township agreeing to pay the company $20 a fire plug for five years and $17.50 a plug for the next five years.

Clarence Duberson, the 17-year-old son of Elsworth Duberson, who ran away from Mays Landing, has written a letter to his parents, announcing his safe arrival at Sioux City, S. D., and that they must send funds if they want him back.

Miss Florissa Wheeler, a teacher at the Bridgeton High School, occupied the pulpit Sunday at the Marlboro church, of which her father is pastor. He was unable to preach, owing to being ill, and his daughter took his place at both services.

Thrown from a load of household goods when a locomotive scared his horses, at Mt. Holly, Edward Eckert, an expressman, was run over and one of his legs was broken near the knee, while the other was crushed. He was found by a trolley crew.

Promising to make no further attempts on his life, David Fritchie, the Camden trolley conductor who endeavored to commit suicide on his car on Sunday night, was released from jail yesterday by order of Recorder Stackhouse. A brother took Fritchie in charge.

With her jaws firmly locked, Mrs. William Fritz, forty-two years old, of Westville, was taken to Cooper Hospital, Camden, yesterday afternoon by Dr. Hunter, suffering from tetanus. The malady developed from a wound in the foot, caused by a nail penetrating the sole of her shoe a week ago, and the doctors at the hospital entertain but little hope for her recovery.

The failure of Frank Ferry and William Custello, Philadelphians, to appear in Mercer Court yesterday, to stand trial for perjury in connection with the conviction of Charles Rohrer and John Shevlin, pickpockets serving terms in State prison, resulted in the forfeiture of their bail of $750 each. Their security was John H. Backes, their counsel, who was protected by the deposit.

Enrico Nazzaro, of 35 Garfield avenue, Paterson, appeared before Justice of the Peace Frank P. Romano last night and entered charges of atrocious assault and battery against his father-in-law, Enrico Pepe, of the same address. The complainant was having a dispute with his wife, when Pepe entered, and, it is alleged, without provocation, inflicted two stab wounds. The defendant furnished bail.

Arrested for the third time in recent days, Elliott Chew was held under bail yesterday by Recorder Stackhouse on a charge of assault and battery made by Joseph H. Halladay. Called to the Chew home, in Bailey street, Camden, after Chew had cut his face and hands by trying to get out the window without raising the sash, Halliday, who is temporarily crippled by reason of a crushed foot, says that the accused man kicked him in the stomach.

HERRESHOFF
The Smart Light Car of Class.

There is no car at less than double the price that is in the same class with the $1,500 Herreshoff Car. No other car is planned on the same lines as this smart light car of class. It is built of the same material as the big cars, with as painstaking care, on the same proven principles of good practice, with the intent to build the best that can be built rather than a low-priced product.

In appearance, grace of line and refinement of finish, there is no car at any price superior to it. Its appearance will secure a trial for it anywhere and a demonstration will convince the most skeptical.

The quality of its material speaks in every line. The closer examination made of the car the better will be the impression gained of it. Its peculiarly high efficiency is due to its compactness, its lightness and its correct design.

Bowling and General Sports

BOWLING.

Louis Skelly is coming back to form again. 222 was one of his scores the other night.

Johnny Campbell will be one of those to be in first-class shape when it comes to get in the big matches, and more than one from the Madison Square Garden alleys will know the Plainfielder has been in the game.

Billy Nash pays no attention to what scores some one else may make, but when he and Frank Blatz get to making it's all day with the rest of the crew.

Chief Kiely is one of the bowlers who loves the game for the fun that's in it. But if there's anything in it, the Chief has the fun of getting it. It shows how fond he is of the game.

When a man makes a strike he spares none, but he certaily hates to spare a spare.

When Johnny Conklin is in first-class "condish," he never misses the head pin. But ever since he's been bowling the head pin fails to be always in the right place.

PLAINFIELD DEFEATS NEW BRUNSWICK.

By the scant margin of seven pins the Armrights succeeded in taking the odd game from the Brunswick A. C. of New Brunswick. The locals lost the first game but a little thing like that evidently had no effect upon them, for they came back with scores of 932 and 922 and won out. The scores:

Plainfield.
Campbell	168	223	166
Reville	157	166	189
Radin	182	196	202
Nash	184	188	185
Miller	155	159	180
	846	932	922

New Brunswick.
Coyne	182	150	189
Reid	165	127	167
Taylor	155	180	186
Bastedo	200	198	191
Hogarty	192	174	182
	892	839	915

BASEBALL.

Atlanta was the first team to make the Brooklyn Dodgers bite the dust. For a while it looked as if the big leaguers were going to put the damper on every thing in the line.

Myers, the Giants new catcher, will be the man for the position with the McGrawites this year. The big Indian is also hitting the ball hard and often.

Si Seymour didn't do a thing to the Giant pitchers last Monday in the game against his old associates. The hard hitting fielder made such a catch of Bridwell's drive that it took all the spice out of John McGraw.

Georgetown continues to keep up her winning streak with Cornell being her latest victims. The Senators now have all the big college teams shaking in their boots.

When the University of Pennsylvania and Georgetown cross bats this year one can look for the hardest college struggle of the season.

Lyness struck out twelve men which gives promise of what to expect of him later, but nine bases on balls still show needed improvement.

Clark had his eye on the ball by the three bagger he made off Brunt, who pitched a good game.

Some of the fans put up a kick about Doane making three errors. Well, all know it was bad enough but that is poor encouragement for the man the P. H. S. expect so much of. Doane is a good player and like all others will have his poor days.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

John Svanberg, a Swedish runner, is now after the colors of St. Yves, the French flyer. It is now up to the Swede to show he is in a class with the new made champion.

Roy Gwyer, the Park avenue angler, is the first to report of catching any trout this season. Last Saturday the fisherman brought two of the speckled beauties home for a beginner of the season.

The reason that Jack Johnson is side-stepping Stanley Ketchell is because the white champ keeps coming at his opponent all the time. As long as Johnson can do the rushing he is perfectly at home.

The Dixie II met her first defeat at Monte Carlo last Monday when she was beaten by the Wolseley-Siddeley II, owned by the Duke of Westminister. The Dixie II easily defeated the English boat last year.

Foxhall P. Keene, of New York, defeated Austin Potter, of Boston, in a match game of lawn tennis yesterday. It took the winner five hard sets before he could determine who was the better player.

Yale will not row the Princeton varsity this year. Walter Camp, a member of the Yale athletic advisory board, stated the only race between the two colleges would be between the second Yale team and Princeton.

Harry Payne Whitney is certainly having great success with his string of horses in England this season. The American owner has a good chance to win the English Derby this season.

The New Jersey State Senate has passed an amendment to the Frelinghuysen automobile law, which provides for eight-day tourist licenses on the payment of $1. It provides for the using the license in four periods of two days each.

THEIR WATCHES GONE; NO CLUE TO THIEVES.

No trace of the two watches stolen from the home of Alfred Myers, of Washington avenue, Dunellen, Monday night, has been found by the Dunellen police, who have warned the boroughites to be on the lookout for uninvited night visitors. The watches stolen were valued at about $150. One of them belonged to Mr. Myers and the other was the property of Russell Runyon, a pupil at the Plainfield High School.

The police believe that the housebreakers were railroad tramps, and are on watch for other strangers who may misuse their stop-over privilege. It is reported that several Dunellenites have purchased revolvers, while others have made sure that their private arsenals are in good repair.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES RECEIVE $200 AS A GIFT.

At the all-day meeting of the missionary societies of the First M. E. church in Vincent chapel, yesterday, it was announced that Mrs. I. A. Miller, of Westfield, an old member of the home society, had placed $200 to the credit of the auxiliary. The balance of $500 was divided between the missionary societies of the M. E. churches at Westfield and Cranford.

Yesterday's meeting was especially helpful. Part of the day was spent in sewing, while the social features were greatly enjoyed by all present. At noon a basket luncheon was served. The plans of study for the year were discussed and will be followed throughout the coming twelve months.

William G. Mangan, of South avenue, will spend Easter Sunday and Monday at Atlantic City.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"I didn't have enough money for that," Douglas answered frankly. He turned to the small boy and pinched his ear. There was sad disappoint-

In the young pastor's arms was a white, spangled burden of humanity.

ment in the youngster's face, but he brightened again when the parson confessed that he "peeped."

"A parson peeping!" cried the thin lipped Miss Perkins.

"I was not a parson then," corrected Douglas good naturedly.

"You were going to be," persisted the spinster.

"I had to be a boy first in spite of that fact."

The sudden appearance of Hasty in, same as me," Hasty [illegible] innocently.

"You'd better take Hasty into the kitchen," said Douglas to Mandy, with a dry smile. "He's talking too much for a wounded man."

Mandy disappeared with the disgraced Hasty, advising him, with fine scorn, "to get de tiger to chaw off his laigs, so's he wouldn't have to walk no mo'."

The women gazed at each other with lips closed tightly. Elverson's behavior was beyond their power of expression. Miss Perkins turned to the pastor as though he were somehow to blame for the deacon's backsliding, but before she could find words to argue the point the timid little deacon appeared in the doorway, utterly unconscious of the hostile reception that Hasty had prepared for him. He glanced nervously from one set face to the other, then coughed behind his hat.

"We're all very much interested in the circus," said Douglas. "Can't you tell us about it?"

"I just went into the lot to look for my son," stammered the deacon. "I feared Peter had strayed."

"Why, deacon!" said Mrs. Willoughby. "I just stopped by your house and saw Mrs. Elverson putting Peter to bed."

The deacon was saved from further embarrassment by an exclamation from Julia, who had stayed at the window. "Oh, look; something has happened!" she cried. "There's a crowd. They are coming this way."

Douglas crossed quickly to Julia's side and saw an excited mob collecting before the entrance to the main tent. He had time to discover no more before Mandy burst in at the door, panting with excitement and rolling her large, white rimmed eyeballs.

"Mars John, a little circus girl done fall off her hoss!" she cried. "Dr. Hartley say can dey bring her in heah?"

"Of course," said Douglas, hurrying outside.

There were horrified exclamations from the women, who were aghast at the idea of a circus rider in the parsonage. In their helpless indignation they turned upon the little deacon, feeling intuitively that he was enjoying the drama. Elverson was retreating toward the door when he was suddenly thrust aside by Douglas.

proved a diversion. He looking very sheepish.

"Hyar he is, Mars John; look at him!" said Mandy.

"Hasty, where have you been all day?" demanded Douglas severely.

Hasty fumbled with his hat and sparred for time. "Did yo' say whar's I been, sah?"

"Dat's what he done ast yo'," Mandy prompted threateningly.

"I bin 'ceived, Mars John," declared Hasty solemnly. Mandy snorted incredulously. Douglas waited.

"A gemmen in de circus done tole me dis mawnin' dat ef I carry water fo' de el'phants he'll let me in de circus fo' nuffin', an' I make a 'greement wid him. Mars John, did yo' ebber seed an el'phant drink?" he asked, rolling his eyes. John shook his head.

"Well, sah, he jes' put dat trunk a his'n into de pail jes' once an'—swish—water gone."

Douglas laughed, and Mandy muttered sullenly.

"Well, sah," continued Hasty, "I tote water fo' dem el'phants all day long, an' when I cum roun' to see de circus de gemmen won't let me in. An' when I try to crawl under de tent dey pulls me out by de laigs an' beats me." He looked from one to the other, expecting sympathy.

"Serves you right," was Mandy's unfeeling reply. "If yo's so anxious to be a-totin' water, jes' yo' come along outside and tote some fo' Mandy."

"I can't do no mo' carryin', Mandy," protested Hasty. "I's hurted in mah arm."

"What hurt yo'?"

"Tiger."

"A tiger?" exclaimed the women in unison.

"Done chawed it mos' off," he declared solemnly. "Deacon Elverson, he seed it, an' he says I's hurt bad."

"Deacon Elverson!" cried the spinster. "Was Deacon Elverson at the circus?"

"He was in de lot, a-tryin' to look

In the young pastor's arms was a white, spangled burden of humanity, her slender arm hung lifeless over his shoulder. The silk stocking was torn from one bruised ankle; her hair fell across her face, veiling it from the unfriendly glances of the women. Douglas passed out of sight up the stairway without looking to the right or left, followed by the doctor.

Mandy reached the front door in time to push back a crowd of intruders. She had barely closed the door when it was thrust open by Jim.

"Where is she?" he demanded.

"Go way f'um here!" cried Mandy as her eyes unconsciously sought the stairs.

Jim followed the direction of her glance and cleared the steps at a bound. Mandy pursued him, muttering angrily. Deacon Elverson, too, was about to follow when a grim reminder from Miss Perkins brought him around, and he made for the door instead. He started back on opening it, for standing on the threshold was a clown in his grotesque makeup. His white clothes were partially concealed by a large traveling ulster held together by one button. In one hand he carried a small leather satchel, in the other a girl's sailor hat. A little tan coat was thrown across his arm. The giggles of the boy hiding behind his mother's skirt were the only greetings received by the trembling old man in the doorway.

He glanced uncertainly from one unfriendly face to the other, waiting for a word of invitation to enter, but none came.

"Excuse me," he said. "I just brought some of her little things. She'd better put on her coat when she goes out. It's gettin' kinder chilly."

He looked again into the blank faces. Still no one spoke. He stepped forward, trembling with anxiety. A sudden fear clutched at his heart, the muscles of his face worked pitifully. the red painted lips began to quiver.

"It ain't—it ain't that, is it?" he faltered, unable to utter the word that filled him with horror.

Even Miss Perkins was momentarily touched by the anguish in the old man's voice. "I guess you will find the person you are looking for upstairs," she answered tartly and flounced out of the house, calling to Julia and the others to follow her and declaring that she would soon let folks know how the parson had brought a "circus ridin' girl" into the parsonage.

The painted clown stood alone, looking from one wall to the other, then crossed the room and placed the alligator satchel and the little coat and hat on the study table. He was careful not to wrinkle the coat, for this was Polly's birthday gift. Jim and he had planned to have sandwiches and soda pop on the top of the big wagon when they offered their treasures tonight. But now the wagons would soon be leaving, and where was Polly? He turned to ask this question as Mandy came down the stairs.

"Well, if dar ain't anudder one!" she cried.

"Never mind, Mandy," said Douglas, who was just behind her, carrying a small water pitcher and searching for a bottle of brandy which had been placed in the medicine chest for emergencies.

"You can take these upstairs," he told her when he had filled the pitcher with water and found the liquor. Mandy looked threateningly at Toby, then reluctantly went on her way.

Douglas turned to the old man pleasantly. His was the first greeting that Toby had received, and he at last found voice to ask whether Polly was badly hurt.

"The doctor hasn't told us yet," said Douglas kindly.

"I'm her Uncle Toby—not her real uncle," the old man explained, "but that's what she calls me. I couldn't come out right away because I'm on in the concert. Could I see her now, please?"

"Here's the doctor," said Douglas as Hartley came down the stairs, followed by Jim. "Well, doctor, not bad, I hope?"

"Yes, rather bad," said the doctor, adding quickly as he saw the suffering in Toby's face, "but don't be alarmed. She's going to get well."

"How long will it be before we can have her back—before she can ride again?" asked Jim gruffly as he stood apart, twisting his brown, worn hat in his hands.

"Probably several months," said the doctor. "No bones are broken, but the ligaments of one ankle are torn, and she received a bad blow on the head. It will be some time before she recovers consciousness."

"What are we goin' to do, Jim?" asked Toby helplessly.

"You needn't worry. We'll take good care of her here," said Douglas, seeing desperation written on their faces.

"Here?" They looked at him incredulously. And this was a parson!

"Where are her parents?" the doctor asked, looking at Jim and Toby.

"She ain't got no parents 'cept Toby an' me," replied Jim. "We've took care of her ever since she was a baby."

"Oh, I see!" said the doctor. "Well, one of you'd better stay here until she can be moved."

"That's the trouble. We can't," said Toby, hanging his head. "You see, sir, circus folks is like soldiers. No matter what happens, the show has to go on, an' we got to be in our places."

"Well, well, she'll be safe enough here," said the doctor. "It is a fortunate thing that Mr. Douglas can manage this. Our town hospital burned down a few months ago, and we've been rather puzzled as to what to do with such cases." He took his leave, with a cheery "Good night" and a promise to look in upon the little patient later. Jim shuffled awkwardly toward the pastor.

"It's mighty good of you to do this," he mumbled, "but she ain't goin' to be no charity patient. Me an' Toby is goin' to look after her keep."

"Her wants will be very few," Douglas answered kindly. "You needn't trouble much about that."

"I mean it," said Jim savagely. He met Douglas' glance of surprise with a determined look, for he feared that his chance of being useful to Polly might be slipping out of his life.

"You hadn't miss Jim," the clown pleaded at the pastor's elbow. "You see, pain gets some folks different from others, an' it always kinder makes him savage."

"Oh, that's all right," Douglas answered quickly. His own life had been so lonely that he could understand the selfish yearning in the big man's heart. "You must do what you think best about these things. Mandy and I will look after the rest."

Jim hung his head, feeling somehow that the pastor had seen straight into his heart and discovered his petty weakness. He was about to turn toward the door when it was thrown open by Barker.

"Where is she?" shouted the manager, looking from one to the other.

"She can't come," said Jim in a low, steady voice, for he knew the storm of opposition with which Barker would meet the announcement.

"Can't come?" shrieked Barker. "Of course she'll come. I can't get along without her. She's got to come." He looked at Jim, who remained silent and firm. "Why ain't she comin'?" he asked, feeling himself already defeated.

"She's hurt bad," was Jim's laconic reply.

"The devil she is!" said Barker, looking at Douglas for confirmation. "Is that right?"

"She won't be able to travel for some time," said Douglas.

"Mr. Barker is our manager," Toby explained as he edged his way to the pastor's side.

"Some time!" Barker looked at Douglas as though he were to blame for their misfortune. "Well, you just bet she will," he declared menacingly.

"See here, Barker, don't you talk to him like that," said Jim, facing the manager. "He's darned square, even if he is a parson." Barker turned away. He was not a bad hearted man, but he was irritated and upset at losing the star feature of his bill.

"Ain't this my dodgasted luck?" he muttered to himself as his eye again traveled to the boss canvasman. "You get out of here, Jim," he shouted, "an' start them wagons. The show's got to go on, Poll or no Poll!"

He turned with his hand on the doorknob and jerked out a grudging thanks to the pastor. "It's all fired good of you to take her in," he said, "but it's tough to lose her. Good night!" He banged the door and clattered down the steps.

Jim waited. He was trying to find words in which to tell his gratitude. None came, and he turned to go, with a short "Goodby."

"Good night, Jim," said the pastor. He crossed the room and took the big fellow's hand.

"Much obliged," Jim answered gruffly. It was his only polite phrase, and he had taught Polly to say it. Douglas waited until Jim had passed down the steps, then turned to Toby, who still lingered near the table.

"You'll tell her how it was me an' Jim had to leave her without sayin' goodby, won't you, sir?" Toby pleaded.

"Yes, indeed," Douglas promised.

"I'll jes' put this little bit of money into her satchel." He picked up the little brown bag that was to have been Polly's birthday gift. "Me an' Jim will be sendin' her more soon."

"You're going to miss her, I'm afraid," Douglas said, feeling an irresistible desire to gain the old man's confidence.

"Lord bless you, yes, sir!" Toby answered, turning upon him eagerly. "Me an' Jim has been father an' moth-

"No matter what happens, the show has to go on."

er an' jes' about everything to that little one. She wasn't much bigger'n a handful of peanuts when we begun a-worryin' about her."

"Well, Mandy will do the worrying now," Douglas laughed. "She's been dying for a chance to mother somebody all along. Why, she even tried it on me."

"I noticed as how some of those church people seemed to look kinder queer at me," said Toby, "an' I been a-wonderin' if mebbe they might feel the same about her."

"Oh, they're all right!" Douglas assured him. "They'll be her friends in no time."

"She's fit for 'em, sir," Toby pleaded. "She's good, clean into the middle of her heart."

"I'm sure of it," Douglas answered.

FOR COOKERY BOOK

RECIPES THAT ARE WORTHY OF PRESERVATION.

Spanish Buns, with Frosting—Ingredients Needed for Simple Cheese Dish — Mock Cauliflower— Little Coffee Creams.

Spanish Buns.—Two cups brown sugar, half-cup molasses, three-quarters cup butter, three-quarters cup sweet milk, 3½ cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, five eggs, one teaspoon cloves, three teaspoons cinnamon, half nutmeg grated. Bake in dripping pans, and while warm cut in small squares and frost. This makes three dozen buns, which keep perfectly. For frosting use the whites of two eggs, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, a dash of cloves and beat in enough brown sugar to thicken.

Simple Cheese Dish—The young housekeeper, as well as old, will welcome this simple dish. Ingredients needed are: One egg, one cup sweet milk, bread and butter (four or five slices), cheese, salt and pepper. Beat the egg, add the milk, and into this batter dip a slice of buttered bread. Place this in a buttered baking dish and grate cheese over it, add salt and pepper. Then place another slice of bread, and so on until the dish is filled. Pour on the remaining batter and bake about fifteen minutes; until well browned. This rule is sufficient for three people.

To Keep Eggs Light—In making omelet, or souffle, where yolks and whites of eggs are beaten separately, it will be much lighter if the beaten yolks are stirred into the beaten whites.

Mock Cauliflower—Chop together one-half small head of cabbage, one single bunch celery, cook 30 minutes, or until tender, in just enough water to cover. When done add one cup of milk, season, dash of pepper, small piece of butter, thicken a little.

Little Coffee Creams—The yolks of six eggs, a cupful of cream, half a pint of strong coffee, sugar to taste, and some lady fingers. Well beat the yolks, add to them the cream and coffee, which should be nearly cold, sweeten to taste. Strain the custard into small ramakin cases, place these in a shallow pan containing enough boiling water to come half way up the cases. Lay a sheet of buttered paper across the top. Put the lid on the pan and steam gently for 20 minutes. Then take the cases out and leave till the custard is perfectly cold. Serve them in the ramakin cases, with a little heap of whipped and flavored cream on the top. Hand with them the lady fingers.

Jelly of Snow.

Wash thoroughly four tablespoonfuls of rice and put in a double boiler with two quarts of boiling water; cook slowly, without stirring until the rice is tender; drain off what water remains, and each grain should be found separate and whole; set one side to cool. Soak one-quarter of a box of gelatin in water enough to cover it for one hour, then pour over it a half pint of sugar. Stand the dish containing the gelatine mixture in a pan of boiling water and stir until the gelatin and sugar are entirely dissolved. Then turn the mixture into the cooked rice and gelatin. Flavor and pour into a mold as lightly as possible with the cold rice and gelatin. Flavor, and pour into a mold that has been wet in cold water. Set on the ice until it becomes thoroughly cold and set. When ready to serve turn out on flat dish and pour preserved strawberries or cherries around it.

Boiled Rice with Fruit.

Two cups boiled rice, two cups sugar, one cup water, eight apples, some raspberry jam, or any kind. Put the rice in a mold if you have one. I use a bowl. Heat it, and press it through a colander first. I like it just as it is, though. Pare and core your apples and boil them in the sugar and water till tender. Take them out and boil syrup a while longer, so it will get thick. Now put your rice on a platter and pour syrup over it and around apples and fill the cores with raspberry or currant jam, or any kind you may like.

Bread Pancakes.

Soak stale bread in cold water until soft, then pour off the water and rub the bread very fine. Add a pinch of salt and one dissolved yeast cake. If the batter is too thick, add a little sweet milk or cold water, then add flour in proportion to the quantity of batter you wish, and set to rise over night. In the morning put in a beaten egg and a little baking soda. Bake on a griddle. Remember that the less flour you have the better and lighter will be the cakes.

Creamed Beef.

Take one-fourth pound of dried beef, pull into small pieces, and fry slightly in a heaping teaspoon butter. Add a tablespoon of flour, and when brown pour into it a half pint cream or rich milk and cook until thick and creamy. Serve on toast. This makes an excellent luncheon dish.

Keep Cut Onion.

If you happen to need a small piece of onion and have only large ones, which is often the case, cut off what you need and take a part of the thin outside skin of the onion and cover when you have cut. You can keep the rest two or three days without drying.

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of Plainfield Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed:

Have too much to do.

They tell about it in many aches and pains—

Backache, sideache, headache,

Early symptoms of kidney ills.

Diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Plainfield citizen tells here a certain cure.

J. H. Stewart, 312 Arlington avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "An acute pain in the region of my kidneys was a prominent feature of my kidney trouble. My back also ached and I had cold sweats. I finally became so bad that I had to stop work, but even then I did not improve. I at length commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills and three boxes stopped my aches and pains and restored my kidneys to a healthy condition. That was in 1905 and up to this time no attack of the trouble has ever reappeared. In return for the benefit I derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, I am glad to endorse them."

IN MOURNING.

Here are rules.

A few follow them.

A widow mourns two years.

Widows wear crepe for one year.

Crepe is gradually left off during the second year.

For a parent crepe is worn the first six months.

Black follows for six months, then half mourning three months.

Some authorities consider crepe for three months sufficient, with black three and half-mourning three.

Young children wear white; black shoes and hat trimmings being chosen in some instances.

A sister mourns for a brother six months, dividing the time of the different stages as she see fit.

Nieces wear black for three months, and is is considered correct to wear the same mourning for a husband's relatives.

Obsolete.

"When we take charge of the government," said the wise old suffragette, "we will make some changes in the naval bureau."

"I should hope so!" agrees the enthusiastic young suffragette. "Why, bureaus are hopelessly out of style! We will have a combination wardrobe and chiffonier."—Judge.

BETTER THAN STEWED PRUNES.

Cheap and Wholesome Fruit Is Appetizing When Baked.

Some one has said that you couldn't run a boarding house without prunes, and certainly there is no fruit so cheap, and at the same time so wholesome, says an authority on foods. I think the boarder's chief objection to them is the monotonous way in which they are cooked. Now it is just as easy to bake prunes as to stew them, and the result is far more appetizing, as a rule. They should be first washed, then placed in a heavy earthen pudding dish or stone pipkin, covered with a plate and thoroughly baked in the open. They require no sugar, but will be improved by a sprinkling of fine shavings from the yellow rind of lemons or oranges. They taste best when served cold with whipped cream.

I very much doubt if prune soup has been tried by American cooks, though it is a great favorite in Sweden. It makes an agreeable variety with the ordinary run of cream soups. The children will like it with plenty of bread for luncheon. The recipe reads:

Wash three pounds of prunes and soak over night in two quarts of water. In the morning cook in the water in which they have been soaked for two or three hours. At the same time cook in a separate saucepan one cupful oatmeal in two quarts of cold water. Let this also boil two hours, stirring frequently, unless you cook it in a double boiler. Strain the oatmeal. Half an hour before the prunes are done add a half cupful seeded raisins. Now add the prunes and raisins to the strained oatmeal, together with the juice of two lemons, a half cupful sugar and a salt spoonful salt. This may be served hot or cold as preferred.

Cleaning Furniture.

Many housekeepers overlook the necessity of thoroughly cleaning chairs and other pieces of furniture, some parts of which become so soiled that the ordinary dust cloth does not do what is required.

Wooden chairs that have nothing to protect them where the hair often rests, wooden arms on rockers, and the tops of a dining chair where the hand lifts it and where soiled coats rub against it become so soiled that white gowns and waists often show contact with them.

Use a soft cloth and slightly warmed water and do not be afraid of soap, a good soap. Do not have the cloth too wet and hurry the operation. Dry quickly with another soft cloth and polish at once with a soft flannel dipped in paraffin oil, which can be bought at any drug store for a small sum. Try this paraffin oil for a furniture polish and you will never want another.

Cauliflower Creamed.

Boil a cauliflower in salted water for half an hour, drain dry, and set in a lined saucepan with one pint of milk, same quantity of hot water, and simmer for half an hour longer. Take up the vegetable very carefully, drain it, place on a hot dish, and pour over it the following sauce. Place one-half pint of milk in a double saucepan and let it just come to boiling point. Wet a tablespoonful of flour with cold milk, season it with pepper, salt and a little vinegar (tarragon preferred), then mix gradually with the hot milk and boil for a few minutes, adding a little butter. Beat an egg till it is a light color, stir it by degrees into the sauce, and pour over the cauliflower, which is then ready to serve.

Housevife Helps.

When grease has been spilled on the stove it can be quickly removed by washing with vinegar diluted with a little water. Apply with a black woolen cloth.

Vaseline stains are very hard to remove. Before washing they should be soaked in kerosene.

Black ribbon can be freshened by rinsing in hot coffee or in alcohol and wrapping around a glass bottle or jar to dry.

Cream that is to be whipped should be icy cold and preferably 24 hours old.

Bacon and Calf's Liver.

Both bacon and liver should be in thin slices. Fry the bacon and remove it as soon as it is done enough to a hot dish before the fire; flour and pepper the liver and place it in the pan; turn frequently until done, then place a slice of bacon on each slice of liver.

Make a gravy by pouring off the fat and dredging a little flour into the pan; pour in enough water to supply the quantity of gravy desired, and a tablespoon of lemon juice, boil, and pour upon the dish. Garnish with slices of lemon. Time, about ten minutes.

Steak in Olive Oil.

If troubled with indigestion prepare your steaks as the Californians do, a method as appetizing as it is wholesome and digestible. Heat two tablespoons of olive oil in a skillet, pound and flour your steak exactly as if using lard or butter, and fry in the hot oil, turning frequently to prevent crust forming. When the steak is removed, add a little butter to the contents of the skillet and make gravy as usual.

Winter Chili Sauce.

Two tomatoes, four onions and eight apples, chopped fine, four good teaspoons salt, two cups vinegar, nine heaping tablespoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons whole cloves, two sticks cinnamon, pinch of cayenne pepper. Boil two hours.

Serve Baked Wafers.

Instead of plain crackers and cheese passed with the salad cover salted wafers with butter, sprinkle thickly with paprica and Parmesan cheese and brown in the oven.

HOPE'S ANNUAL SESSION

Encouraging Reports Read and Officers Elected at Meeting of Congregation.

MR. BRADFORD IS TREASURER.

Rev. Lawrence R. Howard Presides—Church Membership Is Now Four Hundred and Ten.

The annual congregational meeting of Hope chapel was held in the chapel, last night. The attendance was unusually large and great interest was shown in the review of the yearly activities of the various organizations of the chapel. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor, was chairman of the meeting and Philip Braunsten acted as secretary.

Philip Braunsten, treasurer, reported that $1,036.01 had been raised during the year, from envelopes, $662.44, from loose collections, $185.97, for home missions, $2.20, and received from ways and means committee for music fund $185.40 and the disbursements were $1,036.01. I. W. Travell presented the report of the excursion committee, showing disbusements of $389.45, with a balance of $100 in the treasury. The total receipts from all sources were $2,813.59; disbursements, $2,566.58, leaving a balance of $247.01 in church organizations.

Rev. L. R. Howard presented the pastor's report from April 1, 1908, to March 31, 1909, showing the membership on the latter date to be 410. There were twenty-one added on confession, ten received from other churches, one restored from separate list, nine dismissed, two have died, 17 have been put on the separate list, making a net gain of four members. Nine adults and fifteen infants were baptized during the year.

The Sunday-school report was presented by Dr. D. G. Atwood, secretary. This showed that there are eight officers, four teachers and 189 members in the senior department; twenty-two teachers and 163 members of the junior department; six teachers and fifty-eight members of the intermediate department; nine teachers and 115 members of the primary department; four teachers and forty-eight members in the beginers' department, making a total membership of 626. The average attendance was 340 against 309 for the preceding year.

Mrs. John Johnson, as chairman of the flower committee of the Bible class taught by G. Stuart Simons, reported receipts amounting to $24.45; disbursements, $11.55, with a balance of $12.90. Robert Bailey, librarian, stated that there are 880 books in the library and 131 members of the school availing themselves of the privileges. Frank Rimmer, as treasurer of the Sunday-school, presented an excellent report. The receipts were $599.91, disbursements $558.02, leaving a balance of $41.89. Mr. Rimmer has shown good executive ability in his office and was complimented for his good work.

The report of the Ladies' Aid Society, presented by Mrs. L. R. Howard, showed that $182.26 was raised and disbursed during the year. She also reported as treasurer of the organ fund, a total of $150.06 received and $124.05 paid J. W. Sandford, treasurer of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, leaving a balance of $26.01. Miss Bertha A. Jones, former president of the Christian Endeavor Society, and James Cullinan as secretary of the ways and means committee, presented encouraging reports of the work of their respective organizations during the year.

The Penny a Week Society, comprised of members of G. Stuart Simons' Bible class, reported a balance of $53.22 after disbursing $50 for scholarships at Wolf's Point, Montana. Mrs. Walter Bradford is treasurer of the society. Mrs. Emma E. Brown, as treasurer of the Women's Missionary Society, reported receipts for the year to be $85.91 and disbursements of $83.03.

One of the most interesting reports was that given by Miss M. Clara Hunter, treasurer of the Christian Endeavor Society. The society has raised through various sources, $142.32 and disbursed $140.23, leaving a small cash balance to start the new year. This is one of the best records ever made by a Hope chapel Christian Endeavor Society.

Walter Bradford was elected church treasurer and George H. Whyte and Willard H. Cook, assistant treasurers for the year. Messrs. Thomas Hendry, Charles Vincent, George H. Whyte, C. G. August and Marcus W. Clark were elected members of the ways and means committee.

NOT TO RENEW CHARTER

Legislature Refuses to Receive Bill for Revival of Trolley Franchise.

IT WOULD BREAK A RULE.

Measure for Renewal of Plainfield-Metuchen Line Privileges Must Go Over for a Year.

An effort on the part of Assemblyman Voorhees, of Middlesex county, to introduce the charter revival bill which will make a trolley line between this city and Metuchen possible, proved unsuccessful Tuesday night, when the legislative body refused to consider the measure. The objection was made by Assemblyman Martin, of Essex, who called attention to the ruling of the house a short time ago, when it was decided to receive no more new bills this session, except by unanimous consent. The new bill was introduced in place of House Bill 34, specifically stating its intent as being a special act to revive the charter of the Plainfield Horse and Street Car Railroad Company, granted in 1871. It differs from Bill 344 because that bill provides for the revival of every street railway charter, while the new measure is particularly specific of the Plainfield-Metuchen line.

It seems that Assemblyman Martin is radically opposed to the new measure, for he had a hot argument about the bill with Assemblyman Voorhees at the conclusion of the session. Martin is said to be opposed to the bill because it would bring to life a perpetual street car franchise that expired in 1891 because the company failed to build the line for which it was granted.

Local people interested in the trolley scheme are not disheartened by the unsuccessful attempt to introduce the bill into the Assembly. It was said today that the bill will probably be introduced tonight into the Senate, where no rule about receiving new bills has been made. Should it be successful there, it will be sent to the House as a Senate bill for consideration.

HARTRIDGE SCHOOL PUPILS EXHIBITION.

The exhibition day exercises at the Hartridge School took place yesterday and all during the afternoon the pupils of the institution were given the opportunity to show the results of their work. There were 160 pupils taking part in the exercises, which consisted of drills, sings and dances. A feature was a grand march under the direction of Miss Gertrude Hume. The large auditorium was crowded, and it might be said that local society was well represented.

Among the features of the afternoon's program was the Spanish song and dance by the girls of the academic department, the Scotch dance by the intermediate classes, and the barn dance by the primary department.

Yesterday noon Miss Hartridge gave an informal luncheon to the faculty consisting of the Misses Helen Stiles, Mary Curran, Camelle Vallet, Caroline Wells, Gertrude Hume and S. W. Sullivan.

Renewing Old Acquaintanceship.

Gilbert Y. Tickle, of 14 Dale street, Liverpool, England, is the guest of J. W. Harrison, of Central avenue. Mr. Tickle, who is a member of the firm of Tickle, Bell & Co., dealers in African mahogany and Caucassian walnut, is also a justice of the peace, a position of much honor in England, and a man of prominence there. He and Mr. Harrison were engaged in religious work in England for forty years and they are now renewing old acquaintanceship.

Will Visit Conferences.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, who is chairman of the Board of Education of the Methodist church, will address the New Hampshire Conference at Concord on April 16, the Vermont Conference at Hardwick on April 18 and the Maine Conference at Berlin, N. H., on April 23, in the interest of the educational work being carried on by the board.

"Mormonism and Christianity."

Hans P. Freece addressed the members of Trinity Reformed church at the weekly prayer meeting, last night, on the subject of "Mormonism and Christianity." His remarks were exceedingly interesting.

Gave James Radin Judgment.

Judgment was given to James Radin for $5.08 and costs in the District court, this morning, in his action on contract against John Henzel, for labor performed.

M'ALL WORKERS TO MEET

Two Days' Convention to Be Held Here Next Month by All Branches in the East.

ONE HUNDRED DELEGATES.

The Session Will Be Held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed by the local branch of the McAll Auxiliary for the entertainment of representatives of all the auxiliaries east of the Mississippi, on Wednesday and Thursday, May 5 and 6. The meetings will be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. On Wednesday there will be three sessions, morning, afternoon and night, and on Thursday there will be two, morning and afternoon. About one hundred delegates are expected.

As there will be many details to look after, the Plainfield branch will meet every week until the time for the big gathering. There will be delegates here from Albany, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Washington, New York and all the big cities in the east. The sessions will be devoted largely to a consideration of plans for increasing the interest in the work and providing means for carrying it on and several able speakers will be here to present the needs of the work.

The various committees have been completed as follows:

Entertainment, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. Herbert Baright; luncheon, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mrs. Isaac N. Field; finance, Mrs. A. V. Heely, Mrs. I. N. VanSyckel; printing, Mrs. William M. Stillman; comfort, Mrs. Alfred Slauson; decorations, Mrs. Craig A. Marsh; music, Mrs. J. S. Zelie, Mrs. George A. Strong; information bureau, Miss Ella Martine.

BIG VICTORY FOR CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS

The State Senate has passed the bill of Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, providing for the appointment of an osteopathic physician to the State Board of Medical Examiners and the examination and licensing of osteopathic practioners. The bill as originally introduced was amended by Senator Frelinghuysen to overcome the objections to Christian Scientists, who, according to its provisions, would be liable to arrest for attempting to heal the sick according to the tenets of their faith.

The amendment recognizes Christian Science healing and exempts members of the faith from any penalty for practising healing without a license.

Another amendment was adopted which exempts druggists who may prescribe simple remedies for slight ailments. There was a question as to whether they would not be liable to a heavy penalty if the bill was passed as introduced.

The Christian Science amendment is a great victory for the Scientists, as it is the first official recognition in this State of their methods. The amendment was drawn by Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., and Joseph R. Lefferts, of Passaic, counsel to the Christian Scientists, who induced Frelinghuysen to advocate it. There was no discussion on the bill in its amended form when it came up for passage.

The vote was as follows:

Ayes — Frelinghuysen, Gaunt, Hinchliffe, Leavitt, Osborne, Plummer, Price, Robbins, Silzer, Wilson, Cornish.

Nays — Ackerman, Brown and Hand.

It is conceded that the Frelinghuysen bill is the only one dealing with osteopathy which has any show of passing the House.

Assemblyman H. Stacy Smith, author of the bill providing for a separate board of osteopathic examiners, conceded last night that his bill would be defeated.

"Greek Architecture."

After ten years' preparation, Professor Allan Marquand, of the art and archaeology department in Princeton University, has published his work on "Greek Architecture." Professor Marquand enters into a discussion of disputed questions, and in cases where demanded he confines himself not to Greek architecture alone, but draws comparisons from the work of the Romans. Building materials, monuments, composition, style and decoration are all exhaustively treated.

DALEY BROS. MUST PAY FOR CIGARS PURCHASED

Tony Lusardi, Jr., was the plaintiff in a suit on contract in the District court, this morning, against J. C. Daley, Charles P. Daley and James A. Daley, trading as Daley Brothers, grocers, in which he sought to recover the amount alleged to be due on one thousand cigars sold to the defendants by Milton F. Arnsberg, his agent. After hearing the testimony of witnesses, the case was submitted without argument and Judge William Newcorn gave the plaintiff a verdict for $35. Francis J. Blatz represented the plaintiff and Robert Newton Crane the defendants.

According to the testimony of Daley Brothers and James J. Nash, Mr. Arnsberg sold the firm the one thousand cigars with the understanding that they were to be credited up to his account and traded out in groceries. They claimed that they did not know of Mr. Lusardi's connection with the goods, declaring that Mr. Arnsberg led them to believe that he owned the cigars, that he had said he had been in hard luck and wanted to get rid of the cigars.

These statements were contradicted by the plaintiff, and Judge Newcorn decided that it was a case in which the plaintiff had a right to recover the amount claimed, that the ownership of the goods had been established and that Mr. Lusardi should look to Daley Brothers for a settlement.

MR. TILNEY A DIRECTOR OF M'ADOO TUNNEL CO.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Hudson Companies, the holding company for the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, yesterday, Dumont Clarke, president of the American Exchange National Bank in New York; A. A. Tilney, of this city, a partner in the house of Harvey Fisk & Sons, and Charles Francis Adams, 2d, of Boston, were elected directors to succeed Gardiner M. Lane, Cornelius Vanderbilt and Andrew Freedman. The last three resigned from the directorate at the time the application was made for a franchise to extend the present system from 33d street to the Grand Central Station, New York.

Mr. Tilney resides on Central avenue and has been with the Fisk firm almost from the time of his graduation from Yale.

Dumont Clarke is one of New York's best known bankers and financiers. Mr. Adams has been for several years the treasurer of the Harvard Corporation and is a director of many banks and trust companies in Boston. This completes the directorate of the Hudson Companies.

FORM A SAFE COMPANY

Manganese Steel Safe and Vault Company Incorporated with $100,000. Capital.

TO DO BUSINESS IN THIS CITY.

Manganese Steel Safe Concern Is Dissolved—Three Men in the New Enterprise

Following the announcement that the majority stockholders of the Manganese Steel Safe Company, at a meeting held Tuesday, voted to dissolve the company, comes another announcement that today articles of incorporation were filed in Elizabeth by the Manganese Steel Safe and Vault Company, the authorized capital stock of which is $100,000, divided into one thousand shares at $100 each. The company will begin business with $1,000 capital, divided into ten shares of $100 value each.

The incorporators are Robert E. Jennings, of Jersey City, who holds five shares; Knox Taylor, of High Bridge, who holds four shares, and Frank H. Bucklin, of Plainfield, who holds one share.

The action of the stockholders in voting to dissolve the old company was the result of a suit instituted against the concern by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rodman, minority stockholders, who sought to prevent the sale of the corporation to the Mosler Safe Company, of Hamilton, Ohio, and to get a proper accounting of the business. It is understood that the Taylor Iron and Steel Company, of High Bridge, the controlling interests of which were connected with the safe works management, will control the local plant. The new company is organized to manufacture and sell safes, vaults, etc., and it is now believed that the works will be re-opened and run on full time as before the troubles of the concern began.

DECISION IN FAVOR OF MARTIN AUTO COMPANY

By an opinion handed down by the Supreme Court yesterday, the judgment for full cost of an automobile owned by Dr. Alfred L. Ellis, mayor of Metuchen, against the F. L. C. Martin Automobile Company by the Circuit Court at New Brunswick, before Judge Lloyd and a jury in December, 1907, has been set aside, and the contentions of the automobile concern, which is represented by Reed & Coddington, have been sustained. Suit was started by Dr. Ellis, who refused to pay a bill for the repair of the machine two years ago, declaring that the damage had been largely caused by an accident in the garage while the engine was being tested. The Supreme Court's opinion is believed to have been influenced by a statement by the mayor on the witness stand, when he declared that he had owned the car for about two months before taking it to the garage. The automobile company's attorneys learned after the hearing that the car had only been purchased by Dr. Ellis four days before it was taken to the garage.

In the testimony during the trial in the Circuit Court it developed that the machine had been brought to the local garage for repair and that while it was there the crank shaft was broken and the shaft casing damaged during a test of the engine. The Metuchen man balked at the charges for the repairing of this damage done in the garage, although the automobile men claimed that the accident would probably have happened on the road. The machine was held for the payment of the bill, and it still in the local shop. At the trial two years ago at New Brunswick, the jury gave a verdict against the local automobile firm for the full value of the machine.

May Be Made Sergt.-Major.

Sergeant C. H. Bilyeu, of Co. K, has been selected for the position of sergeant-major of the Second Battalion, of which Col. Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, is the head. This is the highest position in the battalion outside of a commission office and the honor if bestowed upon Sergeant Bilyeu will be a high one. He has performed excellent service in Co. K and has been one of the most faithful members. It is expected that Coy Dungan will make the appointment soon.

DAMAGE BY HIGH WINDS

Gale with Velocity of Seventy Miles an Hour Sweeps Through City.

LOSSES ARE SMALL GENERALLY

Electric Light Wires Cause Blazes—Shutters and Signs Are Blown Away.

The high wind which developed yesterday afternoon reached a velocity of seventy miles an hour last night and tore around through the city streets, carrying hats and signs along with it and splintering off heavy tree limbs.

The fire department was called out three times after nightfall, once for a chimney fire and twice for burning trees. The wind made it seem cold to a gathering of colored lodge men who met last night in the Boehm structure, and in building up a bigger fire in the lodge room stove, they started a chimney blaze. The firemen were summoned at about 9 o'clock and brust into the secret conclave without giving the triple knock and rooster's crow required of all visitors. The lodge was in secret session, but could not continue business when they saw the fire fighters start to kill the chimney blaze. There was no damage.

At about the same time, electric light wires set fire to a tree on Prospect avenue and the apparatus tore out there and watered the blaze, the sparks from which threatened a nearby house. The Public Service people generally attend to fires started by wires, but they too were busy last night and had to call on the firemen. They had to turn out and extinguish a blazing tree on West Fourth street, near Central avenue, which an electric wire had caused to flame up. Otto Arens telephoned fire headquarters a few minutes before 9 o'clock with the report that a tree on his premises on Rahway road was ablaze. The department put out the fire, which had got well started about five feet from the ground. There are no wires near the tree and the cause of the fire is unknown.

Max Tepper, of M. & A. Tepper, was at work at his desk in the store early last evening when one of the roof scuttles crashed through the skylight above him and fell to the floor close to his desk. He was uninjured, but had a narrow escape. The other scuttle on the roof of the same building was lifted by the wind and hurled against the roof, breaking the tin.

The top section of C. F. Birch's house on Fairview avenue, yielded to the force of the wind last night and crashed to the sidewalk. No one was injured.

The high wind last night was responsible for an accident at the home of Alvin E. Hoagland on West Front street. The shutters were blown shut and two large panes of glass went into a thousand pieces.

WESTFIELDER TELLS JUDGE HE WILL NEVER DRINK AGAIN

A paralyzing jag, commenced in Scotch Plains and finished off in this city, guttered Samuel Bolderson, a Westfield teamster, on Front street yesterday afternoon. Patrolman Saffron found the man in mandlin slumber and helped him to the police station.

Bolderson told City Judge Runyon at the session of court today that he would try to walk the chalk line which never curves into saloon doors, and the Judge suspended sentence. The man's team was lodged in a local livery stable for the night, and the bill came to $2. Bolderson had spent all of his money on his jag, but secured the money at police headquarters by leaving his watch until next pay-day.

Approaching Wedding.

Miss Mary Virginia Ruddy, formerly of Corning, N. Y., but now of Plainfield, and John Paul McDonough, of Summit avenue, the borough, will be married at St. Mary's church, Wednesday afternoon, April 21, at 3 o'clock. Mr. McDonough is a member of the firm of McDonough Brothers.

Rev. L. R. Howard to Speak.

The special Lenten service to be held at Hope chapel, tonight, will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. L. R. Howard, instead of Rev. John Y. Broek, the latter having another engagement which will prevent his being present. Mr. Howard will speak on the assigned topic.

Legal Holiday Tomorrow.

Governor Fort yesterday signed the bill making Good Friday a legal holiday and in view of this fact all the local banking institutions will be closed tomorrow.

HORSE THIEF SENTENCED

Dominick Fitzpatrick to Serve Ten Years' Time in the State's Prison.

MADE CONFESSION TO COURT.

North Plainfield Man Given Long Term—Had Stolen and Sold Many Horses In Short Time.

One of the heaviest sentences passed up in recent years in the Somerset County Court was imposed this moring by Judge Schenck on Dominick Fitzpatrick, of North Plainfield, who was found guilty of wholesale horse stealing. He was sentenced to ten years at hard labor in State prison and when Judge Schenck made it known the prisoner almost staggered under the severe penalty.

Fitzpatrick, who had considerable reputation as a prize-fighter, recently became famous as a horse thief. He started in to pick up all the best horses he could find in Washington Valley and his operations also covered other parts of the State.

County Detective George Totten brought Fitzpatrick from Perth Amboy, recently, where he had attempted to dispose of a number of stolen horses, which he gathered in Somerset and other counties during the past month.

When Fitzpatrick was arrested he was trying to dispose of a stolen team and buggy to a Perth Amboy dealer, which he had taken from Wyckoff's stable at Germantown. It was the low price at which he offered the animals and buggy that aroused suspicion and led to his arrest. Later he confessed to stealing eight horses, six of which have already been recovered. It is now expected that the remaining two will soon find an owner.

MISS SOPHIE WEISNER NOW MRS. MORECRAFT.

Miss Sophie Weisner, of Westfield, became the bride of Bruce Morecraft, of Bound Brook, at 7 o'clock last night at the Dutch Reformed church, Bound Brook. The bride's gown was of white silk mull, made Princess style, she wore a veil. Her bouquet was of roses and lilliles of the valley. Miss Daisy Titus, of Greenbrook road, a cousin of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid. Her gown was of white silk mull, and she carried carnations. Joseph Morecraft, cousin of the groom, was best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, where the wedding supper was served. The couple received many handsome and valuable wedding presents. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a locket and chain, and the groom presented his best man with a gold scarf pin. After the reception the couple left for a wedding sojourn at Washington, D. C. They will make their home in Bound Brook.

Will Visit Ellis Island.

The Bible Mission Study Class of Trinity Reformed church will visit Ellis Island on Friday, April 16. The party will be chaperoned by the pastor of the church, Rev. John Y. Broek. Afterward the class will probably take up a course of study along the line of immigration.

Miss Rosa Smith.

Miss Rosa Smith, fifty-five years of age, died at the home of her brother-in-law, Moses Cary, Sr., on Manning avenue, yesterday afternoon. The funeral, which will be private, will be held Friday at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Social for Foreign Girls.

The foreign speaking girls who have been attending the English classes given for their benefit at the Y. W. C. A., under the supervision of the Misses Helen Brown, Ada Clark and Ada B. Stark, will be given a reception at the Y. W. C. A. this evening.

Buys Godwin Residence.

Samuel W. Rushmore, of Putnam avenue, has purchased S. A. Godwin's property on Belvidere avenue and will remove there in the near future. The deal was made by J. T. Vail, the real estate broker.

May Consider Salary Question.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

One Gloucester firm has sold over 20,000 barrels of Maine seed potatoes for planting purposes this season.

James A. Negley, of Newfield, returned yesterday from a trip around the world, which occupied over a year.

The State oyster boat Cypher yesterday picked up two naphtha launches adrift in the bay and towed them to Bay Side.

There will be a civil service examination at Woodbury on May 8 for the position of postmaster at Thorofare, a little town three miles from that city. The compensation last year was $360.

Selecting Rev. I. Mench Chambers, of the Presbyterian church, Merchantville, as the foreman, Sheriff Hatch yesterday named members of the grand jury for the April term of the Camden County Courts.

The Central Railroad Company has purchased from the South Jersey Institute trustees, of Bridgeton, thirty acres of meadow land, which will be filled in and used in its extension room Bowentown to Bridgeton.

Minnie Ross, sixteen years old, who has been missing from her home in Dividing Creek for several days, was located in Millville by the police and returned to her parents Monday. The girl said she wanted to "see life."

By filing an order at the county clerk's office in Camden yesterday, Supreme Court Justice Garrison fixed the salaries of Under-Sheriff Starn at $2,500 and Deputy Harry Marter at $1,800. The salaries are to date from November 11, when Sheriff Hatch assumed charge of the office.

Castle Point, the home of Colonel and Mrs. Edwin A. Stevens, at Hoboken, will not be closed this season, as was expected when reports concerning Colonel Stevens' health were alarming his friends. Colonel and Mrs. Stevens have arrived in Hoboken from a long sojourn in the South, which was very beneficial to the former's health.

Henry Worth, of New Egypt, has an able assistant in his work of carrying the United States mail in a young dog, which he has trained to help him with the heavy mail sacks. "Rover" gathers them in his teeth and marches proudly to the postoffice each day. This dog has learned to climb a ladder, dive for articles thrown in the lake, drive a horse, carries meat home in a market basket, smokes a pipe and answers a bugle call.

Admitting that they used the knife on Alfred Cook, of Seventh and Baxter streets, Camden, until he was compelled to go to the Cooper Hospital for repairs, Mary Hardcastle, of 744 Baxter street, and Arthur Horsey, of 704 Baxter street, were committed to jail by Justice of the Peace Colding, yesterday, on charges of assault and battery, with intent to kill. A remark passed by the woman about Horsey's cleanliness caused an all-around fight among the trio.

As a beginning of an intended crusade against dishonest employment bureaus which have filched many dollars from Philadelphians seeking employment in shore hotels, Mayor Stoy, of Atlantic City, yesterday revoked the license of William Blackledge. The man has been arrested on the charge of taking a fee from a man named Powell, who declared that he did not get a job, and was refused return of his money. Blackledge has been up before on the same charge.

"Mrs. Elizabeth Holland," whose claim that she was a wealthy Philadelphian, with an automobile and chauffeurs, was exploded by her arrest in Atlantic City after the police had discovered that her presence was due to a "joy ride" from Philadelphia with two male companions, went to the county jail at Mays Landing yesterday in default of the $100 fine imposed by Recorder Hayes on the charge of running the car without a Jersey license. Neither the girl nor her two men companions could raise the price of their fines and they are due to spend at least sixty days in the jail.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

A fair and entertainment will be held by the Boys' Club of Bethel chapel Thursday night, April 29.

The Easter service at the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held Sunday night, at the conclusion of which several persons will be baptized.

Rev. Charles S. Kemble, of Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, returned yesterday from the Newark Conference, both having been returned to their churches for another year.

The choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, organist, is preparing an elaborate Easter program for Sunday. The Sunday-school will have a special program in the afternoon.

The musical service at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday will be of a special character, taking the place of the monthly musical by the choir. In addition to vocal selections there will be instrumental numbers.

The Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold its annual meeting Tuesday night, April 13, at the home of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, when new officers will be elected and plans for the year discussed.

SMALL-POX

HOUSEHOLDERS CAUTIONED.

How to Avoid Contagion.

Small-pox is prevalent. Vaccination and the use of a reliable disinfectant are recognized preventatives. The last thing at night pour into the traps of the closets, wash-basins, sinks, etc., just a little Platt's Chlorides. Places where disease germs may develop, nooks behind plumbing and all spots that can't be reached by the scrubbing brush should be freely sprinkled with a mixture of one (1) part of Platt's Chlorides and ten (10) parts of water. This dilution costs less than 5 cents a quart. Do not neglect a liberal sprinkling of the cellar.. To remove objectionable odors where sprinkling is inadvisable, keep a cloth or sponge moistened with the dilution mentioned. A little extra care just now may prevent much sickness and expense. Platt's Chrolides is an odorless, colorless liquid disinfectant which instantly destroys foul odors and disease-breeding matter. It is sold by druggists everywhere in full quart bottles, and is prepared only by Henry B. Platt.

Italian suggestion, and in fact every scene is laid in that country, the spirit of the play is purely American, and abounds in the true home tempo of the United States. The principal character, Daniel Voorhees Pike, a plain lawyer from Kokomo, Ind., is so virile a type of the American man of busines, calm and imperturable under the stress of abnormal conditions, that he cannot fail to appeal to the entirety of theatre-goers. Liebler & Co., the managers, are said to have cast the play with their usual prodigality, and the scenic investiture is unhesitatingly asserted by competent critics to be of unusual excellence. As is well known, the play ran for 342 consecutive performances in Chicago last season, and has already taken New York by storm since its presentation at the Astor theatre in that city. The Chicago engagement was of such magnitude that all records hitherto held by any class of production dropped into the shadow of over 50 per cent. and its success there was so great that it became necessary to lease outright a famous theatre to continue the run beyond the original contract. The play has jumped at once into popular favor, and the indications are that its success throughout the country will be as great as it enjoys in Chicago and New York. Throughout it is the embodiment of true, clean, wholesome Americanism.

Clarence Zimmer, of Manning avenue, has returned home after visiting his brother, Philip Zimmer, of Brooklyn.

NEW BRUNSWICK MAYOR HINTS AT HOSE "GRAFT."

Mayor W. Edwin Florence, of New Brunswick, returned to Common Council Monday night without his approval the resolution adopted by the Board of Aldermen awarding the contracts for $3,000 worth of fire hose to the Eureka Fire Hose Manufacturing Company, of New York, the New Jersey Car Spring and Rubber Company, of Jersey City, and the Gutta Percha and Rubber Manufacturing Company, of New York. At the same time he asked that an investigation be made. The Mayor set forth that it was first decided to award part of the contract to the New York Rubber Company, which later was eliminated and the Gutta Percha award made at a higher figure.

The Mayor declares "the methods of sellers of fire hose are notorious. General agents camp out in town during the awarding of contracts, select as their local agents men known to or claiming to have influence with officials, and in every way get themselves into the good graces of those having power to award contracts. This all costs money and some one must pay for it, and I am forced to the conclusion that these commissions, discounts or whatever they may be called, are added to the bid price of the hose paid by the city."

The Executive further declared that he had examined carefully the bids submitted and found that manufacturers at New Brunswick has obtained as good hose as that offered the city at lower rates. He said he thought eighty cents per foot a fair price. Some of the hose contracted for was at $1.10 a foot. Seventeen bids were received, some companies not in the habit of bidding for municipal work putting in a proposal. The chief of the fire department informed him, the Mayor said, that eight lengths of hose purchased from the Gutta Percha Company in 1907 burst and the guaranty to replace such hose was never made good.

"It is peculiar the city cannot buy hose as cheap as the manufacturer," the Mayor concluded.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

All clubs holding membership in the United State Golf Association are being supplied with books of the new rules containing the American interpretations. In some instances clubs have sent for a sufficient number of extra copies to supply all their members, as it is quite the thing these days for devotees of the game to make a study of the rules. Already several well known players through thoughtlessness have got into difficulties. Even on the other side, shortly after the new St. Andrews rules went into effect, James Braid early in a match proceeded to brush the line of his putt, whereupon his opponent promptly claimed the hole. That probably will serve to keep this change fresh in the open champion's memory.

This rule, however, is not so drastic as some seem to think. While brushing the line of putt is prohibited, the rule also states that dung, wormcasts, snow and ice may be scraped aside with the club, but the club must not be laid with more than its own weight on the ground, nor may anything be pressed down either with the club or in any other way. At match play a violation of this rule incurs loss of the hole, while at medal play the penalty is two strokes.

There is now no loophole for those who have ever sought to bar stymies. For instance, Rule 7 states that "when the balls are in play the ball further from the hole shall be played first." The special rule (1) reads: "On the putting green if the competitor whose ball is the nearer to the hole play first, his ball shall be at once replaced."

The penalty for a breach of this rule is the disqualification of both competitors. As a further check, special rule 2 provides that a competitor shall not waive any penalty incurred by his opponent under penalty of disqualification.

Other points to be remembered this season are that a player is allowed a clear putt to the hole on a green where there is casual water; that a shot out of bounds from the tee may be re-teed, but through the green only dropped; that a practice swing is permissible more than a club's length from the ball and that players looking for a lost ball must signal to others to pass and must wait until they go by and are out of range.

He Knew His Friends.

"Yes, sir," boasted the hotel proprietor, "that dog's the best rat-catchin' dog in the State."

Even as he spoke two big rats scurried across the office floor. The dog merely wrinkled his nose.

"Rat dog!" scoffed the traveling man. "Look at that, will you?"

"Huh!" snorted the landlord. "He knows them. But just you let a strange rat come in here once!"—Everybody's Magazine.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Your account of the banquet of the teachers and officers of Trinity Sunday-school in yesterday's Press gives the impression that same was given by the Willing Workers while the facts are that they simply prepared and served it, all matters of expense and detail being looked after by the officers of the school to whom all credit belongs.

"NEW IDEA" MEMBER BOLTS PARTY CAUCUS.

The first Republican caucus of this session, held during yesterday afternoon, went to work on the school question as raised in the Leavitt bill. Mr. Blauvelt, the "New Idea" members from Passaic, declared that he would not be bound by the caucus vote. He left the members, remarking that he was the first member to bolt a Republican caucus in years.

Assemblyman Ward, of Bergen, said that inasmuch as Mr. Blauvelt went out of the caucus without an apology he must be regarded as a Democrat in the future and all of his measures so treated. There were loud cries of "Yes" and some "Noes." The matter created some stir among the members.

Mr. Ford, of Essex, also a "New Idea" member, did not go out of the caucus, but he declared that he would not consider himself bound by what happened there. He was told that it was a Republican caucus called to agree on legislation for the best interest of the people and the Republican party. But he did not retract his words nor did he put himself out of the cuscus.

It is understood that it was made known in the caucus that the Junior Order of United American Mechanics has given way partly on the question of the disposition of the school moneys and has agreed to the feature of the Leavitt bill which collects school moneys in one year and distributes them in the next year, and that this bill will go through.

A matter of interest to corporations which the caucus could not agree on—passing the Frelinghuysen act raising the annual corporation tax rate $50 a million dollars above $5,000,000—must be fought out on the floor of the House.

Inheritance Tax Pushed.

Trenton, April 8.—Senator Frelinghuysen's collateral inheritance tax bill got through the Senate Tuesday after it was amended to require safe deposit companies to inform the State comptroller what securities of depositors have been removed from the vaults following the owner's death.

FIND A CURE IN BEE STINGS.

Undoubtedly Give Relief in Cases of Rheumatism and Gout.

Not a cure for the stings of bees, but the sting of a bee as a cure for something else—namely, rheumatism or gout. The belief that rheumatic pains may be relieved by allowing a bee to sting the affected part is prevalent in widely distant lands. It has been classed by many with other odd popular "cures," such as spitting on the bottom of a stone to cure warts and so on. But there is no doubt that, in this case, tradition is correct, for the bee cure has been tested and reported upon too often by reputable physicians to admit of error.

An Oxford professor has recently spent some time in tracing the origin and history of this queer but effective method of treatment. It first appears in print, so far as he could find, about fifty years ago in a Parisian medical journal, in the shape of an account of the experiences of a French beekeeper who, finding a rheumatic trouble of long standing relieved by the accidental sting of a bee on his wrist, caused bees to sting him in other parts of the body, and so was cured. Since his day the cure appears from time to time in medical literature, often as a supposed new discovery. It has been successfully employed in many parts of the world. Dr. Fere, an Austrian physician, has a record of about seven hundred cases in which he has used it. The sting causes considerable pain, but this soon ceases, as the part begins to swell, and after two or three such treatments the rheumatism disappears for six months or so.

Evidently the sting acts as a natural hypodermic injection, and the so-called "poison" contains the curative principle. A chief constituent of the fluid is formic acid, but whether this or some minor element is responsible for the effect of the sting is not certainly known.—Montreal Standard.

The Smooth Way.

In the last generation Tyler Cobb, Esq., was a well-known citizen of North Bridgewater—now Brockton—Massachusetts. He was famous throughout Plymouth county, says a contributor to the Boston Herald, for his witty retorts and dry humor.

Never having taken a sea trip, Mr. Cobb one day conceived the idea of making a voyage to New York. Accordingly he sailed from Boston in a small schooner.

The first day out a storm was encountered and Mr. Cobb became violently sick, but after several hours he mustered up courage and strength to look out upon the troubled waters.

As he looked from the side of the little ship up the trough of the sea, it seemed very smooth to him. The captain's cutting of the waves was "senseless," he told himself.

But as this mad steering continued the unhappy passenger finally crawled out, on hands and knees, to where the captain stood at the wheel, and raising his voice above the din of waves and wind, shouted:

"Man, man, keep in the ruts, keep in the ruts!"—Youth's Companion.

The Human Family.

The human family living on earth to-day consists of about 1,450,000,000 souls—not fewer, probably more. These are distributed literally all over the earth's surface, there being no considerable spot on the globe where man has not found a foothold. In Asia the so-called "cradle of the human race," there are now about 800,000,000 people, densely crowded, or an average of about 120 to every square mile. In Europe there are 320,000,000, averaging 100 to the square mile, not so crowded as Asia, but everywhere dense, and in many places over-populated. In Africa there are 210,000,000; and in the Americas—North, South and Central—110,000,000, these latter, of course, relatively thinly scattered over broad areas. On the islands, large and small, there are probably 10,000,000 more. The extremes of the blacks and the whites are as five to three, the remaining 700,000,000 intermediate, brown, yellow and tawny in color.

Eggs Found in Old Temple.

Sig. Rava, Italian minister of public instruction, communicates the particulars of an archaeological discovery at Glaniculum, where excavations have been going on since last June. Several statues, fragments of columns and bronze objects have been unearthed and now a cell, evidently belonging to a temple, and a large altar of triangular shape, have been discovered. The apex is turned towards the east. It is built of bricks, covered with some sort of concrete. In the middle of the altar a well is sunk. It was covered with tiles. It was opened in the presence of Sig. Rava and Prof. Bernabel, and was found to contain a bronze statue of the god Kronos, with a serpent wound round the body, while around were eggs in an excellent state of preservation. The discovery shows particularly that the site was a place of sacrifice.

Unkind Insinuation.

The daughter of her mother was doing a stunt at the piano.

"My daughter's music," said the proud parent, "cost us a lot of money."

"Indeed!" rejoined the visitor. "Did some neighbor sue you?"

Lacking Warmth.

"The critics all say that my pictures lack warmth."

"Do you work in oils?"

"Yes."

"Then why not paint in a few oil stoves?"

GENERAL CAMPBELL OUSTED BY COURT.

General Edward A. Campbell will have to surrender command of the First Brigade of the National Guard pending the court test of the constitutionality of the Vredenburgh retirement law, which aims to put him out of office on account of age.

Chief Judge Gummere yesterday at Trenton vacated the order staying the orders of Governor Fort placing Colonel Hine, of Paterson, in command. The Judge declared that he had signed the staying order under a misapprehension that the Governor had issued the Hine order in his capacity as Commander-in-Chief of the Guard, and not in his capacity as Chief Executive of the State. The constitutionality of the law will be decided later.

CRIME TO BE OLD AND POOR.

Reflection of a Suicide to Whom the Socialists Had Granted $3 a Week.

When the Socialist Party cut off his allowance of $3 a week, Paul Jurgeons, of Paterson, a one-legged silk weaver, 86 years old, decided that the time for him to die had come. Going into the yard in the rear of his home on the outskirts of that city, he tied a clothes line to a horizontal pole, climbed on top of a chicken coop, and, after fastening the loose end of the line about his neck, he jumped off. He was dead when a neighbor found him. One note, found in his room, read:

"To whom it may concern:

"This is to certify that I have committed suicide."

In another note was a request that his body be cremated.

Jurgeons had often complained bitterly that he could not get employment because he was an old man.

"It seems to me that it's a crime to be old and poor," he said to one of his neighbors, and then he remarked with the withdrawal of his allowance of $3 a week that the Socialists had taken away the last ray of hope.

NEW PLAN FOR INEBRIATES.

Senate Measure Would Commit Them to Asylums, but Not as Lunatics.

The bill introduced by Senator Leavitt, providing for the commitment of inebriates to insane asylums without declaring them insane, is attracting attention throughout the State. The bill is said to have been introduced at the instance of Dr. Henry A. Cotton, medical director of the New Jersey State Hospital at Trenton.

Dr. Cotton says that a large majority of the inebriates committed to that institution are not insane, and that they are sent only because the state has no hospital for inebriates. Mr. Leavitt says that the passage of his bill will save the state from the stigma of having so many alleged lunatics within its borders.

PRINCETON TRUSTEES TO MEET.

Princeton, April 8.—Princeton University closed yesterday for the Easter recess, the classes to be resumed at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning. Much interest is being shown as to the probable outcome of a meeting of the board of trustees, to be held here today. Several matters of importance are to be considered. The trustees may take final action on plans of proposed buildings for the northwestern corner of the campus. It is expected that a definite announcement as to the future building of the university will be made, and means of financing the project decided on.

A model of the proposed additions, which has been the subject of much interest, shows two quadrangles, to be inserted along Nassau street and University place and parallel to Seventy-seven Hall. It is the work of Frank Miles Day, of Philadelphia. It shows the great memorial tower in relief.

Graveyard With History.

An author's reading will be given by Mrs. Ruth McEnery Stuart in the Lyceum, Morristown, Monday for the benefit of a fund for the preservation of the old burying-ground at Whippany. This cemetery is of historical interest, since the first Presbyterian church in this locality was built on its site, and it was here that Rev. Edward Vaughan presided over the first Episcopal services held in that part of New Jersey. This latter service was held under the auspices of the English Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in 1731, and the first settlers of Morristown, Madison, Parsippany and Hanover met there for both Presbyterian and Episcopal worship.

Five Hurt in Trolley Crash.

Five persons were hurt, one seriously, in a collision between two trolley cars yesterday morning at Fisher's Corner. The cars were filled with employes of the Michelin Tire Company. The first had turned the corner and stopped to take on passengers, and the one following crashed into it, crushing in the front of the second car. George Schnatter, of South River, was badly hurt, several ribs being broken, and Robert Martin, George Decenta and George Butterlen, of Sayreville, received slight bruises.

Will Hold Reunion After All.

Long Branch, April 8.—The Academic Literary reunion of the Chattle High School decided at a meeting Tuesday to hold its annual reunion April 30 at the Lyceum. The faculty, instead of adhering to 1 o'clock as the closing hour, which caused considerable dissatisfaction, decided to permit the affair to continue one hour later. This action resulted in the withdrawal of a resolution by the students to discontinue the holding of reunions.

"Black Hand" Demands $1,000.

James Butler, deputy probation officer of Hudson county, received a Black Hand letter at his home in Jersey City yesterday commanding him on pain of death to leave $1,000 in a cigar box wrapped in newspaper behind one of the columns of a Hoboken theatre. Mr. Butler considers the letter a practical joke, but he has turned it over to the Hoboken police.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to Vacate a Portion of Raymond Avenue," a copy of which is subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., on Monday, the third day of May, Nineteen Hundred and Nine, at eight o'clock p. m., at which time and place, prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.
J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., April 5, 1909.

AN ORDINANCE

To Vacate a Portion of Raymond Avenue.

WHEREAS, The portion of Raymond Avenue between East Front Street and Midway, as shown on a map entitled "Section 2, City Map of Plainfield, Union Co., N. J., 1870," filed in the office of the City Clerk, September 20, 1870, although never opened or used, was in fact dedicated as a street, and

WHEREAS, The Highland Park Realty Company and Albert I. Drayton are the sole owners of all property abutting anywhere on such portion of said street, and have applied to the Common Council of said city to vacate such portion of said street, pursuant to Chapter CXXXIII, P. L. 1888, and other laws governing the matter, and it is to the interest of the city that such street should be vacated;

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the portion of Raymond Avenue lying between East Front Street and Midway, as shown on map entitled "Section 2, City Map of Plainfield, Union Co., N. J., 1870" be and the same is hereby vacated, pursuant to the Acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The young people of the Baptist church will enjoy an egg hunt and other games on the church lawn Saturday afternoon. Besides games there will be running matches and other light athletic events, the contests being open to the scholars of the Sunday-school.

The heavy wind of last night cleaned out the dead limbs from among the shade trees and blew a number of signs down, but did no serious damage.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nester, who have been living in the Stanbury house on Park avenue, have removed to the Gillotti cottage on Forest avenue.

Interment of the body of Cora Hetfield, who died at Rahway Monday, was made in the familly plot in the Baptist cemetery here yesterday afternoon.

Tomorrow being Good Friday special services will be held in All Saints' Episcopal church at the usual hour of morning service.

Mrs. Charles N. Flanders, of Front street, has returned from a week's visit with her niece, Mrs. Cotrell, at Bayonne, N. J.

The H. C. Meyer property on Park avenue has been rented by John Roberts, of Jersey City.

Miss Ester Meyer is able to be around again after an illness of ten days with measles.

Ground has been broken for a new house on Stout avenue, near Grand street.

Frank Carrono was the guest of friends in New York yesterday.

William Deegan has been visiting friends in New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Middlesex Fire Company responded to a call to put out a brush fire about 8:30 last night which threatened the home of Edward Ten Eyck on Maple avenue.

Mrs. P. J. McDonough and daughters, Nora and Mary, visited friends in New Brunswick yesterday.

The high wind last night blew out one end of the wagon sheds back of the First Baptist church.

Miss Rose Horan, of Metuchen, is spending a few days with Mrs. John Horan, of this place.

A series of three mile runs will be held shortly by the local athletic club.

Miss Geraldine Moyles is visiting friends in Perth Amboy.

LINCOLN DAY IS URGED BY FLORIDA'S GOVERNOR.

Tallahasse, Fla., April 8.—The prohibitionists scored a victory Tuesday in the organization of the two houses of the Legislature. E. M. Hudson, chosen President of the Senate, and Lon L. Farriss, Speaker of the House, are friendly to the proposed prohibition measure.

The most notable feature of Governor Gilchrist's message was his advocacy of a bill preventing the Governor from being a candidate for United States Senator during his term of office. He recommended that February 12, the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, be made a legal holiday, paying a beautiful tribute to Lincoln in his message.

TROLLEY FREIGHT BILL AS IT IS, OBJECTED TO.

Representing the Newark Board of Trade, President George F. Reeve, Secretary James M. Reilly, Lathrop Anderson and Curtis R. Burnet called on Governor Fort Tuesday night regarding the Gaunt bill to permit trolley companies to carry freight. They were not opposed to the proposition, but told the executive they do object to it in its present form, inasmuch as Newark would have no say as to the time or other regulation of the trolley freight traffic. They suggested the measure be returned to the Legislature for amendment in this respect, but received no assurance from the Governor as to his intentions.

BETTER THAN ANY PHYSICIAN.

Mr. Brown's Remarks Quickly Brought Wife Back from Borderland.

"William, dear," feebly called the invalid wife, who was supposed to be nearing the end of her earthly career.

"Yes, darling," answered the sorrowing husband. "What is it?"

"When I am gone," said she, "I feel that for the sake of the motherless little ones you should marry again."

"Do you really think it would be best, darling?" asked the faithful William.

"Yes, William, I really do," replied the invalid. "After a reasonable length of time you should seek the companionship of some good woman."

"Do you know, my dear?" said the husband, "that you have lifted a great burden from my mind? Now, there is that charming Widow Jones across the way. She has acted rather friendly toward me ever since you were taken ill. Of course, dear she could never fill your place, but she is young, plump and pretty, and I'm sure she would do her best to lessen my grief."

"William Henry Brown!" exclaimed the female whose days were supposed to be numbered, as she partly raised herself upon the pillow, "if you ever dare install that redheaded, freckled-faced, squint-eyed hussy in my shoes, I'll—I'll—" And then she fainted.

But the next day Mrs. Brown was able to sit up, and two days later she was downstairs.

STILLED AUDIENCE IN MOMENT.

Presence of Mind of Daniel Webster Averted Great Peril.

Once when Daniel Webster was addressing a political meeting in Faneuil hall, the standing multitude within the hall, pressed by those who were endeavoring to enter from without, began to sway to and fro, a solid mass of human bodies, as helpless to counteract the movement as if Faneuil hall were being rocked by an earthquake. The orator was in the midst of a stirring appeal, urging the necessity of individual exertion and unflinching patriotism to avert the dangers that threatened the political party whose principles he espoused, when he perceived the terrible swaying of the packed assembly and the imminent danger that might ensue. Webster stopped short in the middle of a sentence, advanced to the edge of the platform, extended his arm in an authoritative attitude, and, in a stentorian voice of command, cried out: "Let each man stand firm!" The effect was instantaneous. Each man stood firm; the great heaving mass of humanity regained its equilibrium, and, save the long breath of relief that filled the air, perfect stillness ensued. "That," exclaimed the great orator, "is what we call self-government!"

Means the Same Thing.

In England to call a woman homely means that she is fond of anything about home and is unpretending; in the United States it means not handsome. To be clever in England means to be dextrous and with us the term signifies good-natured or honest. We say crackers, they say biscuit; our mail is the post; and a baggage check in England becomes brasses, while they say luggage for baggage. A tramp in the United States is a vagabond, but in England any traveler may be so called. But there is even a greater difference of terms in different parts of the United States than in the two countries. In New England a man is brought up and in the south he is reared and a colored man raised.

Author's Witty Remark.

Kinglake, the author of "Eothen," was afflicted with gout, and he had a fancy to try a lady doctor, and wrote to one to ask if gout was beyond her scope. She replied: "Dear sir, gout is not beyond my scope, but men are." It was Kinglake who uttered one of the neatest mots on the peculiar character of the Times. He had little fondness for that journal, in spite of personal friendships which might have been expected to soften his view of the question. The paper was still to him a sort of juggernaut, irresistible and fateful. On seeing the announcement of the new editor's marriage, he exclaimed: "Heavens! that brings the Times into relations with humanity."

Mantle-rays.

"There are X-rays and N-rays and there are also rays from those mantle things that you put on gasburners to improve the light."

The speaker, a photographer, pointed to a batch of fogged plates.

"I know to my cost that there are mantle-rays," said he. "For a month I stored new plates in a closet along with a mantle, and all of them got fogged. The mantle, you see, contained thorium, a radioactive substance that penetrates a cardboard plate box as easily as it penetrates glass. I didn't know that till my doctor told me so last week. My ignorance cost me a hundred plates."

To Revolutionize Battles.

It will be necessary for the poets of the future to revise imagery as they describe the conflicts of arms. Furious Frank and fiery Hun no longer struggle under a sulphurous canopy. The lines of Tennyson in celebration of the exploit of the Light Brigade will become archaic. Soldiers on the eve of battle will not continue to dance until the roll of distant guns summons them from their partners. The battlefield during the most tremendous grapple may be as smiling as a plain of Provence, and the song of birds may be heard as missiles weighing a ton are hurled through the air.

Men's Suits $15

Why Hahne & Co. Excel.

There are reasons, and plenty of them, why the Hahne & Co. Suits for men at $15 are far above the average.

The fabrics, as you will learn on critical examination, are of superior class—full weight pure worsteds in dozens of the new striped designs, in all the new shades—olive green, smoke, stone and tan; also black and blue grounds in mixtures and stripes—and positively the best blue serge in America at the price.

If you would look to the inner parts of the coats to these suits you will find pure linen—not half cotton or hemp—and you will find the best of hair cloth and linen stays and shrunk tape. You will find serge or taped seams where there is a possibility or necessity of so reinforcing them instead of taking chances with plain seams. You will find double warped serge linings instead of single warp—a material difference. You will find sleeve and inside linings matched and of a quality usually employed in $20 suits or even better grades.

These differences would in themselves be sufficient to raise the Hahne & Co. $15 suits far above the average. But there is another point to consider, and that a very essential one—

It takes only a glance through this stock of $15 Suits to see that in this essential particular we easily excel.

Other suits of great worth at $6, $10, $20 and upwards.

Easter Millinery

Extreme and Conservative Styles.

It doesn't matter whether you wish to wear the most gigantic peach basket effect or a neat turban—you will find in this great collection just such a hat as you have fixed your fancy upon.

We cater to the ultra fashionable as well as those who keep well within conservative lines. We employ trimmers capable of the greatest flights of imagination who produce wonderful hats—gorgeous in plumage and in floral effects, satisfying to the most up-to-the-hour women of fashion, and we have trimmers who make hats for the more sedate, who like beautiful things but not so elaborate as to attract unusual attention. And we have still simpler hats—plenty of them—for plainer dressers who like the quiet colors and simpler decorations, so that we satisfy all who come.

Hats are here—very pretty ones, at $4.75, that measure up with most stores' $8 and $10 hats.

Other hats are here at $7.75 and $12.50 that vie with those costing much more money in many a millinery shop.

You can go on in price up to $75 and find the exclusive imported models, wonderfully trimmed with richest feathers and flowers.

Untrimmed Hats, Feathers, Flowers, Wings, Ribbons and Ornaments galore for those who wish to have hats made to order or who like to make them at home. Lowest prices prevail in every division.

HOW HE WOOS.

Yes, it is true. I've been in love before.
How many girls? Oh, I forget—a score,
Perhaps. But when you came upon the scene,
I knew they were but handmaids to a Queen—,
But maids of honor, who had played their part
Preparing for the Princess of my heart—
A kingdom small, but blest if one so fair
Enthroned in state might reign forever there!
Too small a realm, the life I have to live,
But, Sovereign Liege! 'Tis all I have to give!
Your kingdom now a lovely land appears,
Warmed by your smiles and blighted by your tears;
Bounded by Heaven, beneath it and above,
Its coin is kisses, and its law is love.
Will you reign there? None may your rule dispute—
It is a monarchy, and absolute.
Your subjects are my thoughts; none are more true.
And none more loyal than my thoughts, to you.
If they do wrong (for thoughts will sometimes err),
Your frown shall be their executioner.
Reign then supreme, in more than royal state,
And know that, should you ever abdicate,
The crown will rest upon no other's head—
When the queen leaves, the kingdom will be dead!

("Gee!" says the guy who springs this little rhyme,
"That dope works yet! It brings 'em, every time!")

—Ted Robinson, in Cleveland Leader.

His Silence Purchased.

Young Man—Sir, I have come to demand the hand of your daughter.

Banker—Sir! What do you mean, you young—

Young Man—Her hand, sir, is the price of my silence.

Banker—My! my! This insolence is unbearable. George, call a policeman!

Young Man—One moment, sir. You mistake. I know nothing of your affairs, and do not for a moment imagine that you have been guilty of any wrong-doing. The silence I alluded to is of another sort. I am the young man who practices on the cornet in the boarding house next door.

Banker—Oh! Take her away, my son, and be happy.—New York Weekly.

She Learned Quickly.

"I've never played cards in my life," declared Mrs. Flurry, seating herself at the card table to fill out at the hostess' request. "But never mind; I always learn things quickly."

STRONG FLIGHTS OF ORATORY.

Examples of Mixed Metaphors Calculated to Cause a Smile.

An amateur historian is responsible for this: "All along the ever flowing stream of history you can discern the silent footprints of the crowned heads of Europe!"

The village reporter on the death of the village poet: "That dauntless pen shall write no more, for its eyes are closed forever!"

From the speech of a rising young politician: "The fierce light of public opinion shall dog their footsteps until it strangles them. Then shall they swallow the bitter pill and drink its very dregs."

Advice and warning from a successful man of business to a gathering of young people: "Every rung in the ladder of success is paved with slippery stones, on which only the clear head and the steady hand can retain their footing!"

The fearless suffragette was addressing a meeting of mere men. She had graphically related to them the fascinating story of the strenuous struggle the ladies had made for that most priceless of possessions, a vote—how every obstacle had been conquered and victory was at last in sight. "We have now," she shrieked, "almost crossed the trackless desert and the harbor lights are stretching out their arms to greet us!"

The temperance advocate was giving a striking but a true picture of the vast amount of evil wrought by the demon of drink. "What is the greatest devastating agent of our time?" he asked. "It is the bottle, which smiles genially before your face while at the same time it is stabbing you in the back!"

A Busy Holiday.

"Naw, I don't think Timmy'll be staying long on this new job he's took up wid," said Mrs. Herlihy. "'Tis too harrd fer him. Sure he gets no rist at all from Monda' mornin' till Sathurda' night, and 'tis not what the man's used to."

"He has his Sundays to rist in," hazarded the caller, boldly.

"An' what o' that?" said Mrs. Herlihy. "On Sunda's he has to go to church, an' take the children to their grandmamma's, an' visit wid his coosins an' all—'tis no rist at all."

"'Twas wan day out of ivery fortnit he had wid the ould job, wa'nt it?" queried the caller.

"It was," said Mrs. Herlihy, "an' 'twas a grand vacation he had. I'd save ivery bit o' the washin', an' he'd wring it out fine, an' hang it on the line for me; thin he'd saw an' shplit wood enough to last till the nixt vacation day, an' he'd bate ivery mat in the house an' shine up the faucets an' the b'iler, an' wash the windys, an' there'd always be some little exthra help, drivin' nails or the like, he cud give me.

"An' whin he'd go to bed at night he'd niver fail to say to me: 'Well, Celia, my vacation day is over, but I feel like it's made me ready to go back to wurrk to-morrer,' he'd say."—Youth's Companion.

Sinners All.

I fall into temptations incident to my profession. I commit only the crimes that are required in my profession; but I commit them. . . . I think that the clergy would be doing a big service should they take their congregations and know them and the temptations of the men, and the professions that are represented there; and when they find a banker does this thing, know enough about banking to know whether it is real banking or whether it is "financing," and then when they know that, find out how this thing compares with what other men do. . . . Let the man go on committing his sin and take his burden of it, but help him to see that we are all doing it together, that it is a system; that it is true he must do these things, and then prepare his mind for the time when an attempt will be made to change it all, and then tell him to be ready to make the sacrifice with the rest of us.—Lincoln Steffens' Address Before Boston Universalist Clergymen.

A Time Charge.

A benevolent New Yorker recently employed two girls to do a special piece of work in his office. When it was completed he found that one girl, being expert, had done a great deal more than the other one. Being uncertain what he ought to pay them he decided to leave that question to them. The expert girl set her price and, to his amazement, the other girl charged considerably more.

"How is that?" he asked. "Miss Swift charges me a great deal less than you do for the same amount of work."

"Certainly," reasoned Miss Young, "it took me a great deal longer to do it than it did her. I ought to be paid for my time, oughtn't I?"

The benevolent New Yorker reflected, murmured something about her manifest qualifications for the plumbing business, and finally compromised with them both by a sagacious deal in candy.

A Tabloid Fable.

A Man once collided with an Opportunity.

"Why don't you look where you are going?" growled the Man.

"Don't you recognize me?" asked the Opportunity, pleasantly.

"No, and I don't care to. You have trodden on my corns," replied the Man, as he limped away.

Moral: Don't believe the people who say they have never had a chance.

ADVICE ABOUT CIGARS WHICH CLEVELAND DID NOT ACCEPT.

In the April American Magazine Jesse Lynch Williams writes affectionately of Grover Cleveland, whom he knew intimately. Cleveland had a "trick of silence" which always amused and interested his friends. Here is a case:

"Another example of his unconscious 'trick of silence' in a different mood may suggest a little of the quiet, pervasive humor his friends knew and liked so well. One of his neighbors, who dropped in to smoke with him one evening, said: 'By the way, Mr. Cleveland, let me show you a new way to cut your cigar, a more hygenic way,' and he illustrated it. 'First you start as if you were going to cut the tip off in the usual manner, but stop half way through, like this. Then begin at the very tip, you see, and cut straight in, so, until you strike the other cut; remove the segment thus formed and now you have not only a greater drawing area, but also by holding the cigar in your mouth this side up, there is formed a sort of cup which catches all the nocitine.' Mr. Cleveland listened with grave interest until his good friend had quite finished, then, without a word or a smile, he picked up a cigar, snipped off the entire end in the old accustomed manner, and set to smoking with great satisfaction and no audible comment.

Truly Literary.

Jinks—Harkins doesn't strike me as literary. Yet he declares that he never feels so comfortable as when he is snugly settled in his library.

Binks—Oh, that's not surprising. His bookcase is a folding bed.

HER AWFUL DREAM

MRS. ESTERBROOK RELATES A TALE OF WOE.

Mr. Esterbrook Also Interested in His Wife's Adventures in Slumberland—Vision Breaks Off at an Interesting Point.

"I wouldn't tell that dream before breakfast for $10,000,000," said young Mrs. Esterbrook with financial precision.

"Bosh," commented Mr. Esterbrook. "Anyway, breakfast is almost ready, Lucy. I know what's the matter with my safety razor. I must have bent it when I dropped it in the washbowl."

He tenderly felt a row of scratches on his face that suggested recent dispute with a woods cat.

During breakfast Mrs. Esterbrook maintained a sober silence. But it was plain that the dream desired greatly to rise and display itself. It clamored inwardly to be heard.

At last, when Mr. Esterbrook had carefully folded his napkin in the way Mrs. Esterbrook always said it shouldn't be folded, she rested both elbows on the table and began.

"Bob," she said. "It was an awful dream. You and I were lost in the mountains where we were last summer. We walked and walked, and climbed and climbed, and slipped on smooth places, and jumped bottomless pits—O, it was awful!"

Mr. Esterbrook grunted as an indication that he was listening, but kept his eye on an attractive item in the paper beside his plate.

"And then," continued his wife, "I slipped and almost went over a cliff into an awful chasm, and you reached out and caught me, and then you slipped, and before I could reach you you went down—down—down—miles and miles, it seemed to me, until I heard you strike the rocks below.

"Well, I went on alone through those awful woods and finally came to a beautiful grove—like California or Florida or the Garden of Eden, and passing through it I reached a great hotel all white and with colonial pillars.

"They were dancing in the big hall, and I went in and danced until a man with a pointed yellow beard came up and said:

"'You look like a cousin of mine—you'd be all right if you knew how to dress.' That made me mad, and I went over to a big mirror, and Bob, what do you suppose I had on?"

"Smoking jacket? Kimono?" suggested her husband dryly.

"No, sir," she said, "I had on that old crepe de chine I wore at Mamie's wedding. Think of my being there in that dress, Bob—two seasons behind the times. Wasn't it horrible?"

Mr. Esterbrook started to say something. He choked and rose.

"Awful," he remarked. "Terrible. It must have been fearfully embarrassing; but did they ever recover my body?"

"I don't know," confessed his wife. "I woke up before we got to that. But wasn't it an awful dream?"

"It surely was," said her husband, struggling into his overcoat.—Galveston News.

Proposals and Arguments.

I will confess that I attach much more importance to men's theoretical arguments than to their practical proposals. I attach more importance to what is said than to what is done; what is said generally lasts much longer and has much more influence. I can imagine no change worse for public life than that which some prigs advocate, that debate should be curtailed. A man's arguments show what he is really up to. Until you have heard the defense of a proposal you do not really know even the proposal. Thus, for instance, if a man says to me, "Taste this temperance drink," I have merely doubt slightly tinged with distaste. But if he says, "Taste it, because your wife would make a charming widow," then I decide, I would be openly moved in my choice of an institution, not by its immediate proposals for practice, but very much by its incidental, even its accidental, allusion to ideals. I judge many things by their parentheses.—From the Forum.

Amazing Appetites.

The appetite of a whale is wonderful. His chief diet consists of jellyfish. He has simply to open his mouth and paddle along leisurely in order to take in jellyfish by the cartload. Such is the method adopted by the whalebone whale. The sperm whale, on the contrary, captures huge shoals of fish, weighing often several tons. Like his brother, the whalebone whale he must be constantly on the lookout for food. Otherwise he would starve. As many as 14 seals have been taken from a 30-feet "killer." Other fishes of enormous appetites are not uncommon. The bluefish, for example thrives on sardines and other small fish. Most curious of all eaters is the hydra, a strange creature that can be turned inside out without imparing its appetite or its power to eat.

Small Quarters for Moses.

Donald is fond of Bible stories. His auntie was relating to him the story of Moses in the basket of bulrushes, when he earnestly inquired:

"Did he ever grow to be a man?"

"Yes," he was told.

"A great big man?"

"Yes."

Donald remarked incredulously, "Well—I'd a thought he'd a busted the basket."—Delineator.

Easter Clothes
FOR MEN

Distinctive----Refined----Economical.

No man or young man who places any value on his personal appearance will care to mingle with the Easter throng next Sunday without new spring garments that will distinguish him as among the well dressed.

And judging from the great demand for M. & B. Suits and Overcoats, to say nothing of Shoes, Hats and Furnishings, the especially well groomed man will be largely in the majority.

Our showing of smart and distinctive patterns is wider than ever before in our long history of manufacturing clothiers. In models every taste may be satisfied, from the most conservative to the most radical.

In price no purse need be pinched, for the smallest has been considered; and the same exceptional tailoring skill stands out in every garment.

Your whole Easter attire, from head to heels, may be selected here, embodying quality, style, individuality, refinement and economy.

Spring Suits, Overcoats and Raincoats $12 to $30

BOYS' SUITS

The one occasion above all others when New Attire appeals to the youngsters is Easter.

M. & B. Garments for Boys appeal to parents all the time because they combine the elements of both goodness and economy.

BOYS' SPRING SUITS $3 to $16. Our Leader, two piece Bloomer Suits, with extra pair trousers $5

BOYS' OVERCOATS

The economy of M. & B. prices makes it possible for the little fellows to have a Spring Overcoat as well as a New Suit for Easter.

Our New Reefers, Top-Coats and Raincoats for Boys are especially attractive this season, in both model and pattern.

Boys' Spring Overcoats and Reefers $4 to $16.

BOYS TRU-TRED SHOES; ALSO HATS AND FURNISHINGS

MEN'S SHOES

One's Shoes are too conspicuous to be neglected on Easter; only a pair will do.

In a pair of M. & B. Shoes you will be comfortably as well as stylishly shod. Here are models in Oxfords to please any fancy, many of them exclusive, in all the popular leathers and colors.

M. & B. Nassaus $3.50 M. & B. Tru-Treds $5

MEN'S HATS

Nothing would lower the tone of your Easter Outfit more than a shabby toppiece.

Our Hat Man has provided the right quality, in the popular Spring shades and shapes—some that you wont find in other stores.

No use in foregoing a new Hat when we make buying so easy.

Softs and Derbies $2 to $5. Silk Hats $5 and $6

MEN'S NECKWEAR

No man can afford to neglect his Neckwear particularly on Easter. A man's scarf stands right out, you know.

The Scarfs we've gathered this Spring rival the color and brilliancy of the butterfly. Gray, as a foundation, leads. Greens and blues follow.

Our 50c. line is especially attractive in both coloring and quality.

SILK NECKWEAR 50c TO $1.50.

MEN'S GLOVES

New Gloves for Easter? Why of course! Soiled gloves are bad enough any time—simply impossible with a new Easter suit.

M. & B. Gloves you get top notch quality. That's what has made M. & B. Gloves sold so famous. That and the economical prices we ask for them.

ALL POPULAR SHADES $1.15 TO $3.

OUR WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT

SHOES—Our showing of exclusive styles in Oxfords and Pumps, is unusually wide, including the "New Directoire" Tie which is now so popular. In Oxfords and Pumps all the prevailing colors in leathers are represented, including catawba blue and genuine bronze calf.

GLOVES—The Woman who hasn't a new pair of Gloves to wear with her Easter gown will not be much in evidence next Sunday. Our Easter Display of Gloves is unusually attractive, including the Celebrated Centemeri Gloves. All the newest Spring shades are represented.

PRICES RANGE FROM $1 TO $3.50.

NECKWEAR—Our women's Neckwear Department is full of attractions. We are showing so many dainty styles in Collars and Jabots that are not seen elsewhere and prices are so inviting that buying is a real pleasure. Then, too, qualities are above those usually offered.

HOSIERY—In Hosiery the M. & B. Store has grown head and shoulders above any other store in town. It is because of the exceptional values we provide in Lisle, Silk Lisle and Silk Stockings.

In Lisle any shade the Easter Oxfords demand is here.

PRICES RANGE FROM 35c TO $1.50.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. Carman, of Watchung avenue, is registered at the Chalfonte, Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Swan, of Cynwyd, Pa., are guests at the home of B. J. Shreve, of Grove street.

Mrs. Ida Backer, of this city, has been visiting at the home of Mrs. Ellen E. Burdette in Whitehouse.

Mrs. Henry Hannigan, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with Henry Hannigan, of Richmond street.

Miss Minnie Haynes, of Weehawken, has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Haynes, of Craig place.

Mrs. F. W. Miles, of Grahamsville, N. Y., is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Max Kleen, of Somerset street.

Mrs. Sarah Sanders, of Orchard place, had a birthday yesterday. We're not telling her age, but "she is young for her age."

Miss Ida Yerkes, of Grove street, has gone to the Ingleside School, New Milford, Conn., to visit her niece, Miss Elizabeth McGee, who is a student there.

Among the recent arrivals registered at the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va., are Mrs. Sylvanus Schoonmaker, of New York, accompanied by Mrs. F. H. Andrews, of Central avenue.

Winfield Scott Relief Corps will hold a regular meeting in its rooms at Reform Hall tomorrow night.

At the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tonight, several applications will be acted upon.

—With the arrival of spring comes the desire for fresh vegetables, and Neuman Brothers can supply your wants. The firm receives daily a supply of the choicest vegetables and the prices are reasonable.

Bowling and General Sports

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Sergeant John Walsh, of the United States Army, left Norwich, Conn., Sunday for a long tramp across the continent.

Walter Winans, one of the best known athletes of his time, claims the reason the English are not the athletes they were is the result of golf playing.

The international motor boat races that are now taking place at Monte Carlo, have yet to decide whether the American boat Dixie II is out of running.

Carl Steiner has shown within the past few weeks he is one of the best athletes in the Y. M. C. A. As a swimmer he classes the best in town.

Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight, is still guessing. Johnson is still looking for a man to puncture him in a manner that will make him loose the championship.

Erasmus Halll Plays P. H. S.

The Plainfield High School baseballl team is playing the Erasmus Hall High School nine, of New York, on Crescent Oval this afternoon. Harry Van Zandt is in the box for the local school boys.

BASEBALL.

Yale falls before the Giants 7 to 1. That is enough to make Old "Eli" feel blue.

No wonder there was a big turnout at Norfolk to see the Giants play Yale; neither was it a wonder that the Norfolk fans wanted to see Matthewson in action. Let us not forget the famous "Matty" began his career in "Ole Virgin, yah."

It is now up to the State Legislature whether Sunday ball can be played in this State or not. The bill was once defeated, but later was reconsidered and final decision has yet to be made.

The Princeton team left for their Southern trip yesterday afternoon. The Tigers will have a hard row to hoe this year, both Georgetown and Virginia are strong in the diamond this year.

"Fussy" Firstbrook calls "Kid" Eberfield the human fire cracker. "Fussy" ought to know the "Kid" by this time, and no doubt has seen the shortstop explode on more than one occasion.

The Clinton Avenue team will be seen in uniform for the first time this season Saturday afternoon

The Y. M. C. A. will have as its captain this year Conway. He should make a good leader as he not only knows the game but can play it.

By not seeing Cliff Randolph with Clinton Avenue this season will seem somewhat lonesome to many of the fans. But to hear of Cliff's success in foreign fields will be good news at any time.

Willie Keeler, who once played baseball in Plainfield, is far from a past knight of the diamond. Willie may not be a spring chicken, but a good experienced old rooster.

BOWLING.

Johnny Campbell was the real high man in the game against New Brunswick. Johnny put up 223, and didn't try very hard at that.

Some one said, if New Brunswick only had her regulars? If Blucher had kept away from Waterlo,o there would have been no Wellington.

Harry Radin plugged 202 in his last game. Harry was certainlly going some after he got started.

From the way New Brunswick started off, it looked bad for the home boys. But after that big dash the big scores rolled the other way.

Bastedo was the only man to make 200 for his team.

BLATZ AND NASH WON LAST NIGHT.

A large crowd of bowlers saw Blatz and Nash sweep the alleys last night in the two-men tournament. In the first game they ran up a total of 418 which was not passed by any other team during the evening. Snyder and Minnick were the second high men with a total of 373. At no time during the games was there any sensational bowling done by any of the men. Blatz was high man with 210, while the best Nash could do was 208.

Lanning's Chances Good.

Former Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter, one of the delegation of Jerseymen who called upon President Taft Tuesday to urge the appointment of Judge William M. Lanning to the United States Circuit Court bench, said yesterday that the visit to Washington was most satisfactory. Although, of course, no assurances were given, Mr. McCarter regarded the chances of Judge Lanning as most promising. The Jerseymen were cordially received both by the President and Attorney-General Wickersham.

Ocean Grove to Have Gas.

The Rev. Dr. Ballard, president of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, announced yesterday that gas would be installed in the city next fall. The association is negotiating with Martin Maloney for the contract.

SEEK COMPROMISE TO AID THE AUTOMOBILISTS

Senate and Assembly cannot agree on the Bradley bill to increase the speed limit or grant any other concessions to automobilists, and the measure will now be considered by a joint committee with a view of reaching some compromise which will pass both houses. The conferees, appointed yesterday, are Senators Bradley, Frelinghuysen and Silzer, and Assemblymen Colgate, Vredenburgh and Olwell. It is desired that the present Legislature make some modification of the present automobile law, and it is hoped that this committee will bring this about.

The Senate gave most of yesterday afternoon to a hearing on the bill passed by the House at the instance of Assemblyman Vredenburgh to tax the rolling stock of the Pullmans and other corporations doing business in this State, including sleeping cars, parlor cars, dining cars, oil cars, stock crs, &c. Attorneys for the railroads held that the enactment of such a law would cause the roads, as far as possible, to divert traffic from the State, with a consequent loss of $18,000,000 annually in wages to Jerseymen.

Assemblyman Martin was the principal speaker for the bill. He declared that the assertions and threats of the railroad attorneys were all moonshine. He also defended the constitutional right to pass such legislation.

Bad Word Rubbed Out.

George W. Pittenger, of Asbury Park, who said "damn" in a letter addressed to Mr. Smith, Motor and Vehicle Commissioner of New Jersey, and as a result was cited to show cause why his automobile license should not be revoked, made his peace Tuesday with the Commissioner. Mr. Pittenger was in Trenton. He entered the Commissioner's office and introduced himself. When the interview was brought to a close Mr. Pittenger's "damn" was metaphorically pitched into the Commissioner's waste basket and the Asbury Park man walked out, the proud possessor of his coveted license number.

Motor-cycle Meeting.

A meeting of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club of New Jersey was held in the office of Dr. W. H. Anthony, last night. The meeting was largely attended and considerable business transacted. After three new members had been taken in and two applications received, a committee, consisting of Dr. W. H. Anthony, Allen Fuller, W. H. Forristel and A. L. Hulick, was appointed to secure club rooms immediately. It was also suggested that a 250-mile endurance race be held some time the latter part of June. A uniform pennant was adopted at last night's meeting.

Physical Directors Meet.

The annual meeting of the American Physical Educational Association of America, which begins in Philadelphia today is one of the largest gatherings that takes place in Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. circles. Physical directors from all over the country are attending the conference and reports from all over the United States will be read, showing the progress of the work. Miss Margaret Mosher, of the local Women's Association, and G. L. Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., left yesterday to attend the meeting.

School Money Uses.

Following closely upon the passage in the Senate Tuesday of the administration substitute for the Leavitt bill to provide for a distribution of the school fund moneys collected for 1907, the upper branch yesterday afternoon considered and then passed by a vote of 12 to 6 another of the Governor's measures, the Frelinghuysen bill, Senate 349, to appropriate $242,000 from the school share of main stem tax for educational institution purposes.

Will Erect New Flagpoles.

The Roselle Board of Education has decided to erect handsome flagpoles to replace the present crude poles at the Lorraine and Aldene schools. The trustees have accepted the offer of Postmaster Charlock, of Elizabeth, to address the pupils of the schools on how to address letters. The date for the talk has not as yet been decided upon.

Americus Club Banquet.

The Americaus Club, of Elizabeth, will mark its thirty-fifth anniversary with a banquet in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, on April 27. The banquet committee is composed of D. J. Flynn, M. J. Connell, H. O. Hix, C. F. Higgins, W. J. Dunn, George C. Otto, Charles Meehan, John Hogan, James Donovan and J. W. Fuhrman.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey to Speak.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, will conduct the meeting at the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock. Mrs. John Manley and her son, Raymond Manley, will sing.

Miss Mary E. Decker, of 515 Park avenue, left this afternoon for Washington, D. C., where she will spend her Easter vacation.

"What is the difference between an optimist and a pessimist?"

"A pessimist is always thinking of his liabilities, while an optimist thnks only of his assets."—Judge.

DISCUSS THE SCHEME FOR A JOINT SEWER

The North Plainfield Township Committee met the sewer-commission from the Borough Council, last night, to discuss the new proposition to build a trunk line sewer to take in Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, the idea being to locate sewage beds in the extreme west end of the township.

The discussion brought out the fact that the matter is progressing satisfactorily and that a definite proposition would be ready for presentation in a few days. The opposition, it was said, is rapidly disappearing.

There will be a meeting of the township committee and other interested citizens at the Watchung school-house tomorrow night, when there will be further discussion of the plans. Tonight the sewer commission from the Plainfield Council will hold a meeting in the office of the Mayor for the same purpose. The Dunellen Council has already approved the proposition and within a short time a meeting will be arranged at which the representatives of all the interested municipalities will be present.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Good Friday services will be held at the German Reformed church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and Sunday morning at 11 o'clock there will be communion and Easter services.

The Young People's Union of the Calvary Baptist church held a largely-attended service last night. The subject was "The Resurrection of Christ." Prof. Bolling and his chorus furnished the music. The choir sang "Jerusalem," which enthused the pastor and congregation. Charles Van Horn, organist, presided.

Legislature Hears Concert.

The Legislature at Trenton stopped its work for an hour yesterday afternoon to listen to a concert by Victor's Venetian Band in the Assembly chamber. The concert was the result of a joke resolution introduced in the House, which provided that Colonel Austen Colgate be instructed to procure a band and give a concert in the House. Colonel Colgate was game, and at 5 o'clock the band of twenty-five pieces marched into the Assembly chamber, and for an hour regaled the lawmakers with music and otherwise.

The Smart Light Car of Class.

There is no car at less than double the price that is in the same class with the $1,500 Herreshoff Car. No other car is planned on the same lines as this smart light car of class. It is built of the same material as the big cars, with as painstaking care, on the same proven principles of good practice, with the intent to build the best that can be built rather than a low-priced product.

In appearance, grace of line and refinement of finish, there is no car at any price superior to it. Its appearance will secure a trial for it anywhere and a demonstration will convince the most skeptical.

The quality of its material speaks in every line. The closer examination made of the car the better will be the impression gained of it. Its peculiarly high efficiency is due to its compactness, its lightness and its correct design.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"I've heard how some church folks feels towards us circus people, sir, an' I jes' wanted you to know that there ain't finer families or better mothers or fathers or grandfathers or grandmothers anywhere than among us. Why, that girl's mother rode the horses afore her, an' her mother afore that, an' her grandmother an' grandfather afore that, an' there ain't nobody what's cared more for their good name an' their children's good name an' her people has. You see, sir, circus folks is all like that. They's jes' like one big family. They tends to their business an' takes good care of themselves. They has to or they couldn't do their work. It's 'cause I'm leavin' her with you that I'm sayin' all this," the old man apologized.

"I'm glad you told me, Toby," Douglas answered kindly. "I've never known much about circus folks."

"I guess I'd better be goin'," Toby faltered as his eyes roved hungrily toward the stairway.

"I'll send you our route, an' mebbe you'll be lettin' us know how she is."

"Indeed, I will," Douglas assured him heartily.

"You might tell her we'll write ever' day or so," he added.

"I'll tell her," Douglas promised earnestly.

"Good night!" The old man hesitated, unwilling to go, but unable to find further pretext for staying.

"Good night, Toby." Douglas extended his hand toward the bent figure that was about to shuffle past him. The withered hand of the white faced clown rested in the strong grasp of the pastor, and his pale little eyes sought the face of the stalwart man before him. A numb desolation was growing in his heart. The object for which he had gone on day by day was being left behind, and he must stumble forth into the night alone.

"It's hard to leave her," he mumbled, "but the show has got to go on."

The door shut out the bent, old figure. Douglas stood for some time where Toby had left him, still thinking of his prophetic words. His reverie was broken by the sounds of the departing wagons, the low muttered curses of the drivers, the shrieking and roaring of the animals, as the circus train moved up the distant hill. "The show has got to go on," he repeated as he crossed to his study table and seated himself for work in the dim light of the old fashioned lamp. He put out one hand to draw the sheets of his interrupted sermon toward him, but instead it fell upon a small sailor hat. He twisted the hat absently in his fingers, not yet realizing the new order of things that was coming into his life. Mandy tiptoed softly down the stairs. She placed one pudgy forefinger on her lips and rolled her large eyes skyward. "Dat sure am an angel chile straight from bebben," she whispered. "She done got a face jes' like a little flower."

"Straight from heaven," Douglas repeated as she crossed softly to the table and picked up the satchel and coat. "You can leave the lamp, Mandy. I must finish tomorrow's sermon."

She turned at the threshold and shook her head rather sadly as she saw the imprint of the day's cares on the young pastor's face.

"Yo' mus' be pow'ful tired," she said.

"No, no; not at all. Good night, Mandy."

She closed the door behind her, and Douglas was alone. He gazed absently at the pages of his unfinished sermon as he tapped his idle pen on the desk. "The show has got to go on," he repeated, and far up the hillside with the slow moving wagons Jim and Toby looked with unseeing eyes into the dim, starlit distance and echoed the thought, "The show has got to go on."

CHAPTER V.

THE church bells were ringing their first warning for the morning service when Mandy peeped into the spare bedroom for the second time and glanced cautiously at the wisp of hair that bespoke a feminine head somewhere between the covers and the little white pillow on the four poster bed. There was no sound from the sleeper, so Mandy ventured across the room on tiptoe and raised the shades. The drooping boughs of autumn foliage lay shimmering against the window panes, and through them might be seen the gray outline of the church. Mandy glanced again toward the bed to make sure that the burst of sunlight had not wakened the invalid, then crossed to a small, rickety chair laden with the discarded finery of the little circus rider.

"Lawdy sakes!" she cried, holding up a spangled dress admiringly. "Ain't dat beautiful!" She drew near the mirror, attempting to see the reflection of the tinsel and chiffon against her very ample background of gingham and avoirdupois. "You'd sure be a swell nigger wid dat on, honey!" she chuckled to herself. "Wouldn't dem deacons holler if dey done see dat?"

The picture of the deacons' astonishment at such a spectacle so grew upon Mandy that she was obliged to cover her generous mouth to shut in her convulsive laughter lest it awaken the little girl in the bed. She crossed to the old fashioned bureau which for many months had stood unused against the wall. The drawer creaked as she opened it to lay away the gay, spangled gown.

"It'll be a mighty long time afore she puts on dem t'ings ag'in," she said, with a doubtful shake of her large, round head.

Then she went back to the chair and picked up Polly's sandals and examined the beadwork with a great deal of interest. "Lawdy, lawdy!" she cried as she compared the size of the sandals to that of her own rough, worn shoes. She was again upon the point of exploding with laughter as the church bell added a few final and more emphatic clangs to its warning.

She turned, with a start, motioning a vain warning out of the window for the bell to be silent, but the little sleeper was already stirring uneasily on her pillow. One soft arm was thrown languidly over her head. The large blue eyes opened and closed

"You'd sure be a swell nigger wid dat on, honey!" she chuckled.

dreamily as she murmured the words of the clown song that Jim and Toby had taught her years ago:

"Ting ling,
That's what the bells sing"—

Mandy reached the side of the bed as the girl's eyes opened a second time and met hers with a blank stare of astonishment. A tiny frown came into the small white forehead.

"What's the matter?" she asked faintly, trying to find something familiar in the black face before her.

"Hush, child, hush," Mandy whispered. "Jes' you lay puffickly still. Dat's only de furs' bell a-ringin'."

"First bell?" the girl repeated as her eyes traveled quickly about the strange walls and the unfamiliar fittings of the room. "This ain't the show!" she cried suddenly.

"Lor' bless you, no! Dis ain't no show!" Mandy answered, and she laughed reassuringly.

"Then where am I?" Polly asked, half breathless with bewilderment.

"Nebber you mind 'bout dat," was Mandy's unsatisfactory reply.

"But I do mind," protested Polly, trying to raise herself to a sitting position. "Where's the bunch?"

"De wat?" asked Mandy in surprise.

"The bunch—Jim and Toby an' the rest of the push!"

"Lor' bless you," Mandy exclaimed, "dey's done gone 'long wid de circus hours ago."

"Gone! Show gone!" Polly cried in amazement. "Then what am I doin' here?"

"Hol' on dar, honey! Hol' on!" Mandy cautioned. "Don't you 'cite yo'se'f."

"Let me alone!" Polly put aside the arm that was trying to place a shawl around her. "I got to get out of here."

"Youse got plenty o' time for dat," Mandy answered. "Jes' yo' wait awhile."

"I can't wait, an' I won't!" Polly shrieked, almost beside herself with anxiety. "I got to get to the next burg—Wakefield, ain't it? What time is it? Let me alone! Let me go!" she cried, struggling desperately.

The door opened softly, and the young pastor stood looking down at the picture of the frail, white faced child and her black, determined captor.

"Here, here! What's all this about?" he asked in a firm tone, though evidently amused.

"Who are you?" returned the girl as she shoved herself quickly back against the pillows and drew the covers close under her chin, looking at him oddly over their top.

"She done been cuttin' up somefin awful!" Mandy explained as she tried to regain enough breath for a new encounter.

"Cutting up? You surprise me, Miss Polly," he said, with mock seriousness.

"How do you know I'm Polly?" the little rebel asked, her eyes gleaming large and desperate above the friendly covers.

"If you will be very good and keep very quiet, I will try to tell you," he said as he crossed to the bed.

"I won't be quiet, not for nobody," Polly objected, with a bold disregard of double negatives. "I got to get a move. If you ain't goin' to help me you needn't butt in."

"I am afraid I can't help you to go just yet," Douglas replied. He was beginning to perceive that there were tasks before him other than the shaping of Polly's character.

"What are you tryin' to do to me, anyhow?" she asked as she shot a glance of suspicion from the pastor to Mandy. "What am I up against?"

"Don't you be scared, honey," Mandy reassured her. "Youse jes' as safe here as you done been in de circus."

"Safer, we hope," Douglas added, with a smile.

"Are you two bug?" Polly questioned as she turned her head from one side to the other and studied them with a new idea. "Well, you can't get none the best of me. I can get away all right, an' I will too."

She made a desperate effort to put one foot to the floor, but fell back with a cry of pain.

"SHE DONE BEEN CUTTIN' UP SOMEFIN AWFUL"

"Dar, dar," Mandy murmured, putting the pillow under the poor, cramped neck and smoothing the tangled hair from Polly's forehead. "You done hurt yo'sef for suah dis time."

The pastor had taken a step toward the bed. His look of amusement had changed to one of pity.

"You see, Miss Polly, you have had a very bad fall, and you can't get away just yet nor see your friends until you are better."

"It's only a scratch," Polly whimpered. "I can do my work; I got to." One more feeble effort and she succumbed, with a faint "jiminy crickets!"

"Uncle Toby told me that you were a very good little girl," Douglas said as he drew up a chair and sat down by her side, confident by the expression on her face that at last he was master of the situation. "Do you think he would like you to behave like this?"

"I sure am on the blink," she sighed as she settled back wearily upon the pillow.

"You'll be all right soon," Douglas answered cheerily. "Mandy and I will help the time to go."

"I recollect now," Polly faltered without bearing him. "It was the last hoop. Jim seemed to have a hunch I was goin' to be in for trouble when I went into the ring. Bingo must 'a' felt it too. He kept a-pullin' and a-jerkin' from the start. I got myself together to make the last jump, an'—I can't remember no more." Her head drooped, and her eyes closed.

"I wouldn't try just now if I were you," Douglas answered tenderly.

"It's my wheel, ain't it?" Polly questioned after a pause.

"Yoah what, chile?" Mandy exclaimed as she turned from the table, where she had been rolling up the unused bandages left from the doctor's call the night before.

"I say it's my creeper, my paddle," Polly explained, trying to locate a few of her many pains. "Gee, but that hurts!" She tried to bend her ankle. "Is it punctured?"

"Only sprained," Douglas answered, striving to control his amusement at the expression on Mandy's puzzled face. "Better not talk any more about it."

"Ain't anything the matter with my tongue, is there?" she asked, turning her head to one side and studying him quizzically.

"I don't think there is," he replied good naturedly.

"How did I come to fall in here anyhow?" she asked as she studied the walls of the unfamiliar room.

"We brought you here."

"It's a swell place," she conceded grudgingly.

"We are comfortable," he admitted as a telltale smile again hovered about his lips. He was thinking of the changes that he must presently make in Miss Polly's vocabulary.

"Is this the big top?" she asked.

"The—what?" he stammered.

"The main tent," she explained.

"Well, no; not exactly. It's going to be your room now, Miss Polly."

"My room! Gee! Think of that!" she gasped as the possibility of her actually having a room all of her own took hold of her mind. "Much obliged," she said, with a nod, feeling that something was expected of her. She knew no other phrase of gratitude than the one "Muvver Jim" and Toby had taught her to say to the manager when she received from him the first stick of red and white striped candy.

"You're very welcome," Douglas answered, with a ring of genuine feeling in his voice.

"Awful quiet, ain't it?" she ventured after a pause. "Guess that's what woke me up."

Douglas laughed good naturedly at the thought of quiet as a disturbance and added that he feared it might at first be rather dull for her, but that Jim and Toby would send her news of the circus and that she could write to them as soon as she was better.

"I'll have to be a heap better 'an I ever was 'fore I can write much," Polly drawled, with a whimsical little smile.

"I will write for you," the pastor volunteered, understanding her plight.

"You will?" For the first time he saw a show of real pleasure in her eyes.

"Every day," Douglas promised solemnly.

"An' you will show me how?"

"Indeed, I will."

"How long am I in for?" she asked.

"The doctor can tell better about that when he comes."

"The doctor! So—it's as bad as that, eh?"

"Oh, that need not frighten you," Douglas answered consolingly.

"I ain't frightened," she bridled quickly; "I ain't never scared of nothin'. It's only 'cause they need me in the show that I'm a-kickin'."

"Oh, they will get along all right," he said reassuringly.

"Get along!" Polly flashed with sudden resentment. "Get along without my act!" It was apparent from her look of astonishment that Douglas had completely lost whatever ground he had heretofore gained in her respect. "Say, have you seen that show?" She waited for his answer with pity and contempt.

"No," admitted John weakly.

"Well, I should say you ain't or you wouldn't make no crack like that. I'm the whole thing in that push," she said, with an air of self complacency, "an' with me down an' out that show will be on the bum for fair."

"I beg your pardon," was all Douglas could say, confused by the sudden volley of unfamiliar words.

"You're kiddin' me," she said, turning her head to one side, as was her wont when assailed by suspicion. "You must 'a' seen me ride?"

"No, Miss Polly, I have never seen a circus," Douglas told her, half regretfully, a sense of his deep privation stealing upon him.

"What!" cried Polly incredulously.

"Lordy, no, chile. He ain't nebber seed none ob dem t'ings," Mandy interrupted as she tried to arrange a few short stemmed posies in a variegated bouquet.

"Well, what do you think of that!" Polly gasped. "You're the first Rube I ever saw that hadn't." She was looking at him as though he were a curiosity.

"So I'm a Rube!" Douglas shook his head with a sad little smile and good naturedly agreed that he had sometimes feared as much.

"That's what we always calls a guy like you," she explained ingenuously and added hopefully: "Well, you must 'a' seen our parade. All the pikers see that. It don't cost nothin'."

"I'm afraid I must also plead guilty to the charge of being a piker," Douglas admitted, half sheepishly, "for I did see the parade."

"Well, I was the one on the white horse right behind the lion cage," she began excitedly. "You remember?"

"It's a little confused in my mind"—he caught her look of amazement—"just at present," he stammered, feeling her wrath again about to descend upon him.

"Well, I'm the twenty-four sheet stand," she explained.

"Sheet!" Mandy shrieked from her corner.

"Yes, the billboards, the pictures," Polly said, growing impatient at their persistent stupidity.

The telephone is the connecting link between city and country.

It is of mutual advantage. With telephone service in his suburban home the business man in the city, or wherever he may be, can keep in touch with his household. A friend for dinner, time of arrival, any unusual delay—these, and countless other messages the telephone carries almost instantly thereby relieving the worry of the family and simplifying household arrangements. Every suburban home should have a telephone.

SHREWD MR. DOOLY

HE HAS DISCOVERED A USE FOR "SWITCHTAIL" COWS.

Jersey Farmer Has Device (Not Patented) by Which He Makes Animal Saw Wood with Her Caudal Appendage.

John Dooly of Jacksonville, N. J., has hit upon a plan that will hereafter make "switchtail" cows bring a premium, instead of, as now, being unmarketable. Dooly is the owner of a brindle cow that he has been compelled for years to milk himself. His hired men after the first trial of milking the cow refused to remain longer in Dooly's employ if compelled to put up with the lashing of old brindle's tail.

Dooly has tried for eight years to get rid of the cow, but her fame has spread over Essex and Morris counties, and a purchaser for her could not be found. She can snap her tail like a whip, and the result is that Dooly's face has not been minus several pieces of sticking plaster for years.

Dooly said recently, "I have been thinking for some time of using the old brindle's tailpower to some good effect, and at last hit upon a plan, which I have now put into effect with such good results that if any of the farmers around have any 'switchtail' cows they want to dispose of they will find a buyer at the Dooly farm.

"I cut a hole through the side of the woodshed," continued Dooly, "just opposite the circular saw, which we turn by hand to cut up wood in stove lengths, and through this hole I put a beam, which I balanced just like the walking beam of a ferryboat on the North river. On the inside end I fastened a stick leading down to the wheel that turns the saw. On the outside I fastened a rope. I tried the thing and it worked fine. Driving a stake into the ground near by, I tied the old brindle to it, and, fastening her tail to the beam rope, sat down to milk. I called Pat Dugan, the farm helper, and told him to feed wood to the saw. He thought at first I was crazy, but I ordered him to do as told.

"The next minute the old brindle gave her tail a switch to swipe me across the face as usual, but she couldn't. The rope held, and she could only switch her tail so far. Then she tried in the other direction, with the same result. By this time old brindle got pretty mad and she jerked that tail of hers back and forth as quick as lightning, and, say, that walking beam kept going at such a rate that you would a thought the circular saw was being driven by a ten-horse power engine.

"It just took 15 minutes to milk old brindle, and in that time she cut up two cords of wood into stove lengths. No, sir, I wouldn't take $500 for that old brindle cow now," concluded Dooly.

The Regular Thing.

Mr. and Mrs. Billington were going to the theater.

Mr. Billington was nervously waiting in the hall, taking a few last impatient puffs from his cigar, while Mrs. Billington was still upstairs trying to put her hat on her head in such a manner that she could take it off again at the theater without disarranging her hair.

"Aren't you ready yet?" called Billington.

"In a minute," replied Mrs. Billington, her mouth full of a hatpin.

"We'll be late!"

"Can't help it. Hurrying as fast as I can."

Dear reader, this is not a short story, or a news happening or a divorce incident. It is merely the faithful account of what goes on every evening from 7:45 to eight o'clock in about 100,000 homes in this broad land.

Why Foam Is White.

"How white the foam is," said the pretty girl, in a voice muffled by the sable stole drawn across her red mouth. "Yet the sea is green. Why, then, isn't the foam green?"

The young sophomore laughed in derision.

"Gee, you are ignorant!" he said. "Beer is brown, but its foam is white, too. Shake up black ink and you get white foam. Shake up red ink and the result is the same. A body that reflects all the light it receives, without absorbing any, is always white. All bodies powdered into tiny diamond form, so that they throw back the light from many facets, absorb none of it and are white by consequence. Powdered black marble, for instance, is white. And foam is water powdered into these small diamonds, and hence its whiteness."

The Insanity Plea.

"Sir," said the young woman, with what seemed to be indignation.

The young man looked embarrassed.

"Yes, I did kiss you," he admitted, "but I was impulsively insane."

"That means that a man would be a lunatic to kiss me?"

"Well, any man of discretion would be just crazy to kiss you."

This seemed to ease the strain, and no jury being present to muddle affairs, a satisfactory verdict was reached.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Handicapped.

"She can never be a success socially."

"Never. She has the bad habit of saying what she means."—Kansas City Times.

THE BRIDE.

Every bride has her day.

During the open season brides can be seen at Niagara Falls and Washington.

Every bride is given away. This may happen at any time, either before, during or after the ceremony.

No bride is complete without either orange blossoms, lilies of the valley or orchids. She also wears a veil which is useful afterward as a window curtain.

Brides live in flats and suburban villas. They also inhabit mountain and seaside resorts in the summer. The June bride is known wherever there is a railroad.

The bride is always accompanied by an awning and a clergyman, who varies in number and importance according to the financial standing of the bride's father.

Every bride has a trousseau and a honeymoon, upon which she goes. She is usually accompanied by a husband, but as a rule he cannot be seen above the horizon, except on a clear day.

The bride is an institution that is common to all ages and climes, but in this country has attained unusual prominence owing to the large export trade in brides being carried on with England, Germany, France and Russia.

There is more money spent on brides in this country alone than on gold mines. The profits are about the same. Occasionally a rich vein is struck, but as a rule it is nothing but a constant expense with nothing coming in.—St. Louis Republic.

WAIFS OF WISDOM.

Many a man has a good reputation, because people don't know what he conceals concerning his true character.

CYNIC PHILOSOPHY.

The rolling stone is never on the level.

Happiness is merely not being miserable.

You can't always measure a good time by the price.

A man can't hold his own unless he can hold his own tongue.

A man may be all right in his way, but he wants it to be in his own way.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 11, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Risen with Christ.—Col. iii, 1-4. Easter meeting.

In the preceding chapter of this book the apostle points out the facts that the Christian died with Christ (verse 20), was buried with Him (verse 11) and also rose with Him (verse 11). "Buried with Him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with Him through the faith of the operation of God, which hath raised Him from the dead." In the beginning of the fourth chapter he speaks of the practical side of our relation to Christ, especially as having been raised from the dead with Him. "If risen with Christ, what then?" he seems to ask and then answers his own question.

1. If risen with Christ, our aims in life should be more exalted. "If risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God; set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth." The aim of the one who has been associated with Christ in all His works of redemption—in other words, who has been redeemed himself—is to be changed from earthly achievements and joys to those of heaven. The aim of the unregenerate, unredeemed man is worldly. His desire is only toward the things of this life—its wealth, its pleasures and its ambitions. With the redeemed this is not the case. He seeks to lay up treasures in heaven, to be rich toward God rather than to possess the riches of this world, and if we do this our affection will be on the things in heaven rather than the things of earth, for where a man's treasures are there is his heart also. If our wealth is in railroad stocks our thoughts will be constantly upon them. If our aims in life be to reach some political goal our hearts will be constantly upon that, and if seeking heavenly things our hearts' affection will be centered there, "where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God." This is indeed a "consummation devoutly to be wished," for many waste their lives on the trifling toys of earth and see not and seek not the eternal joys and treasures of heaven.

2. If risen with Christ the secret springs of all our life are heavenly. "Your life is hid with Christ in God." Christ is in God, we are in Christ, and therefore our lives are hidden in God, the source of all their power and efficiency. What a stupendous fact! A stream cannot rise above its source. But if the source of the secret springs in a man's heart and life be in God how boundless the aims and opportunities of his life! He can sing with sincerity:

Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings,
Thy better portion trace;
Rise from transitory things
Toward heaven, thy native place.
Sun and moon and stars decay,
Time shall soon this earth remove.
Rise, my soul, and haste away
To seats prepared above.

3. If risen with Christ we shall partake of His glory at His second coming. "When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory."

Unique Practices.

The first Endeavorers in Ceylon cut the Christian Endeavor monogram in native characters on the stems of certain cocoanut trees, whose fruit they thus dedicated to the Lord. And those that had no fruit trees dedicated each a hen, with her eggs and chickens. In another society in India, in famine times, each member set aside a handful of grain from her daily allowance that it might be sold to support a child in Africa.

Small but Zealous Society.

There is in the "way back" country on the west coast of Australia a Christian Endeavor society of only two members, both of them young men. They are working and praying to establish Christian Endeavor in their district, and they are Endeavorers of the right stamp.

PLANS C. E. CONVENTION

Plainfield Union's Committee Organizes with Clarence B. LaRue as Chairman.

GATHERING HERE IN OCTOBER.

First Baptist Church to Be Used—To Organize Orchestra and Chorus Choir.

Representatives of the local Endeavor Union held a conference at the Y. M. C. A., last night, with State President John T. Sproull, of Arlington, for the purpose of discussing plans for the State Christian Endeavor convention to be held in this city on October 6, 7 and 8. There will be three sessions each day.

Mr. Sproull came to Plainfield to offer suggestions to the local Endeavorers as to how to handle the convention. He is a man of considerable ability and his remarks were listened to with great interest. He consented to address a mass meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church, the latter part of May.

In response to invitations sent by the secretary of the local committee to the various societies in this city, delegates were present from the First M. E., Grace M. E. and Monroe Avenue M. E. churches and they agreed to lend their assistance toward making the convention a success. They will report back to their societies.

Secretary Charles F. Windham was instructed to communicate with the United Christian Endeavor Society in Boston and secure, if possible, the song books used in the revival in Boston. The committee will recommend that the local societies use these books at their meetings in preparation for the convention. Plans are being made for having a large orchestra and chorus choir.

The general committee has been organized as follows: Chairman, Clarence B. LaRue; vice chairman, Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr.; secretary, Charles F. Windham; treasurer, William Latourette; chairman finance committee, Frank Stewart; chairman reception committee, Miss Eva Rogers; chairman Junior Endeavor committee, Mrs. W. S. Lowry; chairman entertainment committee, Alexander Galloway; chairman devotional committee, Peter C. Sweeny; chairman usher committee, Elmer Gayle; chairman printing committee, Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr. The chairman of committees will select their own helpers.

While it is not definitely known just where the convention meetings will be held, it is the plan to have them at the First Baptist church, while no doubt it will be necessary to use other churches for overflow meetings.

ENTERTAIN FOREIGN GIRLS AT LOCAL Y. W. C. A. HOME.

The foreign speaking girls who are taking the English course at the Y. W. C. A. were given a soap bubble party by their teachers, Misses Helen Brown and Ada Stark, at the Association rooms last night. There were twenty-five girls to take part in the evening's entertainment, and all who attended were well pleased with the cordial reception given them.

After the party had been amused blowing bubbles the pipes were dressed in the form of dolls, and given as souvenirs to those present. The feature of the evening was the singing of the National hymns of various countries by a number of the girls in the native language, among them being German, Austrian, Polish and Finnish. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the entertainment.

PASSION SERVICES IN LOCAL CHURCHES TODAY.

The three-hour Passion service was conducted at St. Mary's church, Grace P. E. church, Holy Cross church and St. Stephen's church, lasting from noon until 3 o'clock today. There was special music and the full vested choir was in attendance at Holy Cross church. At each of these churches there will be a special Good Friday service, with a lecture tonight and at all Catholic and Episcopal churches the day was marked by special services.

There was no session at the public schools of city or borough today. The local banks were closed.

I. W. Travell to Lead.

Principal Ira W. Travell, of the Plainfield High School, will lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at Hope chapel Sunday night at 7 o'clock. The topic will be "Risen With Christ." All members of the chapel are invited to meet with the Endeavorers.

REV. MR. WARNER TALKS ON "EVERY-DAY HONESTY"

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, was the speaker at the Easter exercises at the Plainfield High School yesterday. His subject was "Every-day Honesty," and he referred at length to the opportunities for dishonesty in school life. Mr. Warner stated that among school pupils there was probably the greatest tendency to deceive and cheat and tell so-called "white lies," and this should be guarded against by each and every pupil.

Hypocrisy, the speaker said, is a form of deceit, and affectation in any way should be guarded against in school, as well as in every-day life in the home. In this connection Mr. Warner said that the main reason, perhaps, for Mr. Roosevelt's popularity was that he always is his natural self and scorns affectation. Easter music by the pupils was a feature of the exercises, combining Good Friday and Easter music.

INSPECTION IS MADE OF UNION CO. ROADS

Members of the the road committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders made a tour of inspection over all the county thoroughfares yesterday afternoon. Practically every highway in the county was examined. Many of the roads were found badly in need of repairs, while others were thick with dust. The Board is contemplating building new roads and possible locations were looked into.

The roads which are oppressed by the speed-mad autoists and flooded with dust through his recklessness will be oiled hereafter and an effort made to make living for the residents in the vicinity sanitary as far as is possible.

Among those on the inspection tour were Major Benjamin King, director of the Board of Freeholders; County Engineer Jacob L. Bauer, Freeholders S. P. T. Wilbur, Henry Krause, Peter H. Meisel, Elmor K. Adams and George B. Cladek.

JOINT SEWER SCHEME IS CONSIDERED BY CITY

Councilmen F. E. Mygatt, Duncan W. Taylor and Charles C. Randolph, comprising Plainfield's special sewage commission, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, met at the office of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, last night, to discuss matters pertaining to the new trunk sewer proposition. Data on the subject collected to date, together with reports of the meetings held in North Plainfield borough and township of Dunellen were considered, as well as details of direct interest to Plainfield's part in the project.

The real purpose of the meeting was to arrive at some definite conclusion so that when a conference of all the interested muicipaliales is held, the city's representatives will be able to outline its position. After a definite plan is decided upon, the commission will present a report to the Common Council for approval.

The proposition to locate one general sewage plant in the extreme western end of North Plainfield township now meets with the approval of the five muunicipalities who want to join in the improvement. Of course, considerable work remains to be done before the sewer is actually begun. The property-owners in the township who will be affected by the location of a sewage disposal works there want compensation and the question of deciding on what would be fair compensation for damages will no doubt be a difficult one to settle. If the property-owners are disposed to be reasonable in their demands this will greatly facilitate matters. There will be the question of dividing the expense of constructing the sewer. Plainfield will escape the cost of laying sewage pipes, except its share for the main from the present sewage plant to the new plant.

In the case of the other four municipalities there will be sewer pipes to be laid, as well as all the house connections. It is estimated that the total cost of the improvement will be about $250,000.

George Bolsterli to Preach.

George Bolsterli, of this city, will soon be graduated from the theological seminary, New Brunswick, and the consistory of Trinity Reformed church, of which he is a member, has decided to invite him to preach his first sermon after graduation in his home church. The date will be announced later.

UNION SERVICE TONIGHT

All Protestant Congregations to Unite in Observing Good Friday.

AT THE CRESCENT AVENUE.

Ten Minute Addresses to Be Made By Seven Local Ministers—The Order of Services.

Ministers from eleven of the local churches will take part in the annual Good Friday union service to be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight. The service will include ten-minute meditations on The Seven Words from The Cross, and a simple form of the evening prayer will be conducted by several pastors.

The opening sentences of the service will be pronounced by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, and following the general confession and the Lord's prayer, Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, will lead in the responsive reading, which will comprise the twenty-second Psalm. The Scripture lession will be read by Rev. E. V. Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church.

The meditations will be conducted as follows: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do," Rev. Dr. Abel C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church; "Verily, I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in Paradise," Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church; "Behold thy son; behold thy mother," Rev. J. W. Musson, of the Temple Baptist church; "My God, My God, Why hast Thou forsaken me?" Rev. O. J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church; "I thirst," Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church; "It is finished," Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church; "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit," Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church.

At the conclusion of the meditations, prayer will be offered by Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Music will be a feature of the service. William Dunn will be at the organ. The offerings will be donated to the Children's Home.

HERBERT DU BOIS DEAD AT RIVERSIDE, CAL., HOME.

Herbert J. DuBois, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. DuBois, formerly of Putnam avenue, died at Riverside, California, yesterday. The family had been living at Riverside for the past three years, where the climate seemed to benefit the young man. He suffered with a complication of troubles and toward the last nothing appeared to give him any relief.

Mr. DuBois was well known here among the young people. He attended the Plainfield High School and was a member of the First Baptist church. Prior to locating at Riverside, he and his parents spent much time in travel, chiefly on account of the son's health. No information has been received as to the funeral arrangements, but it is thought that the body will be brought to Plainfield for burial.

Sale for Organ Fund.

A cake sale will be held in the church parlors of the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow afternoon from 2:30 until 4:30 o'clock. Mrs. G. Herbert Condict and Mrs. L. R. Howard will have charge of the sale. The sale will be for the benefit of the Hope chapel organ fund, $200 still being needed.

Mr. Gilbert to Make Address.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, president of the New York Clearing House Association, will address the Monday Afternoon Club at the Hartridge auditorium on Monday, April 19. His subject will be "Methods in Banking."

E-M-F Car Run 4,000 Miles Without a Single Adjustment.

The first E-M-F car brought to this city has now run over 4,000 miles without a single adjustment, not even had a spark plug out. There is now eight E-M-F cars in use in Plainfield, all giving perfect satisfaction. ***

Mr. McCutcheon to Speak.

Samuel St. John McCutcheon, of the State Board of Education, will speak before the four local councils of the Jr. O. U. A. M., on Thursday night at the Juniors' hall. His subject will be "The Public School Question."

Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Dayton took possession of their new home on Rockview avenue last night, and the occasion was marked by a "housewarming." Mr. and Mrs. Dayton entertaining a large number of friends.

SHADE TREE MEASURE UP

Mayor Fisk Among Those Who Object to Proposed Law at Public Hearing.

GENERAL MURRAY FAVORS IT.

Former Mayor Katzenbach Coincides With Plainfield Executive in a Protest.

Following his general policy, Governor Fort would furnish no intimation before leaving the State House at Trenton last night as to what disposition he will make of the Ginnelley bill, House No. 333, by which the Republican machine of Trenton hopes to grab the park system from the present board of park commissioners, appointed by the Mayor, and lodge it in the hands of the Republican Common Council under the guise of creating a shade tree commission.

It was the general opinion about the State House yesterday, following the hearing on the bill, that the Governor will veto the measure. It is believed he will send the veto to the House when it reconvenes next Monday night.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of this city, who is a Republican, was one of those who appeared against the bill. "I learned from a talk with General Murray in the corridor this morning that this bill, No. 333, which may be called a Murray bill, is in the interest of the city of Trenton," said Mr. Fisk, "and inasmuch as this seems to be so, for I fail to learn of any other city in the State that wants it signed into a law, I suggest that General Murray tell us the reasons why it was introduced and why he wants it signed."

"This bill was introduced in the interest of the management of the park system in Trenton," explained General Murray. "It is intended to provide a way of protecting our present efficient park superintendent against Democratic attack."

Then Mr. Murray went on to say, to describe from his point of view the various changes and squabbles that have occurred in the park board since its organization, and led up to the recent action of the board by which it was voted to choose a successor to Harry Smith as superintendent.

"The Democrats were warned of what would happen if they carried out their plans as it was reported they would," said General Murray, with an air of assuruance. "I am not ashamed of this bill. It is good partisan legislation, and it has a legitimate purpose. The Democrats would do the same thing if they were in our place. They would not leave us a leg to stand on under similar circumstances."

Mayor Fisk said that the bill would make the park board and shade tree commission a political ball to be kicked about as administrations changed from the control of one party to another. "It is special legislation by which appointments will be made as political favor," concluded Mr. Fisk.

Carl Bannwart, secretary of the Newark Shade Tree Commission, said he expected to hear a valid argument in favor of the bill, but he didn't. General Murray has provided us with no argument," he said.

James A. Berry, president of the Newark Shade Tree Commission, expressed his opposition to the bill, as also did Jerome T. Congiedon, Republican leader of the Republican Common Council of Newark. "It is a political measure, and wo do not want it enacted," he stated.

Elmer Vance, private secretary of Mayor Hausling, of Newark, said that he wished to convey to the Governor the opposition of the administrative head of that great city to the bill.

The chief argument against the bill being signed was made by former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of Trenton. It was the first time that Mr. Kratzenbach had had occasion to appear on a public question before his successful rival for the gubernatorial office.

HUNT FOR MISSING BOY

Otto Mueck Has Police Send Out a General Alarm for His Absent Son.

GONE SINCE LAST MONDAY.

Youth's Mother Is Prostrated—Boy Had Recently Suffered From the Grip.

Otto Mueck, of Elizabeth, whose seventeen-year-old son, Emil Mueck, disappeared from his home on Monday and has not been heard from since, has asked the assistance of the police of the entire State in an effort to find the boy.

Young Mueck's father, who is chief clerk of the Military Service Institution, Governor's Island, has visited every known place in this part of the State that he believed might yield a clew. The boy, who was employed at the Weston Electrical Works, Newark, was detained at home for two weeks with a severe attack of the grip, and his parents believe that the illness has affected his mind, causing him to wander away.

Monday morning, when Mueck disappeared, he paid several bills as directed by his father and the last time he was seen was at the office of the Elizabethtown Gaslight Company. It has since been learned that he did not receive his last pay and that he had little money with him. There was a theory yesterday that he might have wandered down to the shore front in Elizabeth and in some way fallen into the Staten Island Sound and had been drowned.

Mrs. Mueck, mother of the boy, is prostrated with griew and is now under the care of a physician. Members of the family were in Plainfield, yesterday, where the Muecks' lived for ten years, but no trace of the boy could be found.

CONVICT COLORED MAN OF A GRAVE CHARGE.

The April term of the Union County Court was concluded yesterday with the trial of Grant Buckley, colored, of Kenilworth, charged with a grave offense on December 15 last. He stoutly denied the charge and swore that at the time he was accused of committing the offense he was having supper with a friend. Through his counsel, Charles Wagner, of Elizabeth, he made a strong plea for acquittal. The jury was out but five minutes when it returned with a conviction. Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, J., represented the State and he worked such a strong chain of evidence about the accused that it required but a few minutes' consideration on the part of the jury to convict.

The complainant in the case was Bertha Burton, aged twelve years, of Kenilworth. She told a clear straightforward story which greatly impressed the court and jury. The accused man is thirty years old and has been working in Cranford. He will be sentenced on Wednesday, April 14.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. MAHALA SIMS.

The funeral of Mrs. Mahala S. Sims, one of the oldest and most esteemed residents of Plainfield, took place from the First Baptist church this afternoon. The services which was impressive, was attended by a large number of friends from both here and elsewhere. There were many beautiful floral pieces sent by the different societies of the church, the one from the Sunday-school being the largest. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, who was in charge of the services, spoke of the long and living devotion Mrs. Sims had had for the church and Sunday school she loved and labored so hard to see progress from the little meeting house to the great church of today.

The pall bearers were George H. Batchelor, Oliver B. Leonard, L. W. Randolph, Reuben Knox, Robert Barnes and E. L. Bonney. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

Meeting of Trustees.

A meeting of the trustees of the First Baptist church took place last night in which regular routine business was transacted. Next Tuesday night there will be a congregational meeting at which two trustees will be elected.

WANT "COLUMBUS DAY" MADE LEGAL HOLIDAY

Francis J. Blatz, of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, Edward Bracken, of the Orange Council, and James F. Fleming, of Jersey City's Council, have been named as a committee by the State organization to draft a petition to the Legislature requesting that October 12 be made a legal holiday, to be known as "Columbus Day." It is planned to introduce a bill in the Senate for that purpose at an early date and to make every effort to have favorable action taken on it by the lawmakers at the present session.

The movement for the observation of "Columbus Day" in October, when Christopher Columbus is supposed to have first landed in America, is well developed in this State. Several States have recently passed bills making the day a legal holiday, among them being New York State.

HAYMAKERS' ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED BY RED MEN

A Haymakers' Association, comprised of the members of Wetumpkah Tribe, Improved Order Red Men, was instituted here, last night, by State Chief Haymaker Alfred Cook, of New Brunswick, and staff, including Grand Vice Chief F. Litkenhaus, Horn Blower W. A. Shauck, Collector of Straws Edward Barton, Keeper of Bundles H. H. Powell, Mule Driver W. H. Voorhees, Hayseed W. R. Schauck.

There were in all about 150 visiting Haymakers from New Brunswick, Newark, Elizabeth, Perth Amboy and other nearby places. After instituting the association, five tramps were adopted. The business was followed by a fine supper served by Haymaker Henry Windham at the Hotel Waldorf, after which there were musical selections and a dance.

The officers of the local Haymakers' Association are chief haymaker, Frank Wagner; vice haymaker, Ferdinand Dorman; horn blower, Jack Horner; keeper of bundles, William Wylie; mule driver, Michael Armstrong; past chief haymakers, A. E. Willard and William Osland.

LOCAL RED MEN SEE TRIBESMEN INITIATED

The degree team of Opeeche Tribe, No. 92, Red Men, at a meeting of the tribe last night in Franklin Hall, Elizabeth, initiated ten from Watchung Tribe, No. 110, of Newark, and fifteen from Opeeche Tribe in the presence of delegations from Watchung Tribe, Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Plainfield; Tonaluka Tribe, No. 241, Cranford; Rahwack Tribe, No. 165, Rahway, and Omemi Tribe, No. 107, and Leola Tribe, No. 162, of Elizabeth.

Opeeche Tribe was presented with a handsime silk American flag by Chief of Records Philip Turk, of Watchung Tribe, Newark, on behalf of his tribe. The flag was presented as a prize for the largest number of members present at a ball of Watchung Tribe in Krueger Auditorium on February 18.

A speech of acceptance was made by Joseph McGowan. Following the presentation speeches upon the good and welfare of the order were made by members of visiting delegations and also of Opeeche Tribe.

Funeral of Harry Condit.

The funeral of Harry Condit took place from the home of his father, H. C. Condit, 308 Arlington avenue, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. G. W. Bailey, of Calvary Baptist church. Interment was made in Plainfield cemetery.

ORGANIZE BOROUGH BANK

William A. Clark President of Borough National which Begins Business Thursday.

AT NO 33 SOMERSET STREET.

M. C. VanArsdale Made Vice President and Frederic Coriell Cashier—Directors Announced.

The Borough National Bank, North Plainfield's new financial institution, will be opened for business at 33 Somerset street, Thursday morning, April 15, at 9 o'clock. An excellent location has been selected and up-to-date quarters have been arranged for the transaction of a general banking business.

The complete Board of Directors was announced at a meeting held last night, as follows: Dr. Justus H. Cooley, William A. Clark, Jacob Voehl, M. C. Van Arsdale, Nelson A. Miller, James E. Nolan Dr. A. H. Dundon, E. C. Bataille, Newton B. Smalley, Francis H. McCauley, Frederic Coriell, Frank A. Weeks, George F. Brown, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, Hyman Adelberg, Charles A. Lee and John H. Kitchen. The directors have chosen these officers: President, William A. Clark; first vice president, M. C. Van Arsdale; second vice-president, James E. Nolan; cashier, Frederic Coriell.

President Clark is the son of former Congressman Amos Clark, of Elizabeth. He has been a resident of Plainfield some time and has had a wide experience in banking affairs. He is now engaged in real estate business.

Frederic Coriell, the cashier, has had over fourteen years experience in banking business. He was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class '95, after which he was assistant cashier of the First National Bank, Bound Brook, for seven years and has been with the Morristown Trust Company for more than seven years. His home is at Bound Brook and he enjoys a wide acquaintance in this section of the State.

All of the directors, with a few exceptions, are well-known business men here. E. C. Bataille is the president of the American Commercial Bank, of Newark, while Francis H. McCauley is former Mayor of Weehawken. The rest are known here. Frank Rowley, who for several years was borough clerk, will be the assistant to Mr. Coriell.

A decided feature to be inaugurated by the new bank is that of keeping open Saturday night from 7:30 to 9 o'clock for the general accommodation of business men and others who may need the services of a bank.

A circular letter issued by President William A. Clark, under the direction of the board, contains this announcement:

"We shall carry on a general banking business and no account will be too small or too large to receive our attention. Liberal interest will be allowed on both special deposits and business accounts, and every assistance will be afforded local people to further their business and promote the welfare of the community."

A public reception will be held at the bank Wednesday night, April 14, from 7 to 9 o'clock, when an opportunity will be afforded all interested to inspect the institution. The bank is equipped throughout with mahogany furniture and fixtures with every convenience for conducting the business in a safe and conservative manner. The capital stock of the bank, $50,000, has been oversubscribed, and there is every promise that success will reward the efforts of those who have been instrumental in effecting the organization.

Two Arrests in Borough.

Timothy Ingraham, a scavenger from North Plainfield, was arrested yesterday for emptying a cesspool without a permit. Upon agreement to immediately secure a permit, Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence. John Jannazzi, an Italian fruit dealer, of 109 Somerset street, was fined ten dollars by Recorder Dolliver for placing garbage in the rear of his store and not removing the same when notified by the police.

Cut His Foot With an Axe.

Henry Lewis, colored, aged fifteen years, employed by W. L. Smalley, Jr., the Park avenue butcher, cut his foot with an axe this morning, while chopping wood at his home on Arlington avenue. A physician was summoned and the injured foot attended to. The lad will be detained at home several days.

South Plainfielder's Thumb Crushed.

John O'Keefe, of South Plainfield, severely crushed his right thumb while cleaning a coil at the coal storage plant at the village last night. A physician was summoned and amputation may be necessary.

EASTER SALE MEN'S HABERDASHERY

Winning hundreds of men to this, the best of all stores for men in Newark. Just as in other lines, our tremendous purchases enable us to buy better goods for the money, or equally as good haberdashery for less money, than most stores. Our knowledge of men's wants allow us to gauge their needs and desire to a nicety. And let us say in passing that we have the same reliable brands in hosiery and underwear as this store has been known to sell for years. And now to spread the news of best stocks, most conveniently newly arranged department, and most helpful service, we hold this great Easter sale men's new haberdashery that no man should fail to benefit by. One step left of entrance.

$1.00 GLOVES at 79c.

Famous Adler make, fashionable pique sewn; new tan shades, first quality, gloves that the most particular men can buy with confidence and with satisfaction—a great sale special—helping to throng the enlarged men's wear department—best $1.00 gloves that we know of, at only 79c.

50c MEN'S NECKWEAR at 25c.

New Line—Another neckwear opportunity of the sort men never have too many of—all silk, large flowing and four-in-hand ties, all new, especially for Easter selling; hundreds and hundreds of designs—every tie a true 50c value; selling hundreds at special price, at 25c.

$1.50 and $2 "STAR" SHIRTS, $1.15.

"Ah!" men will say when they read of this great bargain—most famous shirts, the "Star," whose supremacy has ever been admitted; great variety woven madras, printed madras, corded madras; plain and pleated coat style, attached or separate cuffs; $1.50 and $2 "Star" shirts at $1.15.

$1.50 NEGLIGEE SHIRTS 95c.

More of those standard shirts we placed on sale recently that went with a rush; woven madras and printed madras; dark and real "neat" light effects; latest custom way, mostly separate cuffs; some with attached cuffs; coat style; well-known $1.50 shirts, special at 95c.

$1 FOUR-IN HANDS 69c.

The "Real Goods"—Imported silks, made for exclusive haberdasher; we bought the silks and had them made up; splendid made four-in-hands. Genuine boon to be able to buy such fine neckwear at so low price—buy one or two—regular $1.00 four-in-hands at 69c.

25c and 35c HALF HOSE 16c.

Imported Half Hose—tan and black cotton; also imported black cotton sox with unbleached soles, all kinds men have use for the year 'round—good staple half hose as low as half and less regular; 25c and 35c values at 16c.

$1 NEGLIGEE SHIRTS 59c.

An opportune purchase good shirts of a well known make; cuffs attached and separate; dark and light colorings; woven and printed madras; not many stores offer good shirts at this special price—but this is Snyder's; and so you will find real $1.00 shirts at 59c.

MEN'S 50c HALF HOSE 25c.

One of the largest importers of men's half hose exclusively sold us his spring sample line; black, solid colors and fancy hose in a great variety as any man cares to choose from; buy 50c half hose half regular—25c.

50c SUSPENDERS at 25c.

Made from 50c elastic webs in great assortment of designs and colorings, leather cast offs; of course a haberdashery sale would not be complete without a suspender offer—and this is a good one—real 50c value at 25c.

SMALL-POX

HOUSEHOLDERS CAUTIONED.

How to Avoid Contagion.

Small-pox is prevalent. Vaccination and the use of a reliable disinfectant are recognized preventatives. The last thing at night pour into the traps of the closets, wash-basins, sinks, etc., just a little Platt's Chlorides. Places where disease germs may develop, nooks behind plumbing and all spots that can't be reached by the scrubbing brush should be freely sprinkled with a mixture of one (1) part of Platt's Chlorides and ten (10) parts of water. This dilution costs less than 5 cents a quart. Do not neglect a liberal sprinkling of the cellar. To remove objectionable odors where sprinkling is inadvisable, keep a cloth or sponge moistened with the dilution mentioned. A little extra care just now may prevent much sickness and expense. Platt's Chrolides is an odorless, colorless liquid disinfectant which instantly destroys foul odors and disease-breeding matter. It is sold by druggists everywhere in full quart bottles, and is prepared only by Henry B. Platt.

CENTENARY FLOCK TO APPEAL TO BISHOPS?

The official board of the Centenary church, Newark, met with the Rev. Dr. Mead in one of the Sunday-school rooms in the church last night. The meeting was behind closed doors, and all persons not members of the board were excluded from the church.

The session was opened at 8 o'clock, and lasted for more than a hour. No outsiders were admitted, and all information was refused.

There was a persistent rumor that the case might be carried to the courts, whether civil or ecclesiastical was not stated.

Edward H. Jones, a prominent member of the church and of the governing body, was asked if the rumor regarding court proceedings was true. He refused to either affirm or deny it. He was also asked if a protest would be carried to the board of bishops. He refused to answer either question. Mr. Jones was chairman of the committee which had charge of the entertainment of the members of the conference and was also one of the members of the committee which lodged the original protest against the removal of Dr. Mead with the bishop.

Feeling among the members of the congregation still runs very high. One of the men said last night that the members did not feel so bad over the transfer as they did over the way it was effected. He said that the congregation would rally to the support of the new pastor and would do all in its power to make his pastorate a pleasant one. While the congregation is sorry to lose Dr. Mead, and will do everything in its power to retain him, he said, they would not make things unpleasant for Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, of this city, who has been assigned to Centenary.

KILLS HIMSELF WITH A BOMB.

Farmer Uses a Self-Made Explosive to Blow His Head Off.

Tobias Hermann, 61 years old, a retired farmer of Arcola, N. J., went behind the barn yesterday, and, loading a piece of gas pipe with a high explosive, placed one end in his mouth and touched the fuse with a match. The explosion blew his head off.

His body was found by his sons. He had been depressed in spirits of late, and had threatened several times to kill himself. He leaves a widow, three children by a former wife, and a baby, a few months old.

VILLAGE'S QUIETUDE DISTURBED FOR TIME

A foot-race that almost ended in a fight made lots of diversion for South Plainfielders last night, and when the scrap was avoided by the explanation of a practical joke sprung on one of the racers, the village green was the scene of an uproar of merriment and the fistic clouds rolled by.

Zachariah Arrowsmith, who is seventeen years old, and a "likely boy," was the cause of it all. "Polly," as the boy is nick-named, joined the group at Manning's store right after supper, and after the boys had talked over Hal Chase's illness and the Giants' chances this season, the conversation drifted to Marathon running. Conversation developed the fact that "Polly" thought he could beat Andrew McDonough in a race "around the block"—a distance of about half a mile. Andrew accepted the challenge, and "Polly" threw off his coat and stepping to the line drawn in the road as a starting point, got off slightly in the lead of Andrew.

While the two were Marathoning, there wasn't much for the crowd at the store to do until John Geary, who is somewhat of a village cut-up, sought to enliven the finish by springing a joke on "Polly." He took off his coat and removing the runner's coat from the store steps, laid it in exactly the same place. Then he soaked it with kerosene and set fire to it, putting on "Polly's" coat himself. When the runners came in sight Arrowsmith was slightly in the lead, but when he saw what he thought was his coat, burning brightly at the finish, he stepped out like a veteran and won easily. He wasn't elated over the victory, however, because he instantly declared that he could "lick the fellow" who had set fire to his coat. Geary, wearing Arrowsmith's coat, looked guilty, and the runner was about to sail into him when he recognized the coat.

So abashed was the runner by the hoots and cat-calls of merriment that he was forced to make the peace by "standing" for three "all-day suckers," and when the boys parted for the night, Arrowsmith said it was really a good joke and told how easy it had been to beat McDonough.

BILL EFFACES SIGNS OUTSIDE OF SALOONS

Liquor and anti-liquor forces throughout the State must be much interested in the passage by the Assembly of the Eppinger bill, House 317, which, if it is enacted into a law, and this is not at all probable, it is understood, will have a revolutionary effect on the saloon and hotel trade. The measure would do away with all exterior advertising signs on saloons, hotels and cafes and would confine this style of advertisement to small window displays. For instance, in Newark all the big electric signs suspended above the pavement in front of the various saloons, as well as the "over the door and window" anmes, would have to go, and in their place would only be allowed three feet sqpare business trade publications.

It wasn't exactly expected this bill would go through the House, even though it was suggested by Bishop McFaul, of the Trenton diocese of the Catholic church, and also has received the endorsement of most of the brewers of the State, who see a chance to get rid of a lot of expensive advertising. When it was called up for passage most of the members were unacquainted with its provisions and balked about voting on it. The debate was brief, however, and when the tally was made known it was found that only Messrs. Ford, Hines, Martin, Roberts, and Miller, of the Essex delegation, and Burpo, of Passaic; James and Tumulty, of Hudson; Nichols, of Cumberland, and Poole, of Monmouth, were recorded against it.

POWDER WORKS BLOW UP, 2 DEAD, SEVERAL HURT.

A terrific explosion early this morning demolished several buildings of the big Laflin & Rand powder works at Wayne, N. J., about ten miles beyond Paterson. Two men are reported killed and several were badly injured. The shock from the explosion was great and was felt for miles around.

At Paterson it was thought for a time that an earthquake had occurred. Reports from Wayne said that all the buildings of the plant, with the exception of the finishing building, had been blown up. Medical aid was called from Little Falls and Paterson.

Mrs. Robert F. Scott and son, of West Third street, are visiting her parents at Bound Brook.

MRS. HENRY'S FUNERAL AT WASHINGTON VALLEY.

The funeral services of Mrs. William S. Henry were held yesterday at the late home in Washington Valley, and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Mr. Wesley, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Pluckemin, was in charge and he spoke impressively of the life and character of Mrs. Henry and how she was beloved and esteemed by all who knew her. There were a great many beautiful floral tributes. The burial was in the family plot at Somerville.

Mrs. Henry, who was the mother of Mrs. Isaac P. Runyon, of Prospect place, the borough, died Wednesday morning in the Somerset Hospital, Somerville, as the result of burns received the day before when her dress caught fire from a pile of burning leaves. Before the flames could be extinguished Mrs. Henry's entire body was disfigured beyond recognition. Members of the family took her to the Somerset Hospital, but the physicians in charge declared that there was no hope from the first.

ADDITIONAL CARRIER FOR THE NETHERWOOD SECTION.

Postmaster E. H. Bird has been granted another carrier, making twenty-two in all. The new carrier is Charles Schlief and he will begin his duties on April 16. He has been acting as a substitute and in this way is familiar with the work. Mr. Bird has assigned him to the Netherwood district of the city and this will relieve two of the carriers now covering that territory.

The granting of an additional carrier is due to the fine showing of the office during the past year. This was shown by an inspection recently made of the office. The inspector praised Mr. Bird for the up-to-date office and equipment and the thoroughly satisfactory manner in which he conducts the business of the office. The report when it reached the Government officials had great weight in allowing an extra man for the carrier department.

MT. ZION A. M. E. PEOPLE NOW FREE FROM DEBT.

Rev. J. T. Diggs, pastor and the officers of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, wish to thank their many friends for the financial help given during the spring fair. Four States were represented at the fair and the proceeds were as follows: State of New York, Messrs. Maynard and Dyett, $51.48; New Jersey, Messrs. Jones and Floyd, $168.46; Pennsylvania, Messrs. Stills and Bailey, $23.31; Virginia, Messrs. Thompson and White, $45.04, making a total of $288.29.

As a result of this the church is enabled to pay off some long standing debts and square accounts with the conference. The entertainment was considered one of the most successful in the history of the church and all the members are gratified over the results.

CAMP FOR CONSUMPTIVES.

The executive committee of the Elizabeth Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis met last night in the Y. M. C. A. building at Elizabeth and discussed the advisability of establishing a day camp. Dr. Arthur Stern and Dr. P. DuBois Bunting were appointed a sub-committee to make a thorough investigation. Dr. Norton L. Wilson was added to the executive committee. No date was fixed for the next general meeting, but it will be held soon.

Engaged as Contralto Soloist.

Miss Jessie Haynes, of Dunellen, who was contralto soloist at the Congregational church, has been engaged as such by the First M. E. church for the coming year. She will sing for the first at the services on Sunday.

Among the latest arrivals of golf professionals from the South are Fred McLeod, the national open champion; Gilbert Nichols and Fred Low. The last named spent the winter at Pinehurst as assistant to the brothers, Alec and Donald Ross. Low has secured the Ridgewood Golf Club green for the season.

ELIZABETH TRADE BOARD IS OPPOSED TO TUNNELS.

Elizabeth's Board of Trade is opposed to tunnels under Newark Bay and will fight any effort on the part of the Newark Board of Trade to advance the underground plan, that decision being made lastnight. The tunnel is not feasible, the members say, being too costly and impracticable.

In addition to favoring bridges in preference to tunnels the board acted favorably on the communication of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce, requesting that a committee be appointed to act jointly with similar committees from Staten Island, South Amboy, Perth Amboy, and other cities.

Praise Senator Ackerman.

Senator Ackerman is to be congratulated on the passage of his liability bill in the Assembly yesterday. Senator Ackerman can always be relied upon to give attention to the legislative matters in which his constituents are interested, but he has a way also of making his services worth while in a broader way. He left his work on the session of the Legislature of 1908 by securing for the State a Civil Service law. Evidently now he is to have to his credit an employers' liability law. It has not escaped attention that Assemblyman Pierce has given Senator Ackerman excellent support in the Assembly. Union county legislators have a way of working together, for the county and the State.—Elizabeth Journal.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

William Norris is a "bookish" actor. We wish we had more of them. His literary proclivities and friendships are responsible for the fact that George Barr McCutcheon's successful novel, "Beverly of Graustark," will make its initial appearance at a play at the theatre tomorrow, in which the original cast of New York stars and one of the most elaborate scenic productions ever staged will be seen. "Beverly of Graustark" will be seen tomorrow afternoon and night at the New Plainfield theatre.

No better company of players has ever been sent from New York city by any management than that which will be seen here for an engagement at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, when George Broadhurst's remarkable play, "The Man of the Hour," will be acted.

The company that will present Richard Brinsley Sheridan's brilliant comedy, "The Rivals," is headed by Joseph and William W. Jefferson, who are rapidly assuming the distinguished theatrical position occupied by their father, the late Joseph Jefferson. These sons of an illustrous parent will be supported by a company of unusual merit. "The Rivals" will be seen here on Wednesday night.

It is an old stage aphorism that good parts make good actors. Remarkably well, then, must Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson have builded in "The Man From Home," for the enjoyment afforded by Henry Hall and his associates in the Indiana play is of the keenest. "The Man From Home" is booked at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night.

WOMAN WITH EMBEZZLER IDENTIFIED BY HUSBAND.

It has developed that the woman who posed as the wife of E. C. Tobey, who was arrested upon the charge of embezzling money and stock of the Delaware and Lackawanna Steel Company at Oxford, was not his wife. "Mrs. Tobey" made great efforts to get the man released on bail and when she succeeded and former Mayor R. M. Petty went on the bond for $500, the man and woman were heard planning to leave Washington. The bondsman then surrendered the alleged embezzler and he was returned to jail.

By Tobey's mother and aunt offering to make good the amount of which E. C. Wills, the president of the company, claimed he had been embezzled, Tobey was released from Belvidere jail a few days ago, and he and the woman left for New York.

Wednesday, Borough Marshal C. N. Shrope received a long letter from M. B. Hendel, of Atlanta, Ga. The man claimed the woman posing as Mrs. Tobey was his wife, and that she had left home three weeks ago, leaving two children for her husband to look after. Hendel claimed he went to New York to search for his wife, and while there enlisted the services of a detective bureau.

Being called back to Atlanta, he learned of the draft given to Mr. Petty by the woman when she desired to raise money to release Tobey from jail. She had given her maiden name, Ada Kanutzer, and claimed to have funds on deposit in an Atlanta bank. The bank officials informed the husband and he learned that his wife was in Washington.

The woman did not have any funds at the bank and that fact caused Mr. Petty to surrender Tobey to the custody of a constable. Hendel's description of "Mrs. Tobey" corresponded exactly with the woman. While in Washington Tobey addressed her as Ada.

SAYS NEW YORK SHIPPED INSANE MAN TO JERSEY.

A strange tale was unfolded by the defense when Alexander Reigan was placed on trial yesterday at Elizabeth, charged with horse stealing. Insanity was the plea, and the assertion made that Reigan became insane in New York, and was shipped from New York to New Jersey by the New York authorities, so as to shift the responsibility of caring for him. He left the ferryboat at Jersey City and made his way to Linden Township.

Here, it is claimed, he stole a horse and road wagon from Henry Schulthies, proprietor of the Halfway House, on Rahway avenue, Elizabeth. The defendant asserts that a man whom he did not know, told him to get into the rig, which was standing outside the roadhouse, and to drive away. He did so. Schulthies discovered the loss soon after, and notified the Linden authorities. They recovered the rig and arrested Reigan, who was indicted by the recent grand jury.

New Home For Juniors.

Plans and specifications for the proposed new building of the Jr. O. U. A. M. of New Jersey, in Trenton, will soon be submitted to the contractors. The site for the structure is on East State street and will be built and owned by the American Mechanic Building Association of New Jersey. It will be ten stories high, of steel frame, concealed, and the enclosure will be of brick and stone. It will be the headquarters of the order in the State.

EASTER!

OUR 1909 EASTER SUIT EXHIBITION IS Unequaled in Style, Quality & Elegence

One more day in which to solve the Easter Suit problem. Though the time be short, quick buying at McGregor's is fraught with no disappointments.

If you want a correct suit for Easter, look in at McGregor's for McGregor's is a fashion school as well as a store.

For years we have enjoyed undisputed leadership as makers of the best grades of clothing, ready-to-wear.

The 1909 Easter Exhibition comprises all that men of discriminating taste can possibly ask for, plus our most unusual low prices.

The range of Men's Suits at $12 is wide and varied. You can select from several styles of gray, just as many olives, taupe, and smoke effects, also blues and blacks.

At $15 and $18 the choice widens, a variety that embraces all that heart could wish for. Self-weave blues, shadow stripes, neat black and white mixtures and stripes, also a host of peculiar shades.

From $20 to $25 the superfine worsteds have an exhibition of elegance confined to their own circle. Each suit a masterpiece of tailoring. Each style a McGregor creation. We ask patrons of high price tailors to compare these beautiful garments with those they have paid double for.

CLOTHES FOR BOYS

Knickerbocker Suits in sizes 6 to 17 and in all the new colorings, designs and models. Grays, olives, taupe, and self-weave effects. Derby or pleated coats.
$5, $6.50, $8.50

Beautiful Reefers, jaunty in effect and style. Rich grays, taupe, olive and blues. Sizes 2½ to 10.
$5, $6.50, $8.50

Long Pants Suits (coats and pants), in beautiful self weave blue, black and white pencil stripes, olive and gray effects; sizes 14 to 18.

Does a Woman's Charm Lie Chiefly in Her Hat?

Twould seem so when one sees how much more fascinating one woman is than another—the difference, apparently, being in the sort of hat she wears.

And if, as Maude Adams, in "What Every Woman Knows," says, "If a woman has charm, she has everything," so the woman wearing the most bewitching bonnet is likely to be the most charming.

The women of New Jersey and some knowing ones in New York and Brooklyn have long since come to recognize the supremacy of the Hahne hats, and the work of our master milliners has won for us the trade of the elite.

Some of our hats are direct importations; most of them copies or modifications touched with sufficient democracy to make them acceptable to American women.

We cater not only to the finest trade of Newark, the Oranges, and round about, but to folks of moderate means, and we count among the store's most noteworthy achievements our ability to produce really beautiful hats at prices as low as $12.75, $7.75 and even $4.75

Our collection of hats at these popular prices was never better than now, and those seeking beauty with economy will be pleased with the hats we sell them so cheaply.

Other Trimmed Hats at $15, $17.50, $20, $25, $30 and up to $75, of the more elegant sorts, trimmed in sumptuous fashion with the finest of flowers, feathers, ribbons, etc.

Untrimmed Hats are here in greater variety than anywhere in the State.

Flowers, Foliage, Fruit, Wings, Aigrets and Ostrich Plumes in such assortment as will almost bewilder you.

Men's Easter Furnishings

THAT ARE DIFFERENT. The cleverest talent to be found spends its efforts in designing and supplying our furnishings for gentlemen. It is devoted to that class of apparel in which the most critical men find their ideas and tastes so fully expressed. The craftsmen know every little knack that tends towards individualizing whether it be in design, cut, fabric or coloring.

Exclusiveness, or style excellence is one of our prime factors, and even a glance at our superb stock will reveal ideal aspects of individuality and for the money they are bountifully equivalent in richness, quality and style.

We desire to call your attention to our new spring showings assuring you of an assortment particularly desirable.

SOUTH AMBOY MAY BE "NEAR DRY" FOR AWHILE.

If the law is being complied with strictly at South Amboy, only two of the twenty-eight saloons licensed are doing business. The licenses of the other places expired at midnight, Wednesday night, and because of the situation with reference to the new ordinance regulating their business, the saloon-keepers will not be able to legally open their establishments until the next meeting of the Council, April 20, when it is expected the ordinance will pass on final reading.

The action of Councilman Herbert J. Berrien in voting down the veto of Mayor Treganowan with the Democrats, has caused much comment there. Berrien, until Tuesday night, was allied with the Mayor and his followers in their effort to sidetrack the ordinance, and at the eleventh hour he cast his vote with the Democrats, thus breaking a deadlock of several weeks' standing.

MINISTER, DEFENDANT IN "FAKE" MARRIAGE SUIT.

Washington, Ind., April 9.—Suit has been filed by Miss Laura Britt Clark against Rev. E. E. Davidson.

The complaint recites the story of an alleged fake marriage at St. Louis in December last and prays that it be declared valid, that Davidson be enjoined from repudiating the marriage and that he be compelled to maintain the woman. Service was obtained and the case will be heard at the next term of the Daviess Circuit Court.

The minister protests his innocence.

Divorce for Hard-luck Wife.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fricke Palmer, of 179 Virginia avenue, Jersey City, who this week obtained an advisory decree of divorce from her husband, John Palmer, of 342 Grove street, Jersey City, is, according to her friends, the star hard-luck woman there. Less than two years ago Mrs. Palmer was living with her husband in lower Jersey City and had three sturdy children, all boys. In April, 1907, the oldest child climbed a telegraph pole and was shocked to death. Another child was killed by a locomotive. Then John Palmer left his wife for one Susie Youmans.

Westfield Doctors to Meet.

The Westfield Medical Society held its April meeting at the residence of Dr. J. B. Harrison, on Broad street, Tuesday night. A feature of the meeting was an interesting paper on "The Surgical Shop" by Dr. Fred A. Kinch. The society is planning to hold an open meeting next month, to be addressed by a prominent man in the medical profession. The doctors intend to invite their friends to this meeting.

Ban on Young Man Continues.

At a meeting of the Board of Excise of Rahway Tuesday night Commissioned Adler endeavored to have removed the ban on saloons against selling liquor to a prominent young man. Commissioner Adler said that the young man was doing better, but the board thought it best to lay the matter over for one month.

Fell Downstairs; Fractured Skull.

James Goudy, a laborer, fifty years old, tumbled down a steep flight of stairs at his home, 21 Atlantic street, Elizabethport, Wednesday night. His scalp was nearly torn off and his skull fractured by the fall. He was removed to the Alexian Hospital, where he lies in a critical condition. He is married and has a family.

Pythian Altar in Rahway.

Volunteer Lodge, No. 110, K. of P., of Elizabeth, Tuesday night made a fraternal visit to Reliance Lodge, No. 101, of Rahway, and presented the Pythian charity altar, which is making a round of all the lodges in the State.

Judge Gray Sworn In.

Trenton, April 9.—Judge George R. Gray, who was recently reappointed to a place on the bench of the Court of Errors and Appeals, was sworn in yesterday, when the court met for its first conference of this term.

SILK CASHMERE.

It is soft.
It is pliable.
It is shimmering.
It is most modish.
It is a favorite for house gowns.
It combines the good qualities of both satin and silk.
Yet is is less stiff than satin and has "ragged" than silk.
So it is much liked, and much worn for spring house gowns and "dressy" frocks.

Waist of Today.

The manikins who are employed by dressmakers to display the new season's dresses are trying to bring their waist measurement up to a uniform 24 inches, which is the ideal waist of the present fashion. Tight lacing only obtains in old-fashioned show rooms, which have not yet taken cognizance of the entire change in the character of dress.

The Gathered Skirt.

Here it is.
Not yet on the street.
But displayed in the shops.
It is by no means a "hoop skirt."
But it is obviously "gathered" at the waist.
And that waist line, by the way, has "come down" considerably.
So here it is.

HIGH SCHOOL SHUTS OUT ERASMUS TEAM

The Plainfield High School easily defeated the Erasmus Hall team, of Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0. The home team was in excellent condition, all the men playing their positions in clever style, and at no time during the game did the visitors show they had a chance of defeating the P. H. S. players. The star of the P. H. S. was Van Zant, who pitched a fine game. He had plenty of speed and good control, and many a batsman shattered the air reaching for his benders. Giddes and Doane, for the home team, did the stick work that brought victory for the P. H. S.

The Erasmus boys put up a good game and came within an ace of scoring on more than one occasion. One decision at the home plate looked very much as if the Metropolitan lads had scored. Stein, in left field, was a terror for all high fliers that came any where in his territory, and Tilton at first covered the initial sack like "Hal" Chase during his school days.

The line-up:

P. H. S.	Erasmus H. S.
Giddes	Hesterbury
shortstop.
Clark	De Moya
third base.
Lidgate	Tilton
first base.
Snyder	McManns
second base.
Doane	Frost
left field.
Dodwell	George
catcher.
Riffert	Dumass
right field.
Cullen, Runyon	Stein
centre field.
Van Zant	Scally, Dingly
pitchers.

Umpires, Freeman and Russell.

BASEBALL.

Captain Snyder showed he still knows how to cover second base.

Doane was right there yesterday and he more than redeemed himself for what he did in the game against Somerville.

Guess there must have been some class to Van Zant yesterday. 6 to 0 is a g-o-o-d one.

Bill Russell was one of the chief mouth pieces of the game, when it came to calling strike, ball and out on first.

Giddes and Clark were the stick workers. Both boys handled the stick in a vigorous manner.

Lehigh and Rutgers played the longest game of the season, thirteen innings, with the score 4 to 3, favor of the Keystone lads.

Since Hal Chase has been taken ill with small-pox, some one has suggested calling him the speckled beauty.

The Laural A. C. of this city wants to arrange games with teams averaging twelve years of age. All challanges can be sent to Harold Burke, of 152 East Second street.

The Laurel Seconds defeated the Third Street A. C., this morning, by a score of 21 to 8. The battery for the Laurels was Mullin and McCrea and for the Third Street A. C., Miller and Compton.

BOWLING.

The game keeps up but the scores fail to show any indication of being broken.

Frank Blatz is generally high man when there is an individual score to make. If Frank could only get in the game with some of the big ones there would be a battle royal.

We fail to find Billy Nash up to his old time form. Since that Atlantic City trip Billy hasn't been up to snuff. Too much salt air in one's lungs isn't good for bowling, if it is for the health.

Minnick was certainly going after the 200 mark and once he got 205. That's going after something.

That 490 score is the one that is liable to stand for this season. It was bowling that showed some class and it took men in the best condition to make it.

PLAINFIELD SOCCER TEAM GETTING READY FOR SEASON

The Plainfield soccer football team and New Brunswick will meet for the first time this season tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock on the grounds, corner of Clinton avenue and South Second street. As the game is somewhat new in Plainfield it is desired that a good crowd turn out and witness the match, as it is the purpose of the home team to make the game more popular here.

In last year's game Plainfield defeated New Brunswick by a score of 1 to 0, and the home boys are anxious to repeat their victory.

The Plainfield team will consist of McNeice, Gould, Craig, Farmer, Henderson, Spalding, Jamison, McCombe, Nixon, Sutton and J. Craig.

DRINKING CUPS FOR ALL THEIR PASSENGERS.

The individual paper drinking cup, which Dr. Darlington, commissioner of health of New York, has been testing, has been adopted by the Lackawanna Railroad, to be put in use May 1. Passengers on the Lackawanna limited have commented on a small nickel-plated device adjacent to the water-cooler. Closely nested within the tube are a hundred or more dainty white drinking cups, which once drawn forth and used, can be replaced but must be discarded or carried away.

These cups, which are in the exact form of a drinking glass, are stiffened by a coating of parafine, and, being manufactured autuomatically, are uuntouched by hands until they reach those of the drinker.

Last week a call was issued to fifteen State boards of health to join in a movement to abolish the public train cup. Authorities say that there are few dangers within the reach of the traveling public today, so grave in a health sense, as the public drinking cup.

Teachers' Tenure Defeated.

After weathering much opposition in the House at Trenton, both in the Committee on Education and on the floor when it was brought up for passage, the teachers' tenure of office bill went down to defeat in the Senate last night by a vote of 6 to 5.

State Schools' Money Saved.

Governor Fort last night signed the three bills providing for the distribution of main stem railroad taxes to the public schools and amending the laws relating to the state's finances, relieving the state treasury from a probable deficit.

Miss Hazel Van Sickle, of East Sixth street, is spending a few days with friends in Newark.

HERRESHOFF
The Smart Light Car of Class.

There is no car at less than double the price that is in the same class with the $1,500 Herreshoff Car. No other car is planned on the same lines as this smart light car of class. It is built of the same material as the big cars, with as painstaking care, on the same proven principles of good practice, with the intent to build the best that can be built rather than a low-priced product.

In appearance, grace of line and refinement of finish, there is no car at any price superior to it. Its appearance will secure a trial for it anywhere and a demonstration will convince the most skeptical.

The quality of its material speaks in every line. The closer examination made of the car the better will be the impression gained of it. Its peculiarly high efficiency is due to its compactness, its lightness and its correct design

SUIT FOR A LIBEL WILL BE TRIED SOON

The libel suit instituted by General Dennis F. Collins, president of the Peter Breidt City Brewery Company, against the Elizabeth Journal for the publication of an alleged untrue report of a speech made by him during the campaign in which he was defeated for the office of Mayor, is likely to come to trial during the May term of court.

Notice has been served upon the Journal to that effect. The monetary damage claimed is $15,000.

Gen. Collins is represented by City Attorney Connelly in association with Lindabury, Depue & Faulks. The Journal is represented by John K. English in association with ex-Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter.

The article to which General Collins took exception was the report of the political meeting held at the Lyceum theatre at which Vice-Presidential Candidate Kern spoke on the afternoon of October 14 last. It was in the Journal charged that Collins, in a speech which he made on that occasion, spoke of the Journal as a "prayer-meeting paper," its publisher as a "prayer-meeting editor," and the inference was that he made light of religious matters.

Collins demanded a retraction. His statement of the language he claimed he used was printed, but the Journal had vilified him.

Since Election Day nothing has been said publicly about the matter, and most people supposed the suit had been dropped, but the principles have been quietly preparing for trial, and now the whole history of the campaign and Collins' connection with it is likely to be threshed out in open court.

TRAILING NATURALISTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Helpful Hints for Correspondents.

Nairobi, East Africa.—Anticipating the arrival of Ex-President Roosevelt and his party, a new code for hunting and trailing is promulgated as follows:

The traveler, the explorer, or correspondent will do well to bear in mind certain well known characteristics of the Faunal Naturalists, of which, on the whole cintinent of Africa, there rs only one group.

If, in breaking one's way through the thorn-bush, one finds an empty Bull Durham pouch, it is a sure sign that a certain eminent Faunal Naturalist has been that way. Moreover, it is a sign that he has entertained the native chiefs and wise men, for the Colonel himself does not smoke.

In making one's way across the lonely veldt, if one finds, besides a recent camp fire, the cuntenance of a dog, on a tobacco pouch, (empty), this is too to be considered a sign that the Colonel has passed that way—but it indicates that, instead of Bull Durham, he has decided to offer his guests "Dog's Head."

The finding of an empty can, marked "Tortoise Shell Mixture," is to be regarded as an infallible sign that Secretary Kermit Roosevelt has passed that way. The presence of the secretary, as is well known, indicates the close proximity of Colonel Roosevelt himself.

It is not absolutely necessary, however, to depend on mere keenness of eyesight. A hunter with a delicate, well trained sense of smell—so well trained that he can recognize the delicate fragrance of Cameron pocket slice will know at once what that sign indicates. The instant that fairy fragrance is wafted to his senses, the well informed trailer will know that, somewhere up the wind is Secretary Kermit—and somewhere near Secretary Kermit, is hunter Roosevelt.

Secretary Kermit, in fact, is about the best equipped smoker in East Africa.

Hunter Roosevelt does not smoke at all. But Son Kermit has been a smoker for the last five years, and the Colonel's watchful eye sees no harmful effects from it.

BISHOP NEELY EXPLAINS WHOLESALE TRANSFERS.

Bishop Thomas B. Neely, who presided at the recent Newark Methodist Conference, told a reporter Wednesday night his reason for transferring 101 of the 150 ministers within the conference, and explained in detail why the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead, pastor of the Centenary church, Newark, was assigned to the pulpit of the First church, at Hoboken.

"The bishop desires to do the best possible thing for Centenary church," said Dr. Deely incidently, "and so took away from another church a splendid man, Dr. Abel C. McCrea, of Plainfield. In system preachers have to be taken from other churches to go to other churches, and when a man is taken from one church a man is taken from another to fill that place, and so to compensate he took the Rev. Dr. McCrea, a splendid-looking man, a finely educated man, and a man with excellent social qualities, and he will make a splendid success in Centenary and outside of Centenary. When the people understand the truth and rally around him the church will have great prosperity."

A WORD ABOUT SILENCE.

Silence is a language understood in every country.

Were silence to be enforced on all of us for a single day, the fools would go mad. The wise would talk less thereafter.

Silence, in the shallow man, means that he is out of breath.

A man is known by the silence he keeps.

A silent man may not be thinking; but the burden of proof is not on him.

To be silent in company is to invite the suspicion that "you have something on your mind." The reason is obvious.—Freeman Tilden, in Life.

A Certainty.

Card Sharp—I tell you I don't believe that there's an ace in this deal.

Countryman—I know darned well there ain't. You've got two of 'em in your sleeve, and I've got the other two in my pocket!

TOO LATE, THEN.

Mother—Don't eat too much when mummy's out, will you, dear?

The Dear—But it doesn't feel like too much until afterwards.

Those Conferences.

When a statesman meets his fellows
They confer.
Do you think they loudly bellow?
Hardly, sir.
They converse in whispers mellow
As it were.
To confer in secret sitting
Oft they go.
There is sly and stealthy flitting
To and fro.
What about? It isn't fitting
That we know.

—Puck.

The Smooth Book Agent.

"That man in the next room is a fool," said the stranger.

"What makes you think so?"

"Would you believe it, he actually refused to buy this set of books, which I am offering at a dollar down and two a month for 12 months," said the book agent, spreading out a folder and prospectus. "Where will you have your set delivered?" — Detroit Free Press.

An Ignorant Customer.

Customer—How does it happen that these things have suddenly gone up 50 per cent?

New Boy (amused at customer's ignorance)—Why, haven't you heard? The tariff duty on these things has gone up five per cent.—New York Weekly.

Crushing.

Cholly—He called you an insignificant little noodle, did he?

Fweddy—Ya-as, but I got even with him, bah Jove! I wote him a lettah, signed it "youahs wespectfully," and then scwatched out the "wespectfully," bah Jove!—Chicago Tribune.

Not for Ladies.

"Did you present that bill?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did he say?"

"I'll tell you, sir, if you'll request the stenographer to leave the room for a few minutes. If she doesn't mind?"—Cleveland Leader.

Even So.

First Hunter—That breech loader of yours is a good gun, but the sights are very bad.

Second Hunter—Yes, that's right. In other words, it is more honored in the breech than in the observance.—Chicago Daily News.

That's Why He Asked Him.

Reckless Nephew—Have a cigarette, uncle?

Rich Uncle—No; Why, don't you know cigarettes shorten life?

"Yes, I know it, uncle!"—Yonkers Statesman.

One Sure to Go.

Bacon—Do you always throw a banana skin off the sidewalk?

Egbert—I do if see it.

"And if you don't see it?

"Oh, then it's liable to throw me!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Domestic Peace.

Old Doctor—How do you get along with your husband, now, Mrs. Maguire?

Mrs. Maguire—Very nicely, thank you. He's dead.—New York Weekly.

What Was Needed.

Bedadd (of Bedadd & Bedamm)—Think we ought to put more ginger into our act?

Vaudeville Manager—No; formaldehyde.—Puck.

Her Friends.

Nan—Rather a pretty girl, don't you think?

Fan—She used to be beautiful—before she found it out.—Chicago Tribune.

The BOYNTON Square Fire-Pot Furnace

PATENTED

develops every atom of heat energy possible, by complete combustion, and leaves no clinkers and no waste.

The square pot burns less fuel and it thoroughly consumes all it takes—a double economy. All your earnings don't go into the fire when you run a BOYNTON.

For cleanliness and the trifling care necessary to run it the BOYNTON is easily the first choice of every man who takes the trouble to get acquainted with it. Look up the BOYNTON dealer in your town. The price is not prohibitive.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"She suah am a funny talkin' thing!" mumbled Mandy to herself as she clipped the withered leaves from a plant near the window.

"You are dead sure they know I ain't comin' on?" Polly asked, with a lingering suspicion in her voice.

"Dead sure." And Douglas smiled to himself as he lapsed into her vernacular.

There was a moment's pause. Polly realized for the first time that she must actually readjust herself to a new order of things. Her eyes again roved about the room. It was a cheerful place in which to be imprisoned. Even Polly could not deny that. The broad window at the back, with its white and pink chintz curtains on the inside and its frame of ivy on the outside, spoke of singing birds and sunshine all day long. Everything from the white ceiling to the sweet smelling matting that covered the floor was spotlessly clean. The cane bottomed rocker near the curved window seat with its pretty pillows told of days when a convalescent might look in comfort at the garden beneath. The counterpane, with its old fashioned rose pattern; the little white tidies on the back of each chair and Mandy crooning beside the window all helped to make a homelike picture.

She wondered what Jim and Toby would say if they could see her now, sitting like a queen in the midst of her soft coverlets, with no need to raise even a finger to wait upon herself.

"Ain't it the limit?" she sighed, and with that Jim and Toby seemed to drift farther away. She began to see their life apart from hers. She could picture Jim with his head in his hands. She could hear his sharp orders to the men. He was alway short with the others when anything went wrong with her.

"I'll bet 'Muvver Jim's' in the dumps," she murmured as a cloud stole across the flowerlike face; then the tired muscles relaxed, and she ceased to rebel.

"Muvver Jim?" Douglas repeated, feeling that he must recall her to a knowledge of his presence.

"That's what I call him," Polly explained, "but the fellows call him 'Big Jim.' You might not think Jim could be a good mother just to look at him,

"Lordy, no, chile. He ain't nebber seed none ob dem t'ings."

but he is, only sometimes you can't tell him things you could a real mother," she added, half sadly.

"And your real mother went away when you were very young?"

"No, she didn't go away."

"No?" There was a puzzled note in the pastor's voice.

"She went out," Polly corrected.

"Out!" he echoed blankly.

"Yes; finished—lights out."

"Oh, an accident." Douglas understood at last.

"I don't like to talk about it." Polly raised herself on her elbow and looked at him solemnly, as though about to impart a bit of forbidden family history. It was this look in the round eyes that had made Jim so often declare that the kid knew everything.

"Why, mother 'd 'a' been ashamed if she'd 'a' knowed how she wound up. She was the best rider of her time—everybody says so—but she cashed in by fallin' off a skate what didn't have no more ginger 'an a kitten. If you can beat that!" She gazed at him with her lips pressed tightly together, evidently expecting some startling expression of wonder.

"And your father?" Douglas asked rather lamely, being at a loss for any adequate comment upon a tragedy which the child before him was too desolate even to understand.

"Oh, dad's finish was all right. He got his'n in a lions' cage where he worked. There was nothin' slow about his end." She looked up for his approval.

"For de Lord's sake!" Mandy groaned as the wonder of the child's conversation grew upon her.

"An' now I'm down an' out," Polly concluded, with a sigh.

"But this is nothing serious," said the pastor, trying to cheer her.

"It's serious enough with a whole show a-dependin' on you. Maybe you don't know how it feels to have to knock off work."

"Oh, yes, I do," Douglas answered quickly. "I was ill a while ago myself. I had to be in bed day after day, thinking of dozens of things that I ought to be doing."

"Was you ever floored?" Polly asked with a touch of unbelief as she studied the fine, healthy physique at the side of her bed.

"'Deed, he was, chile," Mandy cried, feeling that her opportunity had now arrived, "an' I had the wors' time a-keepin' him in bed. He act jes' like you did."

"Did he?" Polly was delighted to find that the pastor had "nothin' on her," as she would have put it.

"You ought to have heard him," continued Mandy, made eloquent by Polly's show of interest. "'What will dose poor folks do?' he kept a-sayin'. 'Jes' yo' lay where yo' is,' I tole him. 'Dem poor folks will be better off dan dey would be a-comin' to yoah funeral.'"

"Poor folks?" Polly questioned. "Do you give money to folks? We are always itchin' to get it away from 'em."

Before Douglas could think of words with which to defend his disapproved methods Mandy had continued eagerly:

"An' den on Sunday, when he can't go to church an' preach"— She got no further. A sharp exclamation brought both Mandy and Douglas to attention.

"Preach!" Polly almost shouted. She looked at him with genuine alarm this time.

"That will do, Mandy," Douglas commanded, feeling an unwelcome drama gathering about his head.

"Great Barnum and Bailey!" Polly exclaimed, looking at him as though he were the very last thing in the world she had ever expected to see. "Are you a sky pilot?"

"That's what he am, chile." Mandy slipped the words in slyly, for she knew that they were against the pastor's wishes, but she was unable to restrain her mischievous impulse to sow the seeds of curiosity that would soon bear fruit in the inquisitive mind of the little invalid.

"Will you get on to me a-landin' into a mixup like this?" She continued to study the uncomfortable man at her side. "I never thought I'd be a-talkin' to one of you guys. What's your name?"

"Douglas." He spoke shortly.

"Ain't you got no handle to it?"

"If you mean my Christian name, it's John."

"Well, that sounds like a sky pilot all right. But you don't look like I s'posed they did."

"Why not?"

"I always s'posed sky pilots was old an' grouchy-like. You're a'most as good lookin' as our strong man."

"I done tole him he was too good lookin' to be an unmarried parson," Mandy chuckled, more and more amused at the pastor's discomfort.

"Looks don't play a very important part in my work," Douglas answered curtly. Mandy's confidential snickers made him doubly anxious to get to a less personal topic.

"Well, they count for a whole lot with us." She nodded her head decidedly. "How long you been showin' in this town, anyhow?"

"About a year," Douglas answered, with something of a sigh.

"A year!" she gasped. "In a burg like this! You must have an awful lot of laughs in your act to keep 'em a-comin' that long." She was wise in the ways of professional success.

"Not many, I'm afraid." He wondered for the first time if this might be the reason for his rather indifferent success.

"Do you give them the same stuff, or have you got a rep?"

"A rep?" he repeated in surprise.

"Sure, repertory, different acts—entries, some calls 'em. Uncle Toby's got twenty-seven entries. It makes a heap of difference in the big towns where you have a run."

"Oh, I understand!" Douglas answered in a tone of relief. "Well, I try to say something new each Sunday."

"What kind of spiels do you give 'em?" she inquired, with growing interest.

"I try to help my people to get on better terms with themselves and to forget their week day troubles." He had never had occasion to define his efforts so minutely.

"Well, that's jes' the same as us," Polly told him, with an air of condescension, "only circuses draws more people 'an churches."

"Yours does seem to be a more popular form of entertainment," Douglas answered dryly. He was beginning to feel that there were many tricks in the entertainment trade which he had not mastered. And, after all, what was his preaching but an effort at entertainment? If he failed to hold his congregation by what he was saying, his listeners grew drowsy and his sermon fell short of its desired effect. It was true that his position and hers had points of similarity. She was apparently successful. As for himself he could not be sure. He knew he tried very hard and that sometimes a tired mother or a sad faced child looked up at him with a smile that made the service seem worth while.

Polly mistook the pastor's reverie for envy, and her tender heart was quick to find consolation for him.

"You ain't got all the worst of it," she said. "If we tried to play a dump like this for six months, we'd starve to death. You certainly must give 'em a great show," she added, surveying him with growing interest.

"It doesn't make much difference about the show"— Douglas began, but he was quickly interrupted.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

May 26, 1870.

Attention is directed to the advertisement in another column of E. C. Morse, painter. He has a practical knowledge of the business and will guarantee satisfaction. Give him a trial.

We learn that Mr. Benjamin Robins, well known to many of our young friends, residing at Metuchen, received injuries by falling through a hatchway in New York one day last week, from which he has since died. Mr. Robins was a nephew of Senator Robins.

Our citizens should not fail to attend the lecture at Laing's Hall on Wednesday evening, May 25, given by Geo. S. Hall, Esq. He is described to us as an able lecturer. See advertisement.

Read the new advertisement of Wm. A. Woodruff & Co. They have still a small stock of Dry Goods left over from their immense stock, which they are selling off at low figures. They claim to have the best stock of Groceries in the City.

Street Commissioner Randolph has gone energetically to work on the streets of our city. Cherry street is receiving its share of improvement. We think, however, before that street is made perfect, it will be necessary to pave it.—It would seem to us that it would be much cheaper to pave the street at once, instead of spending money to throw gravel on it. The macadamized portion of it never amounted to much.

The Messrs. Cook Bros. have made decided improvements in their property on Cherry street, by setting their fences back in front of the same, some ten feet. The spirit of improvement seem to be animating this energetic firm. They have recently erected a large and commodious row of sheds in the rear of their lumber and coal yard to meet the demands of their rapidly increasing trade.

LATEST PLAN TO OUST COUNTY TAX BOARDS.

Governor Fort's latest plan to abolish the present county boards of taxation, as embodied in Senate bill 363, introduced by Mr. Gaunt, shows that the Executive still regards these boards as worthless. The Gaunt bill, offered this week at the Governor's suggestion, would do away with the present membership of the county boards of taxation and would substitute for them new boards in each county to be composed of the director of the Board of Freeholders and the collector, as well as one other person, to be appointed by the Executive. At present the boards are comprised of three members appointed by the State head.

The Governor has repeatedly declared the present boards are a needless expense to the State and has urged they be abolished. He had a bill introduced in the House for this purpose, but it was easily and quickly defeated. Now comes the Executive's new scheme, however, and by its provisions he would increase the pay of the director of the Board of Freeholders and the county collector in first-class counties $500 each as additional compensation for their new labors under the bill. The third member in these counties will be paid $2,500 a year if the Governor's measure prevails. In second-class counties the increase would be $300 for the director and collector and $1,700 salary for the appointee, while in all other counties the advances for the collector and director would be $200 and the appointee's salary $1,000.

If the bill was enacted into law it would save the State over $60,000 a year, and add but little to the burdens of the counties.

The clerks to the county boards would also be abolished by the bill, and the measure, it was explained, would solve the criticism as to the expense the boards are to the State and would also aid the State in securing a much-needed revenue.

POLICE CAPTURE ALLEGED THIEVES AT ELIZABETH.

Albert Burns and Peter Brady, alleged members of the "Y-O" gang, were arrested early Wednesday in an old house on First near Elizabeth avenue, Elizabeth, by Detective O'Brien and Detective-Sergeants Mulcahey and Watson and Sergeant Kirk. The suspects have no certain home and were only located by hard work.

In the house when the young men were arrested a lot of valuable railroad property was found. Among the articles recovered was a railroad jack, shovels, pick handles and a large blanket. All had the initials S. I. R. R. stamped on them, indicating that they are the property of the Staten Island Railroad.

A lot of other valuable loot was discovered and taken to the Second Precinct police station.

Let Watson Equip You for Easter

It won't be difficult to pick out the Watson-made clothing wearers on Easter or any other day this year.

Watson-made suits and overcoats have an unmistakable "hang" and "set" that is only equaled by the best of made-to-measure clothing—far superior to the common custom tailor's product.

Watson-made suits and overcoats are made by the most skilful and best-paid tailors in Newark. They KNOW HOW. And they have instructions to spare no time or labor needed to insure absolute perfection in every detail.

Watson-made suits and overcoats, therefore, would necessarily cost you more than common clothing if it were not for the fact that we, the makers, sell direct to you, the wearer. We enable you to keep the usual retailer's profit in your pocket.

And so the finest, most PERMANENTLY elegant clothing may be yours for Easter and all the-year wear at an absolute SAVING in cost.

Suits and Overcoats, $10, $12, $15, $18, $20, $22, $25.

FURNISHINGS.

Of course, fresh neckwear is needed. We've a lot of brand new styles; beautiful, harmonious shades, at 50c. Shirts, too, at $1, that would be good values at $1.50. Collars, gloves—everything in good furnishings.

HATS.

At $2 we sell a Derby that you'd have hard work to duplicate anywhere else for fifty cents more. Good stuff in it. And at $3 we sell Derbies and Soft Hats in all the correct shades and shapes, that are positively bargains. A good big line, too, and all bear the Union Label.

ELABORATE MUSICAL PROGRAMS IN ALL LOCAL CHRISTIAN EDIFICES

TOMORROW COMMEMORATE DAY WHEN CHRIST ROSE FROM THE DEAD

The Feast of the Resurrection will be celebrated in the churches of all Christian denominations tomorrow. Following are the programs:

Grace M. E.

Elaborate preparations have been made for the Easter Day services at Grace M. E. church tomorrow. Rev. Ora J. Shoop will preach two Easter sermons. In the morning his subject will be "The Empty Tomb," and in the evening, "Fruits of the Resurrection." The choir will consist of Miss Josephine Bartin, soprano; Edson Martin, basso; George Spear, violin, and Miss Grace Carroll, organist.

The following musical program will be rendered in the morning:

Anthem, "King of Kings," Caleb Lemper; bass solo and chorus, "Ring Out Glad Bells," Bartlett; soprano solo, "Hosanna," Granier; anthem, "They Have Taken Away My Lord," Stainer.

In the evening: Anthem, "Christ Our Passover," Holden; anthem, "The Choir Angelic," Hansconi; soprano solo and chorus, with violin obligato, "O Day of Christ," Bartlett.

In the afternoon the Sunday-school will have special exercises. The children will sing carols and give recitations suitable for Eastertide. Among those taking part on the program will be Richard Mellick, Marion Ellis, Gladys Brokaw, Helen Nelson, Edna Mantz, Grace Boland, Elva Jennings, Grace Conover and Annie Starbuck.

Park Avenue Baptist.

Elaborate Easter services will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow. At the morning service this musical program will be rendered by the choir, under the direction of Robert E. Humpston, organist: Organ prelude, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," Handle; anthem, "Hallelujah! Christ Is Risen," Simper; response, "Hear My Prayer," Schilling; offertory, anthem, "Now Is Christ Risen," F. C. Maker; postlude, "March Pontificale," Gounod. The solosists will be B. F. Hadley, tenor; Miss Brokaw, soprano; Mrs. James, contralto; C. F. Dayton, baritone, and a chorus of twenty voices.

The special program in the evening under the auspices of the Sunday-school will be as follows:

Opening selection, choir; carol, school; Scripture reading and prayer, the pastor; carol, school; quartet, "In Joseph's Tomb," Mrs. Ada Cuming, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, Charles F. Dayton and W. S. Lowry; recitation, primary department; carol, school; offertory, cornet solo, "The Great White Throne," Whitney Frazee; carol, school; duet, "Easter's Bright Glow," Mrs. Ada Cuming and Miss Florence G. Hawkins; address, "The Feast of the Passover," Miss Ruth Angel; carol, school; emblematical exercise given by Mrs. W. S. Lowry, reader; Mrs. Ada Cuming, Miss Mary Giles, Miss Arline Brown, Miss Viola Hellyer, Miss Louise Harral, Mrs. B. F. Hadley, Mrs. S. A. George, Mrs. William Hadley, Miss Cora Brokaw, Miss Dorothy Smith, Miss Florence G. Hawkins; carol, school; baptism, benediction.

At the close of the service these persons will be baptized: Madeline Moy, Edith Lowry, Fred Smith, William Watts and Philip Schuyler.

A feature of the program is to be a demonstration of the Feast of the Passover by Miss Ruth Angel, a Jewish Christian of New York and Brooklyn. Those who have heard Miss Angel speak say that she has a pleasing manner and holds the closest attention throughout. She has addressed Plainfield audiences before.

West End Tabernacle.

This Easter program will be rendered at the West End Tabernacle tomorrow night by the Sunday-school:

Song, "The Day of Resurrection," school; recitation, "Welcome," Helen Taylor; dialogue, "What We Have for Jesus," Agnes Christensen, Bessie Melick, Florence Myers; recitation, "I Wonder Why," Erma Pennoyer; exercise, "Easter Messengers," Mary Roth, Levina Rose, Fred'k Roth, Doris Christensen; duet, "I'll Tell It Again," Florence Taylor, Grace Taylor; recitation, "Alive Again," Carrie Pennoyer; recitation, "The Morn Has Come," Elizabeth Peterson; chorus, "Joy Bells," Ellen Hafti, Dorothy Bowden, Lillian Willis, Helen Taylor; recitations, "God Never Sleeps," Grace Taylor; "The Happy Morning," Dorothy Medick; duet and chorus, Sound the Tidings," Mary Roth, Levina Rose, Elizabeth Peterson, Florence Taylor, Grace Taylor, Carrie Pennoyer, Dorothy Medick; recitations, "Legend of Easter Lilies," Willie Peterson; "The Easter Message," Florence Taylor; recitation, "That's What I Mean to Do," Theodore Martin; song, "Wake Up," Junior C. E. Society; recitation, "New Life," Lillian Willis; exercise, "Overcometh," Carrie Pennoyer, Theodore Martin, Harold Rockafellow, Dorothy Medick, Florence Taylor, Grace Taylor, Willie Peterson; chorus, "Christ of Barabbas," quartet; address, carol, "Jesus Reigns Our King," school; benediction.

Hope Chapel.

This Easter program will be given at Hope chapel tomorrow morning: Organ prelude, "Offertoire in Ab Major," Batiste; anthem, "The Night Was Dark," Grinnell; offertory anthem, "The Risen Christ," Hughes; children's talk and sermon by the pastor, Rev. L. R. Howard, subject, "The Disciple and Eternity," postlude.

In the afternoon the Sunday-school will have a special program. There will be Easter songs and anthems by the school and choir, recitation of Scripture passages appropriate to the day and addresses by W. D. Murray and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie. The beginners' class in charge of Mrs. Williams will sing two songs and recite the Twenty-third Psalm. The primary class under Mrs. Ulrich will sing songs and recite alphabet texts. Other departments of the school will recite the first Psalm, the Twenty-fourth Psalm, part of Mark 16, parts of Matthew 28 and a part of First Corinthians 15.

The evening program will be as follows: Prelude, "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own," from Mendelssohn's "St. Paul;" fifteen minute song service, anthem, "Christ Our Passover," Packard; sermon by the pastor, postlude, "Evening Song," Schumann. Mrs. L. R. Howard will be at the organ and the music will be rendered by a chorus choir.

Congregational.

There will be but one Easter service to take place in the Congregational church tomorrow. At the conclusion of the regular morning service the Sunday-school Easter exercises will follow.

In the morning Rev. G. L. Goodrich will use for his subject "The Message Jesus Left in the Tomb." The Easter program will consist of the following numbers:

"Aria," from the Suite in D, Bach; 'cello by Dr. Leonard Waldo; "The City Beautiful," Rodney, baritone solo by C. L. Lewis with 'cello obligato; "Salvation," Williams; soprano solo by Mrs. T. McDonald; anthem, "They Have Taken Away My Lord," Stainer; anthem, "Mary Magdalene," Warren; anthem, "Awake, Thou That Sleepeth," Maker.

Trinity Reformed.

Special Easter services will be held in Trinity Reformed church tomorrow. In the morning the musical program will be among the finest in the city. The anthems have been carefully selected and are the most elaborate of standard Easter music. Those to take part in the rendition of the morning music will be Miss S. Etta Raybert and Mrs. E. D. Young, sopranos; Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto; E. D. Young, tenor; F. S. Cutter, basso; Mrs. Violet Truell Johnston, violinist; Miss Lillian A. Force, pianist, and Arthur E. Titsworth, organist.

The program will consist of: Postlude, "Walter's Prize Song," by Wagner; "Te Deum," Millard; quartet, "Ye Choirs of Jerusalem," by Smart; soprano solo, "Hosanna," by Granier; quartet, "Ring Out Glad Bells of Eastertide," Bartlett; quartet, "Awake Thou that Sleepest," Jackson; postlude, "Le Deluge."

In the evening the services will be under the auspices of the Sunday-school, who will render "The Victor King," and will be assisted by Korff's orchestra. Among the children taking part in the program will be Helen Thompson, Louise Seader, Adelle Freeman, Marion and Ruth Freeman, Harriet Higgins, Theo Vail, Marion Blair and Margaret Smith. The church yill be suitably decorated with palms, cut flowers and evergreens.

First Baptist.

Easter will be appropriately observed at the First Baptist church. In the morning there will be anthems by the chorus choir, with selections by the solo members, including Miss Luella C. Harris, soprano; Miss Gertrude Hinz, contralto; William Holmes, bass, and George Smith, tenor. Howard M. Case will be at the organ and have charge of the music. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor, will preach a sermon on "The Resurrection of the Body." The church has been lavishly decorated with flowers as in past years.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Sunday-school will have a program of unusual interest. Violin and piano music will assist in the musical program and there will be carols by the school, together with recitations and the annual report of the school. Superintendent George H. Batchelor will be in charge. The program follows:

Prelude, "Chansan," Popp, violin, piano and organ; carol, "Hosanna! Sing!" invocation, pastor; responsive Scripture reading, led by Assistant Superintendent F. W. Jones; anthem, choir; recitation, "Help Somebody," Eulah Abel; primary song, primary department; responsive Scripture reading, led by Assistant Superintendent James E. Church; recitation, "May's Easter Lily," Gertrude McClintock; carol, "Near the Tomb Where Jesus Slept," Junior department; recitation, Lucy Douglas; annual report, Raymond D. Carver, secretary; carol, "O Resurrection Morn," school; recitation, "Easter Story," Anna Sherwin; also and chorus, Junior department; offertory, for The Day Nursery," Conzonetto," d'Ambrosio, violin and piano; "Strains of Victory," Junior department; announcements, carol, "Praise the Saviour," school; benediction, postlude. There will be baptism following this service. There will be no evening service.

First Presbyterian.

At the special musical services at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow, the following numbers will be rendered by the quartet choir, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist:

Morning—"Lo, The Tomb Is Empty," Chaffin; "As It Began to Dawn," Broome; "Come See the Place," Reed; "The Resurrection," Shelley. Evening—"Ring Out Glad Bells," Bartlett; "Choir Angelic," Brewer; Manney's oratorio, "The Resurrection."

At the evening service the regular quartet will be assisted by Mrs. Thomas A. MacDonald, soprano; Mrs. Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr., contralto; George H. Smith, tenor; Thomas A. MacDonald, bass. Anton Gloeckner, violinist, will assist at both services. In addition the Sunday-school will have Easter services in the afternoon.

First M. E. Church.

Aside from the fact that a fine Easter program will be presented at the First M. E. church, tomorrow morning and evening by the choir under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, organist, there will be special interest because of the first appearance of the new pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, who this week was appointed to the church to succeed Dr. A. C. McCrea. Dr. Anderson will preach morning and evening: The Sunday-school will have its Easter exercises in Vincent chapel in the afternoon.

The musical program for the morning follows: Organ voluntary, processional, "Sing With All the Sons of Glory," Shackley; hymn, 163; Apostles Creed, prayer and Lord's Prayer chanted; anthem, "Lift Your Glad Voices," Van Lear; Psalter for Easter Day, Gloria Patri, anthem, "Speak Ye Comfortably," Shackley; morning lesson, offertory solo, "The Voice Triumphant," Stultz, Miss Jessie Haynes; sermon, prayer, recessional hymns, 169, and benediction.

This will be the evening service: Organ voluntary, processional, "Sing With All the Sons of Glory," Shackley; hymn, 164; anthem, "Awake Thou That Sleepest," Holden; anthem, "The Resurrection and the Life," Shackley; Psalter for fourteenth Sunday; solo, "The Lord Is Risen," Sullivan; Bertram Tallamy, anthem, "Jesus Is Risen," Schnecker;; offertory solo, "Easter Dawn," Woodman, Miss Bertha vanNuis Willis; anthem, "Christ Has Won the Victory," Hawley; recessional hymn, 175; benediction and organ postlude.

First Church of Christ.

Under the direction of Mrs. Nellie E. Squires, and Mrs. E. V. D. Conover, organist, the following Easter program will be rendered at the First Church of Christ, tomorrow night: Anthem, "Praise to Jehovah," Tullar; "Risen Today," Lyons; reading, "Easter," Ethel Gerhold; anthem, "Christ Arose," Lowry; cornet solo, "Trusting," White, Edward Townley; recitation, "What a Friend We Have In Jesus," Miss Trv Mattox; solo and chorus, "The Blessed Tidings," Ethel Gerhold and choir; soprano solo, "Beyond the Gates of Paradise," King, Miss Susie Ackerman; Scripture reading and prayer by the patsor; hymn, "Coronation;" song by children, "The Wake-up Time," Post; anthem, "The Resurrection," Leslie; recitation, "The Last Hymn," Miss Mattox; soprano solo, "The Lord Is My Light," Marsh, Mrs. Squires; graphaphone selections, Walter Stuart; Doxology and bene-

MARRIED FORTY-SIX YRS.

Mr. and Mrs. Kasper Bolsterle Celebrate the Anniversary of Their Wedding.

WERE SHOWERED WITH GIFTS.

He's a Prominent Mason and Is Hale and Hearty at the Age of Seventy-five Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Kasper Bolsterle, of Watchung avenue, celebrated the forty-sixth anniversary of their marriage, last night, when a reception was given to them by their daughter, Mrs. P. Frank Stone, on West Front street. There were about twenty relatives and a few intimate friends present to congratulate the couple and wish them many happy returns of the day. The evening was spent in playing games, listening to a program of music, after which supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Bosterle were married at Lebanon, Hunterdon county, forty-six years ago yesterday. Mrs. Bosterle was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bird, of this city, while Mr. Bosterle's native home was at Lebanon, where for many years he was engaged in business as a tailor. He served his apprenticeship there, later went into business for himself, which he continued at Somerville and then in Plainfield, where he still follows his trade.

Mr. Bosterle is prominently identified with Masonic circles, being a 32d degree Mason. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bosterle are members and regular attendants at Warren chapel. Mr. Bosterle is about seventy-five years of age, while his wife is ten years his junior.

The couple was the recipient of a large number of gifts, comprising cut-glass, chainaware, silverware and other articles of use and value.

HUBBY WORKED FOR WIFE; TELLS TROUBLES TO COURT

Married eleven years, separated two months after their wedding, reunited about six weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. William Grogan, Jr., do not find married life "one grand sweet song." The troubles were aired before City Judge Runyon at the session of police court today. Mrs. Grogan was the complainant. She said that on Wednesday night her husband threatened to abuse her after an argument during which he demanded $15, and fearing what he might do, so she had him arrested.

The fact that Mrs. Grogan, who is employed as a domestic, engaged her husband as painter on a house she is building on George street, was the cause of all the trouble. There was a misunderstanding between the two as to what Mr. Grogan was to get for the job, and when he asked for the $15, a wordy wrangle ensued in which, according to the wife's story, the man called her "everything but a lady."

The Judge's effort to sort out the truth developed the fact that Mrs. Grogan was of a decidedly "irritable" temperament for she kept interrupting her husband and contradicting his testimony. Finally the court ruled that the two had better patch up the difficulties between themselves, for there was nothing flagrant enough about Grogan's treatment of the woman to warrant the detention of her husband. The case was dismissed, but Grogan waited until his wife was well started on her way from police court before he ventured from the door.

OBSERVED GOOD FRIDAY

Union Services of Protestant Churches at Crescent Avenue Largely Attended.

TALKS BY SIX LOCAL MINISTERS

Some of Those On Program Unable to Be Present—Offering For Children's Home.

A large congregation from the Protestant churches where there was no special Good Friday service yesterday attended the special union Good Friday service at the Crescent Avenue church last night, when ten local ministers took part. A large part of the service comprised short addresses by various clergymen which were of the nature of meditations on The Seven Words From The Cross.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, who was to have spoken on the first words from the cross, was unable to be present, and this meditation was omitted. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, spoke on the second word, "Verily I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in Paradise;" and the other meditations and speakers were as follows: "Behold thy Son; behold thy mother," Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of the Temple Baptist church; "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Rev. O. J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church; "I thirst," Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church; "It is finished," Rev. C. S. Kemble, of Monroe Avenue M. E. church; "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit," Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church.

In the absence of Rev. E. V. Stevenson, of Grace P. E. church, the Scripture lesson was read by Rev. J. S. Zelie, minister of the Crescent Avenue church, and the closing prayer was Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue church, in place of Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, who was not present. The opening sentences were read by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, and after the general confession and the Lord's Prayer, the twenty-second Psalm were read responsively, Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, leading

REV. DR. ANDERSON, FIRST M. E.'S NEW PASTOR, TO PREACH FIRST SERMON ON EASTER MORNING

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson.

Rev. Dr. Abel C. McCrea, who was sent to Centenary M. E. church, Newark, by Bishop Neely, will preach in that church tomorrow morning and night and at the same time, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, who is now pastor of the First M. E. church, this city, will preach tomorrow morning, address the Sunday-school in the afternoon and will be in charge of the evening service, which will be largely musical.

The fact that Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead will preach in his new charge, the First M. E. church, Hoboken, tomorrow, practically ends the protest against the transfers of Drs. Mead and McCrea. The special committee appointed by Centenary church to prepare a statement following the appointments, has not completed its work, but this is not likely to change the appointment of Bishop Neely so far as Centenary church is concerned.

A conference between Bishop Neely and the four district superintendents was held in the rooms of the Methodist Book Concern, yesterday afternoon, and there was a discussion of the Centenary church matter, but no action was taken, neither is there likely to be any now. The officials of Centenary church said yesterday that a cordial welcome would be given to Dr. McCrea and that a reception would be tendered to him later in the month.

FIRE CAUSES BIG LOSS

Ten Thousand Dollars Damage Done by Blaze on Mrs. Widoson's Farm.

THE OWNER'S NARROW ESCAPE

Letter Carrier Burned While Attempting to Save Property—Farm House and Barns Gone.

The large farm-house and hay barns owned by Mrs. Sophia Widoson, and located at Alton, were completely destroyed by fire at 9 o'clock this morning and the contents of the house were also consumed, aggregating a total loss of about $10,000. The neighbors for a mile around responded to the call for help, but they were unable to stay the progress of the flames or save the contents of the dwelling.

Finally, a telephone message summoned the chemical engine from fire headquarters, this city, and although the long trip was made in eighteen minutes, the firemen were powerless to do anything when they arrived on the scene. Mrs. Widoson, who occupied the property, had a narrow escape and the nervous shock has resulted seriously.

Among those who worked the hardest to save the property was Leslie Lambert, the rural free delivery carrier. His clothes were considerably burned. A peculiar thing about the fire is that the horse barn, standing near the house, was saved, together with the wagon-house, but the large hay barn some distance away was destroyed, as was also three large barracks of hay.

The farm, which was formerly owned by John L. Darby, was purchased by Mrs. Widoson a few years ago, and not long afterward her husband committed suicide there, following a protracted illness. The farm is one of the most valuable in this section of the State, and Mrs. Widoson recently spent a large sum of money in repairs.

DAUGHTER'S PROPERTY FOR FATHER'S DEBT

An attempt to have a property owned by a daughter held for a father's debt is being made in the case of Aaron T. Hegeman against Charles G. Brown and Roberta Brown just brought to issue in the Court of Chancery by an answer filed by Counsellor George Ball on behalf of Roberta Brown, the defendant, in which the right to hold the daughter's property is denied. The complainant is represented by Paul Q. Oliver, of Westfield, and the property involved is some real estate located on Mountain avenue in Westfield.

In August last Aaron T. Hegeman, the complainant, recovered a judgment against Charles G. Brown, the father of Roberta Brown, for $177.77 before Justice of the Peace Toucey, of Westfield. This judgment was later docketed in the Union County Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth, and an execution issued thereon and returned unsatisfied. The property from which the complainant seeks to realize on his judgment against the father was purchased by the daughter in March, 1908, but the complainant claims that the daughter holds the property in trust for her father. This the answer denies. The case will shortly be tried.

ARCHER GIBSON RESIGNS POSITION AS ORGANIST.

Archer Gibson, for eight years organist of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, of which Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards is the pastor, has resigned his position to take effect immediately and he will not have charge of the Easter music tomorrow and absolutely refuses to take part in the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of the church, to be held Monday, for which special music was prepared.

This action by Mr. Gibson, he asserts, is taken because of unwarranted inquisitiveness as to his private affairs by members of the Session and officers in the church. Mr. Gibson recently gave an organ recital at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and is famous throughout the country as an organist.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOMERVILLE.

The Home Missionary and Aid Society held their annual meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the Second Reformed chapel. The officers elected were: President, Mrs. James L. Griggs; vice-president, Miss Mary Klotz; secretary, Mrs. John D. Gaston; treasurer, Mrs. William H. Dunham.

Katherine Martin, Josephine O. Donnell, Lillian Allen, Clifford Hoering, John Beekman and Stephana Zavetta have attended kindergarten every day for a month.

Mrs. A. C. Wamsley, of Phillipsburg, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George Weaver, in Somerville.

Mrs. Paul Beldon has returned from Whitehouse, where she has been visiting her uncle.

Abram Van Arsdale, of Newark, has been visiting his brother, Orlando Van Arsdale.

Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan left Thursday for Florida, where he will spend two weeks.

Dr. William H. Long has moved from Mountain avenue to South street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Moke have moved from Clinton to Somerville.

The water company is about to lay new mains through Somerville.

WESTFIELD.

John Goltra has been nominated for election as first assistant chief and Charles W. Sorter as second assistant chief of the Westfield Fire Department. The three companies of the department elect two assistants. The chief of the department is appointed by the Council and is not changed each year.

Broad street business men complain of children on roller skates in the busy part of the town, contending that they keep other people off the sidewalk. They suggest as a remedy that a large space in one of the parks be set aside for a skating place for them.

Linemen of the electric light and telephone companies were busy here Thursday repairing the damage done by the high wind of Wednesday night.

Twenty-five building permits have been issued by the Westfield building inspector since January 1.

RARITAN.

The Bridgewater Board of Education has reorganized by electing John F. Reger president and George W. Hope secretary. Plans for a brick addition on the east side of the schoolhouse, similiar to the one on the west, were discussed. The building is not to cost over $9,000, which has been authorized by the voters.

During this week Father Zimmer, of St. Bernard's church, is being assisted at his masses by a Passionist father from Hoboken. At the morning mass Thursday there was a procession of school children and of the members of the different societies of the church.

The special Easter services next Sunday in the Methodist church, given by the Sunday-school, will be under the direction of Miss Elsie Brightbill.

Miss Mary E. Smith has been spending this week with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Weaver, at Plainfield.

Miss Helen Brightbill has returned from Allentown, where she spent five weeks with her sister.

Mrs. George Wachter has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Walter Bryan, at New Germantown.

PLAINFIELD AND FANWOOD.

Tomorrow being Easter Sunday special services will be held in all the churches. At the Baptist church, an Easter cantata, "The Glad Tidings of Resurrection Glory," will be rendered at the vesper service held at 4:30 in the afternoon. Special music will also be rendered at the morning service at 10:45.

Funeral services of Ceasaro Catelli, who dropped dead Wednesday morning while working at the Plainfield Cement Block Co. yard on Berckman street, were held from the house on Stanley avenue yesterday morning at 10:30. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Rev. E. C. Grisriel, the newly appointed pastor of the Methodist church, begins his pastorate tomorrow, preaching at both morning and evening services. The new pastor will no doubt be greeted by large audiences and receive a hearty welcome from his new people.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews gave an illustrated talk upon "The Man of Galilee" at the weekly prayer-meeting held in the Baptist church last night.

The school enjoyed Good Friday as a holiday. The holiday came as a surprise, the order not being issued until Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sheelen, of the borough, are the happy parents of a daughter, born Tuesday.

Miss Ruth Hatfield, of Grand street, has been entertaining the Misses Pope, of Plainfield.

James Fitzgerald has taken a position with Louis Moral, the plumber.

Men who are on their feet a great deal will get worlds of comfort out of DR. A. REED CUSHION SHOES. The more you are on your feet the more need you have for shoes that allow the blood free circulation—and at the same time give your feet good Shoe-Appearance.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

For assaulting a negro girl at Salem, Richard Casper, a negro, has been sent to the State reformatory by Judge Simnickson.

As a precaution against accidents, the powder employes at Gibbstown are prohibited riding their wheels along the railroad tracks.

The West Jersey and Seashore Railroad has installed a manual telephone block system between Newfield and Cape May. It is said to be a success.

The "Red Elephant," an immense building near the Woodstown Station, and which has been used by various enterprises, has again changed owners.

Three smallpox victims were discharged cured yesterday from the Camden Municipal Hospital. The only patients now in the institution are those from Haddenfield.

A mad dog created excitement in Paulsboro and Gibbstown yesterday. The dog is known to have bitten several canines, and William Burt's eleven-year-old son shot the beast.

Street Supervisor Edgar Welden, of Woodbury, is suffering with a severe cut in the head received yesterday, when the new fire horse he was driving ran away, throwing him out of the wagon.

Since the home, furniture and clothing belonging to William Munyan and his family, at Pennsgrove, were destroyed by fire Tuesday night, friends have been collecting the necessaries for resuming a home.

Dr. Charles S. Chapin, principal of the State Normal School at Montclair, will deliver the principal address before the South Jersey School Masters' Association, which will meet in Vineland on Saturday, May 1.

Thoroughly repentant, Bela Walters, who tried suicide in a Camden hotel by turning on the gas, obtained his liberty yesterday. An officer escorted him to the ferry and saw him aboard a boat for Philadelphia.

Conrad Winterberg, of 167 Kearny street, Paterson, was thrown from the back of a horse at the junction of Market street and the River road yesterday afternoon. He was on his way to Hackensack to deliver the animal to its new owner. Winterberg was treated at the General Hospital for a laceration of the left knee.

Filled with ideas that will benefit them in the enforced building of sewage disposal beds, Mayor Mills and other Camden officials returned home Wednesday night for a ten-day trip to Southern and Western cities. They inspected and secured data of many up-to-date plants and will file a report of their finding at the April meeting of the Council.

Howard M. Cooper was yesterday elected president of the Camden Bar Association. The other officers are: Vice presidents, Howard Carrow and C. V. D. Joline; treasurer, William Early; secretary, S. Conrad Ott; board of managers, Thomas E. French, Ralph W. E. Donges, William J. Kraft, John Meirs, William T. Read, Lewis Starr and William T. Boyle.

Arrested at the Camden car barn of the Public Service Corporation, by which concern he had been employed as a conductor, on a charge of being a deserter from the United States Marines, Stanley Ford asked that he be taken to his home, 126 Arch street, to acquaint his bride of his predicament. When the young wife learned of his plight she fainted. Ford was taken to League Island.

CARNEGIE $200,000 GIFT TRIBUTE TO ELIHU ROOT.

President M. W. Stryker, of Hamilton College, made an announcement in the chapel at Utica, N. Y., yesterday that Andrew Carnegie had just notified him that he had given $200,000 to the college, which fund will be known as the Elihu Root peace fund in recognition of the services of Senator Root for international peace.

Senator Root is a graduate of Hamilton a member of the board of trustees, and his permanent home is within the shadow of the college buildings.

The donation from Mr. Carnegie makes sure another gift of $50,000, which was offered to the college if it could raise a certain sum by July 1.

These benefactions will place Hamilton College on such a foundation as its supporters have long wished for, and it means among other things better salaries for the faculty.

NO TRADING STAMPS, BUT MORE FOR YOUR MONEY.

Plainfield in . . . . The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

June 2, 1870.

Lovers of good music will not fail to attend the Grand Concert to be given at Assembly Hall on Thursday, June 2nd, by the Plainfield Choral Union.—Without doubt it will be a grand affair, as all their concerts heretofore have proved to be. See adv.

We stepped into the neat little "Central" Saloon at Westfield, one day last week, and were regaled with an excellent glass of pure Ottawa Beer by the gentlemanly proprietor, Mr. D. W. Gamon. All visiting Westfield should not fail to call at the "Central."

If our Street Commissioner or some one don't clean out the gutter on Cherry Street, nearly in front of our office, there will be a "right smart chance" of catching a few "bloody-nouns" or bullfrogs there pretty soon. It is getting to be a nuisance.

We learn that on Friday night last, the "Young Ladies' College," on Seventh Street was entered by burglars and robbed of silverware to a considerable amount. A servant girl was aroused from her sleep by noise made in opening her trunk, and upon asking "who is there," a pistol was presented at her by a burglar, and she was told if she made any noise he would shoot her. The girl screamed, however, which awakened the inmates of the house, the burglar making himself scarce with his booty.

We have several times been tempted to ask "What has become of our Band," but are well satisfied since Decoration Day, where they stand. Our citizens should justly be proud of our Plainfield Band, we think, since they acquitted themselves so well on that day. Considering the disadvantages they have labored under since their organization we must certainly say that no one can doubt their proficiency as a Band. They did well.

A match game of Base Ball was played May 30th, at Scotch Plains, between the 1st nine of Excelsior B. B. C. of Scotch Plains and 2nd nine of Central B. B. C. of Plainfield.

The new Council chamber in Vermeule's building presents a handsome appearance with its new Furniture.

SMALL-POX
HOUSEHOLDERS CAUTIONED.
How to Avoid Contagion.

Small-pox is prevalent. Vaccination and the use of a reliable disinfectant are recognized preventatives. The last thing at night pour into the traps of the closets, wash basins, sinks, etc., just a little Platt's Chlorides. Places where disease germs may develop, nooks behind plumbing and all spots that can't be reached by the scrubbing brush should be freely sprinkled with a mixture of one (1) part of Platt's Chlorides and ten (10) parts of water. This dilution costs less than 5 cents a quart. Do not neglect a liberal sprinkling of the cellar. To remove objectionable odors where sprinkling is inadvisable, keep a cloth or sponge moistened with the dilution mentioned. A little extra care just now may prevent much sickness and expense. Platt's Chrolides is an odorless, colorless liquid disinfectant which instantly destroys foul odors and disease breeding matter. It is sold by druggists everywhere in full quart bottles, and is prepared only by Henry B. Platt.

THE Racycle

The World's Best Bicycle

has less pressure on its crank hanger bearings than any ordinary bicycle built; therefore, that it pushes easier and runs faster with less energy and will climb hills easier. The explanation is found in the special Crank Hanger construction and large Sprockets of the Racycle. New Models are built with drop forged steel heads, crown and seat post clusters and the frames are made of English cold drawn weldless steel tubing made especially for us. Racycles are made as near non-breakable as money, materials and workmanship will permit.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The Cranford Golf Club's course is being trapped and bunkered, with a view to making this rather long nine-hole circuit a better test. Additional hazards have appeared going to the first, third, fourth and ninth holes. The playing length is a trifle less than 3,200 yards, and a rather exacting par of thirty-six has been computed by the club's officials.

Six additional acres of land have been purchased by the Upper Montclair Country Club, and it is not unlikely that this organization will some day own all of its course. The membership has grown rapidly of late, and many more additions are expected, as the initiation fee has been waived until May 1.

There are now an even sixty clubs holding membership in the Metropolitan Golf Association. The latest acquisition to the ranks was the Canoe Brook Country Club, recently elected.

The Essex County Country Club has secured control of a piece of property that will make it possible to restore the sixth hole over the ravine to its original length. Work is now in progress on the new green. The committee is planning to add a number of traps shortly. Dave Hunter, the club's professional, has gone South for a couple of weeks of golf.

The plans for the establishment of the new golf course at Haworth are maturing rapidly, and the organization committee of the Scottish Golf Club of America has deemed it wise to hold a dinner in the near future for the purpose of bringing together all those interested in the movement, and discussing the plans for the coming season. The dinner committee met Wednesday night and agreed on Saturday evening, February 6, as the date for holding the dinner. The affair will be entirely informal and golfers can go direct to the dinner from their places of business.

There was a large attendance of members of the Baltusrol Golf Club at a meeting held in the roof garden at Delmonico's this week and the action of the governors in determining to immediately erect a $50,000 clubhouse on the club's own property, immediately adjoining the eighteenth green, was ratified. This will take the place of the one recently destroyed by fire.

The club has some $42,000 in hand for this, and for the purpose of raising the additional amount necessary for construction and for equipment and furniture a resolution was unanimously passed empowering the governors, at their discretion, to raise the amount either by voluntary subscription or by bonds.

Rumor has it that Tom Vardon, brother of the famous Harry, is soon to be added to the list of American professionals. According to the story, Vardon will accept a four months' engagement with the Onwentsia Club, near Chicago, and fill the place vacated by Willie Anderson, who has signed with the St. Louis Golf Club. For several years Vardon has been the professional of the Royal St. George's Club at Sandwich. His nearest approach to the open championship title of Great Britain was in 1903, when he was runner-up to his brother at Prestwick. Tom finished fourth the following year, and in 1907 he tied for third money.

With a view to avoiding a conflict in dates with the two metropolitan tournaments, the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association has decided on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 18 and 19, for its annual championship tournament at Scarsdale. This will immediately precede the invitation affair at the Nassau Country Club.

Miss Fanny Osgood, of the Country Club of Brookline, former champion of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, recently underwent an operation for appendicitis. Although recovering nicely Miss Osgood's physician has forbidden her to play golf for a year. Her absence from the Boston team will be felt in the tri-city matches at Baltusrol early in June.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 6:30, rises 5:23; moon rises 11:32 p. m.; 8 a. m., quadrature between planet Uranus and the sun, Uranus being 90 degrees west of that body; as it is only 6 days and 19 hours since the eastern quadrature of Neptune, these two most distant planets are nearly opposite, an extremely rare event.

MEETING OF FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The thirty-eighth annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Elizabeth will be held on Tuesday, April 13, in the Presbyterian church of Clinton. There will be a morning and an afternoon session. The morning session will open at 10 o'clock, with devotional services, led by Mrs. F. W. Veghte, of Roselle, followed by the annual reports of the officers of the society.

The afternoon session will begin at 1:45 o'clock, the special features of which will be addresses by Rev. J. T. Potter, of Persia, and Mrs. Lillian A. Wells, of Japan.

The young people's conference will be held at 3:30 p. m., and will be conducted by Miss Halloway, of Plainfield, and Miss Stevenson, of Roselle. A luncheon will be served by the local committee at 12 m.

MR. HONEYMAN TO TALK ON "THE PASSION PLAY."

A program of exceptional interest is promised those who attend the men's meeting in Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow afternoon, when A. V. D. Honeyman will lecture upon the "Passion Play" of Ober-Ammergau. In connection with the lecture, stereopticon views showing the principal scenes of the play will be displayed. "The Holy City," illustrated by finely-colored slides, will be sung by E. D. Young.

Another Case of Small-pox.

Andrew M. Nichols, of 631 West Third street, a motorman, was removed to the isolation hospital today, physicians having diagnosed his illness as small-pox. He resides in the same block where the other cases developed, although the Board of Health has been unable to discover the source of infection. Mr. Nichols is a married man and has five children.

Foresters to Entertain.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, at its meeting last night, accepted two applicants and initiated one. At the next meeting of the Court, April 30, after the business meeting, an entertainment of vaudeville will be given and there will be short addresses by Supreme High Court officers, after which a collation will be served. The committee in charge comprise Edward J. McCue, James M. Smith and John R. Cline and an unusually good time is promised.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Boardman Drake, of Rushmore avenue, will spend Sunday and Monday in Philadelphia with friends.

Warren Chapel.

This program of music will be rendered at the special Easter services at Warren chapel tomorrow morning and afternoon: Morning, 10:30, organ prelude, "Devotion," H. Lichmer; anthem, "Lift Up Your Voices," J. S. Ferris; offertory anthem, "Now Is Christ Risen," Ira B. Wilson; organ postlude, "Tempo de Maria," Alfred Bedhead. Evening service, 8 o'clock—Prelude, selection from "Redemption," Gounod; anthem, "The Lord of Life is Risen," E. L. Ashford; offertory anthem, "Christ Our Passover," E. H. Packard; postlude, "Priest March," Mendelssohn.

The Sunday-school will hold an Easter service at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be carols by the school and special instrumental music. All seats are free and strangers are welcome. The pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, will preach morning and evening.

Marconnier Chapel.

Easter exercises will be held at Marconnier chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, in charge of Horace J. Martin, Sr. There will be an address by Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and according to the annual custom there will be egg-rolling by the children under the direction of Mrs. Schwenk, a former resident of Oak Tree, who inaugurated this feature on Easter Sunday.

Crescent Avenue Church.

William Dunn, organist of the Crescent Avenue church, has announced a program of special Easter music by the quartet choir of the church. The principal service of the day will be at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, and the musical numbers will be as follows:

Prelude, "Procession du St. Sacrament," Chauvet; anthem, "As It Began to Dawn," Brick; anthem, "Sanctus," Gounod; offertory solo, "The Trumpet Shall Sound," Handel; postlue, "Lift Up Your Heads," Handel. At the evening service this music will be rendered: Prelude, Fantasia in B Minor, Bach; anthem, "Ring Out, Glad Bells of Easter," Bartlett; solo, "Hosanna," Grainer; offertory anthem, "King All Glorius," Barnby; postlude, Merkel's Easter March.

Monroe Avenue.

At the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, tomorrow, special Easter music will be rendered by the choir both morning and evening. Rev. Charles E. Kimball will preach two sermons upon the Resurrection. The Sunday-school has a specially prepared program, and the chorus choir under J. F. Daub will render several anthems.

The Catholic Churches.

Easter Day will be marked by special masses at both St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches tomorrow. The celebrants will be Rev. Father Bogan, at St. Mary's, and Rev. Father Miller, at St. Joseph. The last mass and principal service of the day will be at 10:30 o'clock in the morning at both churches. Miss Mary A. Smith will be at the organ at St. Mary's and the following music will be a feature of the main service: Prelude, Communion in G, Batiste; Vide Aquam, Olcher; processional, "The Lord Is Risen," by the chancel choir; Kyrie, La Hache; Gloria in Excelsis, La Hache; Veni Creator, Hamma; Credo, La Hache; Hegina Coeli, Melvin; Sanctus, La Hache, Benedictus, La Hache; Agnus Dei, La Hache; Dona Nobis, La Hache; recessional, "Holy God;" postlude, March Pontificale, Lemmens.

Stehle's prize mass will be given in connection with the 10:30 o'clock service at St. Joseph's church, when Albert L. LaPorte will be at the organ. A feature of the elaborate musical program will be the processional, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today," sung by a special chorus choir of one hundred children.

Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Rev. Charles Townsend, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, has announced communion services to be held at the church at 7 and 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, and in connection with the principal service of the day at 11 o'clock, when there will be a sermon by the rector, special Easter music will be rendered by the vested choir of the church and features of the music at the morning service will be the introit hymn, "Christ Our Passover," the Nicene creed and Gloria in Excelsis by Bruce Steane, and the anthem, "As It Began to Dawn," Vincent." The anthem at the evensong service at 7:30 o'clock will be Granier's "Hosanna." G. T. Dunham will be at the organ for all the services. The children's service will be held at 10 o'clock, when a special program of carols will be sung by the Sunday-school children.

Grace Church.

Music will be a special feature of the Easter Day services at Grace Episcopal church tomorrow, and Organist W. E. McClymont has announced the following musical program for the morning service, which will be held at 11 o'clock: "Christ Our Passover," Tours; Te Deum in G, Calkin; Jubilate Deo, McFarren; Communion service, Mair; offertory anthem, "King All Glorius," Barnby. In the afternoon there will be evensong at 5 o'clock. On this occasion the anthem will be "As It Began to Dawn," Coombs, and the Magnificat and Nunc Dimmitis will be by Forster. The full vested choir will be at both services, and the solo parts will be by Mrs. Theodore Mantz, soprano; Miss Emma Yeager, alto; William J. Tallamy, tenor; and Arthur Chamberlin, bass. William E. McClymont will be at the organ.

St. Stephen's.

The principal service of the day will be at 11 o'clock in the morning, when a program of special Easter music will be rendered by the vested choir, under the direction of Charles M. Suhr, organist and choirmaster. The soloists will be Miss Emily Lacey, soprano; Miss Christine Sorensen, contralto; Rev. Morgan Ashley, tenor; E. A. Sprowel, baritone, and Alfred Lacey, basso. The program follows:

Processional, "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today," Worgan; Introit anthem, "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" Cook; Kyrie in E Flat, Foster; Gloria Tibi in E Flat, Nevin; Gratias Tibi in E Flat, Nevin; hymn, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today," Clarion; offertory anthem, "The Resurrection," Nevin; Sursum Corda in E Flat, Foster; Benedictus in E Flat, Foster; Agnus Dei in E Flat, Foster; Communion hymn, "Jesus to Thy Table Led," Nevin; Gloria in Excelsis in E Flat, Foster; Stainer's Seven-fold Amen; Nunc Dimmitis, Harris; recessional, "The Strife Is O'er," Palestrina. Easter carols will be sung by the Sunday-school children at the special children's service at 4 o'clock, when there will be an address by the rector, Rev. Morgan Ashley. The rector will also preach at the evening service at 7:45 o'clock.

Holy Cross Church.

Rev. George A. Warner, the rector, will officiate at communion services to be held at Holy Cross church tomorrow morning at 6 and 8 o'clock and in connection with the morning service at 11 o'clock. At the 11 o'clock service there will be a program of special Easter music, and the full vested choir of forty voices will be in attendance. R. Burns Eglinton, the organist and choirmaster, has announced this program of music:

Processional hymn, No. 112, "Christ Our Passover," Farrant; Te Deum in E Flat, Barrett; Benedictus, Walter; Introit hymn, No. 121; Kyrie in C, Tours; hymn No. 115; anthem, "Awake Up My Glory," Barnby; Sanctus in C, Tours; Agnus Dei in C, Tours; Gloria in Excelsis in C, Tours; Nunc Dimmitis, Gregorian tune; recessional hymn, No. 122.

The children's service will be held at 10 o'clock in the morning, immediately preceding the morning service. At this time the children of the Sunday-school will render a program of Easter carols and there will be an address by Rev. Mr. Warner. The rector will preach at the evening service at 7:45 o'clock.

Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army will hold special services tomorrow. At 11 o'clock in the morning there will be a holiness meeting and at 2:30 the Sunday-school session will be held. At 3:30 o'clock a Christian praise service will be conducted and at 8 o'clock in the evening there will be special Easter services; also a celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the birth of Gen. Booth. Captain Hewitt will be in charge of all the meetings.

Mt. Zion A. M. E.

Easter services will begin at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock with a prayer and praise meeting. There will be preaching by the pastor, Rev. J. T. Diggs, at 11 o'clock; Sunday-school at 3 o'clock and special Easter services at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Our agency will show convincing evidence of 35 years extensive sale and highly satisfied users of the L. & M. Paint. All dealers in other paints combined cannot furnish equal evidence. When painting with L. & M. you are painting with Metal Zinc Oxide combined with White Lead. Zinc is imperishable and makes the L. & M. wear and cover like gold. Its colors remain bright and lasting. Don't need repaint for 10 to 15 years. Besides it cost one-third less for paint. Sold by Woolston & Buckle, Plainfield; H. C. Meyer, Scotch Plains; Edw. Pennock, Dunellen.

SHOW HORSE FALLS WITH WOMAN RIDER.

The first real excitement attendant upon the Atlantic City horse show occurred yesterday afternoon, when Miss Adele VonOhl, of this city, was spilled while riding Sidney Joseph Thal's bay gelding Irish Reel in the ladies' hunter class.

Miss VonOhl sent the big bay over the fences as lightly as a bird at first and received an ovation, but later on Irish Reel did not lift his forefeet clear and stumbled, pitching Miss VonOhl over his head. She rolled almost beneath the horse's feet, but the animal seemed to realize what had taken place and held in the air the forefoot that, had it been "planted" would have landed upon Miss VonOhl. The young woman, too, realized her position of danger and rolled out quickly.

Appointed Freight Agent.

A. F. Feil, of North Plainfield, who was formerly connected with the freight department of the New Jersey Central in this city, and more recently at Cranford in the same capacity, has been appointed freight agent at Bound Brook and will take charge on Monday. Mr. Feil will have a clerical force of five assistants at the freight-house at Bound Brook.

Christian Bambach.

Christian Bambach, 63 years of age, of Dunellen, died at the Muhlenberg Hospital this morning. Bambach, who was a mason, had worked at his trade until he was taken ill three weeks ago. He leaves two sons, both living in Dunellen, and one daughter, who lives in New York State. Funeral arrangements have not been made as yet.

Police Pensions.

The Legislature has passed a bill permitting the governing body of a city to provide for police pensions without a vote of the people. By this act, the Common Council may arrange for such pensions without any referendum.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

salary that many so-called stars would be glad to get regularly, and for the past two seasons has been playing the highest priced theatres throughout the country as Nance Olden in "The Bishop's Carriage," under the management of Liebler and Co. Her tour included extended engagements in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and nearly all of the principal cities from coast to coast. When Miss Busley says that "Beverly of Graustark" is the most pleasing character she has ever created it means something, for during her long engagements under the Frohman management she created no less than a dozen leading roles in prominent Broadway successes.

New Plainfield theatre Tuesday night, where its success a short time ago was so marked and emphatic. The play returns here with a notable record of success elsewhere. It has been running two years in New York city and had emerged successfully from an all summer run of sixteen weeks in Chicago, but there are theatrical happenings that do not necessarily make for success in this city or neighborhood, where play-goers do not care to have their judgments made for them by other communities. But the play itself "made good" to the fullest meaning of that term. It is not at all likely that local theatre-goers will do anything on the occasion of the forthcoming engagement to reverse the verdict pronounced on "The Man of the Hour" when formerly seen here.

"The Man From Home" is an Indiana novelette of equal parts, heart interest and native wit, emphasized by a dash of drama. It is a play home folk—and who says they are not the best folk—should thoroughly and honestly enjoy. Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson wrote the play, which is to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday, April 15, and from all accounts both authors and managers are to be felicitated on the result. There is no claim made that "The Man From Home" is the great American play we have been waiting for—and would probably fail to recognize should we get it—but it is merely stated that it is a well staged, well acted, well told story of incident and character, which doubtless can be, and surely will be viewed with pleasure and with profit.

the old English classics. Richard Brinsley Sheridan's famous comedy of manners, "The Rivals," is their present offering. These famous young actors will have in their support a similarly distinguished organization such as carried by their father, the late Joseph Jefferson, for many years past, and an evening of rare enjoyment is assured when "The Rivals" is acted at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday, April 14.

The Burns-Johnson fight pictures have been booked by Manager Coughlan of the New Plainfield theatre for Monday, matinee and night. These pictures are produced under special arrangement with Hugh McIntosh, promoter and referee of this fight, and are said to be the greatest pictures ever taken, even eclipsing the famous Jeffries-Sharkey pictures. This is the only engagement booked for this city and as this was one of the biggest events in sporting history, one should take advantage of this exceptional opportunity.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Ves a Tilley will, on Monday, begin her second week at the Colonial theatre where the little English artiste is attracting capacity houses. Her greatest song hit is "Sidney's Holiday," for which she takes many encores at every performance and which is undoubtedly the most delightfully humorous number in her repertoire. Other headliners are: Eddie Leonard and his company, including The Gordon Brothers in an original act entitled "In Old Virginia." Mr. Leonard was recently a feature of the Cohan & Harris Minstrels and celebrates his return to vaudeville with the introduction of several new songs and dances. Jack Hazzard contributes a lively monologue. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Crane are on the bill in a one act playlet; Vinie Daly, one of the clever family of that name, introduces a sprightly and attractive dancing specialty; Frank Stafford & Co. present a one act playlet; The Four Lukens have an acrobatic act of merit and The Quartette contribute some notable musical selections. There will be Sunday concerts as usual.

Her Life-Long Desire.

English Clergyman—And when you arrive in London, my dear lady, don't fail to see St. Paul's and Westminster Abbey.

Fair American—You bet, I'll rattle those off, sure, but what I've been hankering to see ever since I was knee high to a grasshopper is the Church of England.—Punch.

Marvelous.

Mrs. Blunder had just received a telegram from India.

"What an admirable invention the telegram is!" she exclaimed, "when you come to consider that this message has come a distance of thousands of miles, and the gum on the envelope isn't dry yet."—Sacred Heart Review.

WORK THAT TELLS.

Plenty of It Has Been Done Right Here In Plainfield.

Cures that last are cures that tell. To thoroughly know the virtues of a medicine you must investigate the cures and see if they prove permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills stand this test, and plenty of proof exists right here in Plainfield. People who testified years ago to relief from backache, and kidney disorders, now declare that relief was permanent and the curue perfect. How can any Plainfield sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

Mrs. John Driscoll, 753 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "The statement I gave several years ago concerning my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills was true and still holds good in every particular. I had a dull pain across my back which clung to me incessantly. Hard work increased my misery and at times I also suffered from headaches and dizzy spells. I tried plasters and remedies of various kinds but without finding relief. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I finally purchased at Randolph's Pharmacy relieved me and I heartily recommend them. I know of other persons who have used them with just as good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Consists Only in Buying the Wrong Piano at Any Price
As home entertainment is a necessity for the welfare of the family circle, and the fact that a good piano is the best investment you can make for increasing the pleasure of your home, the only mistake you can make is in buying the WRONG PIANO AT ANY PRICE. The purchase of a
Hallet & Davis Piano
is economy personified. You want your dollars to go as far as possible. You want the best at the right price. This is what you get in a Hallet & Davis, to say nothing of the quiet joy and satisfaction that inheres in the ownership of good and beautiful things—this makes Hallet & Davis pianos true bargains.

Our small payment plan makes piano buying easy. Write for catalogues of pianos and special offerings in Player Pianos.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"That's right; it's jes' the same with a circus. One year you give 'em the rottenest kind of a thing, an' they eat it up; the next year you hand 'em a knockout, an' it's a frost. Is that the way it is with a church show?"

"Much the same," Douglas admitted, half amusedly, half regretfully. "Very often when I work the hardest I seem to do the least good."

"I guess our troubles is pretty much alike," Polly nodded, with a motherly

"Well, you take my tip. Don't you never go in for ridin'."

air of condescension, "only there ain't so much danger in your act."

"I'm not so sure about that," he laughed.

"Well, you take my tip." She leaned forward as though about to impart a very valuable bit of information. "Don't you never go in for ridin'. There ain't no act on earth so hard as a ridin' act. The rest of the bunch has got it easy alongside of us. Take the fellows on the trapeze. They always get their tackle up in jes' the same place. Take the balancin' acts. There ain't no difference in their layouts. Take any of 'em as depends on regular props, and they ain't got much chance a-goin' wrong. But, say, when you have to do a ridin' act there ain't never no two times alike. If your horse is feelin' good, the ground is stumbly; if the ground ain't on the blink, the horse is wobbly. There's always somethin' wrong somewheres, and you ain't never knowin' how it's goin' to end, especially when you got to do a careful act like mine. There's a girl, Eloise, in our bunch what does a showy act on a horse what Barker calls Barbarian. She goes on in my place sometimes, and, say, them Rubes applauds her as much as me, an' her stunts is baby tricks alongside of mine. It's enough to make you sick of art." She shook her head dolefully, then sat up with renewed interest.

"You see, mine is careful balancin' an' all that, an' you got to know your horse an' your ground for that. Now, you get wise to what I'm a-tellin' you and don't you never go into anything which depends on anything else."

"Thank you, Polly, I won't." Douglas somehow felt that he was very much indebted to her.

"I seen a church show once," Polly said suddenly.

"You did?" Douglas asked, with new interest.

"Yes," she answeerd, closing her lips and venturing no further comment.

"Did you like it?" he questioned after a pause.

"Couldn't make nothin' out of it. I don't care much for readin'."

"Oh, it isn't all reading," he corrected.

"Well, the guy I saw read all of his'n. He got the whole thing right out of a book."

"Oh, that was only his text," laughed Douglas.

"Text?"

"Yes. And later he tried to interpret to his congrega"—

"Easy! Easy!" she interrupted. "Come again with that, will you?"

"He told them the meaning of what he read."

"Well, I don't know what he told 'em, but it didn't mean anything to me. But maybe your show is better'n his was," she added, trying to pacify him.

Douglas was undecided whether to feel amused or grateful for Polly's ever increasing sympathy. Before he could trust his twitching lips to answer she had put another question to him.

"Are you goin' to do a stunt while I am here?"

"I preach every Sunday, if that's what you mean. I preach this morning."

"Is this Sunday?" she asked, sitting up with renewed energy and looking about the room as though everything had changed color.

"Yes."

"And you got a matinee?" she exclaimed incredulously.

"We have services," he corrected, gently.

"We rest up on Sundays," she said in a tone of deep commiseration.

"Oh, I see," he answered, feeling it no time to enter upon another discussion as to the comparative advantages of their two professions.

"What are you goin' to spiel about today?"

"About Ruth and Naomi."

"Ruth and who?"

"Naomi," he repeated.

"Naomi," she echoed, tilting her head from side to side as she listened to the soft cadences of the word. "I never heard that name before. It 'ud look awful swell on a billboard, wouldn't it?"

"It's a Bible name, honey," Mandy said, eager to get into the conversation. "Dar's a buful picture bout her. I seed it."

"I like to look at pictures," Polly answered tentatively. Mandy crossed the room to fetch the large Bible with its steel engravings.

"ENTREAT ME NOT TO LEAVE THEE," HE READ.

"We got a girl named Ruth in our 'leap of death' stunt. Some of the folks is kinder down on 'er, but I ain't."

She might have told Douglas more of her forlorn little friend, but just then Mandy came to the bed hugging a large, old fashioned Bible, and Douglas helped to place the ponderous book before the invalid.

"See, honey, dar dey is," the old woman said, pointing to the picture of Ruth and Naomi.

"Them's crackerjacks, ain't they?" Polly gasped, and her eyes shone with wonder. "Which one's Ruth?"

"Dis one," said Mandy, pointing with her thumb.

"Why, they're dressed just like our chariot drivers. What does it say about 'em?"

"You can read it for yourself," Douglas answered gently. There was something pathetic in the eagerness of the starved little mind.

"Well, I ain't much on readin'—out loud," she faltered, growing suddenly conscious of her deficiencies. "Read it for me, will you?"

"Certainly." And he drew his chair nearer to the bed. One strong hand supported the other half of the Bible and his head was very near to hers as his deep, full voice pronounced the solemn words in which Ruth pleaded so many years before.

"'Entreat me not to leave thee,'" he read, "'or to return from following after thee, for whither thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people and thy God my God.'"

He stopped to ponder over the poetry of the lines.

"Kind of pretty, ain't it?" Polly said softly. She felt awkward and constrained and a little overawed.

"There are far more beautiful things than that," Douglas assured her enthusiastically as the echo of many such rang in his ears.

"There are?" And her eyes opened wide with wonder.

"Yes, indeed," he replied, pitying more and more the starvation of mind and longing to bring to it floods of light and enrichment.

"I guess I'd like to hear you spiel," and she fell to studying him solemly.

"You would?" he asked eagerly.

"Is there any more to that story?" she asked, ignoring his question.

"Yes, indeed."

"Would you read me a little more?" She was very humble now.

"'Where thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried. The Lord do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part me and thee.'"

Their eyes met. There was a long pause. Suddenly the sharp, sweet notes of the church bell brought John Douglas to his feet with a start of surprise.

"Have you got to go?" Polly asked regretfully.

"Yes, I must, but I'll read the rest from the church. Open the window, Mandy!" And he passed out of the door and quickly down the stairs.

CHAPTER VI.

WHEN John Douglas' uncle offered to educate his nephew for the ministry the boy was less enthusiastic than his mother. He did not remonstrate, however, for it had been the custom of generations for at least one son of each Douglas family to preach the gospel of Calvinism, and his father's career as an architect and landscape gardener had not left him much capital.

Douglas senior had been recognized as an artist by the few who understood his talents, but there is small demand for the builder of picturesque houses in the little business towns of the middle west, and at last he passed away, leaving his son only the burden of his financial failure and an ardent desire to succeed at the profession in which his father had fared so badly. The hopeless, defeated look on the departed man's face had always haunted the boy, who was artist enough to feel his father's genius intuitively and human enough to resent the injustice of his fate.

Douglas' mother had suffered so much because of the impractical efforts of her husband that she discouraged the early tendencies of the son toward drawing and mathematics and tried to direct his thoughts toward creeds and Bible history. When he went away for his collegiate course she was less in touch with him and he was able to steal time from his athletics to devote to his art. He spent his vacations in a neighboring city before a drawing board in the office of a distinguished architect, his father's friend.

Douglas was not a brilliant divinity student, and he was relieved at last when he received his degree in theology and found himself appointed to a small church in the middle west.

His step was very bright the morning he first went up the path that led to his new home. His artistic sense was charmed by the picturesque approach to the church and parsonage. The view toward the tree encircled spire was unobstructed, for the church had been built on the outskirts of the town to allow for a growth that had not materialized. He threw up his head and gazed at the blue hills, with their background of soft, slow moving clouds. The smell of the fresh earth, the bursting of the buds, the forming of new life, set him thrilling with a joy that was very near to pain.

He stopped halfway up the path and considered the advantages of a new front to the narrow eaved cottage, and when his foot touched the first step of the vine covered porch he was far more concerned about a new portico than with any thought of his first sermon.

His speculations were abruptly cut short by Mandy, who bustled out of the door with a wide smile of welcome on her black face and an unmistakable ambition to take him immediately under her motherly wing. She was much concerned because the church people had not met the new pastor at the station and brought him to the house. Upon learning that Douglas had purposely avoided their escort, preferring to come to his new home the first time alone, she made up her mind that she was going to like him.

Mandy had long been a fixture in the parsonage. She and her worse half, Hasty Jones, had come to know and discuss the weaknesses of the many clergymen who had come and gone, the deacons and the congregation, both individually and collectively. She confided to Hasty that she didn't "blame de new parson fer not wantin' to mix up wid dat ar crowd."

In the study that night, when she and Hasty helped Douglas to unpack his many boxes of books, they were as eager as children about the drawings and pictures which he showed them. His mind had gone beyond the parsonage front now, and he described to them the advantage of adding an extra ten feet to the church spire.

Mandy felt herself almost an artist when she and Hasty bade the pastor good night, for she was still quivering from the contagion of Douglas' enthusiasm. Here, at last, was a master who could do something besides find fault with her.

TWO THIEVING TRAMPS ARE LODGED IN JAIL

Two railroad tramps who answer the general description of the two men who attempted to enter the house of Dr. T. H. Platt, of Dunellen avenue, Monday night, were caught by Central Railroad detectives at Cranford, yesterday afternoon, and are now held on a charge of pocketbook snatching by the Somerville police. One of the men is tall and the other short, and this is the description of the two men whom Dr. Platt shot at in Dunellen as one of them sought to enter his house by the kitchen window. The police are on the look-out for a third member of the gang, who is described as a short man.

The three secured a pocketbook containing about $60 from a Jewish rabbi on the Somerville station platform yesterday morning and tried to escape by train. They approached the man together as he stood waiting for a train and asked him if he had just picked up a pocketbook. He pulled out his own pocketbook, which one of the three snatched and they all ran away. Railroad detectives traced the men to a train which they boarded. Two of them jumped off at Cranford and the two detectives started in pursuit, capturing them after a short run. They were handcuffed and taken to the Somerville jail, where they are now held.

SAYS CITY OPPOSES FREIGHT TROLLEY CARS

Governor Fort has hinted that the measure providing for freight carrying by trolleys, known as the Gaunt bill, would have to be recalled and amended by the Legisltaure before he would sign it. This was because of the objections of Newark and Jersey City citizens, who declared those municipalities were opposed to the act in its present form. The amendments will probably be made Monday night, and will change the bill so as to permit all first and second class cities, by ordinance, to regulate the hours and time such freighting may be carried on.

Mayor C. J. Fisk, who was among those who appeared at the hearing, said that Plainfield was against the proposition in its entirety. He suggested the bill should at least be amended so as to tell the character of freight to be carried. The residents along the line, he thought, should have some protection in this respect.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED IN THE FANWOOD "CUT."

An unknown man was struck and instantly killed by a westbound express train in the Fanwood "cut" yesterday afternoon about 1:15 o'clock. The body was horribly mangled, making identification practically impossible. From the manner in which the man was killed it is evident that the engineer failed to see him in time to prevent the fatality, it being directly on the wide curve of the road at that point.

The remains were sent to George Cole's undertaking parlors. The man was about forty-five years of age and well dressed. In his pockets were found several cards bearing the address "Melichor, Box 71, Gardiner, N. Y.," and "J. Greenblolt, Elizabethport, N. J." The body will be held until Monday and if not claimed will be buried at the city's expense.

Trinity's Fine Showing.

At the meeting of the consistory of Trinity Reformed church, Thursday night, Robert Clark, Jr., chairman of the finance committee, presented the yearly financial report of the church. It was an excellent statement, showing that all bills have been paid, leaving a satisfactory balance on hand. The consistory complimented Mr. Clark on the fine showing of finances and statements will be printed and distributed in the pews of the church.

AFTER THE MONEY LOANED TO STATES

Trenton, April 10.—Should the Murdock bill, now before Congress, become a law, New Jersey will have to refund to the United States Government about $765,000 borrowed by the State during President Jackson's administration, and many other States will find themselves in the same boat for various large amounts.

In 1836 there was a surplus in the Federal treasury of $38,000,000, due largely to the sale of public land in the Central West. Congress authorized the distribution of this money among the States upon their promising to repay it upon demand of the Secretary of the Treasury. After $28,000,000 had been distributed, but before the fourth instalment had been paid, Congress passed another law postponing payment of the final instalment and incorporating as a "joker" a proviso that the money distributed should be subject to the demand of Congress of the Secretary of the Treasury.

It is said that the matter of the repayment was called to Congressman Murdock's attention by the claim of Virginia a few years ago to the fourth instalment, still undisturbed.

The twenty-six States received the three instalments in proportion to their representation in Congress. The amount in round figures deposited with them was as follows: Maine, $956,000; Maryland, $956,000; New Hampshire, $669,000; Vermont, $69,000; Massachusetts, $1,339,000; Connecticut, $765,000; Rhode Island, $382,000; New York, $4,015,000; Pennsylvania, $2,868,000; New Jersey, $765,000; Ohio, $1,007,000; Indiana, $860,000; Illinois, $478,000; Michigan, $287,000; Virginia, $22,199,000; North Carolina, $1,444,000; South Carolina, $1,051,000; Georgia, $1,051,000; Alabama, $669,000; Louisiana, $78,000; Mississippi, $382,000; Tennessee, $1,434,000; Kentucky, $1,434,000; Missouri, $382,000; Arkansas, $287,000; Delaware, $287,000.

Congressman Murdock introduced the reimbursement bill two years ago and no one paid any attention to it. Since the special session began he received a letter asking what had become of the bill to have the money repaid, so he reintroduced the bill. He says the public mind is in a state now to consider the Nation's finances and that he will do everything in his power to press the bill for passage, if not at the special, then at the regular session.

HERRESHOFF

The Smart Light Car of Class.

There is no car at less than double the price that is in the same class with the $1,500 Herreshoff Car. No other car is planned on the same lines as this smart light car of class. It is built of the same material as the big cars, with as painstaking care, on the same proven principles of good practice, with the intent to build the best that can be built rather than a low-priced product.

In appearance, grace of line and refinement of finish, there is no car at any price superior to it. Its appearance will secure a trial for it anywhere and a demonstration will convince the most skeptical.

The quality of its material speaks in every line. The closer examination made of the car the better will be the impression gained of it. Its peculiarly high efficiency is due to its compactness, its lightness and its correct design

DAY OF THE RESURRECTION IS OBSERVED WITH SONGS OF GLADNESS IN ALL CHURCHES

Christ's resurrection from the dead was celebrated by all Christian congregations in both city and borough, yesterday. As usual, the services were elaborate, the floral decorations magnificent and the sermons inspiring. Following are some of the observances:

First Baptist.

Easter Day proved a happy one at the First Baptist church, where special services were held morning and afternoon. The display of flowers were, perhaps, the finest yet seen at this church, the entire pulpit platform being banked with beautiful flowers from the conservatory of C. W. McCutchen. The music was in charge of Howard M. Case, organist, and the choir rendered Easter anthems, while Miss Florence Wohlfert, violinist, assisted at both services. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, preached in the morning on "The Resurrection of the Body."

This was the program of the morning service:

Prelude, "Cavitina," Taylor, violin and piano; anthems, choir; offertory, from "Mary Magdalene," Stainer; benediction, postlude, organ. The solo parts were well taken by Miss Luella C. Harris, sojrano; Miss Gertrude Hinz, contralto; William Holmes, bass, and Geo. W. Smith, tenor.

In the afternoon the Sunday-school held its special exercises, when this program was followed:

Prelude, violin, piano and organ, Miss Jessie Utter, assisting; carol, "Hosanna! Sing," school; anthem, choir; recitation, "Help Somebody," Eulah Abel; primary song, recitation, "May's Easter Lily," Gertrude McClintock; carol, "Near the Tomb Where Jesus Slept," Junior department; recitations, Lucy Douglas; "Easter Story," Anna Sherwin; solo and chorus, Junior department; offertory, violin and piano, proceeds for Day Nursery; carols, "Strains of Victory," Junior department; "Praise the Saviour," school; benediction and postlude, organ.

A recitation was given by the following girls: Grace Hunt, Emma Mantz, Dorothy Krewson, Mary Buchanan, Erma G. Dobbins, Dorothy Lee, while Elsie Moore sang a solo and Grace Hunt, Erma G. Dobbins, Gertrude McClintock and Hazel Cronce sang the chorus.

Grace M. E.

Easter services at the Grace M. E. church took up almost the entire day. In the morning there was a large congregation present to enjoy the splendid services that took place. Rev. Ora J. Shoop preached a stirring sermon on the subject of the "Empty Tomb," and the Easter music rendered was the best heard in a long time. In the afternoon, the Sunday-school had an elaborate program, which they rendered in a most charming manner. The little children taking their parts in a way that pleased everybody. In the evening, Mr. Shoop preached on "Fruits of the Resurrection." The choir again rendered a number of anthems, among them being "Christ Our Passover" and "The Choir Angelic."

Congregational.

There being but the Sunday-school and regular morning service at the Congregational church yesterday, there was a large attendance present to hear the special program that had been carefully selected for Easter.

The Easter anthems were beautifully rendered, as were the solos by Mrs. Thomas McDonald, and Charles L. Lewis. Rev. C. L. Goodrich delivered a well fitting sermon on the subject of "The Message Jesus Left in the Tomb." The Sunday-school program was carefully carried out, the scholars singing their part of the Easter music in an excellent manner.

Hope Chapel.

The Easter exercises were held at Hope chapel according to the previously published program. The soloists at the morning service were Thomas Hendry, tenor; Miss Edna Eckert, soprano, and Miss Eunice Eckert, contralto. In the afternoon at the Sunday-school exercises, W. D. Murray spoke on "The Man Who Rose Again." The Bible classes taught by Judge W. N. Runyon and G. Stuart Simons, took part by reciting in concert passages of Scripture. In the evening the soloists were Miss Eunice Eckert, contralto, and Harold Brownell, tenor. The chapel was elaborately decorated by Mrs. Thomas Huron, Mrs. William Gray and Mrs. Samuel Cratsley.

Holy Cross Church.

Large congregations attended the Easter Day services at Holy Cross church, yesterday, and the Easter offering was a large one. It will be devoted to the parish fund. At 10 o'clock in the morning, the Easter festival of the Sunday-school was held in the church, and there was an address by Rev. George A. Wagner, the rector. The Lenten mite box offering, to be devoted to foreign missions, was received at this time. The full vested choir was in attendance and the music included the singing of Easter carols by the children.

The church was elaborately decorated with Easter lilies, carnations, palms and potted plants and the church was thronged with worshippers for the principal service of the day, which came at 11 o'clock. The sermon, appropriate to the day, was by the rector, who also made an address at the evening service. Saturday afternoon, four infants were baptized at the evensong service.

St. Stephen's Church.

The Easter offering at St. Stephen's church amounted to $432, which sum will nearly wipe out the parish indebtedness. Rev. Morgan Ashley, the rector, was in charge at all the services, which were largely attended. The church was handsomely decorated and music was a feature of all the services. The Sunday-school Easter festival was held in the afternoon, when the children gathered in the church and sang Easter carols. There was an address by Rev. Mr. Ashley, and each child was presented with a potted plant. A substantial mite box offering was received for foreign missions. At the evensong service Saturday, two persons were baptized by the rector.

Trinity Reformed.

All the Easter services at the Trinity Reformed church yesterday were largely attended and the entire program of the day was carried out in a manner that was most notable. At the early morning Easter service which was held at 6:30 o'clock, there were about seventy-five present. This service was led by L. W. Randolph of the Temple Baptist church. There was also special music rendered by Martin A. Korff, violinist, and Whitney Frazee, cornetist.

At the regular morning service the church was well filled to hear the Easter music. Every selection was rendered in perfect time, and from a musical standpoint there could not have been a better program. The quartet numbers, "Ye Choirs of Jerusalem" and "Awake Thou That Sleepeth," were sung in excellent time and harmony.

Those who took part in rendering the instrumental were Mrs. Violet Truell Johnson, violinist; Miss Lillian A. Force, pianist, and Arthur Titsworth, organist. The three instruments added greatly to the singing, blending all the parts most harmoniously. Mrs. E. D. Young sang the majority of soprano chorus parts, for Miss Etta Raybert, who has not fully recovered from an attack of tonsilitis. The soprano solo "Hosanna" was sung charmingly by Miss Raybert. Rev. John Y. Broek preached a very fitting Easter sermon on the subject of "He Is Risen."

In the evening the services were in charge of the Sunday-school, which made it the largest of the day. The church was crowded to the doors and the late arrivals were unable to find only standing room. The program, "The Victor King," rendered by the primary and beginners' departments, went through in a charming manner. The music was led by H. J. Martin, assisted by Martin Korff, violin. Those taking part in the primary department were as follows: Recitation, "We Are Glad to See You," Carman Trembath; "Our Offering," Reginald Applegate; "I'm So Glad Its Spring," Elsie Zeppe; "The Flowers Tell It," Lillian Laury; "Our Father Speaks to Us," Theodosia Vail;" "What Shall We Give," Marion Blair; "My Easter Jewel," Margaret Smith; "Happy Spring," Alma Allegar; "He Is Risen," Charles Todd; trio, "The Hope of Israel," Helen Thompson, Louise Seader and Adele Freeman; "The Lilies Message," Mabel Laury, Ruth Freeman and Harriet Higgins, Marion Wooley, Laura Smith. The soprano solos sang by Miss Adele Freeman were much enjoyed. Her sweet soprano voice was heard to advantage in all parts of the church. The Junior department was in charge of Miss Mabel Wilson and assistants, and sang "The Theme of Joy." Miss Lucie Coriell played the piano for the Beginners' department. Those taking part in the Easter poem, namely, "Bells of Easter," were Dorothy Ross, Lena Wirth, Helen Wilett, Francis Neighbor, Alva Hansen and Willetts Ord; recitation, "When God Calls," Edward Andrews; recitation, "Easter Time Is Here," Harold Hansen. The solo part in "The Triumphant King," song by Miss Helen Roberts, was a pleasing feature. Short addresses were made by Rev. John Y. Broek

CITY'S BUDGET FIGURES

Finance Committee to Present Its Estimates to City Fathers Tonight.

FOR LARGER APPROPRIATIONS.

More For Street, Police, Health and Fire Department Items —The Budget in Detail.

The important matter to be presented at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, tonight, will be the annual tax ordinance, calling for the various amounts thought to be necessary to run the city during the coming year. As expected an increased amount will be needed to provide for improvements during the past year and to meet the several bond issues, some of which will fall due this year for the first.

It is estimated that the sum of $76,000 will be required, exclusive of library, school, poor, fire, State and county tax, and the apportionment for the various departments, as estimated, will be as follows:

Police, $30,000 as against $30,580 last year; street, $37,300 as against $35,000 last year; sewer maintenance, $13,500 as against $7,000 last year; salaries, $13,440, no change; rent, $1,610, no change; printing and stationery, $3,368, no change; elections, $135, no change; Board of Health, $7,500 as against $6,000 last year; district court, $1,869, no change; street lighting, $15,500, no change; shade tree commission, $2,250, no change; alms, $8,000, no change; Public Library, $7,500, no change; fire department, $34,000, no change.

Last year the fire department was given an extra amount to cover several bills of long standing and the estimates as indicated by the figures show an increase of about $18,000. In the first place there is an increase of $2,300 to cover the purchase of new steam roller and scarifier for the street deaprtment, which is included in the appropriation of $37,300. This was an absolute necessity, according to the street department.

The sewer maintenance is increased $6,500 by reason of the fact that it was found necessary to employ consulting engineers, Hering & Fuller, to render an opinion as to what should be done to keep up the sewage plant in a satisfactory manner. A full and complete report was received and this showed that during the next twelve months the city must expend between $6,000 and $7,000 to clean the contact beds and septic tanks.

The next increase is that of the Board of Health. This has been found necessary because it has been decided that the milk dairy inspection must be continued and an additional inspector employed. It is also considered necessary to provide greater laboratory facilities, cabinets for filing purposes, etc. The city will also be called upon to meet the extra expense attached to the care of smallpox cases.

It is also noticeable that this year's tax budget includes items not found heretofore. For instance there is the sinking fund for the Darrow avenue school, amounting to $950, and the sinking fund for the new East End fire-house ten year bond, amounting to $1,300. In addition there is to be raised $4,500, representing 4½ per cent. on the $95,000 school bonds in connection with the building of the Darrow avenue school; one school bond of $1,000 falling due this year and interest on police fund bond amounting to $1,147.50 as well as the retirement of one police bond of $500. Then there is the first interest due on brick pavement bonds amounting to $1,395 and $675 representing interest on fire-house bonds.

In view of the fact that the city is growing rapidly and that there will be a large increase in valuations, the finance committee does not expect any material change in last year's tax rate which was $1.41. Of course the estimate on county, State school and State is yet to be heard from and until that time it cannot be determined exactly what the rate will be for next year.

Last year the State school received $47,680, the local schools $34,700 and the county $65,850. In all there was raised here last year $348,000. The total issue of bonds and floating debt of Plainfield amounts to $596,000 and the ratables in excess amount to $22,500,000.

It is the opinion of many in touch with the situation that Plainfield should have been able to sell its bonds last year at 4 per cent. instead of 4½, considering the condition of the money market. The Councilmanic finance committee believes that the city has much to show for the expenditure of city funds and it has no apologies to make.

SUTTON'S BIG CARGO TOO HEAVY FOR HIM

Eugene Sutton, a second class machinist on the battleship Ohio, came to town Saturday and took on such a cargo of booze that he lost control of his steering gear at the North Avenue station. Patrolman Nolan ran up alongside and acting as pilot, steered him to the port where the two green lights are displayed. Eugene's cargo was a big one, and his last consignment was the contents of a half-pint flask, which he absorbed without lowering his elbow, as he stood on the station platform.

"I was due at the Navy Yard, Brooklyn, at 8 o'clock this morning," said Sutton to the court, "and I'm being fined a dollar an hour for every hour I'm late." The Judge figured that he had about $1.50 against him as he spoke, and that he would have to pay at least double this amount before he could report for duty. Accordingly, no fine was imposed, and after a hasty farewell, Sutton put on all steam and started for the railroad station.

GEO. K. SHREVE WEDS MISS LOUISE M. EDICK

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Louise Mae Edick, of Stratford, N. Y., and George K. Shreve, of this city, which took place on Wednesday, April 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stroughon, Salisbury Center, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. E. Roymand, of that place.

The bridesmaid was Miss Janie Jewell, of Irondale, N. Y., and the best man was James Edick, of Fulton Chain, N. Y., brother of the bride. After the ceremony the bridal party was driven to the American Hotel, at Dolgeville, N. Y., where a wedding supper was served, after which the bride and groom left for Plainfield, where they will reside. The groom is an employe of the Taylor Engineering Company, New York. The bride is well-known at her former home, where she has a host of friends.

SIXTH SMALL-POX VICTIM AT ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Amanda Nixon, colored, aged forty-nine years, employed as a servant in the home of Rev. Dr. W. A. Holliday, a retired clergyman at 1021 Park avenue, was removed to the Isolation hospital, Saturday night, her illness being diagnosed as small-pox. She had been ill a day and there were few exposures. The case is a light one. The health authorities have been unable to determine the source of this infection as the patient has not been away from home. There are now four cases at the hospital, but one is about ready to be discharged and another will leave within a week.

According to the official statement there are fifty-nine cases in the State, divided as follows: Perth Amboy, 30; South Amboy, 1; Keyport, 1; New Brunswick, 7; Paterson, 8; Camden, 6; Plainfield, 6.

NEWARKER VIOLATED THE AUTOMOBILE LAW.

Speeding his Fiat racer down South avenue in the Netherwood section at the rate of thirty miles an hour, Frank L. Apgar, of Newark, was overtaken by Patrolman Dobson, of the auto squad, and placed under arrest. There was no number on his car.

Apgar, who gave his address at 291 Halsey street, was allowed to go on his promise to appear for sentence before Judge Runyon on Wednesday morning. He was profuse in his thanks to the chief.

Purchase a Large Tract.

The Metropolitan Construction Company, of which William Jeffery holds the controlling interest, took the title on Saturday to the tract of land, twenty-four acres, purchased from Israel W. Stout. The tract is in Piscataway township and is within one mile of the Bound Brook railroad station. It is on the county road to Bound Brook and the trolley line passes a corner of the tract. It is proposed to develope this land at once. J. H. Crane, attorney for Mr. Jeffery, and his various interests, attended to the legal formalities.

DR. ANDERSON WELCOMED

First M. E. Church Crowded with Worshippers to Hear and Greet New Pastor.

NO REFERENCE TO CHANGES.

Dr. McCrea's Successor Preaches Twice and Addresses Sunday School Pupils.

The First M. E. church was thronged with worshippers yesterday morning, when Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, the new pastor, occupied his pulpit for the first time following his appointment by Bishop Neely at the Newark Conference. Dr. Anderson made no public utterance regarding his coming to Plainfield. Following the service the members of the church and congregation took the opportunity to give him a warm welcome and assure him of their hearty support.

The new pastor preached a strong and impressive sermon, appropriate to the occasion, taking his text from Romans 4: 25, dwelling on three estials to Eastertide, "The Resurrection, Ascension and Mediatorship of Christ," and in this connection he presented four important features of the topic, sin, temptation, physical death and immortality.

Dr. Anderson said that the question, why did God permit sin to enter the world, was one that he had never been able to understand in a satisfactory way, but the great question to his mind was what provision has been made for sin. The preacher said that everyone is born into the world with a single nature and Christ has covered this sinful nature, by the Atonement. "Now, there is another great question," Dr. Anderson said, "does Christ meet our demands?" He believed that He did and that by accepting Christ it means out of the kingdom of Satan into the kingdom of Christ.

"Where is the point of Christianity if it does not save at every point," continued the speaker. "Christ is an example to us in temptation for He was tempted in all points as we are. It is the work of the Master to save men and keep them clean."

Dr. Anderson closed his discourse by showing the power of Christ over sin and death and picturing the glorious resurrection as illustrated in the crucifixion, death and resurrection of Christ. Throughout his entire sermon he held the close attention of everyone. He has a pleasing and impressive manner and displays an oratory that adds greatly to the interest of his words.

In the afternoon, Dr. Anderson addressed the Sunday-school, speaking of the significance of Easter and congratulating the school and the members upon their interest in this department of church work. Last evening the service was given up entirely to Easter music.

IMPROVING STREETS WITHOUT COST TO CITY.

Without any expense to the city, the work of macadamizing Martine avenue and grading Thornton avenue has been begun, the expense being born by the abutting property owners and the Central Park Realty Company. Martine avenue is to be macadamized for its entire length from curb to curb and the work begun at the Park avenue end, is now well under way. In connection with the macadamizing of Thornton avenue, the street has been regraded and the macadam is to be sixteen feet wide.

James L. Greenleaf, of the shade tree commission, has purchased from the Central Park Realty Company the lot at the northwest corner of Evergreen and Hillside avenues. The property measures 141 feet on Hillside avenue, and is 174 feet deep. Mr. Greenleaf is planning the erection of a handsome residence in the near future. By a deal recently consummated, William B. McMechen, vice president of the McMechen Preserving Company, of Wheeling, West Virginia, has purchased from the real estate company the house at the southwest corner of Prospect and Edgewood avenues. He will soon make his home in this city.

New Apparatus at the Plains.

The Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, of Scotch Plains, has received its new hook and ladder truck made by the Seagraves Company, of Columbus, Ohio. It is fully equipped with five ladders and other necessary things with which to fight fires. It cost about $1,000. The new apparatus was placed in the service yesterday.

Cake Sale Netted $45.

A cake sale held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church on Saturday afternoon for the benefit of Hope chapel's organ fund netted $45. Mrs. G. Herbert Condict and Mrs. L. R. Howard were in charge.

BATTLING FOR MILLIONS

Netherwood Fresh Air Home Interested in Today's Contest of Hewitt Estate.

HEIRS FIGHT FOR ESTATE.

Wealthy Testator Died at Oswego, N. Y., Where the Litigation Is Taking Place.

The fight to break the will of Frederick C. Hewitt, of Oswego, N. Y., who bequeathed sums aggregating about $4,500,000 to charity and education, and more than $300,000 to his relatives, besides naming the Metropolitan Museum of Art as the residuary legatee of his estate, estimated at over $5,000,000, was resumed today before Special Surrogate Frank A. Bell, in Oswego. V. W. Nash, of this city, represents the local Hewitt family who claim to be relatives. W. S. Angleman, also of this city, represents the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, which was bequeathed $100,000.

John B. Stanchfield, chief counsel for the contestant, Mrs. Charlotte H. Arnot, an aged and wealthy resident of Elmira, states that he expects to close the contestant's case before another adjournment is taken. Mrs. Arnot received nothing by the will, despite the fact that she is the testator's sister and sole surviving near relative.

It was stated yesterday that a large portion of the coming hearing would be devoted to the introduction of evidence tending to substantiate the contestant's contention that the will was not legally executed, her assertion being that Mr. Hewitt neither acknowledged the execution of the will nor affixed his signature to it in the presence of the subscribing witnesses. The contestant holds that the will, which is in the testator's handwriting, was drawn and signed by him at his home, the body and signature appearing to have been written with the same ink and at the same time.

LOCAL PHYSICIANS WILL ATTEND COMMENCEMENT

A notable gathering of medical men will be witnessed in New York city on Wednesday and Thursday, May 12 and 13, when the forty-ninth annual commencement exercises of the New York Homeopathic Medical College will be held and the alumni of the college will hold their annual banquet.

Among those who have been asked to attend the commencement exercises nd banquet are three local physicians, Dr. Daniel C. Adams, '90, of 46 Grove street; Dr. Jefferson C. Anderson, '99, of 405 West Fourth street, and Dr. Frank W. Cornwell, '00, of 192 East Front street. Dr. Anderson has also been invited to attend the decennial reunion of his class the night before the banquet. Two students from Plainfield graduate this year, Roger L. Cooley and Henry B. Dorr, and their relatives and friends are expected to attend the commencement exercises.

The program provides for commencement exercises at Mendelssohn Hall on Wednesday evening, May 12, and reunions of the classes of '84, '94 and '99 the same evening, at various places about the city. Next day the Alumni Association will hold its annual business meeting early in the evening at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, and immediately after it the annual banquet. Dr. Walter Sands Mills, of New York city, a graduate of the class of '89, will be toastmaster, and the speakers will include Dean Royal S. Copeland, Dr. John Prentice Rand., '83, of Worcester, Mass., president of the Alumni Association; Cyril H. Burdett, a prominent real estate lawyer of New York, and Commission Robert W. Hebberd, of the Department of Public Charities of New York city.

The commencement exercises and banquet mark the conclusion of the first year of the administration of Dean Royal S. Copeland, who gave up his position at the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, a year ago, to accept the responsibility of the management of the New York Homeopathic Medical College.

Holy Name Reception and Dance.

REV. DR. BLISS IS DEAD

Former Pastor of Crescent Ave. Presbyterian Church Passes Away.

AGED SEVENTY-TWO YEARS.

Had Charge Here For Sixteen Years and Did Much For the Presbyterian Flock.

Rev. Dr. John Colins Bliss, agen seventy-two years, and for sixteen years pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, died last night at his home at 423 West 154th street, New York, following an illness of but a few weeks duration. News of his death was received here this morning with deep regret by his many friends and formed parishioners, who knew nothing about his illness.

Dr. Bliss was the third pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, coming here in November, 1867, and continuing in his office until 1883, when he was succeeded by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, now of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York. The local church was organized in 1844 with a membership of eighty-six and prior to occupying its present edifice in 1872, the year it was erected, he preached at the house of worship on East Front street, about opposite M. C. Van Arsdale's shoe store. The land where the present church stands was given for the purpose by the late Job Male.

During his sixteen years' pastorate here, Dr. Bliss was successful and he was beloved not only by his own people but by all who knew him. He was an able preacher and a faithful and hardworking pastor. It was largely through his efforts that the church grew to such strength and influence in the community and to be one of the leaders in the Presbyterian denomination of the State. He resigned his pastorate here in 1883 and after spending a year abroad he accepted the call to the Washington Heights Presbyterian church, New York, where he continued to be successful in the ministry. He held that position until two or three years ago, when he was made pastorate-emeritus of the church, remaining as such until his death.

Dr. Bliss is survived by a wife and two sons, Edmund Bliss and Collins Bliss. The latter is a professor at the New York University, a position which he has held with honor for many years. The announcement of the funeral will be made later.

HAVE NO TRACE AS YET OF YOUNG EMIL MUECK

Emil Mueck is still missing from Elizabeth. No additional clues had been obtained as to hs whereabouts up to noon today. His father still continues to make exhaustive search and today he wrote chiefs of police in various cities and also wrote to friends in an effort to locate his son. He has also written to several electrical concerns throughout the country apprising them of the lad's disappearance. Young Mueck worked for the Weston Company, and he may possibly have secured work somewhere at his trade. The missing lad formerly resided here.

The boy is not in New Brunswick. The police chief there reported to the Elizabeth police yesterday that a boy of about Mueck's age had sought lodging, but it is not thought he was young Mueck. Mrs. Mueck is sill in a serious condition at her home.

The family received a clue this morning which may lead to his discovery. A woman of the name of Mrs. A. Robert Coles, of Mountainside, wrote to the Mueck family that her son had seen a young man at Maplewood, on the Lackawanna Railroad, which answered the description of the missing boy, and that he was working in a hotel.

Arrangements were made at once to investigate the report and Otto Mueck, Jr., started for Maplewood this afternoon in an automobile. It has since been learned that goung Mueck did not go away penniless, but that he had at least $100 with him. It is also believed that he is working somewhere.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Charged with a murderous assault on his wife with a knife, George Johnson, colored, of Matchtown, was committed to jail by Justice of the Peace Fowler, of Merchantville.

Thieves entered the saloon of Louis Pfeifer, at Broadway and Kaighn avenue, Camden, and carried away about $25 from a cash register. Harry Griffee and William McCaffrey, former bartenders at the saloon, were arrested last night.

In Jersey City an eastbound Bayonne trolley car and a truck collided at Johnson avenue and Grand street. The driver of the wagon, Harry Wieboldt, was hurled from his seat. He landed against a telegraph pole. His right leg was broken and his right side paralyzed.

So many fires have occurred near High and Main streets, Millville's business centre, that the property owners have asked the fire marshal to investigate. Nearly all of the large fires in recent years in Millville have been discovered within a block of this principal corner.

A campaign will be started this week by the Boards of Trade of Jersey City, Bayonne and Staten Island for the construction of a bridge across the Kill von Kull between Bergen Point and Port Richmond, Staten Island. A low level bridge would cost about $700,000, and this is favored.

Mistaking a bottle of laudanum for cough syrup, Catherine Warren, seventeen-year old daughter of John M. Warren, of Trenton, had a narrow escape from death. The child went to a closet for medicine to relieve a cough, drank from the wrong bottle, and only prompt medical attention saved her life.

Knocked down by an automobile, near his home, Harry Cannon, eight years old, of 515 State street, Camden, was placed in the machine of Michael Cotello, a chauffeur, of 246 North Broad street, Philadelphia, and hurried to Cooper Hospital, where it was found that the boy was not badly hurt. The chauffeur was exonerated by the police.

While responding to an alarm for a fire at 127 Warren street, Jersey City, Chemical Engine 4 was overturned as it rounded Newark avenue and Warren street. Albert Woods, the driver, and Horseman Dennis Crimmins and Richard Dehl were thrown to the pavement. Woods had his collarbone fractured and was sent to St. Francis' Hospital. Crimmins was injured on the right leg. Dehl's left arm and leg was bruised. They were taken home. The horses escaped injury.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR OF NEW YORK WANTED.

New York, April 12.—The following advertisement appeared in local papers Saturday:

WANTED—A successful Business Man to apply for position as candidate for Mayor of New York. Salary, $15,000. Address Frederick G. Space, Educational Dept., 23d St., Y. M. C. A., N. Y.

Explanations followed later in the day. Frederick G. Space, associate educational director of the Y. M. C. A. in New York, said that a Business Mayors' Club had been formed within the Y. M. C. A., which had for its purpose the selection of a candidate for Mayor upon whom all agents in sympathy with the movement might unite. He said that it had been scientifically demonstrated that the affairs of Greater New York could be conducted along the same general lines as a successful business, and the object of the club is to receive applications, consider qualifications and finally accept as a candidate an accredited successful business man, who will be presented for the consideration of the political organizations.

No applications have yet been received.

STEIN NOW AT HEAD OF ELIZABETH GOVERNMENT.

Elizabeth for the next week will have a Democratic Mayor. The present Republican Chief Executive, Dr. Victor Mravlag, started Friday with his wife for Old Point Comfort, Va. His last official act before departing was to write an order making Alderman Alfred A. Stein, the Democratic president of the board, Acting Mayor during his absence. The latter for two hours was the official head of the city government without knowing it.

Acting Mayor Stein is a lawyer and counsel for the Peter Breidt Brewing Company.

Conference of Federated Clubs.

The third conference of Federated Clubs of Union county will be held in the Second Presbyterian church at Rahway Friday afternoon, April 16, at 3 o'clock. Rev. W. T. Extraordinary Cut in Prices of High-Grade

WASH FABRICS

THIS IS THE FIRST general reduction in prices on Washable Dress Fabrics that has been made this season, and it is the most important one for the reason that this store's stock far outrank in quantity, quality and exclusiveness, any other stock in the city; in fact, it is safe to say that more kinds of beautiful wash fabrics are assembled here than any other three stores in Newark.

To be able to pick from such wonderful stocks at the prices we are going to quote is a privilege indeed—one that thrifty folks are sure to appreciate, and we look for a great rush beginning tomorrow, and continuing every day throughout the week.

Many goods are cut to below the actual cost to produce—many of them we cannot buy at the prices we are going to ask you for them because we have determined upon a drastic clearance of the finer fabrics.

There will be many other things on sale at special prices on various bargain tables throughout this division of the store, besides these we advertise.

Banzai Silks—Are exquisite silk and cotton mixtures with fine silky sheen and come in a wide range of colorings, the feature being a white dotted border—an innovation that will be appreciated; 45 inches wide; previously sold at 75c a yard; now to go at 39c

Silk and Cotton Foulards—In an immense variety of beautiful patterns and rich colorings so closely approaching silk as to be almost equal, and so woven as to make it remarkably strong—surely the firmest light-weight weave ever produced; 27 inches wide; value 59c a yard; to be sold at 29c

Kindergarten Cloth—One of the most popoular of this season's imported fabrics—very beautiful indeed; specially nice for children's dresses; useful for many other purposes; fully half a hundred new and dainty patterns and colorings; 30 inches wide; has been selling at 25c a yard; now to go at 18c

Silk and Cotton Bordures—Are among the most carming fabrics that have been brought out this season. They are made in all the fashionable colors, have a beautiful silky sheen and have dotted white borders running all through the goods, enabling you to make up the handsomest kind of dresses; goods that are 48 inches wide and have been regularly sold at the fair price of 59c a yard; cut to less than half price for this notable event 29c

Swiss Appliques woven with a flounce every forty-eight inches, the pattern being adaptable for waist front, collar and sleeves, enabling you to have a full dress completely trimmed; all wanted colors and black; 48 inches wide; to be sold at only 21c

Dress Ginghams—More than a hundred patterns and colorings at 12½c

Apron Gingham—Hundreds of patterns and colorings 5c

Silk and Cotton Pongees, showing splendid rough effect seen in the higher grade pongees, fine and silky; may be had in all the popular shades including wistaria, taupe, tan and natural; fine for summer dresses; values running to 65c a yard, to go at 38c

Silk and Cotton Voiles—one of the nicest of this season's high grade fabrics, largely in black and white combinations; some with exquisite white lace stripe effects; goods 45 inches wide; various grades; values running to $2 a yard; all to go at 65c

Galatea Cloths—the very best, including "Sampson" and other well-known makes; none of the trashy kinds; in solid colors, stripes, checks and dots; red, blue, brown, tan and gray; remarkably fine goods, well worth 20c a yard, at ony 12½c

Printed Percales—In a wide variety of designs and colorings, at 9c

Challies — Always immensely popular for only 4c

GEORGE V. VROOM DEAD IN HIS EIGHTIETH YEAR

George W. Vroom, of 44 Elm street, died last night at Muhlenberg Hospital from heart failure from which he had been suffering for the last three months. Until his recent illness he had always worked at the carpentry trade. Mr. Vroom was a native of Readington, Somerset county, and was seventy-nine years of age. He came to Plainfield about fifty years ago, and was well known among all carpenters and builders in this city, having worked on some of the largest buildings in the city. For many years he had been a regular attendant at what is now the Temple Baptist church.

The funeral will take place at the undertaking rooms of A. M. Runyon & Son, on Park avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. nterment will be at Hillside cemetery. Mr. Vroom leaves a wife and three sons, John W. Vroom, of Washington, D. C.; George W. Vroom, of Washington, D. C., and Louis D. Vroom, of Dunellen, N. J.

To Help in Road Building.

Thomas Fahey, at one time engineer at Muhlenberg Hospital, left today for Kensington, Maryland, where he will be in charge of a steam roller to be used in the construction of roads. Miles & Tigh, of Easton, Pa., are the contractors and the work is to be done by a State appropriation. Last summer Mr. Fahey did similar work in New York State.

Rubbish Fires in Town.

Two rubbish fires in the rear of stores in the heart of the city caused alarms from box 12 Saturday and yesterday afternoons. The fire Saturday was among some rubbish in the rear of the store at 18 Somerset street, while blazing boxes threatening the store of Morris Abrams brought the firemen out yesterday afternoon. There was no damage in either case.

Punishment Enough.

Edward Mercier, of Mountain avenue, was arrested by Marshal Weiss, in the borough, last night, for being intoxicated. In going up Somerset street he tripped and fell, striking his head on the pavement. When he appeared today before Recorder Dolliver, sentence was suspended as the Recorder was under the impression the bruises Mercier had received more than paid for his fine.

The Plainfield Sunday-school Teachers' Union and Training Class will meet tonight at Trinity Reformed church. The lesson will be taught by John Leal.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS OF FIRST BAPTIST S. S.

In connection with the Easter exercises under the auspices of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, yesterday afternoon, the annual report of the secretary, Raymond D. Carver, was presented and Superintendent George H. Batchelor made the appointments for the coming year. Secretary Carver's report showed that during the past year nineteen members of the school were baptized and four died, while there were 118 additions, ninety-five dropped, many of whom moved away, making the present membership in all departments 581, an increase of eighteen over the preceding year.

Thre are seventy-one in the primary department, forty-five on the cradle roll and 119 in the Home department. The average attendance for the year was 225, the largest being 300, on December 20, and the smallest 77, on August 9. It was with regret that the secretary reported the resignation of C. W. McCutchen from the teaching corps after a service of forty years, and there was the same expression concerning the resignation of B. J. Shreve, who has been librarian for a great many years. Robert Sherwin was appointed to succeed him. A new feature of the school is the men's Bible class, taught by Mr. Herman. This has a membership of forty-one.

James E. Church, as chairman of the Sunday-school Athletic Association, made a brief report. He said that of the eight cups offered in competition among the school associations of the city, the First Baptist had won six, and it won nine of the twelve games of basketball and the championship of the city. The Juniors also won the events in its class, while the Crescent Avenue church association won the senior events.

Superintendent George H. Batchelor then made his announcements for the year as follows: First assistant superintendent, Frank W. Jones; second assistant, James E. Church; superintendent intermediate department, R. C. Brown; superintendent junior department, Miss Katherine Perry; superintendent primary department, Mrs. J. A. Powlison; assistant, Mrs. Dudley S. Miller; superintendent beginners' department, Miss May White; superintendent Home department, Miss Laura J. Runyon; teacher normal training class, Miss May Serrell; chairman athletic association, James E. Church; secretary, Raymond D. Carver; vice, Ernest K. Powlison, resigned; assistant treasurer, Harold Robins.

It was further announced that the morning sessions of the school would begin the third Sunday in June and the afternoon sessions resumed the first Sunday in September. The annual excursion of the school to Asbury Park will be held on Thursday, July 22.

Following the afternoon exercises the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, baptized Henry Zook and Charles Blume, young men of the school. It was learned after the exercises that Mrs. Harold Serrell had resigned as assistant superintendent of the Junior department, after many years of faithful service. Other duties prevent her continuance in this office.

GOVERNOR WILL SOON SHAKE THE PLUM TREE.

Tension as to who will be appointed to the various State offices which are at the disposal of Governor Fort will be relieved early this week—perhaps tonight, at the first meeting of the last week of the session of the Legislature for this year. The chief executive has practically decided upon the names of all the men he will present to the Senate for confirmation. He has not, however, made even a single one known to any one and there is a great deal of speculation in all parts of the State as to what his list will disclose when it is made public. Last Saturday he declined to talk about the matter in any way except to say that early this week he would make the appointments.

They will include a successor to State Banking and Insurance Commissioner David O. Watkins; to the members of the county tax boards whose terms have expired or about to expire; to David Baird as a member of the State board of assessors, and to the members of the state riparian commission whose terms are up. There are also two state railroad commissioners to be appointed.

Plainfield Ice and Supply Co.

The Plainfield Supply Company, recently incorporated at Elizabeth, learning that there is another company here bearing the same name, re-incorporated today, changing the concern's name to that of The Plainfield Ice and Supply Company. Although the original Plainfield Supply Company was not incorporated, it was thought best to change the title and thus avoid confusion.

Funeral of Mrs. G. S. Clay.

The funeral service of Mrs. George S. Clay was held from Grace church, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church, officiated. There were many beautiful floral tributes from friends. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

GOVERNOR MAY ATTEND BANQUET AT ELIZABETH

Governor J. Franklin Fort will probably be the principal speaker at the annual dinner at Phil Keany Guard, Company C, which will be held in Astfalk's Hall, in Elizabeth, on the night of April 28. The Governor and his military aide, Colonel Colgate, have been invited to attend the banquet and the committee in charge feels sure that they will both be present. The dinner of the guard this year promises to surpass all other functions of a like manner ever held by the command. Mayor Mravlag and many other prominent civilians will be present and address the soldier boys.

Heretofore the dinner has been held in the company quarters, but this year the affair promises to be so big that it was necessary to procure a larger place. There was a meeting of the dinner committee Saturday night, at which time invitations were sent out and preliminary preparations were begun. It is expected that several hundred persons, including the members of the company, will attend the banquet. An interesting program will be arranged for the entertainment of the guests. Music will be a feature.

Among the speakers invited are Major Robert L. Patterson, Major William B. Martin, of the Second Battalion; ex-Captains Richard Cross and Louis J. Park, of Company C; ex-Captains McCarthy, of Company I; Captain Cunrad Hall, Lieutenants Tull and Weir, of Company I, and other ex-members of the guard.

Hoagland Wins Marathon.

The men's Marathon race conducted by the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday afternoon, was won by C. S. Hoagland, of the Y. M. C. A. team. The course extended from the Y. M. C. A. building on Front street out as far as Scotch Plains and return, covering a distance of five miles. The time made by the winner was 36 minutes 5 1-5 seconds. Others who run in the race were John R. Fritz, Harry Mager, Edward Hawks, C. Dufford, Harry Rothberg and Gideon Fountain.

Easter Memorial Tribute.

A large pot of Easter lilies, presented by W. J. R. Hegeman in memory of his father, Elder B. A. Hegeman, Sr., occupied a prominent position among the floral decorations at Trinity Reformed church yesterday. They were afterwards presented to the pastor-emeritus, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

PRESIDENT TO ATTEND GETTYSBURG UNVEILING.

Washington, April 12.—President Taft has signified his intention of attending the dedication ceremonies at the unveiling of the monument on the battlefield of Gettysburg, to the regular soldiers of the army who fell in that engagement. The exercises will take place on May 30, and both the President and Secretary of War Dickinson will deliver addresses. More than two thousand troops of the regular army will be taken from Fort Myer and Washington for the occasion.

The President promised Representative Olmsted, of Pennsylvania, today that he would attend the unveiling exercises at the Fort Mahon monument near Petersburg, Pa.

The President set April 16 as the date and the Governors of Pennsylvania and Virginia and delegations from the Legislatures of the two States as well as several patriotic societies, will call at the White House and receive from him his official promise to make the trip.

PERSONAL.

Miss Blanche Heidloff, of East Front street, is entertaining Miss Yera Rockwell, of Brooklyn.

Miss Bertha A. Jones, of Essex street, has been entertaining Miss Alice Thorburn, of New York.

Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, entertained his cousin, H. A. Kellogg, of Hackensack, yesterday.

Mrs. Grover and her niece, from Lawrenceville, N. J., spent Easter Sunday at the home of Reuben Knox, of Rockview avenue.

Dr. Hughes to Take a Rest.

Dr. Frederick Hughes, of Somerset street, will leave Plainfield on Wednesday for the Adirondacks, where he will take complete rest for the next two or three months and also devote a portion of his time to study. Mrs. Hughes will not accompany her husband for the present. His practice will be attended to by Dr. P. J. Zeglio. Dr. Hughes has applied himself steadily to his profession for several years and feels the need of a rest.

Funeral of Christian Bambach.

The funeral of Christian Bambach, who died at Muhlenberg Hospital on Saturday, will be held from the late residence, North avenue, Dunellen, at 8 o'clock tonight and from the German Masonic Temple, 220 East Fifteenth street, New York city, tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. The burial will be in the Lutheran cemetery, New York.

SPRING CLEANING TIME NOW HERE.

It is no doubt hersey, but some regard the results of the spring cleaning as incommensurate with the discomfort, loss of temper, expenditure of physical strength and money which spring cleaning brings in its train.

Good housuewives are said to revel in this annual saturnalia, but surely they only assume a cheerful demeanor under the trying conditions to hide their real martyrdom and to act as a foil to the bearish attitude of the average man during the operation. He assumes an injured air, as if he were the main sufferer, whereas the inconvenience to which he is exposed is microscopic compared with that which the woman of the household have to go through.

Nowadays, many contrivances tend in a measure to mitigate the severities of spring cleaning. The edious, fatiguing method of cleaning wpllaaper by rubbing it with bread, is superseded by a delightful preparation resembling putty, which acts like a sponge, and by a mere wiping of walls or ceilings with it, dirt is removed instantaneously with littlel more exertion or expenditure of time than is required to clean a slate.

The taking up of carpets and brushing of furniture threaten to become a memory of the past, with the new method of vacuum cleaning, which comfortably takes up gallons of black dust from a house, with carpets, curtains and fixtures all left in place. Then, add the pretty furniture slips, and it's all over.

Not a Genius.

Wayside Walter—How do youse suppose Smarty Smithers got dat college diploma dat he's allers flashin'? Steal it?

Drather Sitdown—Nope. He must 'a' gone t'rough college an' got it nat'ral—he ain't smart enough ter git it any other way.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Girl in Every Port.

Pretty Visitor (on board a battleship)—They say that Jack is leading a double life.

Sweetheart (who has been with the fleet)—He must be leading more than that, for he promised to die for as many different girls as the countries we visited.—Judge.

Cleaning the Stage.

"We hope," said the spokesman of the committee, "to enlist your support in favor of a clean stage."

"You have it," responded the theatrical manager, heartily. "Why, almost every one of my plays opens with a girl dusting everything in sight."—Philadelphia Ledger.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Easter Sunday was appropriately observed in the churches here yesterday. Special services and Easter music were given. At the Baptist church the choir rendered anthems at the morning service. Baptism was held, two candidates being received into the church. In the afternoon the choir and Sunday-school rendered an Easter cantata, "The Glad Tidings of Resurrection Glory," at the vesper service. The churches were all prettily trimmed with furns, palms and potted plants and the services were well attended, the epecial music being especially enjoyed.

Both young and old enjoyed the egg hunt held Saturday afternoon by the Baptist Sunday-school on the church lawn. At the conclusion of the hunt games and contests were held, jumping match, hundred yard dashes and a "Marathon" race around the block was enjoyed by the girls. Small prizes were given to the lucky winners in the several contests and every one voted the affair one of the best the school has yet held.

Rev. E. C. Grisriel, the newly appointed pastor of the Methodist church, began his pastorate yesterday. The services were well attended and the outlook for a prosperous year for pastor and people is very bright.

W. S. Mygrant, leader of the 13th Regiment Band, of New York, rendered a beautiful cornet solo, "There Is a Green Hill Far Away," at the morning service at the Baptist church yesterday.

The Junior ball team started the season Saturday by defeating the New Market team by a score 16-15. The game was played at New Market.

Mr. and Mrs. James Johnston, of Westfield avenue, entertained friends from out of town yesterday.

Robert Jahn, of Perth Amboy, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Robert Jahn, of Park avenue.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held in the church parlors yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., entertained relatives from out of town over Sunday.

The Epworth League held an interesting meeting in the church last night.

SCOTCH PLAINS FIREMEN HAVE THE SPRING FEVER.

That the Scotch Plains fire department does not care to turn out and fight mountain fires was shown Saturday afternoon. That morning the woods near the Ackerman estate were set on fire and during the afternoon the fire was endangering property. The caretaker of the estate telephoned to the 'Plains firemen asking for help. The call was unheeded. About 6 o'clock they telephoned again and this time it was decided to ring in an alarm. Both companies turned out in force, gathering at their engine houses. They were told where the fire was and asked to turn out and help subdue it. A consultation was held and it was decided to go home to supper first and fight the fire afterward.

At 7:30 another alarm was sounded, but only about eight or ten of the members responded. Those who did turn out are a little warm about the matter and say that they will insist on the $1.00 fine being imposed on all those who heard the alarm and failed to respond. If the fine is imposed the treasury of both comuanies will be enriched to a considerable extent.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Everyone interested in sports will be pleased to learn that Manager Counihan at the New Plainfield theatre tonight will exhibit the photographic reproduction of the world's championship contest between Thos. Burns and Jack Johnson. These pictures, without a question of a doubt, are considered by those who have seen them to be the best ever shown of a fistic battle. The management was especially fortunate in having a bright day and the best photographers that could be produced. These pictures will clearly prove what a wonderful fighter Johnson really is and the wonderful grit and staying powers of Burns against the wonderful handicap of Johnson's weight and size. The stadrum where this exhibition was held was the largest ever built and 20,000 people were in attendance.

The new Broadhurst play, "The Man of the Hour," under the direction of William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer, is to be again presented in this city. While Mr. Broadhurst has taken for his central theme the political situation as it exists in nearly every great city in the country, he has also interwoven a franchise deal and what is said to be a very delightful love story. The young man is in love with the niece of the financier, and she has told him that before she can promise to become his wife he must prove himself worthy and "do something." The mayoralty is his opportunity. He accepts the nomination and wins the election. The franchise bill in the course of time passes the Council and comes to the Mayor for signature, but Bennett, realizing that it is a "steal," steadfastly refuses to sign it. In the end strict honesty prevails and Bennett wins his sweetheart. This splendid organization will appear here tomorrow night.

Joseph Jefferson, Sr., has passed from our midst and now his son, William W., is making a bid for the praise which was so justly bestowed upon the elder Mr. Jefferson. Through the sudden illness of the father "Willie" Jefferson, several years ago, was compelled to assume the role of "Bob Acres" in "The Rivals" at very short notice. The press, at the time, spoke very highly of his performance, comparing his work most favorably with that of his father. Since then, he has played the part almost continuously. His brother Joseph will be seen to excellent advantage as "Sir Lucius O'Trigger," a part which he played in support of the father. A company of distinction will make this a dependable entertainment when it comes to the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night.

"The Man From Home," the play of the century, as it has been termed, comes to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night. All last year it ran in Chicago, where it hung up a new record of 342 performances. It is the joint work of the Indiana authors, Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, and its producers are the sterling New York firm, Liebler and Company, who have yet to send on tour their first poor play, inferior company or incomplete stage production. The Liebler name has been synonymous with guaranteed stage excellence.

WAR ON COUNTY BOARDS STILL ON IN LEGISLATURE.

Trenton, April 12.—Governor Fort's latest plan to abolish the present county boards of taxation, as embodied in Senate bill No. 363, introduced by Mr. Gaunt, shows that the Executive still regards these boards as worthless. The Gaunt bill, offered this week at the Governor's suggestion, would do away with the present membership of the county boards of taxation and would substitute for them new boards in each county to be composed of the director of the Board of Freeholders and the collector, as well as one other person, to be appointed by the Executive. At present the boards are composed of three members appointed by the State head.

The Governor has repeatedly declared the present boards are a needless expense to the State and has urged they be abolished. He had a bill introduced in the House for this purpose, but it was easily and quickly defeated. Now comes the Executive's new scheme, however, and by its provisions he would increase the pay of the director of the Board of Freeholders and the County Collector in first class counties $500 each as additional compensation for their new labors under the bill. The third member in these counties will be paid $2,500 a year if the Governor's measure prevails. In second-class counties the increases would be $300 for the director and collector and $1,800 salary for the appointee, while in all other counties the advances for the collector and director would be $200 and the appointee's salary $1,000.

If the bill was enacted into law it would save the State over $60,000 a year and add but little to the burdens of the counties.

The clerks to the county boards would also be abolished by the bill, and the measure, it was explained, would solve the criticism as to the expense the boards are to the State, and would also aid the State in securing a much-needed revenue.

PATENTED

This is the Square Pot of the BOYNTON FURNACE

that saves fuel and dollars and will heat the whole of a house. In every great engine and under every big boiler you'll find a square fire box. Ever noticed it? Well—we have adapted that principle to our furnaces. A square pot gives a clean, hot, clinkerless fire without waste of fuel. It requires the least attention and responds instantly. BOYNTON furnaces only have square fire-pots. It is our patent. There are other improvements. A square ash pit that improves the draft and makes removal of ashes easier. A pure air supply—for health's sake. A dust flue that saves the rooms above.

Look up the BOYNTON dealer in your town and talk it over.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"I jes' wan' to be on de groun' de firs' time dat Mars Douglas and dat sre Deacon Strong clinches," she said to Hasty as they locked the doors and turned out the hall light. "Did you done see his jaw?" she whispered. "He look laughin' enough now, but jes' you wait till he done set dat 'ere jaw o' his'n, and dar ain't nobody what's goin' ter unsot it."

"Maybe dar ain't goin' ter be no clinchin'," said Hasty, hoping for Mandy's assurance to the contrary.

"What?" shrieked Mandy. "Wid dat 'ere sneakin' Widow Willoughby already a-tellin' de deacons how ter start de new parson a-goin' proper?"

"Now, why youse always a-pickin' on to dat 'ere widow?" asked Hasty, already enjoying the explosion which he knew his defense of the widow was sure to excite.

"I don' like no woman what's allus braggin' 'bout her clean floors," answered Mandy shortly. She turned out the last light and tiptoed upstairs, trying not to disturb the pastor.

John Douglas was busy already with pencil and paper, making notes of the plans for the church and parsonage, which he would perfect later on. Alas, for Douglas' day dreams! It was not many weeks before he understood with a heavy heart that the deacons were far too dull and uninspired to share his faith in beauty as an aid to man's spiritual uplift.

"We think we've done pretty well by this church," said Deacon Strong, who was the business head, the political boss and the moral mentor of the small town's affairs. "Just you worry along with the preachin', young man, and we'll attend to the buyin' and buildin' operations."

Douglas' mind was too active to content itself wholly with the writing of sermons and the routine of formal pastoral calls. He was a keen humanitarian, so little by little he came to be interested in the heart stories and disappointments of many of the village unfortunates, some of whom were outside his congregation. The mentally sick, the despondent, who needed words of hope and courage more than dry talks on theology, found in him an ever ready friend and adviser, and these came to love and depend on him. But he was never popular with the creed bound element of the church.

Mandy had her wish about being on the spot the first time that the parson's jaw squared itself at Deacon Strong. The deacon had called at the parsonage to demand that Douglas put a stop to the boys playing baseball in the adjoining lot on Sunday. Douglas had been unable to see the deacon's point of view. He declared that baseball was a healthy and harmless form of exercise, that the air was meant to be breathed and that the boys who enjoyed the game on Sunday were principally those who were kept indoors by work on other days. The close of the interview was unsatisfactory both to Douglas and the deacon.

"Dey kinder made me cold an' prickly all up an' down de back," Mandy said later when she described their talk to Hasty. "Dat 'ere deacon don' know nuffin 'bout gittin' roun' de parson." She tossed her head with a feeling of superiority. She knew the way. Make him forget himself with a laugh. Excite his sympathy with some village underdog.

CHAPTER VII.

MANDY had secretly enjoyed the commotion caused by the little circus rider being left in the parsonage, at first because of her inborn love of mischief and later because Polly had become second in her heart only to the pastor. She went about her work, crooning softly during the days of Polly's convalescence. The deep, steady voice of the pastor reading aloud in the pretty window overhead was company. She would often climb the stairs to tell them some bit of village gossip and leave them laughing at a quaint comment about some inquisitive sister of the church who had happened to incur her displeasure.

As spring came on Douglas carried Polly down to the sunlit garden beneath the window, and Mandy fluttered about arranging the cushions with motherly solicitude.

More days slipped by and Polly began to creep through the little, soft leaved trees at the back of the church and to look for the deep, blue, sweet scented violets. When she was able Douglas took her with him to visit some of the outlying houses of the poor. Her woman's instinct was quick to perceive many small needs in their lives that he had overlooked and to suggest simple, inexpensive joys that made them her devoted friends.

Their evenings were divided between making plans for these unfortunates and reading aloud from the Bible or other books.

When Polly gained courage, Douglas sometimes persuaded her to read to him, and the little corrections that he made at these times soon became noticeable in her manner of speech. She was so eager, so starved for knowledge that she drank it as fast as he could give it. It was during their talks about grammar that Mandy generally fell asleep in her rocker, her unfinished sewing still in her lap.

When a letter came from Jim and Toby it was always shared equally by Mandy and Hasty, Polly and the pastor. But at last a letter came from Jim only, and Douglas, who was asked to read it, faltered and stopped after the first few words.

"It's no use my tryin' to keep it from you any longer, Poll," the letter began. "We ain't got Toby with us no more. He didn't have no accident; it wasn't that. He just seemed kinder sick an' allin' like ever since the night we had to leave you behind. I used to get him warm drinks an' things an 'try to pull him through, but he was always a-chillin' and a'achin'. If it wasn't one thing it was another. I done all I knowed you'd 'a' wanted me to, an' the rest of the folks was mighty white to him too. I guess they kinder felt how lonesome he was. He couldn't get no more laughs in the show, so Barker had to put on another man with him. That kinder hurt him, too, I s'pose, an' showed him the way that things was a-goin'. It was just after that he wrote the parson a-tellin' him to never let you come back. He seemed to 'a' got an idee in his head that you was happier where you was. He wouldn't let me tell you 'bout his feelin' rocky, 'cause he thought it might mebbe make you come back. 'She's diff'rant from us,' he was allus a-sayin'. 'I never spected to keep 'er.'"

As spring came on Douglas carried Polly down to the sunlit garden.

Douglas stopped. Polly was waiting, her face white and drawn. He had not told her of Toby's letter because with it had come a request to "say nothin' ter the kid."

He felt that Polly was controlling herself with an effort until he should reach the end of Jim's letter, so he hurried on.

"The parson's promise didn't get to him none too quick," he read. "That seemed to be what he was waitin' for. He give up the night it come, an' I got him a little room in a hotel after the show an' let one of the other fellers get the stuff out o' town, so's I could stay with him up to the finish. It come round mornin'. There wasn't much to it—he just seemed tired an' peaceful-like. 'I'm glad he wrote what he did,' he said, meanin' the parson. 'She knows, she allus knows,' he whispered, meanin' you, Poll, an' then he was on his way. He'd already give me what was saved up for you, an' I'm sendin' it along with this"— A blue money order for $250 had fluttered from the envelope when Douglas opened it.

"I got everything ready afore I went on the next day, an' I went up an' saw the little spot on the hill where they was goin' to stow him. It looked kinder nice, an' the digger's wife said she'd put some flowers on it now an' then.' It was you what made me think o' that, Poll, 'cause it seemed to me what you would 'a' done. You was allus so daffy about flowers, you an' him.

"I guess this letter's too long for me to be a-sayin' much about the show, but the 'leap-a-death' girl got her'n last week. She wasn't strong enough for the job nohow. I done what I could for her outside the show, 'cause I knowed how you was allus a-feelin' 'bout her. I guess the 'leap-a-death's' husband is goin' to jump his job soon, if he gets enough saved up, 'cause him an' Barker can't hit it off no more. We got a good deal o' trouble among the animals too. None o' the snakes is shedding' like they ought to, an' Jumbo's a-carryin' a sixteen foot bandage around that trunk o' his'n 'cause he got too fresh with Trixy's grub the other night, an' the new giraffe's got the croup in that seven foot neck o' his'n. I guess you'll think I got the pip for fair this time, so I'll just get on to myself now an' cut this short. I'll be writin' you ag'in when we hit Morgantown.

"YOUR OLD MUVVER JIM."

Douglas laid the letter gently on the table, his hand still resting upon it. He looked helplessly at the little, shrunken figure in the opposite chair. Polly had made no sound, but her head had slipped lower and lower, and she now sat very quietly with her face in her hands. She had been taught by Toby and Jim never to whimper.

STANDING IN TWO-MAN TOURNEY AT CAMPBELL'S

Aside from Nash and Blatz, winning all six games which they bowled, nothing out of the ordinary was accomplished in Campbell's two-man tourney last week.

Those six victories gave Nash and Blatz a firm hold on second place, for the present at least, and are making it warm for Skelly and Miller who are at the top of the heap.

Meyer and Meyer made a substantial gain and jumped into fourth place, but one game behind Matthews and Brown, who are third.

The team standing and schedule for the week is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Skelly and Miller	20	4
Nash and Blatz	17	4
Matthews and Brown	17	7
Meyer and Meyer	16	8
Laing and Stout	10	8
Radin and Schaub	14	10
Campbell and Herbert	13	11
Willett and Skinner	13	11
McLaughlin and Theirs	13	11
Vanderbilt and Eller	16	14
Ortleb and Ortleb	12	12
Kiely and Causebrook	12	12
Conklin and Britton	12	12
Shannon and O'Keefe	9	9
Leonard and McNaughton	9	9
Boyle and Owens	9	15
Vail and Ackor	5	10
Quinn and McInerney	7	17
Snyder and Minnick	5	19
Reville and Connelly	4	14
Woolston and McCollough	4	20

Tonight—Woolston and McCollough, Vail and Ackor, Laing and Stout.

Wednesday — McLaughlin and Thiers, Causebrook and iKely, Radin and Schaub.

Thursday—Shannon and O'Keefe, Leonard and McNaughton, Quinn and McInerney.

Friday — Willett and Skinner, Matthews and Brown, Snyder and Minnick.

MORRIS HIGH DEFEATS LOCAL SCHOOL BOYS

For the second time this season, the City High School went down to defeat. The victors this time were the fast Morris High School boys of New York. The final score was 2 to 1. As the score indicates, the game was close.

Inability to hit when hits meant runs, combined with poor base running, lost the game for P. H. S. In the last inning at two different times there were men on third with no outs and there would have been another tale to tell had any judgment been shown in base running.

VanZandt pitched a steady game for P. H. S., striking out four and keeping the singles well scattered. Snyder and Dodwell played best for P. H. S. Grossman put up the finest game for Morris.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Jay Gould, the international amateur tennis champion, easily defeated Joshua Crane, of Boston, in three straight sets, Saturday.

TO REPRESENT CITY IN BOWLING CONTEST.

From present indications but one five-man entry will be made by local bowlers in the N. B. A. championships to be held at Madison Squae Garden next month. It was thought that two teams could easily be procured from the many pin knights of this vicinity but for some reason or other the idea did not appeal to the necessary number to make up two teams.

The team which will represent this city will be known as the Plainfield Bowling Club and will be composed of Edward A. Laing, Chauncey F. Stout, Francis J. Blatz, V. W. Nash and John Compbell.

In the two-man championships Laing and Stout will team up as will also Nash and Campbell.

"The Seamy Side of Life."

The April meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational church will be held Friday night and will be a "ladies' night" affair. Judge Teal, of Brooklyn, will deliver an address on "The Seamy Side of Life," as seen from a Judge's standpoint; and Miss Teal will render violin solos. Refreshments will be served.

PROCTOR'S NEW CIRCUIT INCLUDES PLAINFIELD

As a result of the suggestions made by Harry S. Sanderson, who is associated with F. F. Proctor, Sr., at Proctor's theatre, a new Proctor circuit has been inaugurated and effective commencing today. The circuit will include Proctor's new theatre in Newark, the Elizabeth and Plainfield theatres. First-class vaudeville will be presented at each and instead of the changes being made twice a week as before, changes will be made Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week. This is made possible by the introduction of vaudeville at the Newark house.

The bill for Proctor's theatre here this week will be as follows: Today and tomorrow, Vincent Sisters, singers and dancers; Jimmy Coveney, comedian and monologuist; Wednesday and Thursday, Moo & Harrison, musical novelties; Eddie Cantor, comedian; Friday and Saturday, Leonard & Wood, "Ike and His Father;" May Isabel, character change artist.

PERSONAL.

Miss Jean Griscom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Griscom, has returned to her home on Sycamore avenue, after spending several months in Europe.

Miss Edith Ga Nun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ga Nun, of Dunellen, who is a student at the Normal School, Trenton, has been spending the Easter vacation at her home.

At the horse show held at Atlantic City, last week, Miss Adele VonOhl, the spectacular professional rider, notwithstanding a fall, had the satisfaction of putting Irish Reel in second place.

Miss Elizabeth McGee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, of Rockview avenue, who is a student at Ingleside School, New Milford, Conn., is spending the Easter vacation with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Kasper Bolsterle, of Watchung avenue, who observed the forty-sixth anniversary of their wedding on Friday night, are both faithful members of Trinity Reformed church, and not Warren chapel, as stated.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

A business meeting of the William N. Runyon Bible class of Hope chapel will be held in the chapel tomorrow night. A rehearsal of the minstrel entertainment will follow the meeting.

At the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock, H. T. Scheckler, superintendent of the Elizabeth Rescue Mission, will conduct the service. There will be special music. All are welcome.

POLES HURT IN FIGHT; NO ARRESTS MADE.

An Easter Day fight in a Polish tenament near the South Plainfield railroad station resulted in the injury of the three combatants, and the removal of one of them, Romo Wensdy, to the hospital in the ambulance. Wensdy was treated for a severe scalp wound and cuts about the face and head. He was discharged after treatment and was back on his job in the railroad section gang today.

The names of the two other injured men could not be learned, but it is reported that one of them was seriously hurt internally. He refused to go to the hospital. Dr. H. D. Corbusier was summoned. Constable William Reilly, of South Plainfield, dispersed the crowd, which numbered about a hundred men and women, but no arrests were made.

Addition For Garage.

Ground was broken today for an addition on the southwest side of Morris Brothers' garage on East Fourth street, and the extension will be ready for occupancy within a month. The improvement will cost about $6,000. The construction will be of cement block.

He Stole a Cart.

Albert Carter, a young negro living at Fritz place, was arrested by Marshal Weiss, Saturday afternoon, for stealing an Irish mail cart from off the porch of T. L. Mellick, corner of Union and Howard streets, Thursday night. He was fined $2 by Recorder Dolliver.

EASTER IN THE CHURCHES

and F. E. Smith.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, Easter lilies and ferns. Those on decoration: Mrs. Jacob Beckman, Mrs. L. B. Van Camp, Mrs. F. A. Van Name and Miss E. J. Cooley.

Crescent Avenue Church.

Rev. Dr. E. G. Reed and Rev. Richard Campbell assisted Rev. J. S. Zelie at the Easter morning service at the Crescent Avenue church, when the pastor preached. Easter lilies were lavishly used in the decoration of the edifice, and the seating capacity was taxed to the utmost at the moring service. A substantial collection was received, which will be added to the deacon's fund. Easter exercises were held at the conclusion of the morning service, when the Lenten offering was received for mission work.

Grace P. E. Church.

Grace church was thronged by a fashionably dressed congregation for the Easterday service yesterday. The largest congregation was at the morning service, when Rev. Dr. Morgan, of Brooklyn, assisted the rector, Rev. E. V. Stevenson. Music was a feature of the service and the Easter Day offering was a substantial one. In the afternoon the Sunday-school Easter exercises were held and there was an address by the rector. Rev. Dr. Morgan preached at the evening service, which was largely attended.

Park Avenue Baptist.

In addition to the elaborate Easter services held at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday, which were according to the announced program, features of last night's Sunday-school service was the illustration of "The Feast of the Passover," by Miss Ruth Angel, a Christian Jewish woman of New York, and the baptism of Madelyn Moy, Edith Lowry, William Watts, Philip Schuyler and Fred Smith by Pastor Finn. The floral decorations were among the finest of recent years.

First M. E. Church.

The Easter services at the First M. E. church, yesterday, were of special interest because they marked the presence of the new pastor. The vested choir, under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, rendered the musical programs morning and evening, as published, a feature being the solo work of Miss Jessie Haynes, the new contralto. She sang well, as did also Miss Bertha vanNuis Willis, soprano, and Bertram Tallamy, bass, who had solo parts. The church was decorated with flowers, plants and ferns.

The Easter exercises of the Sunday-school in Vincent chapel in the afternoon were largely attended and of much interest. James R. Joy, superintendent, was in charge of the general program, which included the singing of carols and recitations by older members of the school, as well as a short address by the new pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson.

In addition the primary department, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, presented this program:

Recitations, "He Shall Rise," Caryl Dunavan; "Son of Spring," Ella Vail and Carrie Creager; "Children's Easter Praise," Leonard Dennick;" "The Robin's Mistake," Elizabeth Hicks; "Easter," John Bolsterle, Jr.; song, Frank Rowley, Jr., Amy Lorton, Carlton Moore, Elsie Townley, Stanley Houston, Mildred Sminck, Caryl Dunavan, Helen Kierdling, Maud Edell, Constance Swackhamer, and Charles Weaver. Simple exercises were also held by the intermediate classes, of which Miss Edna French and Mrs. Frank Rowley are the teachers. An interesting feature was the distribution of flowers to every members of the school.

Under the direction of Mrs. Arthur E. Crone, superintendent, the beginners' department rendered this program: Recitations, Oscar Johnson, Bowen Henry, Russell Lynn, Margaret Evans, Margaret Dunavan; Bible serve, Lloyd Randall; recitation, Lois Beekman; recitation by Arthur McVoy, and cong by chorus comprising Mildred Vocely, Lois Beekman, Roswell Ewart, Howard Fisher, Margaret Evans, Margaret Dunavan, Gertrude Joy, Bowen Henry, Russell Lynn and Gladys Randall; recitations, Marie Heidloff, Gertrude Joy and Howard Fisher.

St. Mary's Church.

St. Mary's church was filled to its utmost capacity at each of the five Easter Day masses. The principal service of the day was at 10:30 o'clock, when solemn high mass was conducted by Father Sciola as celebrant. Father Bogan acted as deacon and Rev. Mr. McDonald, of Seton Hall College, was sub-deacon. Father Bogan preached an eloquent sermon; his topic was "The Resurrection."

St. Joseph's Church.

Easter services at St. Joseph's church were attended by large congregations and the church altar was handsomely decorated with Easter lilies and cut flowers by the sisters of the school. The chief celebration at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, when solemn high mass was conducted by Rev. Father Maurice, of Hoboken. Father Miller was deacon, Father Tyrrell, sub-deacon and Father McMeninan master of ceremonies. A feature of the music at this celebrtion was the procession of a hundred children from the school, who sang "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today." Stehle's prize mass was sung under the direction of James Bailey. Alfred La Porte, James Bailey and Edmund La Porte were the soloists. Miss Harriet DeMeza was at the organ, and was assisted by Professor Paroubeck, who furnished a violin obligato.

Warren Chapel.

Easter services at Warren chapel were held yesterday afternoon. There were addresses made by Rev. John Zelie and F. H. Andrews, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Besides the singing of Easter carols by the Sunday-school, there was singing of a song by the primary department, those taking part being the Misses Stiglitz, Kurtzhals, Bacon and Demerest. Louis Chandler recited an Easter poem and Carlto Moore sang a number of carols. The offering went to the Italian mission work of the city.

Temple Baptist Church.

The Special Easter service was held at the Temple Baptist church last night, when under the direction of Superintendent L. W. Randolph, this excellent program was rendered: Anthem, choir; Easter carol, school; Scripture reading, L. W. Randolph; prayer, Frank Stewart; anthem, choir; recitation, Fred Berg; song, Lillian Ryno, Isabel Coleman, Nellie Askham; recitation, Helen Myers; solo, Blanche Askham; chorus, five girls; anthem, choir; recitation, David Myers and William Cortwright; solo, Alice Huff, and primary chorus; recitation, Lillian Ryno; solo, Paul Pope, and chorus of boys, Roy Hafner, Wesley Giles, Hardnes Patterson, Frank Dower, Robert Cortwright, Clarence Carson, Monroe Gulberg; recitation, Nellie Askham, Mildred Dower, Nellie Wurgler; remarks by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson; anthem, choir, Easter anthem, school, benediction, pastor. There was also special music at the morning service.

CENTENARY CHURCH GREETS DR. M'CREA

Making no reference except in his opening prayer to the feeling that was engendered in Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Newark, when Bishop Thomas B. Neely last Tuesday transferred the former pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead, to the First church, Hoboken, the Rev. Dr. Abel C. McCrea, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, this city, preached his first sermon as pastor there yesterday morning. There was a large congregation and every effort was made by the officials and people to make him feel that he is welcome. Every consideration that could possibly be shown to the new minister was his, and Dr. McCrea expressed himself as more than pleased.

The official board was waiting for Dr. McCrea before the church service on the corner of Kearny street and Summer avenue outside the church, and when the minister approached, Frank A. Sterling, of the board, enthusiastically introduced him mto his co-workers. No especial man acted as spokesman for the board, every member doing his best to make Dr. McCrea welcome.

In his sermon, the popular Dr. McCrea took for his text Matthew, 20:8, speaking on the mixed fear and joy which the Resurrection of the Saviour brought to the world and to Christ himself.

"People of that day were just the same as the people of the present," said the new pastor. "They feared and rejoiced at the same time; feared because of the strangeness of Christ's rising from the dead, and yet rejoiced because He did so. It was that sort of mixed joy that the people experienced.

"But what of Christ's joy in His own Resurrection? What did Our Savior feel and think as He came back to us from the world of the Just Beyond? We find an answer in Christ's parable as given to His disciples and followers. "The parables of the Lost Coin, of the Lost Sheep and of the Lost Son, all illustrate the joy and sweetness that must have been His at that time. * * * First, the joy of finding and saving, as illustrated by the simple incident of the Lost Coin; and then, the joy of Power, that greatest of joys that comes from the feeling of something well done, of a consciousness that in the face of temptation, we have said and can still say 'no.'"

After the service, as many as were able of the 1,200 who crowded the church, came and shook hands with the minister, in accordance with an invitation extended by Dr. McCrea before pronouncing the benediction.

Lecture on Passion Play.

A decidedly entertaining and instructive talk was given at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting by A. D. V. Honeyman on the "Passion Play" yesterday afternoon. There was a large congregation of men to hear the gifted speaker. Mr. Honeyman, who is an extensive traveler, said that on all his visits to the Holy Land and the very very country where Christ lived, preached and died, there was nothing he had ever seen that appealed to him like the wonderful tragedy-drama that is portrayed of Christ at Ober-Ammergan. His talk was illustrated.

FIRE APPARATUS BOUGHT

Combination Chemical Engine and Hose Wagon for East End House.

COMMON COUNCIL'S ROUTINE.

Closed Park Theatre Proprietor Wants Back Some of His License Fee—Other Matters.

The Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, purchased a combination chemical engine and hose wagon for the new east end fire-house, the action being taken through a resolution offered by Mr. Taylor, chairman of the fire committee, providing that the bid of J. Boyd & Bro., of Philadelphia, for $1,430 for such apparatus, be accepted. This will be a horse-drawn apparatus and will be ready by the time the new fire-house is completed.

Thomas Murphy, owner of the property where the Park theatre is located, and which was conducted as a moving picture place, asked the Council to refund him a portion of the $150 paid as a license on January 1, inasmuch as the theatre was closed. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The contract and bond of the Watchung Stone Company, for furnishing the city with curbing and crosswalks during the coming year, was referred to the corporation counsel for approval.

The League of American Municipalities, through its secretary, notified the Council that its annual convention would be held at Montreal, Canada, August 25-29, and requested it to be represented; also to join the league. This was referred to the public affairs committee.

The annual request of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., for $100 appropriation with which to observe Memorial Day, was referred to the finance committee. J. B. Conklin, who was a call-man in the fire department and who was recently appointed a clerk in the post-office and has moved to the borough, presented his resignation and the same was accepted. The release of Harry Dencklau, upon the payment by the city of $30, for injuries to a horse, was filed.

The offer of Alexander Milne to equip the new East End fire-house with electrical apparatus, automatic doors, etc., for $104 was accepted and the contract ordered signed. This action was taken through a resolution offered by Mr. Taylor.

Councilman Clay called up the amendment to the ordinance to license inns and taverns, which imposes a fine of $20 for each violation instead of $100 and sixty days, and it was adopted on second reading and ordered advertised. The change is made so that offenders can be taken before the city magistrate, instead of permitting them to go before the county court.

Upon motion of Councilman Gloak, chairman of the street committee, the ordinances providing for the opening of Stelle avenue, from Madison avenue to Union street; Mariners place and the improvements of certain streets were adopted on third reading and await Mayor Fisk's signature.

Driver Fined $5 and Costs.

Andrew Jeffries, a negro driver for the Watchung Stone Company, was arrested by Marshal Weiss, yesterday, for dropping a lot of crushed stone from his wagon as he was driving up Somerset street. Jefferies had been warned on several occasions by the police for over-loading his wagon and allowing pieces of stone to be strewn along the street where it would throw bicycle riders and puncture automobile tires. When he appeared before Recorder Dolliver he was fined $5 and costs.

Italian Song Service.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church had charge of the meeting at the Italian Mission last night, Charles Dayton being the leader, while Rev. A. E. Finn made a short address. Nearly the whole evening was devoted to music, there being selections by Ralph de Matthew, Frank Larento and Dominick Perretto on the guitar and mandolin.

Simeon Brinkley.

Simeon Brinkley, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Brinkley, colored, of East Third street, died yesterday after an illness of a few days. He was nine months of age. The funeral will be at his parents' home, 410 East Third street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be at Hillside cemetery.

F. L. Holt an Autoist.

Councilman Frank L. Holt, of Kensington avenue, is the latest city father to own an automobile. Among the other members who own machines are F. E. Mygatt and Duncan W. Taylor.

FOWLER MAY LOSE OUT FOR THE CHAIRMANSHIP

It is freely predicted that Speaker Cannon at Washington will reorganize the committee on banking and currency from head to foot.

In such event it is believed he will select Representative Vreeland, of New York, to head it in place of Charles N. Fowler, of New Jersey, the present chairman.

The New Jersey member was the only Republican who announced his candidacy to succeed Mr. Cannon as Speaker of the Sixty-first Congress.

He was also one of the "insurgents" who caused so much trouble for the organization in the fight over the adoption of the rules of the present House.

WATCH DAILY PRESS BULLETIN FOR SCORES

Following its custom of last year The Daily Press has again completed arrangements for receiving daily by telegraph the scores from the National and American League baseball games. These scores will be posted on the bulletin in front of The Daily Press office every afternoon as soon after the completion of the games as it is possible to get the results. That this feature, which was inaugurated by this paper, was appreciated last year, was attested by the hundreds of people that gathered in front of the office every night. Those who follow the big league games no longer have to wait for the sporting extras.

In addition to posting the scores at The Daily Press office they will also be furnished every night to Henry Windham, proprietor of the Hotel Waldorf on East Front street, where his patrons will get the same excellent service.

The Daily Press "baseball service" began last night with the opening of the American League and will be continued daily throughout the season.

BUDGET CONFIRMED BY COMMON COUNCIL

The annual budget as published exclusively in The Daily Press of yesterday, was adopted on two readings at an adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, and ordered advertised. There was only one slight change, the amount given the Shade Tree Commission being $2,270, instead of $2,250, the former being the figure decided upon.

The various amounts named in the budget, exclusive of library, school, poor, fire, State and county tax, aggregate a total of $79,000 to be raised. The budget is made up of the following items:

Police, $30,000 as against $30,580 last year; street, $37,300 as against $35,000 last year; sewer maintenance, $13,500 as against $7,000 last year; salaries, $13,440, no change; rent, $1,610, no change; printing and stationery, $3,368, no change; elections, $135, no change; Board of Health, $7,500, no change; $6,000 last year; district court, $1,869, no change; street lighting, $15,500, no change; shade tree commission, $2,250, no change; alms, $8,000, no change; Public Library, $7,500, no change; fire department, $34,000, no change.

Prior to the adoption of the annual tax budget on its second reading, several amounts were certified to that body by different departments and then filed. The Shade Tree Commission determined that it would need $2,270 and $200 additional for the care of the city park. The offer of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital to provide for the city's indigent poor the coming year for $1,500 was accepted and passed upon through the adoption of a recent resolution offered by Mr. Mygatt.

The Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and eRading Room, through Alexander Gilbert, certified that $7,500 would be needed the coming year for library and reading room purposes. This was filed, as was also the certification of the Board of Health for $7,500 for the coming year. These various amounts were incorporated in the budget which made up the annual tax ordinance.

Will Tell of Steam Engines.

F. H. Ball, of this city, who is connected with the American Engine Company, Bound Brook, will deliver a lecture Friday night, April 23, before the local members of the National Association of Stationary Engineers, at their rooms, 109 Park avenue. All persons interested are invited. Mr. Ball will describe the development of the steam engine.

DOCTORS ASSIGNED BY MEDICAL STAFF

At the regular meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, these physicians were appointed as assistants to the medical board for the year beginning April 30 next:

In the departments of medicine and surgery, Dr. Albert Pittis, Dr. Frederick J. Hughes and Dr. Francis E. DuBois; in the eye, nose and throat department, Dr. Alfred F. Van Horn; in the X-ray service, Dr. Peter B. Cregar.

The medical board reported the number of patients in March as follows: Remaining at date of last report, 38; admitted, 60; total number of patients treated, 98; discharged cured, 44; improved, 10; not improved, 3; died, 3; remaining, 38; total number of hospital days, 1,131; operations, 43. In the dispensary, patients, 70; visits of patients, 144; operations, 3. Four cases of contagious disease were treated in the isolation ward.

NO HASTY ACTION ON THE DOG ORDINANCE

According to the plans of the committee on laws and ordinances, Chairman F. L. Holt called up the new dog ordinance at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, for its second reading. Before action was taken, Mr. Buxton, who was acting as president pro-tem, in the absence of Mr. Tolles, explained that he had had a conference with the latter at his home and that the president had requested further consideration of the ordinance before its passage.

Although at the time Mr. Tolles' health would not permit him to discuss the matter, he asked that the ordinance be laid on the table until he could attend a meeting, which would be within a week. Mr. Holt said he was willing to accede to the request, although Mayor C. J. Fisk was urging the adoption of the ordinance so that it would become effective May 20. After considerable discussion, it was finally agreed that the Council should meet Friday night and this would allow plenty of time to adopt the ordinance following any changes to be made and then advertise it the proper length of time before May 20. The same action was taken regarding the amendment to the hack ordinance to provide for the operation of taxicabs, which it was Councilman Clay's intention to call from the table.

FOUR LOST CHILDREN ARE SOON RECOVERED

Several lost children gave the police considerable work today and for a time there were some anxious parents. The first lost child, a boy of three years, was found at West Front street and Sycamore by Miss Hatties Giles, aged fourteen years. She took the little one to police headquarters, where every effort was made to learn his identity. He was well dressed in a neat suit, a long white coat and a hat of the same color. He had light hair and blue eyes.

When questioned the lad talked as though he was to take a ride on a railroad train and had been accidentally left behind. He did not seem at all worried over his plight and chatted merrily with the officers. A little later a telephone message was received at headquarters asking whether there was a lost boy there. An affirmative reply brought back the information that someone would call there for him. The inquirer did not give any name.

About the same time three children, two boys and a girl, all of tender years, were found at the office of McDonough Brothers on Madison avenue. They had been lost in some unaccountable way. It was not long before the mother found her youngsters and called for them. She did not give her name.

Miss Mary McDonald.

Miss Mary McDonald, seventy years of age, died at the home of her nephew, Thomas McDonald, of 1020 West Third street, early this morning, after an illness of three weeks. She was a native of Ireland, and came to this country when a child. For a number of years she was employed by A. C. Vail, of this city. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's church. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery. Miss McDonald leaves nephews, Thomas and Moses McDonald.

TALKS ON TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. J. H. Buchanan Makes Instructive Address Before a Men's Club.

AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Seven Per Cent. of World's Deaths Are Caused by the Dreaded Germ He Says.

An interesting lecture was given at a meeting of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church, last night, by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan on the subject of "Tuberculosis." There was a large number present.

"Tuberculosis," said Dr. Buchanan, "is not a contagious disease. It can be eliminated in the same way as small-pox, but the method for its elimination has yet to be found out. The disease in its origin comes from the plant life, and when the germs once get into the lungs they multiply so rapidly that unless they are destroyed immediately they soon eat a hole in those organs. This eventually proves fatal. The poison of plant life is so fatal that seven per cent. of the world's deaths are caused by some form of tuberculosis.

"There are five kinds of germs belonging to a family of five diseases that are really some form of tuberculosis, among them being leprosy. One of the great evils of the day is the habit of expectorating in public places, such as on street cars, in churches and amusement places, and even on the sidewalks. There is no danger while the saliva is wet and moist, but when dry, the particles of dust it creates might be filled with these germs and by blowing in every direction are breathed in by all who are near-by. Should these same germs fall on the ground there is generally enough acid in the earth to destroy them."

At the close of the lecture a selected orchestra, under the direction of Arthur Mosher, rendered a number of popular selections. There were also two tenor solos by E. D. Young, namely, "On the Beach," and "If You Were Here." Welsh rarebit and coffee were served.

SAY HIS TAX BOOK HAS SOME MISTAKES

City officials and some property owners allege that some of the tax assessments published by Samuel W. Rushmore in a pamphlet entitled "Plainfield Taxes," are not correct. Injustice it is argued is thus done not only the assessors but the taxpayers themselves.

Assessor H. C. Van Emburg is one who points out glaring inaccuracies in the pamphlet. He declared today that there were many of them. As an instance he pointed out that J. D. Loizeaux & Co., No. 632-50 North avenue, had been quoted in the Rushmore book as being assessed on $1,200 personalty. As a matter of fact the assessor's books show that he is assessed at $12,000 on personalty. The correct assessments may be examined by any taxpayer at the office of the city collector in North avenue where the official books are always open to public inspection.

HE PREFERS CHARGE AGAINST SAMUEL ROTH

Louis Zelocowitz, a plumber who has been in the employ of Samuel Roth, a contractor, of the West End, appeared before City Judge William N. Runyon in the city court this morning. Zelocowitz, at great length, told a story of alleged abuse on the part of Roth. He declared that the latter tried to brain him with a chair, when he attempted to collect back wages. This set-to is said to have taken place at Roth's home on Plainfield avenue, Saturday.

Roth was equally emphatic in denying the charge preferred and as one man's word seemed to be as good as the other, Judge Runyon decided to postpone the hearing until tomorrow, when another plumber, who it is said, was present when the complainant tried to collect his wages, will be in court to testify.

Bar Association Dinner.

Members of the Somerset County Bar Association dined today at the TenEyck House, Somerville, on the occasion of the commencement of the first term of the county court, which opened this afternoon. Covers were laid for thirty people and the guests included William Newcorn, of this city.

WILLIAM G. TINGLEY'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

William G. Tingley, a character member of the Fifth Baptist church, Newark, and well-known in this city, died Sunday in the Essex County Homeopathic Hospital, Newark. He was about fifty-nine years old and was taken ill last Tuesday with pneumonia. He was removed to the hospital the following day.

Mr. Tingley was born in Newark and was one of the founders of the Fifth church, in which he had held various offices. At the time of his death he was senior deacon of the church, a member of the board of trustees and treasurer of the congregation. For many years he also served as church clerk. He resided at 94 McWorter street, Newark. The funeral services will be held from the Fifth Baptist church, Newark, tonight at 8 o'clock, and the burial will be at Millington tomorrow afternoon on the arrival of the 12:32 train from Newark on the Lackawanna Railroad.

COMMON COUNCIL WANTS GAS SERVICE "CUT-OFF"

Councilman Duncan W. Taylor called the attention of his colleagues at the adjourned meeting, last night, to the apparent necessity of the Public Service Corporation providing "cut-offs" for gas service pipes into dwellings and all buildings where gas is used. He explained that the matter had been proposed by Chief T. O. Doane in a conference with other city officials.

In response to requests, Mr. Taylor said that he had communicated with President McCarter, of the P. S. C., and had received a letter, which was read. Mr. McCarter stated that he had taken the matter up with the first vice-president of the company, who in turn had received an opinion from Walton Clark, of the United Gas Improvement Company, an expert, and in view of this the company had taken a strong position against the advisability or desirability of such changes, and that the cost of the work makes it practically prohibitive.

In the opinion of the company in practice the service cocks had proved of no value and experience had shown that that part of the pipe rusts first and is often rendered valueless. The whole matter was referred to the committee on laws and ordinances and it will ascertain what rights the city has in the matter.

CHARMING DANCE GIVEN BY THE MISSES HOOLEY

The first social function here following the Lenten season, was the charming dance at the Hartridge School auditorium, last night, for the younger set. The affair was given by the Misses Mabel B. and Helen R. Hooley, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Hooley, of North Plainfield, and there were about two hundred and fifty guests.

The attractive auditorium was artistically decorated for the occasion, there being a profusion of palms, Easter lilies, roses and greens, all banked about the stage, behind which Brooks & Denton's Orchestra was seated as it rendered a program of popular music.

The Misses Hooley were charming hostesses and everything possible was done to make the event o notable one in Plainfield society. There were guests from New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and this city. The dance was continued until an early hour this morning, an intermission being taken at midnight for supper, which was one of the many delightful features of the dance.

John Harvey Dobbins.

John Harvey Dobbins, one of the oldest residents of Caldwell, Essex county, and a cousin of M. C. Dobbins, of this city, died at his home, Sunday night, following an illness of several months. He was in his eighty-fourth year and was born in Caldwell. He was a veteran of the Civil War, having served in the Twenty-sixth Regiment, N. J. Vols., of which M. C. Dobbins was captain. He is survived by a wife and one daughter.

To Exemplify Second Degree.

Grand Knight John F. O'Neill, of Jersey City, and his staff will exemplify the second degree of the Knights of Columbus at the Watchung Council lodge rooms tonight. Thirty candidates will be received. At the conclusion of the business session, the lodge men will hold a smoker. Special entertainment will be provided.

CHOOSEN TO REPRESENT THE SECOND REGIMENT

Major W. B. Martin and Sergeant George L. Apgar, of Co. K, and Sergeant Dabb, of Co. C, of Elizabeth, have been selected to take part in the International indoor cable shoot. It is not known just where the trio will conduct their part of the contest, but it is possible that it may be at Co. K's armory in this city.

The International match will be a competition between the crack shots of the United States and nearly all of the foreign countries and promises to be one of the most important events in rifle shooting. That Sergeant Apgar, of this city, was picked as one of the marksmen, is a high honor. His friends predict that he will make a good score.

E. A. PINTO SCORES IN A BROADWAY SUCCESS

"The Climax," a play by Edward Locke, with incidental music by Joseph Carl Breil, had its first New York production at Weber's theatre, last night, and all of the dramatic criticisms appearing in the New York newspapers are favorable. Plainfielders will be especially interested in this production by reason of the fact that Effingham A. Pinto, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Pinto, of this city, has one of the four parts of the play and he made a hit last night.

This morning's New York Herald says concerning Mr. Pinto, that he was full of the "artistic temperament" and displayed it convincingly.

Mr. Pinto is a graduate of Leal's School. He achieved notable success here in amateur production at the Park Club, the old Casino and the New Plainfield, where his last appearance was in the kirmess given for the hospital. He studied for three years at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and in his first metropolitan appearance he seems to have reached at least one goal of his ambition which promises greater things for the future.

HEWITT UNBALANCED MENTALLY THEY SWEAR

The hearing of the contest over the will of Frederick C. Hewitt, of Owego, who bequeathed $3,900,000 to art, charitable and educational institutions in and near New York city, including $100,000 to the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, and nothing to his sister, Mrs. Charlotte H. Arnot, a wealthy widow of Elmirt, was resumed yesterday before Surrogate Frank A. Bell, at Oswego, N. Y. Considerable testimony was given in support of the contestant's assertion that at the time Mr. Hewitt made his will he was of unsound mind as the result of an advanced stage of Bright's disease. Dr. Eugene E. Bauer, who attended Mr. Hewitt, proved a strong corroborating witness for the contestant.

Mrs. James F. Pumpelly, of Owego, whose husband would receive at least $1,000,000 by the breaking of the will, testified at length as to alleged mental deficiencies exhibited by Mr. Hewitt during the last year of his life, when he made his will. The witness said that Mr. Hewitt procured from her a recipe for champagne punch when called for one pint of tea. Later he complained to her that the punch was unsatisfactory, saying that he had been unable to prevent the tea from floating on the surface of the mixture. When asked how he mixed the ingredients he replied, according to the witness, that he had used a pound of dry tea "because a pound was equal to a pint." Mr. Hewitt was a Yale graduate and excelled at mathematics. The greater part of today's session is being devoted to the introduction of evidence of handwriting experts.

South Plainfielder Took Too Much.

Elmer Teeple, who lives in South Plainfield, developed a day-light jag in this city yesterday, and was arrested on Park avenue at Second street by Patrolman Charles Flynn. Teeple could hardly believe that he had carried on the way the officer stated in his report, but was sure it was due to the booze entirely. His was a case of never before and never again, and so sentence was suspended by City Judge Runyon.

A. D. and D. Case.

An Italian whose name could not be pronounced or spelt by either Recorder Dolliver or Marshal Weiss was arrested last night in the borough for being drunk and disorderly. He was fined $3 by the Recorder, which he could not pay, and he is now enjoying a brief rest in the borough lock-up.

VETOES TROLLEY FREIGHT

Governor Disapproves of Legislature's Grant Franchise Measure.

GOV. FORT GIVES HIS REASONS.

Vetoes Measure Authorizing Cities to Provide Penalties for Non-Payment of Water Rent.

As soon as the Legislature was in session last night at Trenton, Governor Fort sent both chambers vetoes, five bills, among them being the Gaunt trolley freight carrying franchise act. He vetoes it on the ground that it provides for an unlimited franchise to carry freight after the State has on the statute book a limited franchise act. Another ground of veto is that there is nothing in the act giving to municipalities any authority over the freight which might be carried through their streets.

The Governor says that he is anxious to obtain for the farmers a cheaper freight rate for their produce, but he cannot consent to take away from small municipalities their rights to regulate what goes on in their streets.

He further says that many cities have contracts with trolley companies by which the latter pay a certain percentage of gross receipts for their franchises, and this measure in his opinion might in some way abrogate those rights.

Governor Fort vetoes the Trenton shade-tree commission act by which the Democrats were to be legislated out of office and the Republicans regain control of the parks. His veto is not on political lines, but because of legal objections.

Another act vetoed is the Wilson act, the purpose of which is to confer upon a railroad corporation the right to purchase the stock and bonds of a street railway near Atlantic City.

He disapproves of the Tumulty act, authorizing cities to provide penalties for non-payment of water rents, and the Tumulty evidence act.

A bill of considerable interest in South Jersey was signed yesterday by Governor Fort. It gives the railroad companies the right to clear a "fire line" ten feet in width where their tracks pass through timber lands.

The Governor also signed a bill giving the Prudential Insurance Company the right to build a bridge across a street so as to connect its buildings in Newark.

Bills that became laws without the Governor's signature are: The Otto act, giving Circuit Court sergeants-at-arms in first class counties $1,500 salary, and the Hinchliffe bill validating deeds in Paterson, where records were destroyed in the great Paterson fire.

Mrs. Mark Lees.

Mrs. Mark Lees, fifty-nine years of age, died at her home, 21 Harmony street, last night, from a complication of diseases. She had been ill for nearly ten years and her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Lees, who was a native of Atlantic City, had been a resident in Plainfield for over forty years, and had been a member of Warren chapel ever since she came to this city. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 from Warren chapel. Interment will be made in the Plainfield avenue cemetery. She leaves a husband and five children, they being Mrs. George Naylor, Mrs. John Maury and Nathan, William and George Lees.

Party for Miss Kirsten.

A party was tendered to Miss Elsie Kirsten at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Cook, 222 Prescott place, last night, in honor of the thirteenth anniversary of her birthday. The evening was spent playing games after which refreshments were served. Miss Kirsten received many gifts. Those present were the Misses Margaretta Kirsten, Grace Baker, Elizabeth Doig, Margaret Doig, Bessie McMillon, Mary Alice Duncan, Florence Briscon, Grace Smith, Edith Hughes and Clifford Hughes, Kenneth Hughes and George Douglas.

Usher at New York Wedding.

Dr. Norman H. Probasco, of Seventh street, will be an usher at the wedding of Miss Edith Bates, daughter of Mrs. Charles K. Bates, and Dr. Robert Hurtin Halsey, which will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Brick Presbyterian church, New York. A reception will follow at the home of Mrs. Bates, 160 West Fifty-ninth street. Dr. Halsey is a brother of Mrs. Joseph D. Philips, of Denmark road.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

Joe McGinnity was right there with his Newark Tigers, yesterday. 3 to 0 against the big leaguers with Joe in the box was a good game for any one to watch.

Fussy Firstbrook now signs his own name to his baseball articles. 'Tis a good thing and his friends are glad to see his label in the right place.

Morris High School has got a cracker-jack team this year. The New Yorkers defeated the P. H. S. team by a close score, and really showed up better in every department of the game.

VanZandt wiffed four of the Morris High School, Saturday, while Yule went one better.

Snyder was the hero of the day. The P. H. S. captain was there with the only run of the game.

The Y. M. C. A. team has begun real practice. Captain Conway will soon be in a position to pick his men, as the first game begins next Saturday.

BOWLING.

It now looks as if Frank Blatz and Billy Nash mean to win the two-man tournament after all. Both boys are in good trim and can do legal business with the winning end of the game.

Frank Willetts still continues to stick at the unlucky number of thirteen. Some one said Frank devoured thirteen eggs Sunday morning, and then remarked he could make thirteen straight strikes. Pity Easter didn't come some week day.

Chief Kiely is again rounding in form. Lent seems to have a bad effect on the Chief and made his high scores little off color. Now look out for some records. We won't be surprised to hear the tale of the morning any time now.

Skelly says there is plenty of time for the match to be won and just so soon as little chickens shed their feathers, just so soon will some one hear of a score that will surprise the leaders.

All bowlers eyes will now be centered on the Plainfielders who will bowl in the N. A. B. championships at Madison Square Garden next month. The men are among the best the city has to select from and when the games are over, many are under the impression the home boys will at least bring back a blue ribbon.

Two teams are tie for first place and they will be watched in all their games. The loss of one game sends the loser down the ladder.

GENERAL SPORTS.

Guess Striker Hoagland is of the St. Yves class when it comes to running five mile races. The blond haired athlete made some of the chaps know what dust was Saturday afternoon.

They say Gid Fountain was certainly sprinkling the roads when he started out but it was of little use to those who were ahead of him. They made the dust.

The Plainfield soccor football team was the victors in a match game against New Brunswick, last Saturday. The home team won by a score of 4 to 0.

Tennis players are getting their courts ready for the opening games. The season will start early this year and many of the big matches will be played within the next few weeks.

Alfred Shrubb and Henri St. Yves will run a fifteen mile race on the night of April 24. The American League Park will be lighted up for the occasion and all will have a good opportunity to see the race as if it were in the daylight.

Soccor football will be the coming thing next season. Once the game gets hold on the boys there will be a number of teams to send out challenges for games to be played in Plainfield.

GOLF.

The work of building the new home of the Baltusrol Golf Club will be pushed with all possible speed. Trouble in this connection grew out of the fact that the club did not own its own links. It does own twenty-four acres of land to the west of the old house, which was destroyed by fire, and the original proposition was to erect the new building there.

Misgivings were expressed by some members, however, because the club only had a ten year lease on the links, and these argued that in the event of the course not being kept in commission for a longer period the clubhouse might become practically useless.

Louis Keller, owner of the links, has come to the rescue by agreeing to extend the club's lease to twenty-five years. Plans for the clubhouse are being prepared, and it is now said that when furnished it will probably cost $75,000.

It is not unlikely that Jerome D. Travers, the American amateur champion, will be an interested spectator at some of the professional matches during his stay on the other side. One of his first opportunities to watch the masters will be furnished by the much talked of seventy-two-hole match in which Braid, the open champion, and Taylor will oppose Duncan and Mayo.

As partners Duncan and Mayo form one of the strongest combinations possible, and the general opinion is that their opponents will have to be in exceptional form to win. The first half of the match will be played at Burhill, Mayo's home green, on April 24, and the second half at Walton Heath on April 29.

According to a foreign critic, "ideal" course which has been built on Long Island has not developed as was expected. The writer from across the sea goes on as follows:

The idea was to select the eighteen best holes in British golf and reproduce them. Such a policy was foredoomed to failure. The character of a golf course depends largely on its environment; a good hole at St. Andrews is not necessarily a good hole in New York. Moreover, it by no means follows that a good course should have all its holes of the exceptional quality. Even St. Andrews and other championship courses contain holes which are in some respects faulty. The quality of a golf course depends upon its individual character, and no "eclectic" course of the nature of the American "ideal" could have such a character.

To take a homely illustration: A bag which contained Braid's driver, Ball's brassie, Vardon's cleek, Massy's iron, Taylor's mashie and J. L. Low's putter would be a much less serviceable and effective panoply than a complete set of Braid, Ball or any of the other clubs.

—Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert S. Martin have removed from Manning avenue, the borough, to South avenue, this city.

—Ernest K. Powlison, of Somerset street, has gone to Whitehall, N. Y., to superintend the building of a stone road between that place and Fort Ann, for which Hare & Co., of this city, has the contract.

Mrs. John Gray Foster, of Mercer avenue, has returned from a visit with friends at Germantown, Pa.

Miss Susan Kingman, of Trenton, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen, of Myrtle avenue.

Miss Helen Stahlberger, a teacher in the North Plainfield schools, is spending her Easter vacation at her home in Auburn, N. Y.

CLARK SUCCEEDS CASE ON EDUCATION BOARD

At an adjourned meeting of the Borough Board of Education, last night, Robert Clark, Jr., was elected to succeed J. Herbert Case, who has now moved into the city. Mr. Case was elected in place of Mayor Samuel Townsend, at the time of the latter's election. James R. Joy was re-elected president and Charles L. Nichols re-elected vice-president. The following committees were appointed: Building and grounds, E. S. Boyer, J. H. Cooley and Robert Clark, Jr.; finance, Woodruff, C. L. Nichols and Edmund Rushmore; book and supplies, N. A. Miller, W. E. Lowe and Edmund Rushmore; grievance and truancy, J. H. Cooley, C. L. Nichols and Hiram Woodruff; auditing, W. E. Lowe and R. Clark; teacher's committee, J. R. Joy, H. A. Miller and E. S. Boyer.

Bills were paid to the amount of $700. Many regrets were expressed by the board in regards to the leaving of Mr. Case, whose loss will be greatly felt, as he was a man deeply interested in education work.

CITY CUT DOWN TREE AND GETS INTO TROUBLE

Joseph F. Burke, of Monroe avenue, son of Mrs. John Brown, of South Second street, appeared before the Shade Tree Commission, last night, to enter a complaint against the cutting down of a tree in front of his mother's residence. He values the tree at $500 and informed the commission that unless it replaced it with one equally as good he would commence suit against the city.

In speaking of the matter today, Mr. Burke said that the commission admitted last night that the tree in front of his mother's property was cut down for the convenience of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company and that the concern was standing the expense in such cases.

Mr. Burke also complained against the practice of the commission in purchasing new trees without inviting bids and giving local growers a chance. This he considered all wrong in view of the fact that the commission is spending the taxpayers' money. He declares that the commission has no right to cut down trees on any person's property without first obtaining permission, but that it has done so apparently without any right. In referring to the tree cut down on his mother's property he said that it was not dead or dying as intimated by the commission, but had continued to bear foliage every year. The commissioners promised to investigate the complaint.

WESTFIELD'S "BAD BOY" AT IT AGAIN.

Tony Maratio, the 8-year-old bad boy of Westfield, who robbed Cassey's drug store shortly after 12 o'clock on the morning of April 2, and who was given in custody of his parents until the town officials had decided what to do with him, broke into Councilman Schmitt's bakery, on Broad street, Sunday night.

He watched the police and seeing the coast clear got into the bakery through a rear door. He tried the safe in the store and fixed the combination so that Mr. Schmitt could not open his safe yesterday morning. He tapped the till for less than $2 and took a quantity of candy and Easter eggs.

The police thought it was one of Tony's jobs and promptly rounded him up, finding part of the stolen goods in his possession. He was taken to jail and paraded along with his father as if he were going to a circus. Spankings and iron bars long ago failed to scare this youthful burglar. Judge Toucey committed Tony to the county jail to await the action of the Juvenile Court. The authorities determined that the boy could not be kept in control by his parents, and that something must be done to keep him from running at large and stealing.

SENATOR MINCH SLATED FOR R. R. COMMISSION.

The latest corridor gossip in the State House at Trenton, as heard last night, is to the effect that Governor Fort has decided to appoint Senator Bloomfield Minch, of Cumberland, to the vacancy on the State Railroad Commission caused by the retirement of Judge Congdon. The job pays $5,000 per year.

Together with the appointment of Senator Robbins as Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, which is considered reasonably certain, notwithstanding protests from Burlington county people, this will make two vacancies in the Senate at the close of the present session, providing the appointments go in for these offices before the Legislature adjourns Thursday.

Some wiseacres stated last night, however, that the important appointments to be made by the Governor would not go in for confirmation by the Senate, but would be made after a few weeks, when they would be ad interim.

Record Attendance at Proctor's.

A record-breaking crowd attended the opening of the new Proctor circuit, last night, it being necessary to hold the patrons back many times during the evening. This will afford an opportunity to see the best vaudeville and life motion pictures. The Vincent Sisters in songs and dances, and Jimmy Coveney, the funny man, were well received.

Fight Pictures Good.

The moving pictures of the Tommy Burns-Jack Johnson fight, which took place at Melbourne, Australia, last December, were shown at the New Plainfield theatre yesterday afternoon and last night. The pictures were among the best of the kind ever seen in this city.

Among the Plainfielders who spent Sunday at Lakewood were Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Colby, Mrs. H. W. Hawkes and Mrs. T. L. Bullock.

William Gladstone Mangan, of South avenue, returned this morning from Atlantic City, where he has been visiting his brothers for a few days.

Mrs. Frederick Knowland, mother of Mrs. Francis DeLacy Hyde, of this city, who has been visiting in this city, has returned to her home at Panassus, Westmoreland county, Pa.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mrs. Frank W. Westcott, of the borough, was called to Malone, N. Y., yesterday, by the death of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Heaton, which occurred Sunday. Mrs. Heaton was well known here and her many friends regret her demise.

The summer dust nuisance has started early. It seems to be a case of endure it as in the past, as the residents do not seem to be interested enough in the matter to insist upon having the streets sprinkled.

The pupils who attend the Plainfield High School are enjoying a ten days' vacation, while their less fortunate brothers and sisters here are answering the daily roll call as usual.

Harvey Goodwin is quite ill at his home with appendicitis. Unless the case yields to treatment, it will be necessary to perform an operation.

The junior ball team, which defeated New Market, Saturday afternoon, play a return game Saturday afternoon on the home diamond.

Mrs. M. A. Carrono, who has been spending several days with relatives and friends in New York, has returned home.

Miss Bella Hyams, of New York, was the guest over Easter of Miss Susie L. Parse, of Front street.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

For the first time since the panic the local coal storage plant is short of hands. The spring loading has now begun, giving employment to a number of men.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Mrs. Rhoda Farmer, of Hammonton, who was ninety-four years old, was buried Sunday afternoon.

The Farmers' Canning Company has purchased $2,000 worth of machinery and has installed a plant for the manufacture of cans at Vineland.

A number of textile experts of Gloucester are preparing to manufacture absorbent cotton and bandage material for Philadelphia capitalists.

Forty-seven years ago, at Easter, W. T. Cozzens, of Woodbury, remembers that a sleighing snow covered the ground to a depth of eleven inches.

James Craig, of Vineland, chairman of the Cumberland County Democratic committee, is a candidate for appointment on the County Board of Equalization of Taxes.

Dr. Charles Phillips, seventy-nine years old, a retired physician of Pitman, is very ill and is not expected to recover. He is the father of Dr. C. B. Phillips, of Pitman.

In response to numerous complaints, the Gloucester police Sunday kept a sharp lookout for a man who peddles liquor from a suit case in the boathouse district, but he eluded capture.

It is believed that Adolph Grau, arrested by Detective Elvin in Paterson on Saturday, charged with assault and battery, is of unsound mind. The man had to be placed in a padded cell after his arrest.

A boy companion playfully threw a sharp pointed stick of wood at eight-year-old Cyril Smith, of 78 Thomas street, Paterson, Sunday afternoon, and the stick struck in the fleshy part of the victims' face just below the right ear. The lad tried to remove the stick, but it broke off. At St. Joseph's Hospital doctors removed the remaining fragments.

A team of horses owned by Katz Brothers ran away from East Twenty-fourth street and Twenty-first avenue, Paterson, last Saturday afternoon, while the driver was engaged in a saloon. William Graham, who tried to check the flight of the horses, was knocked down and had his head cut, necessitating treatment at the General Hospital. Mounted Patrolman Bergen was also hurt. He made a clutch at the bridle of one of the horses, but before he could stop the team's progress he was jammed against a telegraph pole, suffering an injury to his thigh. The team slowed down a block farther on, and the horses were caught.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Every man, woman and child in the United States in recent months has heard the expression: "He's a game bird but he flies funny" But there is doubt that more than twenty-five per cent. of those who have heard or have used the expression know its source. It is one of the big laughing speeches in "The Man of the Hour," by William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer. "Where does the laugh come in?" many will ask who have not seen the play. Where does the laugh come in with any of the best jokes of the ages unless the whole story be told? Nobody will laugh at the sentence: "To get over to the other side," in the bare form in which it is here given; but preceded by the interrogation: "Why does a chicken cross the road?", that line has created more laughter than any combination of words in the English language. Moral: If you want to get the full measure of laughter from "He's a game bird, but he flies funny," go to the New Plainfield theatre tonight and hear Alderman Phelan speak it in reply to Mayor Bennett, just before that nervy young man wins back the love of the woman for whose respect and admiration he has done and dared so much.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan's classical comedy, "The Rivals," comes to us with more than 125 years to its credit, yet it is one of the most virile of plays and altogether human and enjoyable. It is essentially a "comedy of manners" and in the unfolding of its many comedy situations, no better exponents could be found than William W. Jefferson, who is the "Bob Acres," and Joseph Jefferson, the "Sir Lucius O'Trigger." These two gentlemen are supported by a particularly capable company who give a rendition of a comedy masterpiece in a regal manner which both demands and satisfies the cravings for the highest form of dramatic entertainment on the part of the present day theatre-goer. This excellent histrionic treat comes to the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night.

The love of a sane American girl for a title forms the backbone of the new play of the Middle West by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, which has achieved the greatest dramatic success of years in both New York and Chicago. The country at large now demands it. Fortunately its producers, Liebler & Co., know the value of the road as well as the commercial results obtainable in the larger cities. And the typical Liebler production—and that stands for the absolute best things theatrical—will be given here at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday night. The authors picture a young man and his sister, who left Kokomo, Ind., as soon as their parents died, leaving them a fortune, and went to live in Italy. There the girl finds an earl and his son, the latter one of the silly types of Englishmen, who without a title would be absolutely impossible and not even tolerated in the most ordinary society.

Proposals for School Supplies

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held April 5, 1909, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Monday evening, April 19, 1909, at 7:45, at the Board room in the High School building, corner Ninth street and Arlington avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing school supplies for the ensuing school year, commencing July 1, 1909, a list of which can be obtained at the office of the Board. All proposals to be endorsed, "Proposals for School Supplies" and adressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board. No bids will be received previous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

For the Board of Education.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Advertising a City.

Trenton has had under discussion for some time plans for advertising a city. All kinds of suggestions have been made—buttons to wear on your coat, "Trenton collars" with catch phrases, booklets, a Trenton week of publicity, a city museum containing all kinds of photographs and samples of goods manufactured locally. It was pointed out the other evening, at a meeting to consider the question, that at present a Kansas City firm is negotiating with a local sign painter for signs 200 feet long and 15 feet high, to be erected along the railroad between Philadelphia and Jersey City, in order to advertise the industrial advantages of Kansas City. It is said that the Western city contemplates spending about $20,000 in advertising that city in the East.

Probably the best way ever discovered to advertise a city—that is, to call its advantages to the attention of people who are looking for a place to make a permanent home and to manufacturers who want a location for a plant—is to govern it well and progressively. It is easy to buy 25,000 buttons to pin on your coat. It is a perfectly simple matter to prepare a boom booklet. But it has never been an easy matter to goven a city well; and, strange as it may seem to the promoter of booming features the city ably handled financially, with a strong civic spirit and some natural advantages seldom needs any special advertising. Western cities which have claimed big results from press agents would have grown anyway. Nothing could stop them except internal political rows, graft, slovenly streets, insufficient school accommodations and a population which does not care. The first thing to do is to get something to advertise—a reasonable tax rate, high financial standing, the ablest men in public office, unmistakable evidence of the existence of law and order, etc. Somehow a city possessing scores of such advantages, many of which cost nothing except eternal vigilance on the part of the people, is heard of—grows, prospers, finds itself, as the phrase goes.—Elizabeth Journal.

Proposals For Furniture and Fixtures New Primary School.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held April 5, 1909, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Monday evening, April 19th, 1909, at 7:45, at the Board room in the High School Building, corner West Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furniture and fixtures to furnish the new primary school now being erected at Darrow Avenue and Essex Street.

The schedule of requirements will be found on file at the Board room, or a copy will be sent to those applying for same.

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for Furniture for Darrow Avenue School" and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received previous to the hour designated and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

For the Board of Education.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET MAYO

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"What a plucky lot they are!" thought Douglas as he considered these three lonely souls, each accepting whatever fate brought with no rebellion or even surprise. It was a strange world of stoics in which these children of the amusement arena fought and lost. They came and went like phantoms, with as little consciousness of their own best interests as of the great, moving powers of the world about them. They felt no throes of envy, no bitterness. They loved and worked and "went their way."

For once the pastor was powerless in the presence of grief. Both he and Mandy left the room quietly, feeling that Polly wished to be spared the outburst of tears that a sympathetic word might bring upon her. They allowed her to remain alone for a time; then Mandy entered softly with a tender good night, and Douglas followed her cheerily as though nothing at all had happened.

It was many weeks before Polly again became a companion to Douglas and Mandy, but they did not intrude upon her grief. They waited patiently for the time when youth should again assert itself and bring back their laughing mate to them.

CHAPTER VIII.

WHEN Polly understood that Toby was actually gone it seemed to her that she could never laugh again. She had been too young to realize the inevitableness of death when it came to her mother, and now she could scarcely believe that Toby would never, never come back to her. She felt that she must be able to drag him back; that she could not go on without him. She wanted to tell him how grateful she was for all his care of her. She thought of the thousand little things that she might have done for him. She longed to recall every impatient word to him. His gentle, reproachful eyes were always haunting her. "You must come back, Toby!" she cried. "You must!"

It was only when body and mind had worn themselves out with yearning that a numbness at last crept over her, and out of this grew a gradual consciousness of things about her and a returning sense of her obligation to others. She tried to answer in her old, smiling way and to keep her mind upon what they were saying instead of letting it wander away to the past.

Douglas and Mandy were overjoyed to see the color creeping back to her cheeks.

She joined the pastor again in his visits to the poor. The women of the town would often see them passing and would either whisper to each other, shrug their shoulders or lift their eyebrows with smiling insinuations, but Polly and the pastor were too much absorbed in each other to take much notice of what was going on about them.

They had not gone for their walk today because Mandy had needed Polly to help make ready for the social to be held in the Sunday school room tonight.

Early in the afternoon Polly had seen Douglas shut himself up in the study, and she was sure that he was writing, so when the village children stopped in on the way from school for Mandy's new made cookies she used her customary trick to get them away. "Tag; you're it!" she cried and then dashed out the back door, pursued by the laughing, screaming youngsters. Mandy followed the children to the porch and stood looking after them as the mad little band scurried about the back yard, darted in and out among the trees, then up the side of the wooded hill, just beyond the church.

The leaves once more were red and yellow on the trees, but today the air was warm and the children were wearing their summer dresses. Polly's lithe girlish figure looked almost tall by comparison with the children about her. She wore a plain, simple gown of white, which Mandy had helped her to make. It had been cut ankle length for Polly was now seventeen. Her quaint, old fashioned manner, her serious eyes and her trick of knotting her heavy brown hair low on her neck made her seem older.

Mandy waited until the children had disappeared over the hill, then began bustling about, looking for the stepladder which Hasty had left under the vines of the porch. It had been a busy day at the parsonage. A social always meant perturbation for Mandy. She called sharply to Hasty as he came down the path which made a short cut to the village.

"So's youse back, is yo'?" she asked sarcastically.

"Sure I's back," answered Hasty good naturedly as he sank upon an empty box that had held some things for the social and pretended to wipe the perspiration from his forehead.

"Massa John done send yo' to de postoffice two hours ago," said Mandy as she took the letters and papers from his hand. "Five minutes is plenty ob time for any nigger to do dat job."

"I done been detained," Hasty drawled.

"Youse always 'tained when dar's any work a-goin' on," Mandy snapped at him.

"Whar's Miss Polly?" Hasty asked ignoring Mandy's reference to work.

"Nebber yo' mind 'bout Miss Polly. She don't want yo'. Jes' yo' done fetch that stepladder into de Sunday school room."

"But I wants her," Hasty insisted. "I's been on very 'ticular business what she ought to know 'bout."

"Business?" she repeated. "What kind ob business?"

"I got to fix de Sunday school room," said Hasty as he perceived her growing curiosity.

"You come heah, nigger!" Mandy called, determined that none of the village doings should escape her. "Out wid it!"

"Well, it's 'bout de circus," Hasty answered, seating himself again on the box. "Dey's showin' in Wakefield tonight, an' next month day's comin' here."

"Dat same circus what Miss Polly used to be wid?" Mandy's eyes grew large with curiosity.

"De very same," and Hasty nodded mysteriously.

"How yo' know dat?" Mandy was uncertain whether to believe him.

"'Cause da's a big red wagon downtown wid de name ob de show painted on it. It's de advertisin' one what goes ahead wid all de pictures what dey pastes up."

"An' yo' been hangin' roun' dat wagon?"

"I done thought Miss Polly might want to know."

"See here, lazy nigger, don' yo' go puttin' no circus notions into Miss Polly's head. She don' care no more 'bout dem t'ings since her Uncle Toby done die. She done been satisfied right whar she am. Jes' yo' let her be."

"I ain't done nothin'," Hasty protested.

"Nebber do do nothin'," growled Mandy. "Go 'long now an' get a-work.

"Tag; you're it!" Polly cried.

Mos' 4 o'clock an' dat Sunday school room ain't ready yet."

Proposals for Coal.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held April 5, 1909, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Monday, April 19, 1909, at 7:45 p. m., at the Board room in the High School building, corner Ninth street and Arlington avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing seven hundred tons (more or less) of the best anthracite coal for steaming and hot-air purposes; in the different sizes. The quantity required of each size can be obtained at the office of the Secretary of the Board, High School building, Ninth street and Arlington avenue.

Parties bidding will be required to specify in their bids the name of the coal and shippers of same.

All coal to be thoroughly screened over a seive fine enough to take out all dust and small particles of coal, and to be prepared acceptable to the Committee on Fuel, or their agent or representative.

All coal to be placed in the coal bins within the public school buildings without any extra expense to the Board for handling or trimming the coal in the bins, and to be delivered at such time as the Board may direct.

Bids to specify whether long or short tons.

Payment for all coal contracted for to be made after July 1, 1909.

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for Coal," and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Board will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present; and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received until the day and hour above named, and none thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

CAMP BOWSER WALLOPS HIGH SCHOOL'S TEAM

The Camp-Bowser base ball team proved themselves too much for the P. H. S. yesterday afternoon, defeating them by a score of 8 to 2. The Camp-Bowsers had on their batting clothes and went after Lyness in grand style, Abbott, Burns and Craig making long hits at critical times. Giddes and Clark for the P. H. S. did the best batting for their team. The line-up:

TALKED ON TEMPERANCE

Mrs. Addie Parsel's Theme at Local W. C. T. U. Meeting "Turn on the Light."

PROHIBITION MOVE GROWING.

The Two Great Friends of Cause Are the Press and the Corporations She Says.

About fifty members of the W. C. T. U. assembled at Trinity Reformed church, last night, to listen to an address given by Mrs. Addie Parsels, of Philadelphia. Her subject was "Turn on the Light." Mrs. Parsels is an excellent speaker, with strong views of the liquor problem.

"The world is growing better, more sober and less drunken," said Mrs. Parsels. "The educational system of the public schools is settling the immigration problem, for by the law of the State every child must go to school. The children are in many ways being better protected by the State than they are by the parent. There are the truant officers, the pure food laws, the health officers and compulsory vaccination laws. These all show what is being done for the betterment of mankind.

"By 'Turning on the Light' we see the law means protection; by the law highways are guarded, safety rails are placed on all bridges, the speed of automobiles limited in such a manner that the public is safe in travelling. Now the only way to destroy the liquor traffic is for the government to prohibit its manufacture and sale. As there is a law against using adulteradted pepper, such a law should apply to whiskey. By 'Turning on the Light' we find the distilling of liquor illegal. Last year there were thirty-four counties in Ohio that voted 'dry' and 8,000 saloonkeepers and bartenders had to find other employment. Ten years ago there were six million persons claiming to belong to the prohibition movement. Now there are thirty-seven million in league with the movement.

"The two great friends of the W. C. T. U. are the press and the corporations. Only last year one hundred and twenty-five thousand railroad men signed the pledge for total abstinence. The larger corporations want men who are sober; men who can be depended upon and trusted, and for that reason they require men whose brains are not wrecked by liquor."

The devotional exercises were in charge of Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church. Miss Bertha Willis sang two solos, "Lead Kindly Light" and "Jesus, Jesus, Miserere."

This afternoon Mrs. Parsels will speak in Dunellen.

MISS MARGARET CHAMBLISS TO WED WILLIAM BERSON.

Plainfield friends have received invitations to the marriage of Miss Margaret Chambliss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Chambliss, of Brownsville, Tenn., and granddaughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, to William Berson, also of Brownsville. The event will be celebrated on Wednesday, April 28.

Miss Chambliss has many friends here, having resided with her grandparents a year ago for a period of four months. Mr. Berson is engaged in business at Brownsville as a banker and both families are prominent in the southern city.

Mrs. Guy D. Peck Surprised.

A surprise party was tendered to Mrs. Guy D. Peck at her home Monday night in Mt. Bethel by the Mt. Bethel Aid Society and Social Club, of which she has been president for a long time. The affair was arranged to show the appreciation of the society for Mrs. Peck's faithful services. There were about fifty guests present and during the evening there was vocal and instrumental music, games, after which refreshments were served. Among the many gifts received by Mrs. Peck was fifteen pieces of cut-glass.

Ministers' Association to Meet.

The Plainfield Ministers' Association will hold its April meeting in Grace church parish house tomorrow afternoon, when among other business it is expected that Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, the new pastor of the First M. E. church, and Rev. Mr. Squires, pastor of the First Church of Christ, will be elected to membership. Matters pertaining to the welfare of the association will be discussed.

Judges at Horse Show.

Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, will be one of the judges of saddle horses at the annual horse show of the Brooklyn Horse Show Association the last week in the month. Robert E. Fairbairn, of Westfield, will also be one of the officials.

BURGLARS AT NEW MARKET

Disguised Thief Enters Walker Home and Chokes Daughter Almost Insensible.

ATTEMPTS MADE ELSEWHERE.

Miss Iva Dayton Suffers Nervous Shock—Natives Are Alarmed Over Numerous Burglaries.

The most daring burglary reported in this vicinity in a long time occurred early yesterday morning at the home of Louis K. Walker on the New Market road, below New Market. A young man climbed up the porch and entered the room where Mr. Walker's adopted daughter, Miss Iva Dayton, aged eighteen years, was asleep in bed, and took $2.60 which the young woman told him he would find on the bureau.

Thoroughly frightened by the presence of the thief, Miss Dayton began to call loudly for help. At the instant she did so, the man ran to her side and almost choked her into insensibility. The young woman, who has been detained at home by illness, received a severe nervous shock, but she was able to discover the fact that the robber's face and hands were blackened to hide his identity. In his attempt to choke her he left the imprints of the black on her throat.

The young woman's cries aroused her father and as he appeared in the room with a shot-gun, the thief made his escape through a window and got away in safety. The whole neighborhood was aroused and a vigilant search was made through that section, but no trace of the man could be found. It was afterward learned that attempts were made during the night to enter the homes of James Young, Mrs. Sarah Smalley, William Yances and Harry Dencklau, all in the immediate vicinity, but the burglars were frightened away before effecting an entrance.

The residents are thoroughly aroused over the situation and are determined to take steps to stop these wholesale burglaries.

SOMERSET'S DEMOCRATS JEFFERSON DAY BANQUET

Democrats from all parts of Somerset county to the number of about fifty and including S. S. Swackhamer and Walter C. Linbarger, of North Plainfield, attended a Jefferson dinner given at the TenEyck House, Somerville, last night. The affair was given under the auspices of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee and was a great success. W. V. Steele, of Somerville, was the toastmaster, and in a fine speech he sounded the praises of Jefferson.

Among those who made speeches were Mr. Swackhamer and Mr. Linbarger; also John Frech, counsel for the Board of Freeholders; Surrogate William DeMund and Lawyer Daniel Beekman, of Somerville. All the speeches were excellent and listened to with interest by the guests.

GOVERNOR FORT SIGNS THE LIABILITY BILL.

The employers' liability bill, of which State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, is the author, was signed last night by Governor Fort, having passed both the Senate and the House. The silver pen used by the Governor was presented to the Union county Senator.

This is the second great measure now on the statute books of which Mr. Ackerman is the originator. He is the father of the civil service law enacted a year ago.

International Demonstration.

There will be a special meeting at the Salvation Army tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The members of the Sunday-school will appear in costumes to represent the different countries in which the army is working. This service has been arranged in connection with the army's special week of prayer and self-denial, April 11 to 18. The service will be the young people's part in the program and an enjoyable time is expected. Although considerable time has been spent in arranging this service admission will be free and a cordial welcome is extended to all.

New Bank's Reception.

Invitations have been issued by the officers and directors of the Borough National Bank for an inspection of the new banking rooms, No. 33 Somerset street, tonight, from 7 until 9. The bank will be open for business tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

SOCIETY ENJOYS DANCE

Easter Week Festivity at the Park Club is Attended by Two Hundred.

CLUB HOUSE IS DECORATED.

Guests from New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia—Other Social Events Scheduled.

The Easter dance attracted about two hundred to the Park Club, last night, the affair being given under the direction of the entertainment committee. The clubhouse was attractively decorated with palms and cut flowers, all banked on the stage. The music was furnished by Mueller's orchestra, of Brooklyn, being seated on the stage behind the floral decorations.

In addition to the entertainment committee, which planned the affair, there were several patronesses including Mrs. Francis E. DuBois, Mrs. A. M. Abbott, Mrs. A. B. Laing, Mrs. Donald McGee, Mrs. Hugh Jarvis. They received the guests and helped to make the reception and dance a success.

Dancing was begun about 9 o'clock and with the exception of the intermission at midnight when refreshments were served, was continued until 2 o'clock this morning. There were guests present from New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and this city, including a number of college students home for the Easter vacation.

The Easter dance marks the resumption of social activities at the club and during the next few weeks there will be a number of events, including luncheons, dinners and dances. On Saturday night the first of a series of informal dances will be held under the direction of the entertainment committee.

FIRST BAPTIST PEOPLE HEAR ANNUAL REPORTS

Gratifying reports were presented at the annual parish meeting of the First Baptist church, last night, and they showed that the church is free from debt with a cash balance of $38.16 and $777.89 in uncollected pew rents which will be due within a short time.
